DEATH TOLL IN BLAST AT TNT PLANT PUT AT 40

Hundred or More Persons Injured in Explosion at Nitration Works in New Jersey—Little Industrial Town of Nixon Demolished by Flames.

VICTIMS REMOVED FROM BLAZING RUINS

Emergency Morgues Hastily Equipped—Soldiers Join Firemen, State Police and Citizen Volunteers in Attacking Wreckage.

By the Associated Press.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 1.—Forty persons dead with a hundred or more injured, is the estimated toll of an explosion in the TNT plant of the Nixon Nitration Works today. Flames showered through 40 buildings of an adjoining celluloid works and demolished the little industrial town of Nixon. An accurate check on the number killed was impossible tonight.

As many of the victims, dead and dying, as could be removed from the blazing ruins were taken to a half dozen hospitals and hastily equipped emergency morgues. Their bodies were so mutilated and burned that only a few were identified.

By nightfall 12 bodies were reported recovered and seven had been identified tentatively. Spurred by reports of survivors that a score still lay buried beneath the burning debris, soldiers joined firemen, State police and citizens volunteers in hoisting arc lights and beginning an all-night attack upon the twisted masses of wreckage.

Building Blown Up.

The explosion occurred at 11:30 a. m. in the ordnance salvage plant. The nitration works had been leased to the Ammonite company for the treatment of army's TNT to be used as agricultural fertilizer.

The building, two stories high, 300 feet long and of hollow tile construction, was literally blown from the earth along with the men believed to have been within it. The shock was felt for miles, shattering windows, lifting roofs and toppling chimneys in many cities. On Staten Island buildings rocked as if in an earthquake.

The single destructive blast crushed 40 buildings of the Nixon Co.'s Celluloid Novelties Manufacturing Works, which surrounded the TNT plant and razed as if by shell fire the encircling dwellings of 200 employes whose little settlement was known as the town of Nixon.

Through shattered roofs and crumbled walls—upon piles of flimsy celluloid sheets in every one of the Nixon buildings—showered embers, blazing TNT and boiling acid broadcast by the explosion. The blue flames of the highly inflammable celluloid with which all the structures were filled burst forth on the heels of the blast, like a huge blow-torch, cutting down everyone and everything within a radius of several hundred feet.

The screams of men and girls pinned down by steel girders, crushed by falling walls of tile or caught beneath several pipe lines which showered them with nitric acid, mingled with the cries of housewives and children whose dwellings only a few feet from the celluloid works, came tumbling down upon them.

Men wounded and frenzied, with clothes burned off and bodies scorched black, ran out upon the road to New Brunswick, two miles away.

Soldiers Mobilized.

A hundred soldiers hastily mobilized by Maj. A. S. Casad at the company's arsenal were speeded by automobile to the place of the explosion almost before the echoes had died away. Accompanied by the arsenal's ambulances and hospital corps, they were the first to attack the flames and start rescue [illegible]

After it was discovered that four of the arsenal high explosives magazines had been crushed by the explosion and the roofs of two others blown off. Fourteen companies of [illegible] men helped check the flames, which for a time threatened to

TOTAL OF $4,400,000 TO WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY FROM ROCKEFELLER BOARD

THE General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller, has given more than $4,400,000 to the Washington University School of Medicine in recent years. Some of the endowments have been contingent on additional funds being raised here. The major endowments, the years in which they were announced and their purposes, are:

1914—$750,000 for teaching and research departments in medicine, surgery and pediatrics.

1919—$150,000 for medical work.

1920 $1,250,000 for medical school endowment; $70,000 for additional laboratory facilities and equipment.

1920—$470,000 as an endowment toward increased salaries for instructors.

1924—$650,000 for instruction and research in the field of obstetrics.

1924—$400,000 for "public health" department, as told elsewhere in this edition today.

WOMAN GETS OFF TRAIN AND FORGETS TO TAKE BABY

Infant Found When Train Reaches Union Station and Red-Cap Gets 25 Cents Reward.

A woman, whose name was not learned, got off an incoming Wabash train at the Washington avenue station yesterday afternoon and forgot to take her baby.

The Station Master's telephone at Union Station rang some minutes later and a somewhat agitated voice said:

"Please have a red-cap get my baby. I left it on a seat in the fifth car from the engine, I think, but it may have been the sixth or seventh car."

The train was searched and the baby found, crying loudly. Presently its mother appeared, tipped the redcap 25 cents and departed.

3200 WOMEN "SIT IN" AT WORLD'S LARGEST CARD PARTY

Eight Hundred Tables Used in Charity Event Held in Cleveland Public Auditorium.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 1.—Thirty-two hundred women "sat in" on what was said to be the largest card party ever held in the world here, this afternoon. Eight hundred tables covered the vast floor of the public auditorium when the bridge games started. The prizes were 300 pieces of cut glass and embroidery, one for each table.

Groups of women spectators occupied gallery seats. Men were barred. The Fortnightly Musical Club sponsored the party, the proceeds of which will go to charity.

Even if floor space was available, no more players could have been taken care of, Mrs. J. Powell Jones, secretary of the club, said. "We had about all the card tables in town."

ATONEMENT DAY FOR SLAYER

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 1.—Bryan Keenan, sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio Penitentiary today by Common Pleas Judge McMahon, must spend Dec. 24 of each year in solitary confinement as added atonement for his part in the slaying of John Rau on Christmas eve, 1923.

Fernand Michitech, another member of the gang that killed Rau, also sentenced to lief imprisonment today, escaped the solitary confinement.

$400,000 GIFT TO W. U. FOR PUBLIC HEALTH TEACHING

New Contribution From General Education Board, Founded by Rockefeller, Announced.

OBTAINED THROUGH HADLEY'S EFFORTS

Department of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine to Be Established When Director Is Found.

A gift of $400,000 to Washington University, for endowment of a "public health" department in its School of Medicine, has been made by the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller.

Announcement of this new contribution was made last night by university officials. This brings the total gifts to the School of Medicine, from the General Education Board, to more than $4,400,000 since 1914.

Dr. W. McK. Marriott, Dean of the School of Medicine of Washington University, said the news division will be known as the Department of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine, and will be established as soon as a director can be obtained. Adequate quarters for housing the department are already available in the medical school's group of buildings.

Plans for Department.

"The new department will be manned by a group of scientists who will spend their entire time in teaching and in the investigation of diseases caused by bacteria." Dr. Marriott explained.

Especial attention will be given to the causes and means of control of epidemics and to the methods of insuring safety of water, milk and food supplies as distributed to the public.

"Instruction will be given to physicians, nurses, public health workers and the laity in methods of health conservation and personal and community hygiene."

Dr. Mariott pointed out that Chancellor Hadley, through the period of his public life, during which he served as Governor of Missouri, has been interested in health conservation. In a recent address Chancellor Hadley stressed the fact that the great advances in medicine in recent years have been along the lines of disease prevention. Medical research, he has pointed out, has led to knowledge of the diseases and the means of controlling them, thus ridding the country of diseases which at times in the past have decimated the population.

Urged by Hadley.

"One of Gov. Hadley's first acts in becoming Chancellor of the university was to urge the establishment of a Department of Public Health which would serve the community and the nation, as he felt that in this way the university could render its greatest service," Dr. Marriott continued. "The present gift comes as the culmination of Gov. Hadley's efforts to establish such a department. He laid the matter before the General Education Board on his recent visit East, and was successful in obtaining their support for this enterprise which is of such great importance to St. Louis.

"The General Education Board has already appropriated more than $4,000,000 to Washington University for the purpose of teaching and medical research, and this endowment, together with the large sums of money given through the generosity of citizens of St. Louis, has enabled the Washington University School of Medicine to attain a position of pre-eminence among the medical institutions of the world.

School Widely Known.

"An official of the General Education Board, Dr. Abraham Flexner, recently visited St. Louis at the end of a tour which had taken him to all of the leading medical schools and hospitals, both in this country and abroad, and he stated that the Washington University School of Medicine was now recognized throughout the world as one of the three great institutions of America, and that St. Louis was known throughout Europe more on account of this institution than for any other achievement."

Selection of a director for the "public health" department is expected to be announced shortly. It is known that interviews regarding the appointment have been held.

MINISTER SHOOTS MAN ON STREET AT MEXICO, MO.

The Rev. Asa Q. Burns, 30, Wounds H. B. Conger, Traveling Salesman—Business Men Sign Bond.

BOUGHT PISTOL FOR 'WIFE'S PROTECTION'

Clergyman, Who Had Been Taking Post-Graduate Work in Chicago, Returned Unannounced.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., March 1.—The Rev. Asa Q. Burns, 30 years old, former professor of Biblical literature in Hardin College, shot and critically wounded H. B. Conger, 45, a traveling salesman, on East Promenade street here at 1 p. m. today.

One of the bullets fired from Burns' small automatic pistol struck Conger in the right breast and another inflicted a wound in his left hand. Other shots went wild. Conger was taken to Amanda Hospital, where surgeons expect to operate for removal of the bullet from his lung.

The Rev. Mr. Burns surrendered after the shooting and later was released under $5000 bond signed by a number of business men of Mexico.

Refuses to Talk.

He refused to make a statement. The one eye witness of the affair, F. W. Meek, also declined to discuss it.

Conger had been rooming at the same house as Mrs. Burns and her small son, here. The Rev. Mr. Burns had been away since last fall, when he entered the post graduate school of the University of Chicago. Thursday the minister made an unannounced visit to Mexico.

Shortly after his arrival, Mrs. Burns moved her effects from the home of L. N. Henderson to another boarding house. Yesterday, the Rev. Mr. Burns, accompanied by his wife, applied to the City Clerk for permission to purchase a pistol.

When asked why he wanted a weapon he replied, "I want it for my wife, who needs a pistol for self-protection."

Mrs. Burns laughed and declared, "I don't need anything. I can take care of myself." However, the permit was issued, and her husband bought a pistol at a local hardware store. He used this firearm when he and Conger met today.

Held St. Joseph Pastorate.

The Rev. Mr. Burns and family came here in 1920 and he joined the faculty of Hardin College, a junior school for girls. He previously had held the pastorate of a Baptist church at St. Joseph. He is a graduate of William Jewell College at Liberty and also of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., holding the degree of Doctor of Theology.

Conger, who is said to have a wife and two children living at Lincoln, Neb., represented the Ralston Purina Co. at Mexico and in the surrounding territory. He has made his headquarters here for the last three months.

None of the principals or their friends would talk of the shooting. The Rev. Mr. Burns was arraigned today before Justice of the Peace Hooten on a charge of felonious wounding with intent to kill. He pleaded not guilty and his preliminary hearing was set for March 6.

E. B. M'LEAN'S CONFIDENTIAL AID TORE UP MESSAGES

Major, "Hard-Boiled" Ex-Bartender, Nonchalantly Tells Oil Committee Private-Wire Telegrams Were Destroyed.

MYSTERIOUS PHONE CALLS TO BE TRACED

Records Show Three Communications Went to Fall From Washington, but Sender's Name Is Missing.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—John F. Major, an unusual individual with an unusual job, furnished a welcome diversion before the oil investigating committee today, in explaining the nature of his various services to his employer, Edward B. McLean, in the matter of keeping McLean informed about the activities of the committee. Incidentally, he disclosed that all the messages sent to McLean at Palm Beach from Washington over his private leased wire have been destroyed.

Major, who formerly was a bartender, described himself as "confidential employe" of McLean. He is husgy and hard-boiled and chewed gum unceasingly, even while smoking a cigarettes on the witness stand. He was absolutely serious throughout, and seemed baffled and somewhat irritated at the frequent witticisms which Senators interjected into his testimony. Major is a personality well known around Washington, where he is the constant companion of McLean on stag convivialities. There are many stories coming down from pre-prohibition days, attesting to the good stead in which Major's brawny shoulders have stood his employer.

One legend is that when Major went to work for McLean he was offered a salary of $25 a week, to which he rejoined: "I won't take twenty-five, but I'll flip a nickel with you to see whether I get fifty a week or work a year for nothing." The story is that he flipped and won.

Had Signed Telegrams.

Most of the telegrams sent to McLean at Palm Beach, at a time when McLean was anxious lest he be called as a witness to explain his $100,000 loan to Albert B. Fall, were signed by Major. These telegrams are now in the committee's possession, and it was to explain them that he was called.

The telegrams ceased when McLean had a private leased wire installed from his office in the Washington Post to his Palm Beach cottage. The committee also wanted to know what was sent over this wire.

"Don't hang back for me to question you," urged Senator Walsh. "Go right ahead and tell us all about it."

"Well, I sent and received messages over the wire," said Major.

"Where are the copies of those messages?" "They were destroyed each night."

"Why?"

"Why? Why, because they were confidential messages between Mr. McLean and his confidential employe."

"Who did it?" "I did."

"So that's the way you handle your duties as confidential employe, is it?" "Certainly it is."

"Well, tell us what was in the messages." "They contained a digest of all the important news that the Post was to print the next day. Mr. McLean wanted to know what was going on. That was the main reason for the wire."

Why the Wire Was Installed.

"But isn't it a fact that Mr. McLean had been going to Palm

JAPANESE PRINCE, PRONOUNCED DEAD, RETURNS TO LIFE

Matsukata, 89 Years Old, Mourned by Nation, Comes Slowly Back and Takes Nourishment.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, March 2.—Prince Masayoshi Matsukata, whose death was announced yesterday and for whom the entire nation went into mourning, is alive today and has a bare chance for recovery, according to statements made by his physicians this morning. The Prince was pronounced dead at 11:15 o'clock yesterday morning when his heart respiration stopped. Shortly thereafter, however, he began to show faint signs of life.

By what the physicians pronounced as a "miraculous recovery," Matsukata, who is in his ninetieth year, slowly came back to life. The astonished physicians worked over him desperately and in the afternoon he had so far regained consciousness that he was able to acknowledge by the pressure of his hand the presence of Viscount Makino, the Emperor's messenger.

This morning he took some nourishment and slept for a time. All the Tokio newspapers but two carried stories of the Prince's death, together with lengthy obituaries.

WORK BEGUN CLEARING WAY FOR PINE-LAWTON CUTOFF

Seven Buildings Must Be Razed to Complete Project Under Terms of Bond Issues.

Under supervision of the Park Department 25 unemployed men from the Municipal Lodging House yesterday began wrecking buildings to make way for the Pine-Lawton cutoff at Grand boulevard.

Seven buildings are to be torn down. An appropriation of $20,000 from the municipal bond issue has been set aside for paving the cutoff. The wreckers will receive no pay for their work, but will be credited for the service with lodging and board.

ZR-3 INSURED FOR $2,580,000

Protection Covers All Parts of Dirigible, Providing for Any Eventuality.

By the Associated Press.

MAYENCE, Germany, March 1.—The dirigible ZR-3, which is being built at the Zeppelin works at Friedrichshafen for the United States Navy, and will fly across the Atlantic upon completion, has just been insured for 600,000 pounds sterling ($2,580,000). The insurance is distributed as follows: 505,000 pounds for the fuselage, 75,000 pounds for the motors, and 20,000 pounds for equipment. Six and one-half per cent is the rate for the ocean voyage and one and one-half for trial flights.

The risks include accidents, breakage, damages caused by the elements of crew and sabotage.

OLD GUARD DESERTS OFFICIAL AFTER EXPOSE BY NEW YORK WORLD

Inquiry Voted, 66 to 1, After Two Days' Bitter Debate, and Will Get Under Way Tomorrow.

CARAWAY POINTS TO WHITE HOUSE IN FIERY SPEECH

Arkansan, Assailing Fess for Saying Hysteria Has Gripped Senate, Refers to "Protection of Criminals" Through Use of Department's Code.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—With its final defenses ripped to pieces by the New York World revelations of the use of the secret code of the Department of Justice to keep Edward B. McLean advised at his Palm Beach villa of the private work of the Public Lands committee, the old guard threw up its hands today, and helped to name a real committee to investigate Harry M. Daugherty.

It was a battered, shell-shocked and altogether submissive group of Republican Senators, who, with two exceptions, maintained a discreet silence while the Democrats and radicals continued their denunciations of Daugherty, cited from the floor the effective work done by the World and then named Smith W. Brookhart, referred to by his more conservative colleagues as the smoke-eating radical from Iowa, as chairman of the committee to investigate the Department of Justice.

With almost no opposition, Senator Wheeler of Montana, introducer of the Daugherty opposition, who is already loaded down with disturbing information regarding the affairs of the Attorney-General, and Senator Ashurst of Arizona were named by the Democrats to assist Brookhart, while Senator Moses of New Hampshire and Jones of Washington, were accepted from the Republican side. Jones is a near Progressive, which leaves Senator Moses as the only typically old guard Representative on the committee.

Inquiry to Begin Monday.

And the investigation is going to get under way immediately. The committee will hold a meeting for organizing purposes on Monday. Before the end of the week it is expected that hearings will be under way, for both Brookhart and Wheeler are primed with information which they are determined to make the subject of inquiry.

W. J. Burns and his corps of private detectives in the department, will, unless the present plans are changed, be the first point of attack. Burns, who is shown in The World expose to have been an active informant of McLean, is regarded by Brookhart as his particular meat.

As one of the members of the committee expressed it, they are going to find out at once how much these detectives have been devoting their time to running after little criminals while the big ones got away. Particular reference is to be paid in the early part of the inquiry to the failure to prosecute in accordance with the recommendations of the Federal Trade Commission, which transmitted to the Attorney-eGneral its record of more than 50 investigations.

There was only one Senator who finally voted against the resolution to investigate Daugherty, which was made so broad that it can cover anything the Attorney-General or any of his agents have done or failed to do since they have been in office. The sole opponent was Daugherty's intimate friend, Senator Davis Elkins of West Virginia, who drew a chorus of laughs

TEXT OF RESOLUTION FOR DAUGHERTY INQUIRY ADOPTED BY SENATE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.

FOLLOWING is the text of the resolution adopted by the Senate today calling for an investigation of Attorney-General Daugherty's administration:

"Resolved, that a committee of five Senators, consisting of three of the majority and two of the minority, be authorized and directed to investigate circumstances and facts, and report the same to the Senate, concerning the alleged failure of Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General of the United States, to prosecute properly violators of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and the Clayton Act against monopolies and unlawful restraint of trade; the alleged neglect and failure of the said Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General of the United States, to arrest and prosecute Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, E. L. Doheny, C. R. Forbes, and their co-conspirators in defrauding the Government, as well as the alleged neglect and failure of the said Attorney-General to arrest and prosecute many others for violations of Federal statutes, and his alleged failure to prosecute properly, efficiently and promptly and defend all manner of civil and criminal actions wherein the Government of the United States is intested as a party plaintiff or defendant. And said committee is further directed to inquire into, investigate and report to the Senate the activities of the said Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General, and any of his assistants in the Department of Justice which would in any manner tend to impair their inefficiency or influence as representatives of the Government of the United States. The said committee above referred to and the chairman thereof shall be elected by the Senate of the United States."

Capital Stirred by Revelation That McLean Used Legally Protected Government Code

Senate Believes Implication of Department of Justice in Oil Case, Will Force Coolidge to Act

Solution of Cipher Mystery by New York World Attracts Wide Attention—Government "Experts" Were Apparently Baffled.

By ELLIOTT THURSTON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, March 1. — No disclosure so far in the oil scandal with relation to Attorney-General Daugherty has so profoundedly amazed the capital as the New York World's solving of the mysterious code messages of Edward B. McLean.

Immediately a flood of corroborative information was forced from the Department of Justice. The entire trend, both of the oil investigation and the pending inquiry into the Attorney-General's Department, was changed by the revelation.

The Senate was swept with astonished comment, and speeches on the floor emphasized both the importance of the disclosures in developing the full facts of the oil scandal and the virtual overturning of the already disordered political situation.

Wheeler's View.

President Coolidge cannot afford to retain Daugherty longer in the face of the now revealed facts that McLean was using the official and legally protected cipher of the Department of Justice, according to Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, whose resolution to investigate the Attorney-General's administration has been the focal point of Senate attention.

"Added to the accumulation of evidence already piled up against the Department of Justice, this makes Daugherty's removal imperative, declared Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, the director of the Senate's oil scandal investigation. Senator Walsh said he regarded the World's solving of the code riddle as a great service to the investigators and to the public, especially in view of the fact that the Army and Navy experts who had been assigned by the Senate Public Lands Committee to analyze the messages had so far been baffled.

Greater significance could hardly have attached to any evidence than embraced in the "breaking" of these few coded messages in the strange series that flashed between Washington and the Florida resort, keeping McLean and his guest, Albert B. Fall, hourly advised of the Senate's threatened advances.

Aspects of Situation.

That Burns was thus brought into the spotlight as one of the ring of McLean-Fall intimates who were "tipped off" that McLean was actually admitted as a "secret agent" of the Government, provided with the secret service code book, a badge and accompanying prerogatives; that Daugherty had concealed these facts; that McLean's confidential agent, William O. Duckstein, was represented in the Department of Justice by his wife, Mary; that she was formerly Burns' private secretary and more recently on the payroll as a department agent—these aspects of the situation thus uncovered by the World assumed paramount importance.

Daugherty's absence from the city following his sudden decision to go to Chicago was given new import as these circumstances loomed up. The World's account of today was officially put before the Senate by Walsh, following this morning's hearings of the investigating committee.

"I ask unanimous consent that there may be printed in the Record the article appearing in the New York World," said the Montana Senator, "which makes a substantially accurate statement concerning some startling testimony introduced before the Committee on Public Lands on yesterday."

Other Senators, including McKellar, (Dem.) Tennessee, introduced corroboration in the shape of statements issued by Burns admitting the truth of the disclosures, though denying he had "tipped off" McLean.

Senator Walsh at once ordered Burns subpenaed to explain why McLean had the secret code. Burns' admission that McLean was allowed the secret service badge and privileges increased the amazement of the invstigating committe. And that failed to account for the use of the cipher by McLean's coterie of confidential advisers, who under the law prohibiting use of the code, were not entitled to it. Moreover, the restrictions specifically limit the code use to official business.

Walsh Given Translation.

Senator Walsh received from The World during the day the literal translations of the decoded messages—The World's story having given just a paraphrase in view of the legal limitations on the publication of the secret cipher. The literal renderings are to be furnished to the Army and Navy experts, he indicated, to aid their completion of the analysis which had made no material progress until the decoding key was supplied through the agency of The World article.

In consequence of the enlightenment now thrown on the Department of Justice's direct interest in McLean, admission was made by Mrs. Mary Duckstein, wife of the McLean agent referred to in various messages as "the Duck," that it was she who signed the code message with the signature of "Mary."

In The World's story "Mary" erroneously was identified as Miss Mary Quigley, chief telephone operator in McLean's newspaper office here.

Mrs. Duckstein, however, made known today that she was the sender of this message which, decoded and paraphrased, read:

"Sent for by Burns, who told me to say McLean investigation is under way by special agents of Justice Department. He believes information is important."

As this was one of the most important of the ciphered advices to McLean, in that it linked Burns with the "tipping off" process, its being signed by Mrs. Duckstein, instead of by Miss Quigley, lent far greater weight to its meaning, in the opinion of committee members.

Senator Walsh Acts.

Senator Walsh decided to turn the oil inquiry immediately to the vistas of the case now opened up. Mrs. Duckstein, her husband, Burns, and all the others thus linked up with the Department of Justice's definite inclusion in the oil situation will be examined, it was determined.

"I was amazed at the disclosure," Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, of the Oil Investigating Committee said. "The impetus it has given to the inquiry is of the greatest importance. It has solved a riddle that blocked progress of the investigation in this direction. It is strange that the Government experts asked by the committee to analyze the messages should be 'beaten' by a newspaper."

Senator Wheeler said he considered it remarkable also that the Government's experts were apparently at a loss. "Without this disclosure the investigation might have been delayed indefinitely, if not actually balked," he said.

Since it was of particular value at the hour when his investigation in the Department of Justice is beginning, Wheeler displayed extraordinary interest, and predicted that this evidence alone would be sufficient to force Daugherty's retirement from the Cabinet if nothing more were proved.

Talk Around Senate.

The talk around the Senate was that the effect would be to compel President Coolidge to take full cognizance of the positive proof of the Justice Department's implication in the scandal and to demand Daugherty's resignation. Failure of the President to do so now would be disastrous and might even cost him the Republican nomination, in the view of Republican leaders.

Burns' history was called to many minds and the fact that Daugherty had insisted upon placing Burns at the head of the Bureau of Investigation despite the widespread protests against it.

Senator Walsh emphasized that no aid whatever has been furnished to the oil investigators by Burns or Daugherty and none volunteered.

"I have not asked for it, of course," said Walsh, "and it is entirely obvious from these connections with McLean that had I asked for it, it would have been of no advantage to the investigation; on the contrary, the indications are that it would have been of greater advantage to Mr. McLean and Mr. Fall."

Perhaps one of the greatest significances in the unveiling of the code mystery was its added corroboration of the reports that administration agencies have been interested more in suppressing the oil story than in aiding the investigation and the prosecution of those involved.

"I consider this the most damaging evidence that had been discovered against Daugherty," Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, said. "I do not see how the President can possibly excuse Daugherty's continued presence in the Cabinet, in the light of this proof."

Both in Senate speeches and the universal discussion of the subject, the same view was repeatedly expressed, that Daugherty will have to go now—or that Coolidge will have to force Daugherty out.

Remarkable Sensation.

Altogether, nothing could have produced a more remarkable sensation both in and out of Congress. Copies of the World vanished so rapidly from news stands that none were obtainable by midday at several of the principal stands. The Washington Herald, which reprinted the World's expose, was in similar demand, and there were no Senators able to be at their office today who had not familiarized themselves with the disclosures even before the hour when the Senate met.

E. S. Rochester, who had been a protege of McLean's father and is now one of Daugherty's department aids, had been shown by the uncoded McLean telegrams to be inordinately interested in the Senate's investigation and in wiring McLean, but this connection did not assume the importance of a cementing link until the decoded messages were made known.

Senators felt generally that Attorney-General Daugherty could scarcely find any satisfactory explanation now for his concealment of McLean's relations with the department. The hasty trip to Chicago was widely looked upon as well timed, for Daugherty is everywhere the chief topic.

Suspicion had been turned upon Daugherty and his department from his failure to act in the oil situation, his interference in the Elk Hills case with consequent tremendous advantage to the Standard Oil, his reported verbal approval of the oil leases to Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny. But, save for the Rochester incident, nothing had previously come to the surface that proved conclusively how the Department of Justice was interwoven with the McLean-Fall efforts to avoid the scrutiny of the oil probers.

That the Government arm designed by law to prosecute in such cases as Fall and McLean, Sinclair and Doheny, and the other principals have provided should be itself concerting with them was considered indefensible even by the stanchest of administration defenders.

Predictions of Daugherty's retirement had subsided following his defiant demands for "fair trial" and refusal to go unless openly requested to do so by the President. The predictions are revived again in full force, with nobody yet undertaking to gloss over or otherwise defend the revelations made by the World.

Daugherty Is Deserted in Face of Revelations

by shouting "No" when his name was called. Shortly afterward Elkins insisted on a roll call in the election of the members of the committee. But it was so obvious that sentiment was all in favor of the committee as planned by Wheeler that he did not get it.

Attorney-General Deserted.

At the close of the day's debate the Attorney-General, so far as the Senate was concerned, was deserted. Many of the Republicans apparently purposefully stayed away from the floor. Only two voices were raised in Daugherty's behalf during the debate. And they were not loud. Both came from the Senators of his own State.

Senator Fess in the early part of the session did make a forceful appeal for fair play. He characterized the proceedings of the Senate for the last two months as a "shame and a disgrace," spoke of the Senate being carried away by hysteria, called loudly on the guarantees of the Federal Constitution, which provided for trials by fair and impartial juries. And then the Ohio Senator got such a "razzing" from the other side of the House, that for hours he sat a squelched man never lifting his voice.

At the very close Senator Willis, another of Daugherty's Ohio friends, succeeded in having the word "alleged" inserted in the resolution, in front of each of the charges which the committee is to have before it. But it was a hollow victory, and both Fess and Willis voted for the resolution.

The copies of The New York World bearing the revelations of the use of the Department of Justice code reached the Capital about 9 o'clock. And three hours later, Senator Lodge arose and withdrew his amendment to the resolution under which the committee would have been appointed by Chairman Cummins of Iowa, instead of being elected. Lodge sat down and for the rest of the day maintained one of the most expressive silences he has ever indulged in.

Democrats Open Fire.

And then the Democrats opened up. First came Senator Caraway of Arkansas, who took as his text the Fess suggestion that the Senate had been suffering from hysteria. He spoke for the most part in that slow drawl, which characterizes his movement, but in every word there was a punch which withered the other side of the House, culminating in his demand that the President speak to explain the indicated connection with the White House.

"It may be that the Senate is hysterical," he began, "if it is hysterical in trying to see that crime shall be punished and the people's property protected, when two Senators on the other side are hysterical, like the Senator from Ohio, in seeing that nobody is punished and no public property restored.

"The people would get a fair trial with a jury of such distinguished men on the Senator from Ohio. The public rights would be preserved and criminals would tremble with that kind of an apologist in the Senate for men who corrupt public officials and for corrupt considerations sell the public property and invade the very life of America by selling every drop of oil that was to steam our ships in time of war. We are to hear a lecture of the Senate upon propriety. Oh, you know if we all had such propriety the people would have some right, indeed, to suspect the Senate did not function as the Senator from Ohio said.

"Protecting the Criminals."

"I am sure the Senator from Ohio would entirely approve of what is now disclosed to be a fact, that the Department of Justice turned over the secret code so that the criminals who were being pursued might keep in touch with the Department of Justice, which was trying to protect them, and each understands the other.

"I should say that the Senator from Ohio could find no more appropriate occasion to rise than now in view of that disclosure. He says he wants to vouch for the absolute integrity and high character of Mr. Daugherty, and here we are confronted with the fact that not only did Mr. Daugherty do nothing to help fathom the crookedness of public officials, to help restore public property stolen from the public, but he, on the other hand, lent positive aid by loaning the secret code of the Department of Justice to the criminals in Florida to communicate with criminals in the Department of Justice so that no kind of investigation could be had and no disclosures made.

"Upon that disclosure the Senator from Ohio arose and said the Senate was hysterical and the Attorney-General honest. That sort of recommendation ought to go a long way with everybody, I do not know and the public does not know what all the facts are. Even Mr. Wile, who is the mouthpiece of the President since he got a cup of coffee and a sandwich on the Mayflower one day, is out in an article this morning, saying that Cautious Cal is also growing nervous."

Referring to a published report that the President would strike to clean up his regime in a few weeks, Caraway went on:

"A few weeks, how many weeks nobody knows, but some time or other when the cautious President shall have waked up he is going to say something. Oh, I wish the Senator from Ohio would go down there and say. 'Now, Mr. Coolidge, don't get hysterical. Take your time. Don't be swept away by the hysteria of thieves stealing the public property, but wait. Oh, wait a few months and after awhile the thing may blow over; because that is the hope of those people who are talking about hysteria now.

"I am so glad he is not going to be swept away by that hysteria that so excites my friend from Ohio. He is going to take until May 1, but nobody knows what he is going to do. In the meantime he is going to sit there and leave unanswered the statement in this important investigation that the man who was in the worst of it had easy and quick access to the White House because in a telegram sent from Washington one of the reasons urged for putting the private wire of Mr. McLean was 'so that you may have quick and easy access to the White House.'

"They put in charge of that wire the man who was in charge of the confidential wire in the White House so that there could be no misunderstanding—the same man handles both messages, and he will know what McLean says to Fall and what Fall says to Mr. Slemp before he went to Florida and for what purpose Slemp was going and they even sent a code message to say to Mr. McLean in Florida that the Senator from Montana (Mr. Walsh) is taking the 1:35 train. Not a thing could happen but what they were informed and in order to make the matter absolutely quick and sure, they say 'you put in a private wire and you will have quick and certain connection with the White House.'

Would Have President Comment.

"Oh, if it were not for exciting the distinguished Senator from Ohio to some kind of hysteria that he so much condemns and so aply illustrates, I would like for the President to say whether or not he had any communication with those people in Florida. I think he owes it to 100,000,000 of American people who are swept, as the Senator from Ohio said, by hysteria to say whether or not there is anything in the statement that 'we want the private wire so we can have quick and easy communication with the White House.'

"I want to know—and I know the Senator from Ohio condemns me for asking the question—what right Mr. McLean has to have quick and easy access to the White House when he was shielding as best he could a criminal that he knew was a criminal. I would like to know if it is not too agitating to the Senator from Ohio, who is afraid somebody is going to grow hysterical except himself, why the attorney-General should turn over the secret code."

Senator Fess had in the early part of his speech spent a good deal of time in explaining how fair were the members of the committee of the House which recommended against the impeachment of Daugherty.

"I know," declared Caraway, "what Mr. Woodruff (an instigator of the impeachment), a gentleman who accomplished more than the Senator from Ohio ever did in his life, said about it. He said they would not hear him, and I know if the newspaper stories may be believed, and I see no reason why they may not be, it never was an investigation of Daugherty, but it was a browbeating process of destroying Woodruff. Then the chairman wanted to put Woodruff on trial because he would no longer submit to the heckling that no respecting white man would submit to."

Again Points at White House.

Then Caraway plunged into the message sent to McLean Jan. 29, saying "Saw principal, there will be no rocking of the boat and no resignation."

"Who is the principal?" Caraway asked. "Who knows whether there will be any resignations or not? Who knows there will be no rocking of the boat? Without so much agitating the Senator from Ohio, who knows everything and modestly admits it, I should like for him to say who is 'principal,' who can know that nobody is going to be put out of the Cabinet? Who knows that nobody is going to rock a boat and who is praying that this political agitation, this hysteria, will soon pass away?"

The galleries had no doubt the Arkansas Senator was again pointing at the White House.

There was a mention of "ducks and pears" of the messages. Senator Wheeler rose with a grin.

"Does not the Senator know?" he asked "that the man who is referred to as Duckstein is the private and confidential secretary of McLean?"

"No, I didn't know that," replied Caraway, the grin spreading to his own face.

"Does the Senator know that Mrs. Duckstein was up until about December, the confidential secretary of W. J. Burns, and is now an operative in the Department of Justice?" asked Wheeler.

"I hope the Senator from Montana is not trying to sweep me into hysteria," said Caraway.

The packed galleries roared with laughter.

Daugherty's Publicity Agent.

"Mr. Rochester," Caraway continued, "is the private secretary and publicity agent of the Attorney-General, is he not?"

"I think so," said Wheeler.

"And he sends messages. Of course, that is entirely proper; we have not heard the Senator from Ohio object to that at all. There is no hysteria in the department protecting crooks. It is only hysteria when the people try to retain their property and to punish criminals."

Heflin of Alabama was next. He pounded Fess in a typical Heflin manner, and then suggested that there might be reasons why Daugherty was not getting out of the Department of Justice.

"The efforts to give Mr. Daugherty a clean bill of health are disquieting," he said. "Why does the President keep him in office? Why does he want to stay in office? Does he want to stay in possession of the correspondence in the Department of Justice? Does he want to remain as Attorney-General so the officials under him won't dare to testify? If he were decent he would go to the President and say he would resign on the understanding that if he were exonerated he would be reappointed. If he won't do that why doesn't the President ask for his resignation so the agents of the Department of Justice will be free to stand up and testify?"

Democratic Leader Robinson then took the floor to jibe the Republicans for criticising, as Fess had done, the Senate resolution to turn Denby out, when Republican Senators had been making private and confidential efforts to get the President to turn Daugherty out.

Resolution Is Modified.

When it came down to the resolution itself Senator Borah said he was not at all familiar with the facts concerning the many allegations in the preamble concerning Daugherty's misdoings. He informed the Senate that unless they were stricken out he would make objection, whereupon Senator Wheeler agreed, and the amended resolution was adopted, 66 to 1.

Senator La Follette placed Brookhart in nomination, and he was elected chairman viva voce. Senator Robinson presented the names of Wheeler and Ashurst, while Senator Curtis, the Republican whip, put in the names of Moses and Jones. With the exception of the substitution of Senator Moses for McLean (R., Conn.), the makeup of the committee is the same as that suggested in the original Wheeler resolution.

Senator Fess in the statement which got him into trouble said that he had never been a particular friend of Daugherty's, but that he had never doubted his integrity and would go the limit to see that he got a fair trial. Finally he launched into a criticism of the Senate.

"It strikes me," he said, "that the Senate is reaching rather a low level. I hope this is not the School of Scandal. I hope it is not the sluiceway, through which fall all sorts of charges, supported and unsupported, to bring discredit in the minds of the public against public men. I sincerely hope that this distinguished body is not today on trial before the public mind, wondering whether after all everybody connected with the Government is not crooked because of irresponsible statements that are bandied from one to another, and then vice versa.

"Shame and a Disgrace."

"I say, that this proceeding for the last two months has been a shame and a disgrace to America, and we ought to be ashamed of such a performance as has gone on. I absolve certain things that have been done. I want to let it be known, as I have let it be known to the public, that the attitude of the senior Senator from Montana, Mr. Walsh, is most admirable. He has done a service to the country."

Senator Fess declared opposition to putting "stump speeches into the preamble of resolutions."

"Legislation," added Senator Fess, "should have a certain standard and it should not steep to the position of charging everybody irresponsible, assuming that those charged are already guilty."

Daugherty's Counsel Would Be Present at All Sessions.

By the Associated Press.

The choice of Senator Brookhart for the chairmanship of the Daugherty investigation came as a spectacular climax to two days of bitter debate. He was nominated by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, leader of the Republican insurgents, after having been selected originally by Senator Wheeler. The regular Republican organization contented itself with nominating Senator Moses, New Hampshire, and Jones, Washington, while Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, nominated Senators Wheeler and Ashhurst, Arizona, as committeemen. No other nominations were forthcoming after a long and dramatic pause and the slate, agreed upon by Senator Wheeler after conferences with Senator LaFollette and Robinson, went through without a roll call. Privately Republican leaders said they regarded it as useless to oppose the insurgent-Democratic coalition.

After adoption of the Wheeler resolution, attorneys for the Attorney-General, Paul Howland of Cleveland and former Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, sent formal letters to each member of the special committee, requesting the privilege of being present witnesses, and of presenting independent evidence, of having processes issued for witnesses, and of presenting oral and written arguments. They gave assurances of the assistance of every agency and facility of the Department of Justice.

Chairman Brookhart said tonight that the committee would meet Monday to draw up a plan of procedure and would proceed "as speedily as possible" in its long task, which is expected to take weeks, if not months.

"There are masses of papers to be gone over in a preliminary way," said Senator Brookhart. "It is hoped to begin the hearings in a very few days, probably some time next week."

While definite procedure is yet to be determined, members indicated there would be no formal complaint, with detailed specifications, drafted and filed, as in the House impeachment proceedings a year ago against Daugherty, but that various charges and complaints would be taken up as they developed with committee members and in the hearings. The first field of inquiry is expected to be the Department of Justice Bureau of Investigation, headed by William J. Burns, in connection with the activities of its agents in several parts of the country.

Request From Attorneys.

In preparation for beginning the investigation, Chairman Brookhart after the Senate had adjourned held brief conferences with the committee members, but postponed a decision upon procedure. Later, copies of the letters from the Attorney-General's counsel were delivered at the offices of all committee members as follows:

"By the direction of the Attorney-General, it is our pleasure to advise you that in the conduct of your investigation of the Department of Justice every agency and facility of that department is at your service. The Attorney-General also wishes to notify you that in order to relieve the regular attorneys on the staff of the Department of Justice from any interference in the transaction of the public business, he has asked us to represent the department of the Attorney-General, at his own expense, during the course of your proceedings, and to assist you in this investigation in every way.

"The Attorney-General most respectfully requests that we, as his representatives, be granted such rights and privileges during the course of your proceedings as may seem to your committee fair and reasonable, and particularly requests:

"1. That said representatives may have the right to be present at all hearings and meetings of your committee except, of course, executive sessions, and be duly notified of the time and place of such meetings; that they may be furnished with a transcript of the testimony and the right of inspection of all documents as fully and to the same extent as members of the committee;

"2. That they may have the right to interrogate all witnesses that may be called before your committee;

Would Assemble Data.

"3. That your committee will at the earliest possible date determine what particular matters it wishes to investigate so that the data and facts may be assembled and furnished without unnecessary delay;

"4. That your committee will formulate in definite and concise languages at the earliest possible moment any and all charges, if any, against the Attorney-General in his official capacity, so that he may be advised of the charges against him, and given an opportunity to present the facts;

"5. That his said representatives shall have the right on their own motion to introduce testimony in the nature of answer or rebuttal to any and all charges that may be made directly or indirectly, or by inference, against the Attorney-General in his official capacity.

"6. That his said representatives may have process issued by you at their request to compel the attendance of witnesses and production of documents;

"7. That at the close of the hearing and the conclusion of all the testimony, and before the final report of your committee to the Senate, the Attorney-General, through his said counsel, respectfully requests the right to present their views to your committee in oral argument and by printed brief."

CHAMP CLARK'S DAUGHTER TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thomson Seeks to Fill Unexpired Term of Louisiana Representative.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—Mrs. Genevieve Clark Thomson today announced her candidacy to fill the unexpired term of the late Representative H. Garland Dupre of the Second Congressional District of Louisiana, and in a platform submitted to a caucus of "old regular" Democrats, declared for a tariff on sugar and rice, development of river and waterways, flood control and a reduction of Federal taxes.

Mrs. Thomson is the wife of James M. Thomson, publisher of the New Orleans Item, and daughter of the late Champ Clark, for many years Representative in Congress from Missouri and a Speaker of the House.

Mrs. Thomson said she favored a tariff on sugar and rice sufficient to guarantee the continuation of sugar and rice growing in this country, declaring that the World War proved the imperative necessity for the United States to produce its own.

BURNS TO TELL OF USE OF CODE IN M'LEAN MESSAGES

Says He Will Explain to Committee Department of Justice's Connection With the Telegrams.

WHITE HOUSE TO RESERVE JUDGMENT

Publisher Said to Have Been Permitted to Have Code When Daugherty Made Him Special Agent.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—William J. Burns promises a complete explanation when he apepars before the Senate Oil Committee of the use of a confidential Department of Justice code in messages sent to Edward B. McLean, the Washington publisher, at Palm Beach from Washington. Until that is forthcoming and the committee has had time to expose the facts in the latest sensation, the White House will reserve judgment.

Admittedly, Attorney-General Daugherty once more is placed in a very embarrassing position, but President Coolidge, according to his spokesmen, prefers to watch the new angle of the oil case develop rather than take hasty separate action on each.

Whether the involvement of the Justice Department through the use of the code and the apparent close association between it and McLean, when the committee was seeking information from the publisher, will expedite Daugherty's retirement depends on what kind of an explanation the department can offer. Burns reserved his statement for the committee.

Denies "Tipping Off" McLean.

He denied emphatically that he ever had tipped off McLean on what the Bureau of Investigation was doing and maintained neither he nor the bureau ever conducted an inquiry into the oil case. The message which indicated such an investigation was in progress, paraphrased, said:

"Sent for by Burns, who told me to say McLean investigation is under way by special agents of Justice Department," was dispatched by Mrs. W. Duckstein, wife of "Billy" Duckstein, one of McLean's secretaries, and not Mary Quigley, the telephone operator, as at first supposed.

Mrs. Duckstein admitted to the New York World today she had wired her husband at Palm Beach in the code. She said she was a special agent of the Bureau of Investigation.

McLean also was a special Justice agent and the wire presumably was intended for him. Justice Department officials saw nothing wrong with the message, since both sender and receiver were authorized to know the code used.

Obsolete, Mrs. Duckstein Says.

This would not apply to telegrams in the same code sent to Palm Beach by Duckstein, who Burns said today, had no connection with the Investigation Bureau.

The status of the code employed was translated by the New York World promised to become important. Mrs. Duckstein said it was obsolete. Burns told a World correspondent it had been replaced by a new code, but added was still used to some extent by those not familiar with the later cipher book and into whose custody it was not entrusted.

"This is an old code," said he, "When I came to the Department of Justice I had a new code made. It was a very expensive operation, making a new code requires time and money. Later we didn't want to put the new code where it would be in danger of getting out, so we gave it only to those in charge of the district offices.

"The old code was used by marshals, district attorneys and agents in the field. We left it so they could use it in less important matters. Most of the important information sent to the Department comes from the district offices.

Many Copies Floating Around.

"The old code has, of course, been in the possession of many people who formerly were with the department, connected with it as agents, etc. We have found a lot of copies floating around. Nobody has got our new code book. It is possessed by only a few in the Bureau of Investigation and the Attorney-General personally. Nobody else ever used it."

Other officials of the department said they understood that the code used in the McLean message was still employed by the Investigation Bureau. They gave the following version of how McLean happened to be a special agent entitled to know it.

When Attorney-General Daugherty came in, it was said, he found a custom had prevailed of naming persons of importance, including a number of Senators, special deputy marshals. This, it was added, "entitled them to carry liquor," and admitted them to the various prerogatives of law enforcement officers. Daugherty decided to kill the practice, though there were

Other officials of the department said they understood that the code used in the McLean message was still employed by the Investigation Bureau. They gave the following version of how McLean happened to be a special agent entitled to draw it.

When Attorney-General Daugherty came in, it was said, he found a custom had prevailed of naming persons of importance, including a number of Senators, special deputy marshals. This, it was added, "entitled them to carry liquor," and admitted them to the various prerogatives of law enforcement officers. Daugherty decided to kill the practice, though there were many howls from those who had been favored.

$1-a-Year Special Agents.

Instead, he appointed "dollar-a-year" special agents, some of whom are declared to have "given splendid service." Some are prominent, others are not. The department declined today to give the list to the New York World, holding that the names of all justice agents are confidential, the $1-a-year agents included.

Burns said he called the Senate Committee this morning, talked to the Secretary in Senator Lenroot's office and informed him he was willing to appeah at any time. This morning he said he did not think he would be called, but this afternoon he expressed entire willingness to give everything he knew about the code messages.

"If the newspapers are looking for a sensation they won't get it when I testify," he stated. "What I will have to say will be of very little interest. The whole thing will be clear when it is explained."

Burns declined to confirm that McLean was an agent in his bureau, but others indicated there was no doubt as to his connection. He said it had been overlooked that the message in which his name was used did not go to McLean, but to Duckstein. Asked what difference that made, he continued:

"Well, I don't guess it matters. I'd just as leave communicate a thing to Ned McLean as to Billy Duckstein."

He said he would tell the committee how Mrs. Duckstein is employed, but would not make known the nature of her work now.

"It's a Damn Lie."

"It's a damn lie," he declared, referring to the inference he "tipped off" McLean on the Justice Department investigation. "I never had any communication with Ned McLean. I never gave him any tips. The funny thing is that the bureau has never made an investigation of this oil case. It has had absolutely nothing to do with it."

Burns said a roar went up that "We've got Daugherty now," when the story implicating him was printed. A resolution has been introduced in the House, he added, calling for an investigation of the Bureau of Investigation under this administration.

"We want that resolution made to read so that the investigation can be carried back a bit," he continued. "One thing they will find out when they go to investigate the Department of Justice—it was never conducted so well in the history of the Government."

At the White House it was said that if the sentiment, which has been declared to exist throughout the country against Daugherty, really did exist, the code affair would merely be like "throwing a feather weight on top of it."

At the Justice Department it was said a careful record had been kept by this administration of every copy of the code book used in the McLean telegrams. It was not known, officials said, whether any of the books got away under the previous administration, but certainly, they maintained, none has under this administration.

White House officials thought the World did the proper thing to paraphrase the messages so as to protect the code.

"Cop" Writes Book on Crimes Here and Spends $1800 to Publish It

Patrolman J. Elbert Jones to Try to Get the Stores to Sell Volume and if They Don't He'll Peddle It—Aided in the Printing.

PATROLMAN J. ELBERT JONES.

Patrolman J. Elbert Jones brought his book, "A Review of Famous Crimes Solved by St. Louis Policemen," to the Post-Dispatch editorial rooms yesterday. The copy he carried had just come from the binders' shop somewhere on Walnut street.

Eight years on the St. Louis police force had taken from Patrolman Jones whatever of indirectness he may have once possessed.

"I want this book reviewed," he admitted in response to the first lift of a reporter's eyebrows.

Request Readily Granted.

Had such a wish been expressed by most anyone but a St. Louis policeman it would have passed without comment. It is natural that an author should want his book reviewed. But here was a book written by a sturdy officer about other officers, and more amazing than that, here was a book that had been published.

"The publisher usually writes a letter," murmured the reporter, his eyes on the still damp and most handsome brown cover of the volume.

"Does he?" Patrolman Jones looked as if he had forgotten something. "I published this book myself and I didn't figure I had to write——"

Helped With the Printing.

Right there he was halted and all the details checked up. Yes, it was true. Jones had published his own book. It had cost him $1800 of his own money. The 5000 first edition copies he will place on sale tomorrow would have cost him more than that, he explained, had he not helped out with the printing.

"I got a month's furlough the first of February," he informed his prospective book reviewer," and I've been doing the linotype work. First I wrote the book on the typewriter during my spare time and then I linotyped it. Couldn't save much on the binding, though. It cost me $1000."

So Policeman Jones had put $1800 and five months' work on this book—he began writing last September.

Touched Stuff Up a Little.

"There's some pretty good stuff in that book," said he, as the reporter fingered pages, speculatively. "Take a look at the one entitled "An Unknown Mystery." It's all true stuff, but of course I touched it up a little."

Still there were need of more details, bothersome to authors such as Patrolman Jones, but interesting to the public.

How did he expect to get his money back?

"Why I'm going to sell the book of course," the policeman explained.

For how much? And where? The author hadn't decided either of these questions.

"What do you think would be a good price?" he inquired.

Puzzled About the Price.

That was a stunner, but after much discussion it was agreed that $2 would be a good price if the book sold well, and $1.50 would be all right if the public thought $2 too much. Patrolman Jones' ideas as to a possible market were as elastic. He'd try to get the stores to sell his book, and if they wouldn't, he'd peddle it.

The more important considerations out of the way attention was focused on the book itself. Here the reviewer's formula is valuable:

"A Review of Famous Crimes Solved by St. Louis Policemen," by Patrolman J. Elbert Jones, is a handily bound book of 300 pages citing briefly the outstanding examples of police work in St. Louis over a period from 1868 to the middle of February, 1924. The author, by permission of the Board of Police Commissioners, was given access to department records and also was aided by the newspaper files of Bertillion Superintendent John Shea.

Reviewed With Brevity.

"The famous cases of the department are reviewed by the author with an eye to brevity and a certain facility for telling tales. Most of the incidents are described in short story form. Pictures of police officials, a short history of the department and a dedication to President Brockman of the Police Board make up the other subject matter."

Here the review should stop and the prospective purchaser be permitted to form his own opinion of Patrolman Jones' work.

Patrolman Jones is 35 years old, a widower, and resides at 765 Belt avenue. He formerly ran small town newspapers in Southern Illinois and has written several stories of the blood-and-thunder type which have been published either in book form or in a magazine.

DEATH TOLL IN BLAST AT TNT PLANT PUT AT 40

spread to the arsenal's scores of powder warehouses.

Doctors and nurses from hospitals in nearby cities were early on the scene. Numerous heroic rescues were recorded, nurses and rescuers working side by side among the smoke and dense yellow fumes which all day rolled up from the ruins as tank after tank of nitric acid and ammonia burst.

An hour after the explosion the village of Nixon and the 20 acres or more of buildings which had housed the explosive works looked liked a sector of battle front—no man's land, few walls remaining standing.

Those uninjured who had seen the explosion were unable to tell what caused it. Those who were in it and survived were unable to talk.

It was said the TNT was part of 2,000,000 pounds that had been purchased from the Government's Raritan arsenal by the Columbia Salvage Corporation and removed from big shells at the arsenal magazines. The powder had been turned over to the Ammonite Co. at Nixon, whose employes were the first victims of the blast.

NOBLEMAN, RUINED BY BOOTLEGGING TO U. S., SELF SLAIN

Sir John Stewart Said to Have Killed Self in Lonely Castle Leaving Debts Totaling $5,000,000.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, March 1.—Sir John Stewart, head of one of the most famous whisky houses in Scotland, killed himself because of the loss of enormous sums in the American bootlegging trade, according to an article written for the Sunday Express tomorrow.

All alone in his castle in Perthshire, Sir John took his own life, leaving behind debts aggregating nearly £1,000,000 ($5,000,000).

Sensational disclosures are made in the Express article concerning Sir John's private affairs.

It is alleged that he paid £80,000 for the baronetcy conferred upon him in June, 1920. Three famous banks are creditors against his estate, it is said. He owed J. H. Schroeder & Co. £79,000; the Clydesdale Bank £24,000, and the British Mutual Banking Co., £40,000, according to the Express. He was wildly extravagant in his personal expenditures, it is said, and the loan he got from one bank was on fraudulent representations.

£400,000 for a Title.

Regarding his bootlegging venture, the Express says, "The taint of easy money seems to have crept into his blood, and he embarked on the bootlegging of whisky on a huge scale in the United States, rather than its legitimate sale here."

The article then says that Sir John was associated with a bootlegging company—the name of which, although known, is not given—that has lost thousands of pounds in the last 18 months. "They landed their whisky in the United tSates, but the bootleggers kept the money."

It is charged that Sir John approached several banks for his last loan, made only a few days before his death, which the Express says was obtained fraudulently. All of them were suspicious and refused his application. The bank that finally favored him, the name of which is withheld, advanced him considerably more than 50,000 pounds.

Regarding the allegation that he purchased his nKighthood, the Express says: "The Sunday Express understands that the 80,000 pounds ($400,000) played a large part in precipitating his ruin. Will his creditors take steps to recover it from the campaign fund into which it was paid? The knighting of Sir John 'for public services' caused a huge outcry. It may be the basis for a legal case for which there is probably no precedent in English history."

Fraudulent Loan Alleged.

The Edinburgh courts today granted the application of Sir John's widow for the appointment of a judicial factor on the estate, which is said to be in the greatest confusion and against which banks and whisky merchants have filed claims amounting to almost £1,000,000.

Describing how Sir John got his last and alledly fraudulent loan, the Express says: "Sir John then turned to another bank. He arrived as usual with glowing references from other large concerns. He asked for a bill against the delivery of orders for whisky, which he produced. The orders took the form of a letter stating that the owner possessed so many gallons of whisky in bond at a certain warehouse, and that the owner would permit a bank to hold them in its favor. They were not, however, documentary evidence. They were exchangeable for whisky warrants signed by the exice officer of the warehouse, acknowledging the transaction and granting legal power to the bank to remove the whisky if desired. The manager granted the loan. The next week the warrants duly arrived. The bank hastened to investigate its hecurity, and found that several thousand pounds worth of whisky already had been removed. A few days later, Sir John committed suicide."

Hours Being Manicured.

Regarding his business afairs and his personal extravagance, the paper says, "The trouble was he didn't stick to the whisky business. He acquired large interests in steel, rubber, tea and other enterprises. He knew less aout them than about distilling, and they dissipated both his fortune and his energies. Sir John's own extravagances were enough to beggar any man not a Creosus. His baronetcy was an expensive luxury. Fingask Castle, which he bought as soon as he was knighted, was another. He hired an army of workmen to build roads across his estate. He installed a huge power station and a giant garage. But he never lived in the castle—he never spent a single night in it.

"It must have been a sense of the fitness of things that led him to die there.

"At London, a fortnight's hotel bill never cost less than 300 pounds. He spent hours being manicured, fortunes in clothes."

E. B. McLean's Confidential Aid Tore Up Messages

Beach every year for 10 years?" "That's a fact."

'Did he ever install a leased wire before?" "No."

"Then the reason for installing the wire at this time was simply the reason that existed last year, and the year before, and every year for 10 years, but which had never been deemed sufficient to install it until this occasion?"

"Well, I think the telegraph rates were a little higher this year. Anyway, Mr. McLean felt that a leased wire would furnish him with a cheaper and quicker means of communication with his employes, so he told me to have it installed, and I had it installed."

"And you never went to bed without seeing that every message sent over it had been destroyed?" suggested Senator Adams. "That's right."

"You were apprehensive, I suppose, that the contents of the Post might become public?" was Adams' comment. "I wasn't apprehensive about anything."

"Why did you hire Smithers, the White House telegrapher, to operate that wire?" asked Senator Dill. "Well, Mr. McLean knew Smithers, and Smithers asked for the job."

Homer Makes Correction.

"Was that what Francis T. Homer had in mind when he advised McLean to get 'easy access to the White House'?" In one of Major's telegrams to McLean, he quoted this from a long distance telephone conversation with Homer, who is a Baltimore attorney, and a friend of McLean.

"I don't know what was in Mr. Homer's mind," Major replied, "but I think this letter may clear the matter up."

"Anything that will clear up your testimony will be gratefully received by the committee, Mr. Major," was Walsh's dry observation, as he took the letter. It was from Homer, and said: "I said nothing about getting 'easy access to the White House.' Our connection was bad, and you misunderstood me. What I said was that 'With Wiley at your house,' it would give you easy access to him." Wiley is the manager of the Cincinnati Enquirer, which McLean owns. Homer's explanation was reminiscent of that given recently by Sinclair's man, Wahlberg, who said that Archie Roosevelt misunderstood him to say "Sixty-eight thousand," when what he said was "six or eight cows."

"Well, did Mr. Homer say what he says here, or did you misquote him to McLean in your telegram?" Walsh demanded.

"Well, I don't know hardly what to say. I thought I quoted him right, but what he says now puts a doubt in my mind," was the reply.

"Did Fall ever send any messages over this leased wire?" asked Chairman Lenroot. "From 7000 to 10,000 words went over this wire every night. But to the best of my recollection, no."

"Did Mitchell Palmer send any?" "Only through me."

Showed Telegram From Fall.

'Mr. Major, did you have any conversation with me after this wire was installed?" "Yes, sir."

"You came to my apartment, and showed me a telegram from Fall, stating that he was too ill to come before the committee, didn't you?" "That's correct," Major admitted.

"How did the leased wire give McLean easy access to the White House?" Walsh asked. "I don't know that it did."

"But you transmitted the message from Homer to McLean, didn't you?" "Sure, but I didn't know what it meant."

"You just sent it along without any idea of its meaning?" "That's right, Senator."

In excusing Major, Lenroot asked him to stay within call of the committee. "All right, Senator, I'll stick around," he replied.

Four Mysterious Telephone Calls to Fall Shown on Records.

By the Associated Press.

The oil committee also examined John J. Spurgeon, managing editor of the Washington Post, as to McLean's private wire to Florida, but got little additional information.

Closing the committee room doors, the investigators examined a new batch of telegrams and records of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. It found additional code messages and that three mysterious telephone calls had been made to Albert B. Fall at New Orleans from the New Willard Hotel here. Officers of the telephone company will be asked why the name of the person or persons making the calls do not appear in the records.

After the committee had adjourned until Tuesday, subpenas were issued for the managers of the telegraph offices at Three Rivers, N. M., Fall's home. They will be required to bring to Washington all messages sent or received by Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, J. W. Zevely, Robert Stewart of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, and H. M. Blackmer of the Midwest Oil Co.

The subpenas call for such messages between Jan. 1, 1921, three months before Fall became a member of the Cabinet, down to the present time. While, ordinarily, records are kept by the telegraph offices for only one year, the committee has information that the Three Rivers office has the messages for the entire period from Jan. 1, 1921.

With the issuing of these subpenas, the committee's dragnet for telegrams exchanged between the more important personages whose names have been brought into the oil scandal covers a wide field.

But the investigators probably never will get trace of hundreds of messages that it desired particularly—those that passed over the private wire McLean had installed to Palm Beach at the time his representatives were seeking to keep him off the witness stand.

Senators said the telegrams furnished today by the Western Union company contained nothing "sensational" unless it be that matters of that character will be disclosed by the deciphering of the code telegrams. They added, however, that some of the telegrams had served to fill gaps left by some of the messages previously read into the record.

Scores of additional telegrams from the Washington office of the Western Union and Postal companies are looked for by the committee when the search of the files of those offices has been completed on the basis of the new subpenas calling for messages sent to or received by Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, E. L. Doheny, McLean and others from Dec. 1, 1923, to Feb. 28, 1924.

Records of a number of long distance telephone calls made from Washington to Fall and others were supplied today by C. T. Clagett, of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., but committeemen said they showed no calls made to these persons by any of the oil investigators or administration officials.

Phone Calls Arouse Curiosity.

The calls put through to Fall without the name of the persons making them has aroused the curiosity of the investigators, who expressed surprise that such a transaction could be possible. Their belief is that whoever called Fall must have been of much more than passing prominence and influence.

Not since the oil inquiry got under way last October has there been a larger array of witnesses on hand than was present today in the committee room. They included Francis H. McAdoo of New York, counsel for McLean and son of William G. McAdoo. The photographers sought to get a picture of McAdoo, but he flatly refused to pose and when the camera men undertook to "snap" him as he left the building he successfully screened his face.

Among the other witnesses present were Mr. and Mrs. Duckstein, who chatted for some time with Assistant Attorney-General Holland, who is observing the investigation for the Department of Justice by direction of President Coolidge.

Operator Who Handled McLean Messages Explains.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—E. W. Smithers, for more than 20 years a telegraph operator at the White House, who operated the Washington end of the private telegraph wire from the Washington Post to E. B. McLean in Florida, made a statement tonight concerning this special work. He is under subpena by the Senate oil committee.

"I attended the Senate committee's hearing," the statement said, "in response to a summons, and hoped for the opportunity to testify in order to put an end to unwarranted rumors and unfounded inferences.

"I am employed at the White House in the day time as a telegraph operator. The number of years that I have been so employed ought to be sufficient to attest that I have performed my duties there satisfactorily and never violated any trust reposed in me.

"Like many other telegraph operators who are in the Government service during the day, I have always felt that I had a right to add to my earnings by working as a telegraph operator at night.

"Last month I was employed by the Washington Post for the sole purpose of operating a leased wire available to that newspaper after 6 o'clock at night. This employment had no relation to, and in no way interfered with, my work at the White House.

"The only duty I was called upon to perform for the Washington Post and Mr. McLean was that of sending and receiving by telegraph messages given to me at the Washington office or addressed to that office from Palm Beach.

"I never was asked by Mr. McLean or anyone else about anything that went on at the White House. I am sure that anyone who knows me will understand that it would be impossible for any person to obtain from me any information which came to my knowledge in my employment, at the executive offices.

"I have never been asked by any officials of the Government for any information regarding telegrams transmitted or received by me over the Post wire.

"The whole story may be summed up thus: I am a telegraph operator employed by the Government in the day time, and in my own time I have accepted perfectly legitimate employment as an operator in an outside office during hours when I am not engaged by the Government. I assert that there can be no legitimate criticism of this perfectly legitimate action of mine."

UNGRATEFUL COPS TAKE LIQUOR, THEN ARREST THE GIVER

"They're Just Sore Beause I Held Out on Them," Contractor Declares.

A prisoner who gave his name as Walter Frangel, 52 years old, contractor, University City, was loud in complaint at Police Headquarters yesterday.

He had been arrested just for spite, he asserted. Those two cops who stopped him at Eighth and Carr streets Friday night had asked him what he was doing in that neighborhood.

"I'll tell you, friends," he had said as a gentleman should. "I'm giving a little party out in University City this week end and I came down here to buy whisky. I've got two bottles. Here they are, one for each of you. Fair enough, isn't it?"

With this he handed a half pint each to Patrolmen Bauman and Antram. And what do you suppose those cops did? Slipping the bottles in their pockets, they placed Frangel under arrest.

"That's all the liquor I've got," he protested. "How much more do you want to leave a fellow alone?"

The cops shook their heads and took him to the station. There Frangel was searched and three more half pint bottles were found in his pockets.

"They're just sore because I held out on them," Frangel repeated several times yesterday, but for all that he was booked and must face a charge of possession of liquor.

NEGRO DISTURBER KILLED BY POLICEMAN

Officer Fires When Fugitive Turns and Points Pistol at Him.

Patrolman Walter Meyer was called to a dwelling in the rear of 2227 Lucas avenue at 6:15 last evening by a complaint that Dock Simmons, a negro, was terrorizing others in the place with a revolver. Simmons retreated into the house as the policeman appeared, and Meyer followed him upstairs.

There, the policeman reported later, Simmons pointed his revolver at Meyer and cried: "It's me or you." Meyer fired his own revolver and Simmons fell, wounded in the neck. He died soon afterward. His revolver was found to be fully loaded. After reporting the circumstances and having the body removed, Meyer returned to his beat.

Simmons was 23 years old, and lived at 2233 Lucas.

COOLIDGE URGED TO NAME BARRETT TO DAUGHERTY'S JOB

Missouri Supreme Court Judges Recommend Appointment of State Attorney-General.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 1.—A movement for appointment of Attorney-General Barrett at Attorney-General of the United States, in the event that Attorney-General Daugherty resigns, took definite form here late this afternoon when the seven Judges of the Missouri Supreme Court joined in sending a telegram to President Coolidge urging Barrett's appointment.

Barrett's record in the three years he had been Attorney-General of Missouri was commended in the telegram by the judges, who declared his appointment to the higher post "would reflect credit on any administration." It was stated the indorsement was extended without solicitation by Barrett.

All of the Supreme Court judges, except David E. Blair, are Democrats, the opposite political faith to Barrett, who is a Republican.

The telegram was signed by Presiding Justice A. M. Woodson and Judges W. W. Graves, David E. Blair, James T. Blair, R. F. Walker, J. T. White and W. T. Ragland.

True Life Story of Woodrow Wilson

by David Lawrence

The Home Life of Woodrow Wilson.

THE personal and impersonal in Woodrow Wilson's life were as separate and distinct as if they were derived from two different beings. Once as he stood on the platform of a railroad station during the 1912 campaign and saw a big cloth banner stretched across the street with the words "For President and Vice President, Wilson and Marshall," he said to the newspaper men with him:

"Somehow I cannot bring myself to believe that I am the fellow mentioned on that banner. I never can get used to it."

And he never did. Yet therein lies the key to an understanding of Woodrow Wilson's lifelong friendships on the one hand and his series of breaks on the other with persons closely associated at times with him in the business of regulating the affairs of Princeton University or administering the two public offices he held—the Governorship of New Jersey and the Presidency of the United States.

As a husband and father, as a chum of his college classmates, as a host at family reunions, Woodrow Wilson was full of human qualities. As a trustee of the public interest, as a crusader for large policies of state, he knew neither friendship nor compassion—he was as stern as he was inflexible.

It is therefore in the home that one glimpses a Woodrow Wilson little known to the public.

Home Life of the Wilson Family.

The home life of the Wilson family was simple, modest, congenial and refined. The Wilson's were closely knit by family ties, especially during their life at Princeton and the early days at the White House. Cousins to the nth degree were welcomed to the house, made much of and revisited in turn. Special occasions were always dear to the hearts of all in the family group. Christmas, other holidays and birthdays were remembered and observed by special gatherings. If a member of the family had intended to be away or to have guests, plans would be changed so that on New Year's day or a birthday or on other special occasions the whole family could be together. When any member of the household was to go away for any length of time all the others made it a point to be there the last few days and refrain from inviting outsiders. The spirit of the home life in the Wilson family was one of uniform happiness. Mr. Wilson was mainly responsible for this because his heart was as tender as a child's in affection for the members of his family and in consideration for them.

Once after Mr. Wilson became President a week-end trip on the yacht "Mayflower," down Chesapeake Bay, had been planned. His eldest daughter, Miss Margaret, remembered at the last minute that she could not go because of an engagement to speak at a community center meeting. Instantly the President abandoned the trip rather than leave one member of his family in the White House alone. She was nervous about the address she had to deliver and he said he wanted to be with her merely as a moral support as she prepared for the ordeal.

An atmosphere of culture prevailed about the Wilson home. It was neither stiff nor formal, but reserved and wholesome. Mrs. Ellen Axson Wilson was a Southern woman of refinement who had been reared in an environment of letters and art. Her paintings were of no inferior type. Mr. Wilson's father was a clergyman. So was Mrs. Wilson's. Their daughters grew up in the same puritanical surroundings. Wholesome fun, wit, laughter and innocent gayety were there but not a bit of the auto-racing, cigarette-smoking, cocktail drinking tendencies of so many homes of today.

Things read and discussed in the home circle pertained as a rule to literature, the arts, history and the drama. There was plenty of humor, simple games and recreation—never any card playing. Frequently the family would operate a ouija board and jest with each other over what it spelled. They often played games by writing quotations and guessing the authors of certain quotations. Each one would write a quotation and the next person would write another without, of course, reading the first until a long sentence had been evolved. Members of the family wrote limericks about each other or about anybody else who happened to enter their thoughts. They were always on the lookout for new limericks and when members of the family heard a new verse it was promptly brought home. One of the most famous of these limericks was Mr. Wilson's about himself.

"For beauty I am not a star,
  There are others more handsome by far,
But my face—I don't mind it;
  You see I am behind it;
It is the fellow in front that I jar."

Another favorite of Mr. Wilson's, of which the authorship is unknown, was the following:

"A wondrous bird is the pelican;
His mouth holds more than his bellican;
    He takes in his beak
    Enough food for a week,
But I am darned if I see how the hellican."

Still another favorite was:

"There was a young man who was benighted,
He didn't know when he was slighted,
    But went to the party
    And ate just as hearty
As if he had been really invited."

Methodical Habits of Head of Family.

One of the dominant characteristics of the Wilson family was its regularity and the methodical habits of the man at the head of it. From his boyhood on one could set his watch by Woodrow Wilson's comings and goings. Meals were eaten at precisely the same time every day. He always arose at the same time and shaved himself with an old-fashioned razor. He used the same strop for years—a heavy, well grained and oiled piece of leather, upon which he was able to predict the character of the weather.

"I can sometimes tell 24 or 36 hours in advance when it is going to storm," he remarked to a friend. "If it is going to be clear my strop is smooth and the razor slips over it easily and without

German Liners Touch French Ports

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 1.—German liners touched at French ports today for the first time since January, 1923, when the service was interrupted by the Ruhr occupation. The steamship Albert Ballin from Hamburg for New York, called at Cherbourg, and the Cap Polonio from Hamburg for the River Plate touched at Bologne.

It Doesn't Hold True of Teapot

The old adage that "A watched pot never boils" doesn't hold true of the Teapot oil scandal. The closer the affair is watched the greater the perturbation of all concerned.

I sincerely wish that the average man or woman would take as much interest in the question of better vision for the American public as they do in the news accounts of the oil scandal.

Neglected vision is a disgrace to its victims because in the majority of cases it may be so easily remedied by properly prescribed Glasses.

Over twenty years' practical experience, together with the highest degree of professional skill and the enthusiastic endorsement of over 30,000 satisfied clients, is the basis of my appeal for your patronage.

Some homes just radiate cheerfulness and hospitality. It isn't furniture that does it, not necessarily. Sometimes a home with expensive furniture is a dull, gloomy place or else a gaudy one that makes you tired. The proper kind of lights have something to do with it at night, but in daytime and evening the all-important thing is Wall Paper. Why?—because Wall Paper is the background of your home. Do away with shabby Wall Paper or frowsy looking Wall Paper. At very little cost you can put fresh paper on your walls that will fairly make them smile back at you. Our earnest suggestion is that you come in and look over our array of display screens. Every sample is shown in large size so that you can see how it would actually appear on the wall. Every sample has the price in large figures. We do not annoy you with over-attention. Just come in and look around—we'll be glad to serve you when you ask us.

REED DECLARES DAUGHERTY WILL BE IMPEACHED

Process May Have to Go Farther Than That, He Intimates in Campaign Speech at Springfield.

PRESIDENT BITTERLY SCORED FOR INACTION

Senator, in Hostile Territory, Repeats His Attacks on McAdoo and Others in Oil Scandal.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 1.—"I say there will be an impeachment of Mr. Daugherty and I'm not sure but the impeachment process will have to go further before we are done," said Senator Reed in a speech here tonight, after an extended criticism of President Coolidge for failure to act in the naval oil reserve scandal.

"I said on the floor of the Senate when this matter first came out that the Republican party should not be indicted," he said. "I said the party could not be responsible for the act of some scoundrel. I felt sure the President would do his duty. That was a good many days ago. Silent Cal has sat silent. The time has come when I must call for an accounting."

The President's refusal to officially receive the Senate resolution demanding the resignation of Secretary of the Navy Denby was condemned. Developments in the oil scandal were traced step by step, by the Senator, who frequently interposed the remark, "and Silent Cal continued to sit silent."

Reed declared old-guard Republicans were refusing to act with regard to demands for the resignation of Attorney-General Daugherty because they want time to develop a defense for the party.

"In what I have said," Reed said, "I do not want to be charged as indicting the Republican party as a whole; the rank and file of its members are just as thoroughly outraged as are we Democrats. Some of the Republican Senators, notably the group headed by La Follette and Borah, have been active and insistent. They have done all they could do."

The Senator declared Missouri's delegation to the Democratic national convention must be either for him or McAdoo. "There isn't any middle ground," he said. "The issues are drawn; it must be either McAdoo or Reed." The first enthusiastic applause came when Reed mentioned his opposition to the League of Nations.

Convention Hall was filled. Seats for 3000 were occupied and several rows of persons were standing behind them.

Says Republicans 'Packed' Meeting

Greene County Republicans "packed" the Senator Reed meeting in Convention Hall here tonight, C. W. Greenwade, chairman of the Greene County Democratic Committee, charged in a verbal statement to reporters this evening.

"More Republicans than Democrats are in the hall," he said. "Republican organization workers have been busy for 10 days, they have used the poll books and called up all Republicans who have telephones, urging them to attend the Reed Meeting."

"They certainly did," coroborated Mrs. Dan Rainey, member of the Democratic County Committee, who heard Greenwade's charge. "My husband is a Republican and he had three telephone calls from Republican workers urging him to go to the Reed meeting." Greenwade is a member of the executive committee of "Greene County Democrats Opposed to Reed." Mrs. Rainey is a member of the finance committee of the same organization. Ewing Y. Mitchell, Springfield lawyer and widely known anti-Reed Democrat, is its chairman. Mitchell said he had not heard of the charge made by Greenwade. It was denied by O. E. Gorman, chairman of the Greene County Republican Committee.

"I don't deny that Republicans may have received calls," Gorman

The Senator declared Missouri's delegation to the Democratic national convention must be either for him or McAdoo. "There isn't any middle ground," he said. "The issues are drawn; it must be either McAdoo or Reed." The first enthusiastic applause came when Reed mentioned his opposition to the League of Nations.

Convention Hall was filled. Seats for 3000 were occupied and several rows of persons were standing behind them.

Says Republicans 'Packed' Meeting

Greene County Republicans "packed" the Senator Reed meeting in Convention Hall here tonight, C. W. Greenwade, chairman of the Greene County Democratic Committee, charged in a verbal statement to reporters this evening.

"More Republicans than Democrats are in the hall," he said. "Republican organization workers have been busy for 10 days, they have used the poll books and called up all Republicans who have telephones, urging them to attend the Reed Meeting."

"They certainly did," corroborated Mrs. Dan Rainey, member of the Democratic County Committee, who heard Greenwade's charge. "My husband is a Republican and he had three telephone calls from Republican workers urging him to go to the Reed meeting." Greenwade is a member of the executive committee of "Greene County Democrats Opposed to Reed." Mrs. Rainey is a member of the finance committee of the same organization. Ewing Y. Mitchell, Springfield lawyer and widely known anti-Reed Democrat, is its chairman. Mitchell said he had not heard of the charge made by Greenwade. It was denied by O. E. Gorman, chairman of the Greene County Republican Committee.

"I don't deny that Republicans may have received calls," Gorman said. "But I am sufficiently close to the organization to know Republican workers didn't do it. Some of the Democrats favorable to Reed may have."

Pro-Reed Democrats likewise deny knowledge of telephone calls.

In Most Hostile Territory.

Reed today entered territory more hostile than any he has yet found.

Anti-Reeders claim Green County is more bitterly opposed to him than in August, 1922, when Breckinridge Long carried it, 3817 to 1339. Sixty-nine of 82 members of the County Committee are against Reed, said Mitchell and Greenwade. They claim the 24 Greene County delegates to the State convention will be a unit against Reed.

Anti-Reed slates of delegates to the county convention will be put up in each township next Thursday and will be pledged to the unit rule in the county convention. That will shut out any Reed delegate who might slip into the county convention.

Members of the Executive Committee of the "Greene County Democrats opposed to Reed" are: Mrs. Mary Lee Blankinship, Dr. E. L. Beals, Mrs. J. W. Calvin, Harry D. Durst, Mrs. J. M. Host, the Rev. H. C. Green, Mrs. Pope, G. Myers, Greenwade, Mrs. Katheryn T. Parsons, Judge John T. Sturgis, Mrs. Omar E. Risser, former State Senator F. M. McDavid, Mrs. Joe Turk and former State Senator Kirk Hawkins.

Pro-Reed Democrats, headed by John J. Schneider, secretary of the County Committee, admit the Senator is against the most organized opposition in the State here.

"They have a majority of the committee against us," Schneider said, "and may get the county delegation. But Reed is getting stronger every day. Many men who were for Long two years ago, now are for Reed, but they don't want us to use their names."

Eugene Everett and D. J. Landers, with Schneider, are the backbone of the pro-Reed element here.

Says Reed Is Best Fitted Democrat

Senator Reed is better fitted for the office of President than any other Democratic aspirant, the Springfield Republican declared in an editorial this morning. E. E. E. McJimsey, former candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship, is its editor. The editorial, in part, follows:

"Whether or not you approve of his every act and utterance, you must, if you are fair, concede that United States Senator James A. Reed is one of the outstanding impressive big men of the nation today. In the judgment of many he is the tallest man in sheer intellectuality in either branch of the National Congress."

"It's an absolute falsehood," Senator Reed said tonight when asked concerning the charge by Frank Farris, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, that he tried to prevent inquiry into the purchase of the home of E. L. "Liv" Morse at Excelsior Springs by the Government for a hospital.

Reed's itinerary for next week is: Monday, Kennett, 10 a. m., and Carruthersville, 7:30 p. m.; Tuesday, Mexico, 7:30 p. m.; Wednesday, Fayette, 7:30 p. m.; Thursday, Lexington, 7:30 p. m.

Farris and Hay to Speak Against Reed at Hannibal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HANNIBAL, Mo., March 1.—Senator Frank H. Farris of Rolla, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and Charles M. Hay of St. Louis will be speakers at an anti-Reed meeting to be held here next Wednesday night, it was announced today by Democrats who are leading the fight to prevent the control of Marion County by supporters of the Senator in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. They will speak in the same theater in which Reed opened his "up-state" campaign last Monday night.

The meeting will be two days prior to the local ward meetings on Friday night, in which spirited contests are expected preliminary to the county convention, the following day.

REED "ESSENTIALLY FALSE, A DISCREDIT TO PARTY," WILSON WROTE IN 1922

Letter of Former President to Long Said Senator "Can Have No True Allegiance to Anything."

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—A letter in which Woodrow Wilson described Senator Reed of Missouri as a man "essentially false" and "a discredit to the party to which he pretends to belong," was given out here today by Breckinridge Long, who was Third Assistant Secretary of State under Wilson, and is now fighting Reed's presidential aspirations.

The letter was written March 28, 1922, to Long, who was then contesting with Reed for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Missouri.

Long made the letter public without comment. The "Mr. Roberts" referred to is John C. Roberts, one of the owners of the St. Louis Star, and "Mr. Fordyce" is Sam W. Fordyce Jr., an active supporter of Reed in the 1922 campaign and in the Senator's present battle with the McAdoo forces in Missouri.

Fordyce, in seeking to get Roberts to abate the Star's opposition to Reed, is understood to have expressed the opinion that the former President had modified his hostile attitude toward the Missouri Senator. Long, as the letter indicates, undertook to obtain tangible evidence to the contrary, and the letter from Wilson to Long was the result.

"False to His Own Character."

In full, the letter is as follows:

WOODROW WILSON,
Washington, D. C.,
March 28, 1922.

My Dear Long: You may say to Mr. Roberts (to whom I hope you will feel at liberty to show this letter) that I consider Reed my implacable opponent in everything that is honorable and enlightened. He has been false to his own character on the few occasions when he has affected to support me, and has generally opposed me. I regard him as a discredit to the party to which he pretends to belong, but to which he has no true allegiance. He can, indeed, have no true allegiance to anything or anybody, for he is essentially false. I have never dealt with a man who so thoroughly and completely earned my distrust, and I should consider it a discredit to the party and an unhappy omen for the country if he should be returned to the Senate.

"Time to Put on War Paint."

These are strong words, but this is a critical time when weak and bland words are faithless words. It is high time to put on our war paint and fight for the right things, and I for one mean to do so without compromise of any kind or degree.

I am sure that both you and Mr. Roberts, since you know me, will understand the spirit in which I have thus sought to reveal my whole mind. Parenthetically, Mr. Fordyce is not only not in my confidence, but is in no way in a position to interpret my thought or any part of my purpose.

Cordially and faithfully yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

"Seriously Doubts if Wilson Wrote Letter," Fordyce Says.

Samuel W. Fordye Jr., when told last evening of the contents of the letter made public by Long, said:

"I seriously doubt if President Wilson ever wrote a letter to Breckinridge Long, and I would have to see the letter before I would believe Mr. Wilson wrote it.

"I never asked John C. Roberts to support Senator Reed, and I never was in President Wilson's confidence and never said to anyone that I was. It is strange that Long now produces a letter purporting to be from Mr. Wilson, after Mr. Wilson's death, when the letter is dated 1922. I doubt if Mr. Wilson wrote such a letter, because had Long received it he would have used it in the 1922 campaign.

"It is significant that Long waited until after Mr. Wilson's death to bring out something purporting to be by the former President."

John C. Roberts said last night that he had known of the existence of a letter from Woodrow Wilson to Long, but that he did not think Long had ever shown it to him. He said he did not remember very definitely about the conversation between himself and Fordyce, which appears to have furnished the occasion for the correspondence.

During the Reed-Long primary contest of 1922, it was generally understood among Long's acquaintances that he had received a letter from Woodrow Wilson, strongly condemning Reed, but that he did not feel at liberty to give the text for publication. Long was asked for the letter by reporters, but would not give it out.

If Pimples Mar Complexion

Drive Them Off With Stuart's Calcium Wafers—Their Action in the Skin Is a Wonder of Accomplishment.

Many girls with a pimpled skin do not realize that face creams and such things are merely to protect, not to remake the skin. What you must do is to supply the skin with its much needed calcium, and this you do with Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They go directly into the blood and to the skin to clear away those embarrassing pimples, blackheads and other such blemishes. It is not a round-about way. You get results every minute. You are sure of it in a few hours. They clear the blood, they drive from the system the impurities that cause pimples. The calcium goes to the skin, acts as a tonic, stimulates the tiny nerves, pores, and blood vessels to renewed activity, and lo! before you realize it the skin is peachy, firm, clear, and the picture of a sweet, rosy complexion. Get a 60 cent box today of Stuart's Calcium Wafers in any drug store and you will have a real beauty maker to clear your skin of pimples, redness, roughness and such destroyers of beauty. A free sample package will be sent to you by mail if you will send your name and address to F. A. Stuart Co., 638 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

DOHENY OUSTED BY COAST DEMOCRATS

California Committee Removes Him From Office and Indorses McAdoo.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—A motion removing E. L. Doheny as second vice president of the organization was adopted today by the Democratic State Central Committee in meeting here. The motion also included a request to Doheny that he resign from the committee.

There was a loud chorus of "ayes" when the motion was put to a vote, and also many "noes," but the affirmative vote carried easily.

The vote was taken after a debate in which Doheny was characterized as "one of the ring leaders in alleged corruption now being unearthed in Washington."

On the other hand pleas were made by certain committeemen that no action be taken by the committee until "Doheny has had a chance to defend himself."

After an afternoon of heated argument, the committee adopted the report of a special committee, under which the candidacy of William G. McAdoo for the presidency would be supported by delegates from California to the Democratic National convention.

GIRL WHO FELL 8 STORIES HAD SPELLS OF FAINTING

Chicago Department Store Owner's Daughter Dies Before Doctor Can Be Called.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Miss Ruth Ethel Hillman, 25, daughter of Edward Hillman, owner of Hillman's Department Store, fell to her death today from a window of her bed chamber in the family suite on the eighth floor of the Belmont Hotel, at Sheridan road and Belmont avenue.

Relatives believe the girl, who was subject to fainting spells, was stricken while looking out the window. In the room with her at the time was Miss Merle Hammond of Milwaukee, her traveling companion.

Miss Hillman was alive when Miss Hammond and hotel attendants found her a few minutes after the accident, but died before the hotel physician could be called.

Her parents, who were asleep at the time of the accident, and her brother, Edward Hillman Jr., were not notified of her death.

PHYSICIAN, HURT BY AUTO JAN. 30, DIES

Dr. Paul Weeke's Death Thirtieth Automobile Fatality This Year.

Dr. Paul Weeke, 68, 2608 Locust street, died yesterday at City Hospital of internal injuries suffered Jan. 30 when run down by an automobile. His death was the thirtieth automobile fatality of the year, compared with 21 in the first two months of 1923.

Dr. Weeke was crossing Washington boulevard at Jefferson avenue when hit by an automobile driven by James Harp, a negro, 27, 410 North Levee, who was turning west into Washington. Harp is in jail on a charge of felonious wounding.

Police searched 24 hours for two young women who walked into Central District Station at 1:30 p. m. yesterday and gave their version of an automobile accident at 1 p. m., Friday, in which Jacob Doll Sr., 63, 4059 Phillips avenue, was seriously hurt.

The women—Mrs. Florence Harrington and Mrs. Bobby Louise Russell—each 24, and each a telephone operator at city hospital, took Doll to the hospital in Mrs. Harrington's automobile and explained that they had picked him up at Ninth and Chestnut streets after he was hit by another machine. They repeated this to the police.

Doll is suffering from fractured ribs and a probable fractured skull. All he knows is that an automobile hit him. Edward P. Walsh, United Railways attorney, told police he saw the women pick Doll up and that one of them said their car had hit him.

The women were scheduled to report for work at 3 p. m., two hours after the accident. They explained that they just "felt like laying off." They were ordered held for the Circuit Attorney.

TRUE LIFE STORY OF WOODROW WILSON

noisy friction, and when it is going to storm the strop gets heavy and the razor sticks."

On the 3d of March, 1913, the day before Mr. Wilson became President, he laughingly told his friends that, judging by his razor strop, it would be a clear day for his inauguration. And it was.

In one sense the Wilson family life was exclusive. Tom, Dick and Harry were not invited into the home, or to the table, or taken into full friendship in the group. The home was considered a sacred place where none but those worthy by culture, character and breeding were urged to stay. The family was not the least bit snobbish. It was simply selective of its companions. Once a person was taken into the home, the bars were completely down. There was neither reserve nor limit in the welcome, the hospitality and the friendship bestowed. Even when he was President, Mr. Wilson seemed to give his complete confidence to anyone within the family circle. Problems of state, his opinions of men and affairs — everything — were discussed with the utmost abandon and without the slightest hint that it was being said in confidence. Mr. Wilson held in good faith to the old Southern idea that confidence given in the home or at the table was inviolable. Many of those who were guests at his table often gasped with amazement—almost with fear—at the frankness manifested by Mr. Wilson.

The reason, of course, that Woodrow Wilson was so unreserved in his conversation was that guests were not invited indiscriminately to the White House. Neither Mr. Wilson nor the members of his family looked upon the Executive Mansion itself as a public institution, but as their temporary home. The executive offices, connected with the White House by a covered corridor, were different. There Woodrow Wilson was President of the United States acting the role of public official, but in the White House itself he was a Virginia gentleman entertaining his chosen guests, to whom his hospitality and confidence were given without restraint.

No such attitude, of course, was noticeable in the state affairs in the White House. Official dinners were rather formal. Receptions were much the same as under previous administrations. Musicales and teas required by official custom were few in number and simply polite affairs. The Wilsons were always gracious, but they did not disclose the same intimacy then as on less public occasions.

(Tomorrow's chapter will tell why Woodrow Wilson never invited members of Congress to dine at the White House.)

PETITION AGAINST CANDY FIRM

Bankruptcy Action Filed by Creditors of Nancy Lee Shops, Inc.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in Federal Court against the Nancy Lee Shops, Inc., 2016 Market street, which operates a string of candy stores here.

The petitioning creditors and the amounts of their claims are the All Paper Box Co., $374.15; J. F. Conrad Grocery Co., $143.86, and Isler-Tompsett Lithographing Co., $144.16. They alleged there are 12 other creditors and that the company committed an act of bankruptcy in January and February by paying off certain claims in preference to the claims of the petitioners.

Ira W. Perry of 6125 Washington boulevard, president of the candy company, could not be reached last night for a statement.

4000 Negro Children at Last of Free Concerts

Audience Largest and Best Behaved of All Which Have Attended Symphony Programs of Post-Dispatch Gift Series.

ON the first floor of the Missouri Theater, 2000 negro children sat so noiselessly for half an hour yesterday morning, before the beginning of the fifth and last of the Post-Dispatch children's free concerts, that one fancied the seats were empty. It was only when the eyes became accustomed to the gloom that they perceived row after row of children, waiting silent and motionless for the Symphony Orchestra to begin its program.

The concert was to start at 10:30, but the children began arriving long before 10 o'clock. At that hour ushers commenced guiding the overflow into the balcony. The well-dressed and quiet youngsters came mostly by street car, but there were numerous arrivals in automobiles. A striking feature was a parade of 19 taxicabs, striped in red in black, which drove in a line along Grand boulevard and disembarked nearly 100 members of the Boys' Club of the Elleardsville Y. M. C. A., at Pendleton and St. Ferdinand avenue. The attendance was approximately 4000, the largest of the entire series of concerts. It was also the most orderly and attentive audience of them all.

Not One Attempted to Leave.

As the musicians filed on the stage the children broke from their uncanny silence with handclapping, which was redoubled when Rudolph Ganz, director of the Orchestra, walked to his stand. Thereafter, though there was applause and laughter, the ushers and monitors had nothing to do in the way of maintaining order. So far as could be seen, not a child attempted to leave before the end of the program. The only chattering occurred during the playing of the Largo from Dvorak's "New World" symphony, parts of which it was difficult to hear.

Without introductory remarks, Mr. Ganz launched the orchestra upon the sonorous melodies of Elgar's march, "Pomp and Circumstance," which was heard with such close attention that there was scarcely even a cough. After the applause had died away, the director said:

"We of the Symphony Orchestra are glad to have you with us. It looks as if you would make the same record as you did last season, when the colored children were the best behaved audience of the year."

Von Suppe's overture, "Poet and Peasant" was received with similar absorption, except that a passage for solo violoncello and harp so pleased some of the children that they could not wait to applaud until the end of the piece.

Instruments Introduced One by One

Next in order was an exposition of the entire list of orchestral instruments, which the director described as composing a family with four branches—string, woodwind, brass and percussion instruments. Michel Gusikoff, concert master of the orchestra, demonstrated the violin, sounding its open strings, playing scales and a snatch of melody showing how the instrument may be plucked like a banjo or played with a mute.

'Whenever you wish to rock a baby to sleep, use the sordine," remarked Mr. Ganz, amid laughter. The viola was introduced as a larger brother of the violin, about 15 years old, "so that it is beginning to have a bass voice." The violoncello was presented as a still older and fatter brother, "who goes to the university;" and the double-bass as the scolding old uncle of the family. As the last instrument was lifted into view, several of the children exclaimed "Oh, my! and "Whew!"

Then followed similar demonstrations of the piccolo, flute, oboe, English horn, clarinet, bass clarinet, bassoon and double-bassoon, each introduced by Mr. Ganz with some pleasantry which kept the children tittering and laughing. He said that the bassoon looked like a cigar, but that it couldn't be smoked; and that the great double bassoon, at the sight of which the children again exclaimed, was like a cannon, or else an elephant.

Harp Won Most Applause.

The trumpet sounded several signals, and then the French horn quartet played a fragment of harmony, at which the little listeners applauded at length. The French horn, said the director, looks like 'crowded up spaghetti," and if unwound would be 16 feet long. The trombone, "which is nice and shiny," displayed its quality; and then the tuba was played through a phenomenal range of four octaves. It blared several notes when Mr. Ganz asked the performer to make his instrument scold. The harp won the longest applause of all, after which H. Max Steindel and Mme. Graziella Pampari played "The Swan," by Saint-Saens, for violoncello and harp.

In the percussion section, the players exhibited one by one the kettledrums, bass drum, cymbals, military drum, xylophone, tambourine, castanets, triangle, sandpaper, sleighbells and chimes.

"Now," said the director in conclusion, "you have made a beginning of acquaintance with the single instruments of the orchestra. You will find that the more you know about the individual instruments the more you will appreciate symphonic music."

Dvorak's Largo was introduced with the statement that its composer, during a visit to America, became so impressed with the beauty of the negro spirituals that he used one of the best of them, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," in his "New World" symphony. Grainger's lively "Shepherd's Hey" recaptured the children's interest. The program ended with Victor Herbert's "American Fantasy." It ends with "The Star Spangled Banner," at the first note of which the children rose to their feet, and 4000 mellow voices joined the orchestra with the words of the anthem.

COMMENT IN ENGLAND OVER PROPOSED SALE OF U. S. SHIPS

Probably to Prove They Can't Be Disposed Of, Cunard Line Chairman's View.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 1.—British shipping circles are much interested in the announcement of the United States Shipping Board's intention to sell its fleet. Some British shipping men are skeptical over the appearance of buyers.

Sir Thomas Royden, chairman of the Cunard Steamship Co., is quoted by the Daily Mail as saying:

'I don't know what the board is after. Maybe they simply want proof that they cannot sell the ships and therefore have no alternative but to run them."

Editorially the Mail says:

"The American state shipping enterprise has been one long record of muddle and waste. It accords exactly with the similar experience here when during the war our Government department embarked upon vast trading schemes."

Says the Daily News:

"Britannia is to continue to rule the waves, or anyway the Union Jack is not immediately to be displaced by the Stars and Stripes."

Child's Tongue Shows if Bilious, Constipated

Give "California Fig Syrup"

Even Cross, Feverish, Sick Children Love its Taste and it Never Fails to Empty Little Bowels

If your child is listless, full of cold, has colic, or if the stomach is sour, breath bad, tongue coated, a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" will quickly start liver and bowel action. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works the constipation poison, sour bile and waste right out and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today may save a sick child tomorrow. It never cramps or overacts. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

AUTO MEN TO AID STRANDED SINGER IN "COMEBACK"

Two St. Louis Dealers to Finance Concert at Odeon for Margaret Cody, Following Fiasco.

Margaret Cody is preparing to capitalize the publicity she has attained here through her disastrous concert venture at the Odeon last Thursday, when three policemen and one musician, none of whom paid admission, comprised the audience in the hall, which she had rented for $250.

Two automobile dealers, F. C. McDonald and Horace F. Smith, attracted by her plight and desiring to give her a chance to show what ability she may possess, have agreed to guarantee all expenses of a concert for her at the scene of her late assay, the Odeon, at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday. Admission will be 50 cents. The hall has been engaged for $350.

Yesterday motion picture theater and other amusement men besieged Miss Cody at the St. Louis Hotel, Fourteenth and Chestnut streets, haunt of burlesque actors and other theatrical people, with offers to arrange concerts or "movie-house" singing engagements while the name of Cody remained fresh in the public mind.

Apparently, the promoters were not concerned with trying out the voice that its owner describes as coloratura soprano. One amusement man, known as Stanley Raffles, who provided hotel shelter for her because she was "broke," arranged to act as her manager.

Changed Her Hotel Often.

Miss Cody came here from St. Paul, Minn., to make her debut as a concert singer, with the hope of breaking into opera in New York eventually. She had some of the right ideas about arranging for a concert—such as getting a big hall—but she seemed to fail in advertising. Not that she didn't try to get publicity.

Last Sunday she made her way into the Post-Dispatch editorial rooms and announced: "I am Gabrielle Gray, press agent for Miss Margaret Cody, the coloratura soprano. She is over at the hotel now with her monkey and her parrot. You know her? One of the country's great singers."

Miss Cody stayed at downtown hotels for a time, then went to one in the West End, so she could get a piano to practice. She left there after a night, owing her lodging, but declares she will pay it. Thursday night she spent at a downtown hotel, which she left because she ran out of money. Friday she induced Chief of Police O'Brien to telegraph her husband, Emilio Nicolia, janitor in the Federal Building at St. Paul, to send money, but he didn't respond.

Husband a Former Soldier.

Miss Cody—she prefers her maiden name as a stage name—said she married Nicolia three years ago after she met him at Fort Snelling, Minn., when he was a soldier. He was born in Milan, Italy, she said, and is a singer, too. She was born in St. Paul and has studied music most of her life, she declared.

Miss Cody admitted that she had been a patient in Elgin State Hospital, Elgin, Ill., for "about a month" for treatment for a "nervous trouble." Hospital records show that she was there from March, 1920, to February, 1921, for treatment for dementia praecox, a form of mental trouble, and was paroled to her brother, Edward F. Cody of St. Paul. The records show her age as 35.

MOTORISTS COMPLAIN ABOUT CONDITION OF CLAYTON ROAD

Holes in Pavement Have Become Steadily Worse Since First of the Year.

Complaints are being made about the unusually bad condition of Clayton road, between Pennsylvania avenue and North and South road, St. Louis County.

Since the first of the year, motorists say, this condition has grown steadily worse. There are innumerable small holes in the surface, which in some places cannot be dodged. The surface is of gravel and a bituminous compound, which made it quite smooth when new.

There have been widespread complaints about the condition of roads throughout the county. County Highway Engineer Jablonsky, recently appointed by the Governor, has been familiarizing himself with the requirements of the roads and has said that he is awaiting authority of the County Court to make improvements.

Motorists using Clayton road have noticed that the stretch between the city limits and Bellevue avenue is acquiring a metropolitan aspect, except for the street pavement. This stretch has facing it the new St. Mary's Hospital, Christian Brothers' College, a church, stores and apartments, nearly all of which have been built in the last two years. Clayton road, in this vicinity, is the boundary between Richmond Heights and Clayton.

STRIKING BUILDING WORKERS SAID TO HAVE FOUND JOBS

Union Men Say 90 Per Cent of Contractors Met Laborers and Hoisting Engineers' Demand.

To enforce demands for increased wages, union building laborers and hoisting engineers failed to report for work yesterday on a few construction jobs of contractors who had refused to grant the demands.

Less than 100 men were involved, it was said at headquarters of the Building Laborers' Union, and these were given employment elsewhere.

The building laborers had asked for 20 cents an hour increase, from 67½ to 87½ cents, and hoisting engineers for an increase of 25 cents an hour from $1.25 to $1.50 an hour.

It was said in union circles that the new scales demanded were being paid by more than 90 per cent of the contractors, although new contracts for the new scales had been rejected in most cases.

Wrong Address of Convict.

Residents of 1231 Walton avenue declared yesterday that Alfred Nudelman, sentenced Friday to eight years' imprisonment for highway robbery, did not reside at that address, as Post-Dispatch stories of his conviction had stated. Nudelman had formerly lived elsewhere in that block, they said.

REPRIMANDED FOR REPORT ON BURGLARY

Sergt. John Roach Censured by Police Board for Discrediting Victim's Story.

Police Sergeant John Roach was severely reprimanded yesterday by order of the Board of Police Commissioners for not having been broad-minded in a certain dealing with a citizen.

His refusal to believe the report of William Bauer, who operates a hardware store at 2105 South Jefferson avenue, that he was the victim of a burglary and holdup last October caused the trouble. Roach's doubt in this case prejudiced an insurance company.

Once before Sergeant Roach had aroused prejudice. About two years ago, when head of the gambling squad, he raided a poker game at Hotel Claridge, in which "Hank" Weeke and other Republican politicians were playing. So much prejudice followed the raid that Roach was removed from leadership of the gambling squad.

Roach Remains Skeptical.

When Roach arrived at Bauer's hardware store last fall he found that the supposed burglar had cut a panel from a back door. Examining the panel the Sergeant fired a suspicious question at Bauer.

"How could a burglar reach through and slide that bolt back? It's too far to reach."

"This wasn't a burglar," Bauer protested. "He was a holdup man. He hid in my store after going through the back passageway and stuck me up. Took $305."

Even then Sergeant Roach was unsatisfied. He forced admission from Bauer that he did not carry burglary insurance, but did hold a policy protecting him in a case of holdup.

Insurance Denied Him.

"Accommodating chap, that man," Roach commented. "He must have known that he'd have to hold you up after entering as a burglar in order for you to get insurance."

So Roach went back to headquarters and wrote out his opinion.

"Little credence can be placed in Bauer's report," he indited.

The insurance company got hold of the report and refused to repay Bauer the $305, with the result that Bauer's friends complained, an investigation was made and the board decided that Sergeant Roach should have acknowledged the plausibility of Bauer's report.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you 90 per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

VANDIVER QUESTIONS REED'S ACQUAINTANCE WITH THE TRUTH

Columbia Man Denies He Has Deserted McAdoo and Assails Senate.

A story, printed in the Post-Dispatch under a Columbia date line, Feb. 28, which said that former United States Subtreasurer W. D. Vandiver, of Columbia, had deserted the McAdoo-for-President movement in Missouri, "must have come from the Reed camp, where truth is a stranger," says Vandiver. The Columbian wrote a letter to Senator Reed, who had referred to Vandiver and others in a speech as like "fleas hopping off a dog that had been kerosened."

Among other things Vandiver said to Reed:

"I thank you for your apt illustration. Today's paper reports your mentioning my name with others as deserting McAdoo like 'fleas hopping off of a dog that had been kerosened.' It would be fine if it were true, but you and your managers have a strange way of guessing at truth and missing it every time. In fact, you have but little acquaintance with truth. But I did once 'hop off' when I lost confidence in a man that I had supported and wanted to support again.

"When Count Bernstorff was ordered to leave America it was reported that Germany was spending fifty millions of dollars in propaganda in this country and William Randolph Hearst being under investigation, a certain United States Senator rushed to his defense; I began to smell the odor of something not American. Then later on when the German-American Alliance formally christened this same Senator as their candidate the fumes of German incense were worse than the smear of oil, and I was one of a quarter of a million Missouri Democrats who 'hopped off of this candidate like fleas deserting a kerosened dog'—and its name was James A. Reed."

BYFIELD-CANDLER SUIT NEAR TRIAL

Woman, Accusing Soft Drink Man's Son of Attack on Ship, Asks for $100,000.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ga., March 1.—Trial of the suit of Mrs. Clyde K. Byfield, of Atlanta, for $100,000, against Walter T. Candler, millionaire sportsman and son of Asa G. Candler Sr., is on the calendar of the De Kalb County Superior Court for Tuesday. Attorneys today announced they were ready for trial.

Mrs. Byfield, in a petition filed with the court, alleged that Candler attacked her in a stateroom she occupied on the liner Berengaria in July, 1922, when Candler, his two young daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Byfield were enroute to Europe. The petition declared t as a result, Mrs. Byfield suffered "intense humiliation and chagrin and became seriously ill."

Candler denied any improper conduct, according to a suit filed by him against Byfield, the husband of the plaintiff, in which he sought to recover $25,000 alleged to have been obtained from him by the husband the morning following the alleged incident on shipboard.

On the Sixth Day Out.

According to Mrs. Byfield's petition, the incident which became the grounds for the $100,000 damage suit, occurred when the Berengaria was on her sixth day out—at 2:30 o'clock in the morning of July 17—and the last night before the liner docked at Cherbourg.

There was the usual gaiety and merrymaking aboard the ship on the preceding night, Mrs. Byfield stated, champagne being served in moderate quantity. She had put the children to bed and with Byfield retired to their stateroom. Her husband went on deck, she alleged, but she did not accompany him.

It was at this juncture, the petition continued, that Candler entered her stateroom. Her screams, she asserted, brought her husband, who engaged in a fist fight with Candler.

"Committed No Wrong."

In Candler's answer, he denied persuading the Byfields to accompany him on the trip to France. He described events of the evening, maintaining he "committed no wrong."

Candler set out that he "became intoxicated" while a member of a dinner party which included the Byfields and three other persons. He said he did not remember how he came to be in the stateroom with Mrs. Byfield, and alleged that, almost immediately after he entered the room Byfield rushed in and shouted:

"Now I've caught you! I have been suspecting this for six months. You must pay me $25,000."

Candler admitted he and Byfield exchanged blows and stated that Byfield struck his wife, also. He said he submitted to Byfield's demand and wrote him a check for $25,000 while he was in a dazed condition.

Mrs. Byfield is in her early twenties and on at least one occasion has been given public recognition as a beauty. She is the daughter of a city detective. Her husband is head of an automobile agency. Candler is a member of one of Atlanta's wealthiest families and son of the soft drink magnate, who recently won the decision in the $500,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Onezima De Bouchel, of New Orleans. Mrs. Asa G. Candler Sr., also is to appear in court next week to answer charges growing out of a raid on a downtown apartment in which she and two men were arrested in a room in whcih there is alleged to have been liquor.

The woman who rents the apartment in which Mrs. Asa G. Candler Sr. was arrested on Feb. 9, in company with W. J. Stoddard and G. W. Keeling, Atlanta business men, will be called into police court as a witness at the trial of the case pending against Mrs. Candler and her two companions. Police Chief James Beavers, in making this announcement, also said that the trial plans had been changed and that the cases would be called at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, before Recorder Johnson.

REWARD IN SORORITY CASE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 1.—Prosecuting Attorney Rubey M. MAIL ROBBERS GET 25 YEARS

Five Members of Al Spencer Gang Convicted in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., March 1.—Twenty-five years' imprisonment in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth was the sentence imposed on five alleged members of the Al Spencer bandit gang, charged with robbing the mails on an M.-K.-T. passenger train near Okesa, last August. The jury in Federal Court returned its verdict early tonight.

The five defendants, Grover Durrell, George Curtis, Frank Nash, Earl Thayer and Riley Dixon, were specifically charged in two indictments with having assaulted postal clerks, with intent to rob the mails, and with having robbed the mails and jeopardized the lives of the clerks through the use of dangerous weapons. All pleaded not guilty. Counsel for the defense announced the case would be appealed.

Eye Service That Satisfies

In a survey of industrial plants of U. S., it was found that of 42,000,000 workers, 25,000,000 have defective Eyes. Of the 25,000,000 school children in the U. S., a still larger percentage have impaired vision. Most of these could be made vastly more efficient in their work and studies at a trifling cost.

FORBES CHARGES 'REAL CROOKS' ARE SHIELDED

Indicted Former Veterans' Bureau Head Says He Will Name "High Individual."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Severely denouncing witnesses before the Chicago Grand Jury that indicted him for conspiracy and bribery in connection with his administration of the Veterans' Bureau, Charles R. Forbes declared in two statements issued from his attorney's office today that he was the victim of a "frame-up," and that he was prepared to name a "high individual unoficially connected with the Government," who, he charged, "laid the plot."

After an all-day conference with his attorney, James S. Easby-Smith, it was announced that the ground work for Forbes' defense was being laid and a list of witnesses being considered. Friends of Forbes indicated that Mrs. Caroline Votaw, sister of the late President Harding, would be called as a witness, but Forbes' attorney declared he had made no plans to summon her.

Papers had not been served on Forbes late today, but it was announced that arrangements had been made for him to appear voluntarily Monday before a United States commissioner here and arrange bond. He would go to Chicago voluntarily, it was said, and not oppose extradition.

"Contemptible Frame-Up."

"If ever there was a contemptible frame-up," Forbes said to newspaper men in the presence of his attorney, "I am the man who was framed, and I know the exact day the plot was laid and the individual who directed the frame-up—he is a high individual, unofficially connected with the Government."

Forbes was particularly severe in his attacks on Elias H. Mortimer, named as the agent of Thompson & Black, contractors, and Brig.-Gen. Charles E. Sawyer. He attacked Mortimer's testimony before the Senate investigating committee and asked in one of his statements why he had not been indicted along with himself and J. W. Thompson of St. Louis.

In his second statement, in answer to questions put to him by newspaper men, Forbes referred to the visit to Chicago by Attorney-General Daugherty and questioned whether it was to assist the grand jury in returning indictments or for other reasons.

Replying to questions as to an alleged connection of Mortimer with the Department of Justice, Forbes interrogated:

"Why has he been at large on bail nearly a year under an indictment for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, returned in the United States District Court in New York, and no action taken in the case since he gave bond on June 3, 1923, Col. Tom Felder, Daugherty's associate in the Morse pardon case, appearing as his counsel?

Bitterly Denounces Gen. Sawyer.

"Why has not the Department of Justice taken action against him and certain officials for conspiracy to violate the liquor laws, based on documentary evidence furnished by me to the Department of Justice 18 months ago, the discovery of which was the first intimation I had of Mortimer's real character?"

Forbes charged that the "real crooks" were being shielded. He further charged that Gen. Sawyer's work in connection with the bureau's activities "had more to do with preventing proper administration of the laws for the relief of the former service man than all other causes combined." He made a bitter attack on the physician of the late President Harding, his charges ringing with invective and denunciation.

Forbes declared he had "great sympathy," however, for J. W. Thompson, one of those indicted, "because I believe he is as completely innocent as myself." He said his acquaintance with Thompson was slight and "purely social," having been introduced to him in the Veterans' Bureau by Mrs. Votaw.

"I am convinced that Mortimer's testimony relating to transactions between him and Thompson, of which I have no personal knowledge, are equally false," asserted Forbes.

WOMAN HELPS THE POLICE, THEN SPOILS EVERYTHING

Mother of McBride Brothers Silences Sons With Finger to Lips When Told to Urge Them to Confess.

After voluntarily surrendering to the police evidence against her two sons, charged with payroll robbery, Mrs. Minnie Ruwe, 2726 Arlington avenue, had to spend more than 16 hours in a police cell because she warned her sons not to incriminate themselves.

The prisoners, Lawrence and Berthold McBride, who were arrested at the Garrick Theater when they bought admission tickets with new $2 bills, later identified as part of $2100 taken in a payroll holdup last Monday, were led into the Captain's office at Central Police Station Friday night, shortly after their mother had called in response to a police invitation.

The police believed that Mrs. Ruwe, having turned over to them $140, including several new $2 bills, which her sons had given her, would assist them in getting the prisoners to "talk." They had asked her to counsel her sons to "tell everything."

"Your mother wants to talk to you," said Capt. Loepker, when the McBrides were confronted with their mother, and then he turned his back on them.

Mrs. Ruwe looked at her sons, touched her lips with her fingertip and then asked them how they felt. Capt. Loepker observed the mother's action. "So that is the way you feel about it," he said, and then ordered Mrs. Ruwe held for the Circuit Attorney.

Mrs. Ruwe spent the night in a cell in the police matron's quarters, but was released yesterday when the Circuit Attorney informed the police there was no law preventing a woman from counseling her sons to stand on their constitutional rights.

CARDS' RECEIVING STAFF CRIPPLED; SISLER RAPS OUT 2-BAGGER

Rickey's One Good Catcher Has Bad Knee

Only Recruit Catchers Available to Help Ambitious Pitchers Work Out at Training Camp.

SHERDEL TAKES HAND AT COACHING ROOKIES

Little Southpaw Lends Valuable Help to Assistant Manager Burt Shotton and His Staff.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 1.—After a week of training several Cardinal youngsters are beginning to stand out. Of the pitchers, Myrt Brown, Delany and Frankhouse appear to be steady and heavy hurlers.

Holm, converted into a catcher, seems to like his new job and shows real promise. "Wally" is the possessor of a great arm and might come through to the third-receiver plate. Farwell, the coast kid, also looks nicely behind the bat, as does Howe.

The veteran players are beginning to straggle into camp. Ray Blades arrived today. Monday will see them all here, and it will be quite a flock.

The condition of Clemons is rather discouraging. In fact, the Cardinals' one-man catching staff is on his last leg. In some manner "Tubby" twisted his right knee and it is swollen badly. Of course he is unable to work, but goes to the clubhouse daily for a "baking" at the hands of Trainer Samuels. The trainer is hopeful that Clemons will be ready for action within a week.

Sherdel Teaches Rookies Slow Ball.

Bill Sherdel setled down in an apartment on his arrival yesterday, and then hiked to the park carrying that slow ball of his with him. Seeing Bill throw, all the kid pitchers are trying to master the knack, and the good-natured Sherdel is helping them all he can. It is doubtful, however, if the kids will get very far in their attempts, for a slow one like Bill's is a gift, rather than an acquirement.

This Frankhouse is sure to be carefully groomed by Rickey. He pitched in the Canadian League last season and came to Syracuse and won several games toward the end of the campaign. He's not so very big, but what he lacks in height he makes up in muscled bulk. He is a right-hander and while he hasn't exactly "cut loose" as yet, he is very impressive in action. He might be just the man needed as a relief pitcher, should any of those used in that role last season be transferred.

S-h-h-h! Doak Makes a Hit.

The weather here has regained its last spring form and the players are relishing the heat. That's as necessary to the conditioning of a ball-tosser as a carburetor is to a motor. Bill Doak is hitting on all six and, in batting practice today, actually hit one safe. This may not be believed, but it really happened. The old chap is feeling much friskier than ever before. It used to be that Bill had a new complaint every day. Now, he not only has stopped complaining but is really boastful of his condition.

Haines also looks ripe for another great year. Sherdel hasn't got warmed up yet but declares himself rarin' to go. He certainly has no surplus pounds. Kane, the young shortstop purchased by the Cardinals from Birmingham, arrived today in time to take a short workout. He is a slim youngster, apparently very fast, and is given a fair chance to win out in the shortstop stakes. [illegible] practice will be held on the Sunday, following the custom of last

JOE KIRKWOOD WINS FOURTH SUCCESSIVE GOLF TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—Using his drive and putter as his most effective weapons, Joe Kirkwood, representing the Rockwood Hall Country Club, New York, clubbed 42 golfers into submission today in the final 36 holes of play in the 72-hole Mardi Gras open championship tournament at the New Orleans Country Club, winning easily with a score of 294.

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, who was running in third position yesterday, fell back to ninth place today by scoring 79 and 78 for a total of 306.

Ruth's Temperature Recedes; Physician Predicts Early Cure

By the Associated Press.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 1.

BABE RUTH, baseball's famous slugger, who suffered an attack of influenza here yesterday, was well on the road to recovery tonight, according to his physician, Dr. W. T. Wooten, who said the patient apparently had passed the serious stage of his illness.

Ruth's temperature had receded early tonight to approximately 100 degrees, the doctor said. His temperature was slightly above 103 degrees this morning.

No unfavorable symptoms have developed, Dr. Wooten stated. He said he thought Ruth would be "all right in a few days." The physician added, however, that he probably would advise his patient to "take things easy" for 10 days after he leaves his bed.

Greenleaf Drops 3 Games to Natalie

First Time in 4 Years Billiard Champion Has Lost 3 Out of 4.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 1.—Pasquale Natalie, of St. Louis, by winning both games from Ralph Greenleaf today in the Hudson Academy, made his record three out of four victories against the reigning pocket billiard league champion and accomplished a feat unequaled in the history of the game since Greenleaf ascended the throne four years ago.

The skillful Mound City star won the afternoon game, 100 to 53 in eighteen innings and annexed the final match 100 to 72 in ninteen innings.

Greenleaf in the afternoon led in the sixth inning, 42 to 23. Then Natalie flashed a run of 46 in the sixth and gained an advantage of 69 to 42 and was never headed.

In the evening game, Natalie got away to a 38 to 0 lead in ten innings. A run of 42 by the champion in the fourteenth enabled him to cut his lead somewhat, and in the sixteenth, Greenleaf was ahead 72 to 62, but here Natalie arose to the occasion and ran 28 in the eighteenth to win.

Score:

Afternoon—

Natalie—0, 0, 0, 16, 7, 46, 14, 0, 0, 0, 0, 10, 0, 2, 2, 0, 0, 3—100. Scratches—2; high run—46.

DEMPSEY IS RECOVERING RAPIDLY AND WILL LEAVE HOSPITAL SOON

NEW YORK, March 1. — Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, is recovering rapidly from the effects of a minor operation performed last Wednesday and will leave the Polyclinic Hospital next Monday or Tuesday, his manager, Jack Kearns, declared today in denying reports that the titleholder's illness had taken a turn for the worse.

"Statements that the champion has developed complications and may be forced to remain indefinitely at the hospital are entirely unfounded," asserted Kearns, who at the same time belittled reports that Dempsey's condition might jeopardize his ring program this year.

"There is nothing serious," he continued, "nor any developments calculated to cause the least apprehension. Jack has recovered steadily since Wednesday and sat up today for the first time. He probably will leave the hospital Monday or Tuesday, after which he will rest up before booking any engagements."

Kearns' statement was substantiated at the hospital, where it was said Dempsey was "resting comfortably."

Dempsey, Kearns disclosed, was operated upon for an abscess and hemorrhoids. He denied emphatically reports that the champion was suffering from any other ailments. Physicians, he said, were satisfied with Dempsey's progress and saw no cause for concern.

Callan Focus Of High School League Attack

Ultimatum Said to Insist on Central Coach's Retirement Before Athletic Activities Are Resumed.

By Dent McSkimming.

The storm center in the public High School Athletic League has shifted from William Thomas, star all-around athlete of Central High, recently declared ineligible, to Charles A. "Doc" Callan, coach of Central's basketball team. It was learned yesterday that the cessation of league basketball games, ordered 10 days ago by the school principals and still in force, was the direct result of an ultimatum served by McKinley High that unless Coach Callan was immediately removed, McKinley would refuse to compete against Central.

Callan has been the center of attack by rival schools for some time. The first game of the basketball season, won by Central from Yeatman, was protested because Callan was alleged to have walked onto the playing court during the progress of the game.

Later, Callan figured in an altercation with a McKinley High official and blows were struck. This incident occurred at the Cleveland auditorium, scene of the league games. Following this skirmish, Callan and the McKinley official were ordered by the league council not to attend the league games.

It is not known what specific charges McKinley has made, if any, against Coach Callan.

A meeting of the five high school principals will probably be held Monday or Tuesday to consider both the complications of the Thomas case and the later dispute over Callan. The principals have been out of the city for the past week, attending an educational convention at Chicago.

Asked Judge Calhoun's Advice.

It was learned yesterday that Central athletic authorities laid the facts in the Thomas case before Circuit Judge John W. Calhoun who, acting strictly in an unofficial advisory capacity, gave it as his opinion that the Athletic Council had violated its constitution in making the ineligibility of Thomas retroactive.

Judge Calhoun is said to have told Central High School heads that clause 5 of the constitution specifically provides that in order that a protest may be valid it must be made at least 48 hours before the contest in question. Disregarding this provision, the council reached back and took away from Central a football championship won last fall. No game last fall was protested because of the alleged ineligibility of Thomas. There is no provision in the constitution or bylaws which enables the council to take such action, Judge Calhoun advised Central authorities.

The forfeiture of the football championship is felt very keenly at Central because the action automatically deprives the school of the right to the Yale bowl, the most highly prized trophy in local high school athletics.

61 William Thomases Here.

Permission has been denied the press to study the evidence upon which Thomas was declared over age. It is said that a birth certificate showing that a William Tomas, son of Joseph and Margaret Tomas, was born in St. Louis on Nov. 2, 1902, was accepted by the league as evidence that William Thomas, son of Joseph and Agnes Thomas, was now over 21 years old. Central presented a letter from a clergyman in Sandoval, Ill., purporting to prove that William Thomas, baptised in Sandoval, was born on Nov. 2, 1904 and is therefore only 19 years old. The city directory lists 61 William Thomases.

Thomas, himself, has graduated from Central. He contends that the birth certificate is not his. "I am not over age. I have submitted the only evidence that I have to prove that I was really born in 1904. I do not wish to prolong this controversy. I only wish to repeat that I was 19 years old last November," he said in answer to a reporter's questioning.

KANSAS AGGIES WIN A CLOSE GAME FROM AMES

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., March 1.—The Kansas Aggies won a hard-fought Missouri Valley Conference basketball game from Iowa State here tonight, 24 to 20, when Bunker, Kansas forward, shot a field goal and Tebow, center, dropped two foul goals to break a 20-20 tie in the last few minutes of play.

Brownell Sets New World Pole Vault Record, Dan Kinsey Ties Hurdle Mark, at Illinois

Two St. Louisans Prove Individual Stars of Big Relay Carnival — Paul Jones of DePauw Wins All-Around Championship and Collapses.

By Associated Press.

URBANA, Ill., March 1.—A world's record was smashed, another was tied and six carnival records were shattered in the University of Illinois Relay Carnival tonight, which attracted a record-breaking entry of nearly 1000 athletes from 51 universities and colleges.

The world's mark was claimed for Dean Brownell of Illinois, who cleared 12 ft. 10⅝ in. in the pole vault. This performance, officials said, established an indoor new record off a dirt floor. Brownell is a former Principia Academy athlete.

In a sensational upset, Daniel Kinsey of St. Louis, competing for the first time for Illinois, tied the world's record for the 75-yard high hurdles, and beat out McCullough Keeble of Missouri, who a week ago claimed a world's record of :06 for the 50-yard high hurdles. Kinsey leaped the barriers in :09 2-5, tieing the world mark hung up by Earl Thomson of Dartmouth in 1932. Keeble finish third in this event.

Paul W. Jones, a diminutive athlete from Depauw University, captured first honors in the all-around championship competition of the University of Illinois relays carnival tonight, beating out a field of nine contestants with a total of 5136 points scored in the seven events.

Jones, a dark horse in the competition, broke the high jump record for the all-round events, with a leap of 6 feet 2 inches. He won a heat of the 75-yard dash, took the pole vault and made an impressive showing in the other four events. Jones ran such a desperate race in the 880-yard event, the last of the competition, that he collapsed at the finish.

Hammann of Wisconsin finished second in the all-round, with 5044 points, while Johnson of the University of Pittsburg was third, with 4807 points. The others finished as follows: Graham, Kansas, fourth, 4584 points; Wildman, Illinois, fifth, 4395½ points; Rhodes, Nebraska, sixth, 4298; Schildheuer, Illinois, seventh, 4110; Schjoll, Minnesota, eighth, 4092; Elkins, Haskell, ninth, 3506.

Coach Neill Retires.

TOLEDO, O., March 1.—Dr. W. A. Neill, who coached Scott High School of Toledo to two consecutive national football championships, announced today he would retire from active service as head coach at the institution. He has recommended Ted Keller, assistant coach, to the athletic council as his successor. Neill will remain connected with football at Scott in an advisory capacity.

McKENDREE DEFEATS SHURTLEFF, 38 TO 26

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEBANON, Ill., March 1.—McKendree College defeated the Shurtleff College team of Alton here tonight, 38 to 26, in the last game of the season for the McKendree five.

Newcom was the outstanding star for McKendree with a total of 17 points to his credit while Blodgett was the star performer for Shurtleff.

During the season McKendree won five out of seven conference games and broke even in two contests with the St. Louis University team.

Penn Victor in Intercollegiate Athletic Games

Three New Records Set as Philadelphians Nose Out Princeton.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—University of Pennsylvania tonight captured the indoor intercollegiate track and field championship for the second straight year, triumphing over a brilliant field of 23 rivals in the third annual I. C. A. A. A. meet at the Twenty-second Armory. Two intercollegiate records were shattered, a third established, and another tied.

The team point scores follow: Pennsylvania, 21½; Yale and Princeton, 20; Georgetown, 18½; Boston College, 17; Dartmouth, 14½; Cornell, 14 2-9; Penn State, 10; Johns Hopkins, 7 1-9; Syracuse, 7; Harvard, 5 1-9; Williams, 4; Brown, 2; Lafayette and Amherst, 1 1-9.

Ralph G. "Bruno" Hills, of Princeton, established a new Intercollegiate indoor shot-put record tonight in the 102d Regiment Armory at the third annual indoor track and field championship games of the Intercollegiate Association of amateur athletes of America. His put of 46 feet ¾ inches surpasses the old mark made by himself last year by 4 inches. Bob Beattie, another Princeton athlete gained second place with a put of 45 feet 4 7-8 inches. Tony Plansky of Georgetown was third with a put of 43 feet 3¼ inches.

Clarence T. Flahive of Boston College, won the high jump with a leap of 6 feet ¼ inches. Ten men were tied for second place with 5 feet 10¼ inches.

Another indoor intercollegiate record went by the wayside in the two-mile run and another collegiate title was added to the growing list of Verne Booth of Johns Hopkins, present cross country and two mile outdoor champion. The Baltimore runner was timed in 9 minutes 36 seconds, three-tenths seconds faster than the former mark credited to Elmer McLean of Penna.

Oklahoma Aggies Win.

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Ok., March 1.—The Oklahoma Aggies displayed a complete reversal of form tonight and administered a 37-to-24 defeat on the Texas Aggies, who beat the Oklahomans last night, 48 to 32. The local team led all the way.

Browns' New Manager Has .333 Batting Mark In Practice Contest

Rejuvenated First Sacker Pleased With His Own Condition and the Showing of Some of His Recruits.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala., March 1.—Manager George Sisler stated last night that he felt highly elated over the showing of his men the first week of training work. When asked as to how he felt about his own condition, Sisler said: "I feel fine and I am more than pleased with the showing that I have made to date. I have worked hard and getting back into uniform and playing as I have has proved a big surprise to me." "I think we have a very good squad of recruits and I am sure that some of the newcomers will prove valuable players for the Browns this season."

Sisler seemed to be very much pleased with the news that Joe Evans had been signed by the Browns. The manager thinks that Evans will be a valuable player to have around. Evans formerly was with the Cleveland and Washington ball clubs.

The manager also made the announcement that Roy Hall, a third baseman, had been signed by the Browns. Young Hall comes highly recommended, having played independent ball at Princeton, W. Va., last season. He is 22 years old and last season played 126 ball games. He batted .397, made 17 home runs, stole 30 bases and fielded .980.

This is a record to be proud of and there is the possibility that the young man from West Virginia will give his half dozen rivals for the position at third—Ezzell, Ellerbe, Robertson, Simon, Rice and Evans—a battle to win the regular job.

Lyons and Voight Please Sisler.

George Lyons and Olean Voight both were spoken of in a most satisfactory manner by Sisler, leading to the impression that these players were destined to stick with the Browns. Sisler admitted that it was somewhat early, as yet, to pass judgment on any of the players now in camp; but the manager of the Browns added that these hurlers had shown him that they knew something about the art of pitching.

George Blaeholder, the big righthander who tried out with the Browns last Spring and then was sent to Terre Haute, also appears to be a greatly improved pitcher, according to Sisler. Blaeholder is a big, powerful fellow, young and possessing plenty of enthusiasm. Last Spring when he joined the Browns, he had never before been away from the home folks and the old fireside, a small ranch in the wilds of Southern California. Blaeholder now is "city broke," but still very bashful. He still insists upon having a glass of milk and lemon pie for breakfast. However, no one will care much what Blaeholder eats in the morning, if he can pitch a high-class ball in the afternoon.

Sisler Varies Practice.

Sisler is different from any previous manager connected with the Browns in that he believes in changing the system of training every day. George is of the opinion that by working in this manner, the players do not tire of the practice and put more "pep" into their play.

Yesterday, the sun shone brightly, the weather was real warm and altogether it was a glorious day for baseball practice. The squad was divided into three teams and a ball game played. The players had ample batting and fielding practice. With the exception of John Wilson, every hurler on the squad had a turn on the mound. Wilson displayed too much "pep" the first day out and has a sore arm.

The battle was started by Sisler stepping up to the plate in the opening round and being retired on a grounder, second to first. George next time up hit a long drive to deep center, against Olean Voight. Later in the game, the manager slapped out a double to deep left field, against Perry Payne, the tall righthander. His swat average for the day was .333.

Hubert Pruett, the little southpaw, had an extra long turn on the firing line and he made a fine impression. Pruett was sending the ball over with a fair amount of speed and his control at all times was excellent.

Pruett Says Arm Is O. K.

When asked after the athletes had returned to the hotel how his arm felt, Pruett stated that it never was in better shape at this time of the year, and he was sure that he would

Rickey Leads Squad Of Cards to Florida; Browns Depart Today

BRANCH RICKEY departed for Bradentown yesterday afternoon with a squad of Cardinals, and this morning a group of Brownies will start for the Mobile training camp. By tomorrow afternoon both camps will have virtually full squads at work. Milton Stock has not yet signed a Cardinal contract and Marty McManus is the only Brownie not yet in the fold.

Rickey's squad, which departed yesterday, included Secretary Clarence Lloyd, Pitchers North, Sothoron, Wigington and Barnes; Infielders Hornsby, Lavan, Pickering and Dodd; Outfielders Flack, Jack Smith, Mueller, Joe Schultz and Douthitt. Manager Marr of the Fort Smith club also made the trip to Bradentown, and Jeff Pfeffer joined at Ashley, Ill.

Jacobson, Tobin, Robertson, Gerber, Mizeur and McManus are scheduled to depart this morning for the Brownie camp. McManus will not make the trip unless he signs by train time. Gerber may be delayed by illness in his family and Jacobson by being summoned as witness in a lawsuit. Harry Rice and Herschel Bennett will join the Brownie squad en route.

INDIANA TEAM ROLLS SCORE OF 2857, TAKES LEAD IN A. B. C. EVENT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Leadership of the five-man team standing in the twenty-fourth tournament of the American Bowling Congress here changed hands again tonight when the Anderson Tobacco Co. quintet of Anderson, Ind., rolled a total of 2857 for first place. The McNeil Hotel five of Janesville, Wis., annexed fourth position with a total of 2825.

J. Kasboum of Cincinnati went into a tie for fifth place in the individual events with Perion of Chicago, with a count of 630.

LARGE CROWDS FORCE CHANGE IN PROGRAM OF MUNICIPAL BASKETBALL

The first game of the championship series of the Men's Municipal Basketball League, which was originally scheduled for tomorrow evening, has been postponed until Tuesday evening.

William F. Torger, Superintendent of Recreation, announced yesterday that the games would be played at Washington University gymnasium in order to enable all of the followers of the teams involved to witness the contests. At last week's games at Sherman Park Community Center a large number of fans were turned away as the building was crowded to capacity.

Two games are to be played Tuesday evening with the Western Electric and Century Electric teams playing for the Industrial Division championship in the first game and the Hyatts and Leacocks competing for the open division championship in the final encounter.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL TO OPPOSE DEMPSEY BOUT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 1.—Attorney-General Herbert L. Carpenter stated today that if there is any possible way in which he can prevent the holding of the Dempsey-Wills heavyweight championship fight in this State next July he will stop it. A license for the fight has recently been granted by the Cumberland town council to Boston promoters.

CORNELL FIVE WINS COLLEGIATE TITLE

ITHACA, N. Y., March 1.—Cornell won the Intercollegiate Basketball League championship tonight by defeating Yale, last year's title holder, 23 to 19, while Dartmouth, at Hanover, was defeating Princeton, 36 to 34.

Experience Shows That When They Bake an Athlete's Knee They Usually Cook His Goose

Firpo to Get $50,000 for Bout With Spalla, Whom He Once Was To Fight for a Purse of $125

Pampas Bull Apparently Believes That Italian Heavyweight Thinks Too Well of Himself—Says He Will Not Be Afraid of Dempsey—Cites Last Meeting as Proof of His Skill.

Luis Angel Firpo, who is regarded as the most dangerous contender for Jack Dempsey's title, despite his knockout at Dempsey's hands in their bout last September, will next Friday meet Ermino Spalla, the Italian heavyweight, in the next match on his program. Firpo discusses his plans in the following article, told to a correspondent of the Inter-Ocean Press.

By LUIS ANGEL FIRPO.

BUENOS, AIRES, Mar. 1.—In discussing my coming match with Erminio Spalla, I recall that the Italian champion was to have been my first opponent in the United States and I was to have received for the match $125, but circumstances prevented this meeting. Less than two years later I was offered $50,000 to meet Spalla here in Buenos Aires.

When I arrived in the United States in 1922 Mr. Robertson Ward and other members of the Newark Athletic Club enabled me to make matches in that country. Congressman Gray was also a member of that club and he took me to the firemen's headquarters of Nutley to train and there introduced me to Young Bob Fitzsimmons and Eddie Nugent, two comrades whom I shall never forget. It was there that these comrades presented me with four pennants with the initials N. A. C. which I place in all the gymnasiums where I train. Here then is the explanation of these letters, regarding which I have received thousands of inquiries.

Wanted to Box Spalla.

After I had worked four days at the firemen's house Mr. Ward came and asked me with whom I wanted to fight. Having shortly before witnessed a fight between Tom Sailor Maxted and Tarzan Larkin, in which the first had won, and convinced that I could defeat him in my turn, I selected Maxted for my first fight. In the opinion of these gentlemen Maxted was too dangerous a man for me; they proposed Erminio Spalla. I then made an appointment with Fred Stone, another member of the Newark Athletic Club, at the city hall, where he was to present me to the promoter, Nick Kline. Two days later, however, they informed me that Spalla had decided to go back to Italy. In view of this they designated Maxted as my first opponent.

It would have been a great pleasure for me if I could have measured myself with Spalla, as he enjoyed great fame and renown in Argentina, where the Italian colony predominates among the foreign residents, and if I had triumphed over him the victory would have won me a great name, unknown as I was at that time.

I have now accepted the offer to meet Spalla here in Buenos Aires, not on account of the money nor on account of the prestige that I may gain in case I win, but because, according to what I have often read in the Italian newspapers, Spalla is classed as a great scientific boxer.

$50,000 Instead of $125.

Thus, today, favored by the Goddess of Fortune, I earn $50,000 for a fight which I was anxious to gain for a draw of $125 not so long ago.

Also, when they offered me $125 to fight Spalla, I ran the risk of losing the fight, but now, with the much greater experience I have gained in the ring, and desirous as I am to measure myself with that gentleman, who likes to disregard the superiority of other heavyweights, I intend to beat him, unless he has improved 500 per cent over what he could do when he returned to Italy from the United States.

"I Intend to Beat Spalla in a Very Few Rounds; He Has No Punch"

I intend to beat the Italian in a very few rounds, for he is a fighter who lacks punch. He trusts in his ability, but I do not share his confidence in himself, in a fight with me. He has beaten Young Bob Fitzsimmons by points. He got a "no-decision" with Joe McCann. During my stay in Havana I received a telegraphic offer from Buenos Aires for a match with Spalla, and when I showed the cable to my friends, Joe McCann and Italian Jack Herman, they expressed the opinion that if I fought with him, it would be a one-round fight. Both of them urged me not to miss the opportunity to get that fight, as Spalla was, according to them, a "good catch."

My Match With Dempsey.

I do not desire to express any opinion as to the result of my next bout with Dempsey because it is contrary to my way of doing things. I have expressed my opinion about Spalla, which is unusual for me. It was prompted by my desire to let him know that there are still other fighters capable of beating him.

Will Not Be Afraid.

I have read in several of the newspapers that in my come-back match I will enter the ring with fear because I have already measured myself with Dempsey. Those who think this are mistaken. I disregard entirely the psychology of fear. I have already passed through all the greatest emotions of the life of a man and my revenge fight with Dempsey will mean no greater emotion to me.

Dempsey declares he will fight differently; that does not interest me. He declares that he will not follow my tactics; that he made a mistake in following my style of boxing. To all this I say that Dempsey must not forget that he was the first to attack with the most sinister intentions, but I was the first to land a blow. Then this means that I had the ability to discover his intentions, for I turned my body to the right so that his left fell short. On the other hand, he thus presented me his jaw, which I struck, but not such a terrible blow as he says he received. For when I landed that blow Dempsey had already drawn away several inches from the reach of my right, so that my blow did not reach its destination with all the power that it might have had.

PRINCIPIA FIVE RALLIES IN 4TH QUARTER TO BEAT WESTERN M. A. 23-19

Overcoming a four-point lead in the fourth quarter, the Principia M. A. basketball team defeated Western M. A. at Alton yesterday, 23 to 19. Western led all the way until the final quarter and at the end of the first half had eight points as against Principia's seven.

Jeff Rice with seven points and Bert Clark with six were the leading point getters for Principia, while Brooks with seven points was high for the losers. McDaniels, the Western guard, played a fine defensive game and in additon scored six points for his team.

Yesterday's contest was the second of the season between the two teams, Western having previously beaten Principia, 25 to 19.

In a preliminary contest, the Western second team defeated the Principia second team, 21 to 12.

BROWNS' NEW MANAGER HAS .333 BATTING MARK IN PRACTICE CONTEST

not experience any trouble with it this season.

John Simmons, the young man who was selected last fall as the amateur champion catcher by a number of "experts," who claim to know all there is to be known about digging up phenoms, did not make a very successful debut in the camp of the Browns. Simmons was perhaps unfortunate in that when he stepped up to the plate, Hubert Pruett was on the mound.

As this was not a regular game, no one was out on strikes, so Simmons did a bat swinging act that must have been rather tiresome and also embarrassing. Simmons swung at nine pitched balls without making a foul against Pruett. Simmons, being a turn around hitter, was batting right-handed. Hank Severeid watched the little fellow in his vain effort to hit, smiled a broad smile and then went back to his work of warming up a pitcher to replace Pruett. The amateur champion catcher is five feet and seven inches tall and weighs 157 pounds.

Hyland Hooks 'Em Over.

Milton Hyland, the chattering young left-hander from New Britain, Conn., surprised everyone his first day out, when he went to the mound and began "hooking" the ball over. "Dick," as Hyland prefers to be called by the ball players, instead of Milton, fooled several of the oldtimers with his twisters. Hyland walked out upon the playing field wearing a pair of ankle braces and he also had donned sliding pads. Ankle braces are considered just the proper thing among college boys, but exceedingly bad form among big leaguers.

Manager Sisler today received a wire from Shocker in which the pitcher requested that he be allowed to remain at Hot Springs until Tuesday. Sisler granted the request.

Illinois Teams on Local Soccer Bill

Gillespie Opposes Royalton for Farrington Cup—Vespers Meet Scullins.

A unique situation in local soccer annals is promised at High School Field this afternoon when two strange teams, each almost entirely composed of foreign-born players, meet in the Farrington Cup final.

The class of soccer in this unusual match should be high, for Gillespie, one of the contenders, is on a par with the St. Louis professional teams. Royalton, the other visiting aggregation, is said to be a good match for Gillespie. Last season Royalton won a game from West Frankfort and the latter team scored a victory over Gillespie.

In a preliminary game, the Scullins and Vespers, St. Louis Soccer League teams, will meet in a league championship match.

The Gillespie-Royalton game was brought to St. Louis because a neutral field was necessary for the cup competition final. Royalton is the Southern Illinois champion and Gillespie survived in the Central Illinois division.

Dundee-Moran Matched Again

To Fight 15 Rounds at Madison Square Garden on March 14.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Johnny Dundee and Pal Moran were matched today to fight 15 rounds to a decision at Madison Square Garden, March 14. Articles will be signed Monday and $1000 forfeits posted to make 135 pounds. Dundee is world's featherweight and junior lightweight champion, but neither title will be at stake in the Moran fight.

Dundee received the decision over Moran in a fight at the Garden Feb. 2.

GEORGIA TECH AND GEORGIA U. RECONCILED

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.—Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia have resumed athletic relations after five years in which no games have been scheduled between the two institutions following a break in relations in 1919. Announcement to this effect was made here tonight by Dr. S. V. Sanford of the University of Georgia and Dr. J. D. Crenshaw of Tech, faculty chairman of athletics at the two schools.

St. Leos Lose to Ben Millers, 1-0

Meet Again Today in Game for Group Title in Municipal League.

The Ben Miller soccer team, of Fairground No. 2 Group defeated the St. Leos yesterday afternoon, 1 to 0. Leo "Red" Gerritzen was responsible for the only goal scored. The winning marker came 25 minutes after the start of play. It was a long shot which struck the goal post and caromed into the net.

The victory by the Ben Miller team narrowed the lead of the St. Leo team to a single point and a victory for the Millers today will give them the championship of the No. 2 Group. In the event of a tied score the St. Leo outfit would win the championship by a single point. The game will be played at Fairground this afternoon.

The lineups:

BEN MILLERS (1)		ST. LEOS (0)

Tennis Final Postponed

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Miss Betty Hilleary of Germantown, Pa., today refused to accept by default the title of national girl indoor tennis singles champion when Miss Alice Francis of Orange, N. J., was prevented by illness from appearing for the finals. The match will be played probably next week.

Miami First U.S. City to Complete Its Olympic 'Bit'

St. Louis Not Represented Contributors of the First $40,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Julius H. Barnes, treasurer of the Olympic Committee, today paid the first installment of $40,000, for the charter of the Steamship America, which will transport the American athletes to France in June to compete in the 1924 Olympic games.

Barnes said that he was much gratified with the ready response to the appeal for funds made a few days ago. A number of the local committee of the important cities have their campaign well under way.

Among the larger subscribers are:

Olympic Committee of Michigan, $9000; Olympic Committee of Boston, Philadelphia and Miami, each $5000; Olympic Committee of Chicago, $4000; Olympic Committee of New York, $3500; Olympic Committee of Houston, Tex., $1900; Olympic Committee of Newark, N. J., $1500; Olympic Committee of Youngstown, O., $1500; George V. Brown, Boston Arena, $1500; Olympic Committee of Albany, N. Y., $700; Olympic Committee of Princeton, N. J., $564; Olympic Committee of Fort Meyer, Va., $500; New England Association A. A. U., $500; John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, $500; Olympic Committee of Reading, Pa., $500; Olympic Committee of Dalton, Mass., $250; Olympic Committee of Schenectady, $102; Olympic Committee of San Antonio, Tex., $281.40.

Miami is the first city to have realized its quota which is $5000.

18 CLUBS COME TO AID OF OLYMPIC GAMES FUND

Charles S. Reber, Security Building, St. Louis representative of the committee in charge of raising funds to send the United States Olympic team to Paris, today stated that plans for raising the $20,000 quota in St. Louis were progressing and that the first big aid had come from local clubs.

Club secretaries, he said, have advised their members that they could add $1 subscription to the Olympic fund to their monthly club checks, and the club would forward it to the local Olympic commissioner.

The 17 clubs that have so advised members are Riverview, Century, Racquet, St. Louis Amateur Athletic, Columbia, Noonday, Bellerive, Midland Valley, Westwood, Algonquin, St. Louis Country, City, Forest Park Golf, University, Normandie, St. Louis, Elks and Missouri Athletic Association.

A basketball game at the Coliseum between city or State rivals and an amateur-professionl soccer game are other features on the Olympic program for raising funds here.

Among the contributors to the fund thus far are Robert Lee Hedges former owner of the Browns, and "Chick" Cowen, once a leading sprinter and now vice president of the Bank of Commerce.

Cowen once raced Malcolm W. Forbes, then world's champion, at the Fair Grounds but lost. Joseph A. Murphy, another St. Louis sprinter, now a widely known racing judge, then met Forbes and defeated him.

HOYLAKE COURSE IS MADE MORE DIFFICULT

By the Associated Press.

HOYLAKE, England, March 1. THE British open golf championship will be held here this year on a slightly altered course, the principal change having been made at "The Alps" or short eleventh green. The green—a blind one—is taken forward, so that a weak spot will not run down the slope and possibly onto the green. The ball now will have to be driven up to the hole.

The course requires good judgment in approaching but the American amateurs last year played it well.

JAYHAWKERS COMPLETE SEASON BY BEATING TIGER FIVE 30 TO 17

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 1.—The Kansas University basketball team, Missouri Valley Conference champions, defeated Missouri University here tonight, 30 to 17, in final game of the 1924 season for both teams. Kansas took the lead in the first five seconds of the game on a pass from the tipoff to Capt. Black for a field goal, and held it throughout the contest.

Tonight's game marked in Missouri Valley basketball the last appearance of Capt. Don Faurot, Bob Hays and Ralph Lester for Missouri and Capt. Charles Black of Kansas.

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40

Yet 91% Needlessly, by Tests

Our experience shows falling hair most always due to infected Sebum. Now overcome.

Remove the infected Sebum and you remove the cause of most baldness

Written Guarantee to Grow Hair, or Money Back

This is a direct offer to grow hair on your head. An offer backed by our written guarantee, given by your own Drug or Department Store. If we fail, it costs you nothing.

We have recently made amazing discoveries. We have proven that while 4 men in 7 are either bald, or partly bald, at 40, only about 9 men in a hundred need ever be bald.

Hair roots seldom die from natural causes. They can be revived. We have proved this by regrowing hair on 91 heads in 100.

Highest authorities approve this new way. Great dermatologists now employ similar methods—many charge as much as $300 for similar basic treatment.

Baldness is a symptom of a disease. Note this fact and mark it. It is most frequently a symptom of infection of the Sebum—the scalp oil.

Infected Sebum

Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its purpose is to lubricate the hair.

But it often becomes infected. It cakes on the scalp; clogs the follicles and plugs them. Germs by the millions then start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness comes first; then with neglect comes total baldness.

Remove that infection and your hair will generally grow. We back this statement with a money-back guarantee. Hence it is folly for any man with falling hair not to make the test.

Now We Remove It

Our treatment is based on a new principle. It penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It kills infection—removes the infected Sebum. It stops falling hair. It revives the dormant hair roots, generally makes new hair grow. Remember, it is guaranteed.

Warrant Given by Your Dealer

No red tape. The guarantee is positive. You are the judge. Your own Drug or Department Store gives it with each 3-bottle purchase. Go today, ask them for the Van Ess Treatment. The guarantee will accompany it. If the treatment fails—your money back.

Over 400,000 men have tested Van Ess under this same guarantee.

FEW OFF SEASON DEALS

Two Hubtown Crews Figured in All Winter Trades—Many New Shortstops.

By Herman Wecke.

Indications at present are that, barring the finding of some real phenoms, a majority of the major league clubs will open the 1924 campaign about April 12 with practically the same battle fronts they employed a year ago.

The 1923 off-season was one of the quietest in years, as regards trades between major league teams. There were only five, all told, and in but three of these did an exchange of players figure.

The Red Sox purchased the veteran Bob Veach from Detroit for cash, while the Braves claimed Kelleher of the Cubs via the waiver route.

The most important deals were those between the Indians and Red Sox and Braves and Giants. Tris Speaker obtained what he wanted—George Burns, the heavy-hitting first sacker—from Boston for O'Neill, Wambsganss, Connolly and Boone. Boone has since been sent to the Southern League by Bob Quinn. In addition to Burns, the Indians obtained "Chick" Fewster, another infielder.

Boston Is Strengthened.

The trade between the Braves and Giants gave Boston a new manager in Dave Bancroft. The Beaneaters also obtained Casey Stengel, who won two games for the Giants in the 1923 world's series with home runs, and Cunningham, another meadowman. In exchange, McGraw got Billy Southworth, a heavy hitter and one of the best outfielders in the national pastime, as well as Joe Oeschger, a pitcher, who had no luck at Boston in 1923.

Another deal, that between the Braves and Phillies, brought Tierney, a second sacker, to Boston in exchange for Outfielder Ray Powell. However, there is a possibility that this transaction will be canceled, as Manager Fletcher of the Phils claims that Powell has a bad leg, and he wants no one-legged outfielders.

All of which indicates that few veterans of the pastime will be with new teams in 1924.

Many Shortstop Changes.

A change on a majority of the major league clubs, if in the final reckoning they do occur, will be at shortstop. From present indications just eight of the men who covered the positions last year are sure of their 1923 berths. Of course, Bancroft is certain to play between second and third for the Braves, while Jackson will be given the berth with the Giants.

There will be a lively fight on at the Cardinals' training camp for the position. There is no certainty as to the Cubs' shortstop what with Hollocher a holdout. If he reports he will get the place. If not, it will be for Turgeon and Adams to fight it out. Maranville will get competition from Wright, the high-priced star from Kansas City. Brooklyn, without a regular for many years, will rely on Johnny Jones, a St. Louis boy, obtained from Portland.

In the American League, Dudley Lee, at one time with the Browns, is slated to start the season at short for the Red Sox. McClellan of the White Sox will get competition from Barrett, last season in the International League. Huggins has reported that he will use Combs, the hard hitting outfielder from Louisville, as an understudy to the veteran Scott.

As for the others, Caveney of the Reds, Sand, Phillies; Gerber, Browns; Rigney, Detroit; Sewell, Cleveland; Peck, Washington, and Galloway, Athletics, are safe.

Changes at first base will be mighty few. The greatest interest as regards this position centers around George Sisler, the Browns' manager. If he is able to play he will replace Schliebner, who covered the position for the club in 1923. Burns, who goes to Cleveland, and Harris, who will replace him at the initial corner in Boston, are the only switches.

If he is able to play he will replace Schliebner, who covered the position for the club in 1923. Burns, who goes to Cleveland, and Harris, who will replace him at the initial corner in Boston, are the only switches.

Only one minor leaguer is scheduled to break in at second. He is Max Bishop, obtained from Baltimore by Connie Mack. Wamby, formerly of Cleveland, will play the position for Boston. Stephenson of the Indians and Pratt of the Tigers will have fights on their hands. In the National, Rawlings of Pittsburg will fight it out with Moore from the Southern League. Tierney, last season with the Pirates and Phils, will be next to Bancroft for the Braves, unless the trade with the Phils is canceled. There is uncertainty in the Phillie camp, with Parkinson favored, while Johnston, last season at short, is down to cover the pivot for Brooklyn.

Stock an Uncertainty.

There is some uncertainty in the ranks of the third sackers. Milton Stock may or may not do the honors for the Cardinals, while there will be a fight on at Mobile for the regular berth on the Browns with Joe Evans, Ellerbe, Ezzell, Rice and Simon in the running. Kelleher, from the Cubs, may be on the job for the Braves. The regular for the Phillies and Dodgers is uncertain. In the A. L. there will be fights on at the camps of the Red Sox and Nationals, with the veterans, Shanks and Bluege, favored.

Few changes will come in the outfield from present indications. Connie Mack is relying on Strand and Simmons, two minor league sluggers, to help out Miller, another heavy hitter. Veach is sure to play with Boston, while Archdeacon, St. Louis boy, will be one of about half a dozen men trying to grab the open berth with the White Sox. Southworth, with Young and Meusel, will round out the best outer garden McGraw has owned in some time. The Braves will show changes, with Stengel, Cunningham, Felix and others, fighting it out. Powell is due for a berth with the Phillies.

Few Catching Changes.

Regular catchers will be the same as a year ago, with Steve O'Neill moving to Boston and Glenn Myatt being promoted to first string receiver with the Indians.

Many high-priced pitchers and others from smaller leagues have been brought in by the majors to the total of 90 and it is almost certain that some of these will make the grade. But even on the hurling hill, the 16 managers will without a doubt rely on veterans to do the bulk of the twirling.

So when the final batting orders for opening day are announced, fans without a doubt will find very few drastic changes.

High Schools War About His Age

WILLIAM THOMAS

Questions raised regarding this athlete's age have precipitated a serious disagreement in public high school athletic circles. Thomas starred for Central in football, basketball and baseball. He is 5 feet 10½ inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. He has not definitely decided what college he will attend, but his choice lies between St. Louis and Washington Universities, he has said.

Light Ball Will Improve Scores, Sarazen Writes

Pro Champion Says Change Will Make for Accuracy in Shots to the Green.

By Gene Sarazen,
American Professional Champion.

Many golfers I have talked with seem to be alarmed over the suggestion that the golf ball be made lighter. They can see their scores soaring and their troubles on the links increasing.

As a matter of fact, were the ball made lighter I believe the scoring on the whole would improve. The present ball is a bit lively, to be sure, but it is also considerably more difficult to control in playing to the greens than a lighter ball would be.

Many golfers encounter a lot of trouble on their rounds with the present ball that they would probably avoid were the ball lighter. In the first place, they would not obtain the roll they get with the present day ball. And that means they would not be in so cuch trouble in playing to the greens.

Galleries Might Diminish.

One of the hardest shots to make is to stop the ball on the greens. The new ruling prohibiting the use of ribbed clubs is not going to make it any easier for a player to stop his ball. The great majority of golfers I have seen had difficulty endeavoring to stop the ball with ribbed or punched-faced clubs. Their troubles will be increased in this respect with smooth-faced clubs.

Now, a lighter ball would be of considerable help to any golfer, especially when he is using smooth-faced clubs to play pitch shots. He would find it possible to smother the shot and have the ball stop quickly, provided the ball were lighter than the one now in use.

In order to stop the present day ball you must play a very delicate cut shot—not a slice but a fade, which will allow the ball after the force of the flight is spent to settle gradually to earth. If too much cut is applied to the shot you will be in trouble with a slice. And if you don't cut the shot somewhat the ball will never hold the greens.

A lighter ball probably would have some influence on the size of galleries. In other words, the game would not be so attractive to many people who care not for the finer points of the sport but who do get a deal of enjoyment in watching the long hitters, such as Havers, Jones, Hagen, Guilford, Barnes and others drive.

Open Stance Desirable.

So far as scoring is concerned, I would welcome a lighter ball. In every match I play I aim to pitch as closely to the pin as possible on my pitch shots. With the punched face club I could rely on stopping the ball within a few feet of where it landed. Playing the present ball with smooth face clubs will entail an unusual amount of skill, and the fellow who does not possess a real cut shot will have his troubles cut out for him.

The cut shot is well worth cultivating if you have not already learned to play it. To perfect this kind of shot requires hard practice. But it is well worth the effort, for it is the greatest scoring shot in the bag.

In pitching to the greens I play the ball more off the right foot than the left, using the open stance of course. I would advise all golfers to use a slightly open stance, at least in playing pitch shots, even if you use the square stance on longer shots.

The open stance aids in preventing any sway of the body and affords a good brace for the downward blow. In playing a cut shot have the hands lead the club throughout the down swing and in hitting the ball strike it sharply and with plenty of forcefulness on the down stroke. Keep the hands down and the forearms rigid, even after the ball has been struck, and in the follow-through aim to point the club in the direction of the flight of the ball.

Leading Professional Golfers Shortening Swing, Expert Finds

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.

LEADING golf professionals are shortening their driving swing, striving for better direction even at the expense of distance, says William Abbott, an expert. Walter Hagen, Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchison are leaders of the new idea that is certain to spread among professionals and amateurs this season.

Hagen and Barnes have so restricted their swing that most of the time the driver is carried back for only a three-quarter stroke.

The decision of the leading pros to sacrifice distance for direction follows the old theory of Harry Vardon, many times champion of England, who was particularly short from tee, but always had the advantage of playing his second shot from a favorable lie on the fairway.

NAVY ATHLETES WIN IN SPORTS CARNIVAL

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 1.—Naval Acadmy athletes swept everything before them in a card of six dual contests today, varsity teams turning in four victories and the "plebes" two—all by decisive margins.

In the swimming meet with Brown University, the Middies won a brilliantly contested series of races by a score of 39 to 14. Rule, Navy ace in the dashes, clipped one-tenth of a second from the intercollegiate 50-yard dash score, covering the distance in 23.9. The "plebes" defeated the swimmers of Central High School of Washington, 31 to 22.

Varsity wrestlers scored a clean-cut win over Washington and Lee, taking five bouts by falls and two on decisions. In the same sport the "plebes" defeated Baltimore City College, 5 to 2.

The water polo contest with New York Athletic Club was won by the Middies, 32 to 0.

In gymnastics, Dartmouth was hopelessly outclassed, 44 to 10.

"KID" ELBERFELD TO COACH COLLEGE TEAM

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 1.—Norman "Kid" Elberfeld, veteran manager of the Little Rock Southern Association baseball club, will appear in athletics in a new role next fall. The Kid today signed a contract to become athletic coach at Little Rock College, effective at the opening of the fall term at the college this year, soon after the close of the baseball season. He will continue as the Little Rock pilot.

Lightweight Mat Stars Displace Beef Trust Boys

Bobby Roskow Will Try to Lift Fisher's Lightweight Title Here Friday.

The beef-trust, knockabout mat boys, will mark time here this week while the lightweight mannikins do their stuff. And it will be some stuff, unless Challenger Bobby Roskow, the Esthonian veteran wrestler, who will try to lift Fisher's crown at the Odeon, next Friday night, has been overrated.

Strange and weird animals have been led to the slaughter here under the label "wrestler." Some commodities displayed as wrestlers proved to be mere variegated cheeses, of the kind one does not become neighborly with.

Roskow, however, literally has the ear marks. Born in Esthonia 38 years ago, Roskow looks the part of a wrestler. Formerly he was wrestling instructor at Kansas University. He has wrestled many of the leading lightweights in the years he has been in this country. Fisher himself considers him dangerous.

Fisher Near Middle Age.

Fisher is no "chicken" himself. He is 37 years young and growing more so. However, as with all wrestlers who take the game seriously, Fisher's athletic peak has arrived late in life and he undoubtedly is at his best today.

Whatever Roskow may show next Friday, it is certain that Fisher will do more REAL wrestling than fans have seen in all of the beef trust matches that have taken place here in a season.

Fisher is one of the best of all time, at his weight, and it is by no means certain that Max Luttberg in his prime had anything on Fisher.

Roskow is betting his own money, it is said. If true, this spells some confidence in himself. The little fellows have to risk their own coin because the receipts at lightweight matches in the past have not been enough to sustain a sick gnat.

Shober Also on Card.

Billy Shober, an extremely clever middleweight who is on the card, is almost as good as Fisher and nearly as fast, despite the difference in weight. A good card of preliminaries has been arranged with Joe Sanderson and Speedy Schaefer among others given places on the program.

Tommy Sullivan, game to the core, will stand another tap as promoter of the show.

Chaminade Orioles Win.

The Chaminade Orioles defeated the St. Marks basketball team at Chaminade yesterday, 31 to 4. Viviano with 12 points and Beckham with 14 points, starred for the victors.

MISSOURI M. A. WINS CONFERENCE TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., March 1.—Missouri Military Academy of this city has won the conference basketball championship with four victories and two defeats. Wentworth defeated Kemper, 33 to 25, Thursday night and last night Chillicothe defeated Kemper, 48 to 23. These two defeats eliminated Kemper from championship aspirations and assured Missouri of the title.

The two defeats suffered by Missouri came at the hands of Kemper and Chillicothe, but in subsequent contests Missouri defeated each team.

East Signs Contract

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 1.—Carl East, home run slugger of the Minneapolis American Association club, today signed a contract to play with the Millers this season.

East previously was reported to have signed to play with Beloit in the Midwest League. He was persuaded to change his mind.

Hugh Critz, Miller infielder, also sent in his contract today. Mike Kelley, manager of Minneapolis, is negotiating with the Brooklyn Nationals for Ray French, infielder, whom he plans to use at third base.

Eastern Soccer Tour by St. Louis Team Proposed

American League Clubs Favor Plan, Instruct Cahill to Negotiate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Acting at the request of the St. Louis Soccer League, Secretary T. W. Cahill at a meeting of the American Soccer League here this week made known a proposal for a tour of the East by an all-star St. Louis professional team. The proposal was favorably received and Secretary Cahill was designated a committee of one to carry on negotiation with St. Louis, looking toward a specific plan.

Tentative arrangements call for a series of games after the national challenge cup final, the St. Louis team to meet all of the American League clubs that finish in the first division. The tour would last for two weeks or more.

No St. Louis soccer team has toured the East for many seasons. The Innisfails, St. Leos and Ben Millers each invaded the East in years past and each enjoyed more than ordinary success.

One of the motives for the proposed invasion is the fact that on both occasions when the Scullins played a cup final in the East the team was sorely crippled by injury and the absence of stars who joined baseball teams. St. Louis, therefore, was not represented by its strongest eleven.

As a result of the good showing of local all-star teams against strong foreign clubs, St. Louis soccer followers have become convinced that a carefully selected St. Louis team can defeat any other club in the country.

In the event that Harry McCarthy's Vesper team fails to win the national final, it is possible that the St. Louis All-Stars will be largely the Vesper players.

Best Pal Wins Feature Race at New Orleans

Captures Hausman Handicap From Field Including Revenge and Flintstone.

PARKE RIDES 3 WINNERS

Pilots Fredericktown, Rocket and Bucado to Victory—Stargo in Good Form.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 1.—Best Pal has come back. On the occasion of his return to the ranks of the stars in the Hausmann Cup Handicap, which featured a splendid card at the Fair Grounds Saturday, Old Best trounced the patrician, Revenge, and the consistent and game Flintstone, and he did it in decisive fashion. From the barrier's rise to flag fall Best Pal led the stately gang of quadrupeds. He was the best horse, there was no question about that.

Bill Snyder sent the crowd away from the webbing in perfect order and Best Pal lost no time in getting to the front. He was followed by his stable mate, Barracuda, which ran as the Holman entry. Then came Thimble, Flintstone, Setting Sun, Revenge and Brunnell, in the order named.

On the back stretch, Best Pal opened a gap of two lengths. Barracuda was tiring and Flintstone, Setting Sun and Revenge were charging. The crowd began to shout, for Revenge and Flintstone were held in popular favor with the betting public, but, as they charged, Setting Sun, Revenge and Flintstone, old Best Pal knocked them off one by one and, at the finish, he was a length to the good. Revenge beat Flintstone by the same margin.

Parke Rides to Victory.

It took speed, gameness and all that are in the make-up of a genuinely good litle thoroughbred for Fredericktown to win the fourth race over Thorndale and Blotter. It was a mile journey and some of the best 3-year-olds here were listed as rivals. The field waited at the barrier full five minutes and then they were off. Fredericktown broke well, but at the first turn he was caught in a jam and Parke had to pull him up to last position. But gradually he improved and, as they turned into the stretch, he began to loom.

The contest between Rocket and Cloughjordan, third on the program, which Rocket won by a head, was a beautiful race. Two lengths of daylight separated Cloughjordan and O. Henry, the third horse. The rest of the field was out of it from the start. Parke rode the winner.

Stargo Wins Second Race.

Running back to several previous good races, Stargo, T. V. Montjoy's little bay colt, captured the laurels in the second contest, at six furlongs. He beat Dan Bolling and Round Robin and ran a gallant race in doing so.

Fanny De Coursy and Mad Bay, the pick of the talent in the opening dash, got away sluggishly and consequently they got nothing in the half mile contest which opeend the card. Foxmore won it and Channel was second. Wilbur C. Whitehead was third.

Ivan Parke scored his third victory of the afternoon when he steered Bucado down to the wire the winner in the closing event on the program.

The Skinker gelding broke well and immediately went to the front, but after they had gone a little more than a half mile, he dropped back to fourth position. Parke went to work and at the next furlong pole had him in the front again.

ENTRIES FOR JAMAICA MEETING TOTAL 1252

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Entries for the spring meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey Club at Jamaica track, beginning April 29, and marking the season's inaugural here, total 1252, an increase of 59 over those of last year.

One hundred owners have made nominations for the 13 stakes, Harry Payne Whitney leading the list with 169, while the Rancocas Stable is next with 154.

The Excelsior and Paumonok handicaps are principal stakes of the meeting, the former having drawn such stars as Zev, Mad Hatter, Martingale, Rialto and Little Chief, while the latter has attracted the entries of St. James, Sarazen, Bracadale, Sunference and Goshawk. Among the 73 entries for the Stuyvesant for three-year-olds exclusively is Wise Counsellor, which starred as a juvenile in Kentucky last season.

T. NELSON METCALF IS AMES ATHLETIC HEAD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AMES, Ia., March 1.—T. Nelson Metcalf, for the past two years track coach at the University of Minnesota, has been elected director of athletics at Iowa State College, according to an announcement from Dean S. W. Beyer made at noon today.

At the present time Metcalf is in charge of the professional course for coaches at Minnesota, in addition to being the freshman coach for football and supervising the physical education work. He graduated from Oberlin College, Ohio, where he was a football and track star.

The election of Metcalf completes the search of the Ames athletic council of eight months to find a man to succeed Charles W. Mayser, who left last spring after a shakeup in the athletic department. Mayser resigned under pressure and went back to his old school, Franklin and Marshall, to be director of athletics.

CARBONE FACES CHARGE OF FALSE PRETENSE FOR FIASCO AT NEW ORLEANS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 1.—Frank Carbone, New Jersey fighter, faces a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses in the criminal courts and must Monday explain to the Louisiana State Boxing Commission why he got cold feet Friday night and did not fight Young Marullo.

Efforts are being made to have the original charge, preferred by Promoter Frank Joret, withdrawn, and Billy Jacobs, manager of Carbone, said tonight that he had paid Joret the $100 which Joret had advanced to Carbone and that he believed that the charge would be withdrawn.

Carbone, however, could not explain to the boxing commissioners today just what happened to make him quit the Coliseum arena a few minutes before he was scheduled to enter the ring. Something was wrong with Carbone and the commissioners gave him until Monday to answer. He will probably be suspended for a year.

Old Man's Advice Is Great Help

Suffered Terribly With Gas on Stomach—One Doctor Said Appendicitis.

"I had pains in my side and would bloat up terribly after each meal. One doctor said I had appendicitis. My neighbor, an old man, told me to take Adlerika (intestinal antiseptic) and the first bottle helped me and after taking six bottles I am permanently relieved." (Signed) F. G. Konkle.

A TREACHEROUS DISEASE.

Appendicitis attacks at any moment even persons seemingly in good health. Usually, however, it is preceded by so-called stomach trouble, constipation or similar disturbances. Often, when there is a warning feeling of uneasiness in the abdomen, appendicitis can be guarded against in the same manner in which one guards against the spread of throat infection, because that is just what appendicitis is—an infection in the intestines spreading to the appendix. When one has sore throat, one can often prevent further trouble by using an antiseptic wash or gargle to fight the germs and a laxative to carry off the poisons from the body. The same procedure is necessary to fight the intestinal germs and guard against appendicitis. But instead of an antiseptic wash for the throat, an INTESTINAL antiseptic is necessary.

INTESTINAL ANTISEPTIC.

There is now offered to the public a preparation having the DOUBLE action of an intestinal antiseptic and a COMPLETE system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It tends to eliminate or destroy harmful germs and colon bacili in the intestinal canal, thus guarding against appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It is the most complete system cleanser ever offered to the public, acting on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removing foul matter which poisoned the system for months and which nothing else can dislodge. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the alimentary canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much more foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you. In slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach and sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long-standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

REPORTS FROM PHYSICIANS.

"I found Adlerika the best in my entire 37 years' experience." (Signed) Dr. G. Eggers.

"I use Adlerika in all bowel cases. Some require only one dose." (Signed) Dr. F. M. P. (Name given on request.)

"I have found nothing in my 50 years' practice to excel Adlerika." (Signed) Dr. James Weaver.

"After taking Adlerika feel better than for 20 years. Haven't language to express the AWFUL IMPURITIES eliminated from my system." (Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a constant surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines on account of its rapid, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 7th and Washington, and Enderle Drug Co., and other leading druggists.

HOOGSTRATEN TO PLAY ON AUSTRIAN TEAM

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 1.—Count Ludwig Salm Hoogstraten, who recently married Miss Millicent Rogers of New York, announced today that he expected to represent Austria in the lawn tennis competitions of the Olympic games. He will leave this evening for the Riviera, having entered the Nice and Cannes tournament, where he said he would be paired with Vincent Richard in the doubles.

Before the war, Count Ludwig was one of Europe's foremost tennis players.

MEHLHORN'S LEAVE OF ABSENCE EXTENDED

Officials of North Hills Country Club announced yesterday that Bill Mehlhorn, the club's golf professional, had asked for and obtained a continuance of his leave of absence until March 20 to permit him to compete in the best ball championship at Miami, Fla. Mehlhorn is paired with McDonald Smith of California for this event.

BONUS BILL WILL BE REPORTED TO HOUSE SATURDAY

Ways and Means Committee Decides to Take Up Adjusted Compensation Measure at Once.

GROWING SENTIMENT FOR INSURANCE PLAN

Tax-Cut Act Sent to Senate — Democrats Claim They Brought About Repudiation of Mellon Bill.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The soldier bonus bill, the skeleton in the closet for the Republican administration, made its bow on the stage in the House today, following closely on the heels of the Longworth compromise tax bill passed yesterday. The Ways and Means Committee met and voted to take up the adjusted compensation measure at once, deciding to give a three-day hearing, and report out the bill next Saturday.

Chairman Green, of the committee, let it be known that the cash bonus is not in favor with the committee and said there was a growing feeling in favor of the insurance features which characterize two of the bills now before the committee. They are the bills of Representatives Fish of New York and Andrews of Massachusetts, both former service men. Green believes the operation of the new tax bill will leave a sufficient surplus to finance the first year of the bonus.

Secretary of War Weeks wrote the committee urging it any bill is pushed, it should not go into effect for nine months thereafter because of the administrative difficulties of handling the applications that would follow.

Enactment Now or Never.

While the American Legion is on record as favoring the McKenzie bill, which is the former Fordney bill, with its cash bonus features, there appears to be a growing feeling that an insurance measure is all that can be passed by the House with a chance of re-enacting it in that chamber over a presidential veto. The service men are seemingly beginning to realize, also, that if the bonus bill is not passed this season, all chances for enacting one will have gone forever.

The Andrew and the Fish bills differ in some slight respects as to the administration of the insurance feature, while the Fish measure makes no provision for opetional cash payments. Andrew's bill excludes officers from its benefits, while the Fish bill includes them, although Fish is ready to accept a compromise on this feature. He insists his bill will not cost more than $100,000,000 in any one year of its operation. There are nine bonus measures now before the committee.

Senate Gets Tax Measure.

While these preparations to wrestle with the bonus bill were in progress, the tax bill was sent over to the Senate, where it will commence its checkered career in that body. Senator Smoot, chairman of Senate Finance Committee, said he expected to start hearings on the bill within a few days. No extended hearings are contemplated, but, despite this, Senator Smoot is uncertain when the bill can be reported to the Senate.

House leaders were indulging in speculations as to the loss of revenue that will result under the Longworth compromise measure. Representatives Mills, Tillson and Hawley insist it will result in a deficit, Mr. Hawley's estimate being $130,000,000 above and beyond the anticipated surplus in the treasury. Joseph F. McCoy, Treasury actuary, submitted figures to Longworth today on the cost of the bill as passed by the House, but they were not made public.

Representative Tillson of Connecticut, one of the "die-hards," who refused to vote for the bill as finally amended, today gave out a statement presumably representing not only his views, but those of the other Republicans who voted with him against the measure.

Compromise Only Makeshift.

"Republicans who still believe that a sound, well-balanced tax reduction plan was being rejected for this makeshift compromise," said Tillson, "were still justified in voting for it as the best that could be done under existing circumstances. Therefore, I have no criticism whatever for those who, trying to secure the best, took the best they could get.

"After all, the compromise is at its best only a makeshift and I failed to give it my approval because I felt that its enactment into law at this time would make genuine tax reform more difficult or impossible hereafter. It makes a horizontal reduction of 25 per cent in the surtaxes, but this is not enough to accomplish the primary purpose of the Mellon proposal and that is to unshackle business investment. If a man cannot swim he will drown in 10 feet of water just the same as in a hundred feet."

Statement by Democrats.

Democrats consoled themselves for the defeat of the Garner rates by claiming the result was a complete repudiation of the Mellon plan brought about by Democratic opposition, and therefore a victory for the opposition. The unpopularity of the Mellon plan, they point out, was shown by the fact that 62 Republicans voted against it.

The attitude of the Democrats towards the compromise measure is expressed in a statement issued by the Democratic National Committee.

"The Longworth-La Follette compromise measure," the committee says, "is almost identical with the Democratic proposal as to certain of its principles, while the principle underlying the higher surtax provisions of the Longworth-La Follette measure are a repudiation of the principle underlying the Mellon higher surtax proposals, and they at the same time tend to approach the principle of the Democratic surtax plan."

"The only two points of substantial difference," the statement continues, "between the Democratic and the Longworth-La Follette measure are first that the Democratic proposal raises exemptions from $1000 and $2500 for single and married persons, respectively, to $2000 and $3000, thereby releasing about 800,000 persons now required to make returns without being subject to taxes, from making any returns, and releasing from further taxes nearly 1,646,000 persons whose average taxes are under $12 each. The Longworth-La Follette measure gives no relief as to these exemptions, although these millions of persons are already paying most grinding tariff taxes.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store; it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

It's Nerve Force From Nuxated Iron that helps make STRONG, MAGNETIC, FORCEFUL MEN, who make their over-mastering presence felt the moment they enter a room.

NUXATED IRON

contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most nearly resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Organic iron enriches the blood and plenty of rich red blood means more nerve force, so that Nuxated Iron not only feeds what might be termed artificial nerve force to the nerve cells, but it stimulates the blood to manufacture a greatly increased supply of new nerve force. If you are weak, nervous or run-down, get a bottle of Nuxated Iron today, and if within two weeks' time you do not feel that it has increased your nerve force and made you feel better and stronger in every way, your money will be refunded. Sold by all druggists.

Y. M. C. A. OPENS COURSE IN REAL ESTATE FUNDAMENTALS

The Y. M. C. A. course in real estate fundamentals opened Wednesday night, Feb. 27, and Cyrus Crane Willmore of the Cyrus Crane Willmore organization, with offices in the Boatmen's Bank Building, conducted the opening session before a body of 70 students after being introduced by Chester A. Daugherty, first vice president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. Willmore's lecture dealt with "The General Introduction to the Study of Real Estate." He took up the development of town and country from the real estate standpoint; the need of the business, and the real estate business as a profession.

His talk was followed by an address by M. H. Rodemyer of the Rodemyer Real Estate Co., who will have charge of the class the night of March 12, and will then lecture on "Residential Renting and Apartment House Management," in which he will discuss the interest of the owner, interest of the tenant, functions of the realtor and the realtor as apartment house manager.

The Y. M. C. A. school of real estate has obtained the indorsement and the co-operation of the local Real Estate Exchange and of the National Real Estate Board in offering the course. The course itself was developed under the supervision of the National Educational Committee of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and of the National Executive officers of these boards. The course will be conducted throughout by St. Louis real estate men.

NEW TYPE OF DUPLEXES FOR PASADENA ADDITION

The Alfred Baker Realty Co. reports active demand for lots in Pasadena, Webster's new exclusive Duplex Addition on Big Bend road. Many lots have recently been sold, upon which various styles of the new Duplex dwellings will be built.

Among the purchasers whose plans have been accepted for immediate building are John P. Chambers and Maurice R. Chambers of the Pedigo Weber Shoe Co., who will erect two California Mission type duplexes, which will establish a high mark for architectural beauty in rental property.

These two family dwellings will adjoin the large Colonial duplex in Pasadena which the Messrs. Chambers have built for their own homes.

L. L. Livingston, engineer, will have charge of construction of these dwellings as well as two semicolonial duplexes which Mr. Livingston will build for his own account on two large Big Bend road lots.

Other Pasadena purchasers whose plans have been accepted are Walter Goez of Webster Groves and Orville B. Suck of St. Louis, and numbers of others have plans about ready for acceptance.

FRANK W. BRAY OPENS NEW REAL ESTATE OFFICE

Frank W. Bray has opened a new real estate office under the name of F. W. Bray Realty Co. at 501 Title Guaranty Building, 706 Chestnut street. He will conduct a real estate, loan and insurance business and will specialize in the sale of West End and South Side homes. Bray formerly was sales manager of the Walter Scott Realty Co. and later manager of the Bull-Smith Realty & Construction Co.

TWO RESIDENCES SOLD BY J. I. EPSTEIN LAST WEEK

J. I. Epstein reports having sold two residences during the last week. One is at 5417 South Kingshighway. It is a 6-room bungalow just finished on lot 32x125 and was sold for Meinert & Kimmich. The other is a two and a half story 9-room brick residence at 5736 Etzel avenue, which was sold for Joseph E. Mattingly to the Rev. Fred Lohmann, pastor of the New Church of God at Marcus and Page avenues.

KENT JARVIS REPORTS WEBSTER GROVES SALES

Kent Jarvis reports the following sales: For the account of Milton C. Campbell a lot in Webster Groves fronting 85 feet on the south line of Fairview avenue with depth of 190 feet to Max Rollig, who was represented by E. A. Kamp.

For the account of Greenlake Investment Co. a lot fronting 50 feet on the north line of Central or Greeley avenue, Webster Groves, to C. A. Dewein, who was represented by Ed Joy.

For the account of W. R. Stobie, his home at 129 Bompart avenue, Webster Groves, to the German Evangelical Missouri College.

For the account of Mary B. Sexton, several lots having a total frontage of 200 feet on the north line of Dunnica avenue to the Hydraulic Press Brick Co.

COL. BENNETT C. CLARK BUYS HOME ON WARSON ROAD

Col. Bennett C. Clark, formerly of the Thirty-fifth Division, and son of the late Champ Clark, has purchased the farm house of the Barbee estate, now located in the fashionable Country Club district.

This building, which is of fine construction, will be enlarged, treated with stucco and completely modernized. The house is located on the east side of the Warson road between the Conway road and Picardy Lane, and stands in the midst of old trees and shrubs. The parcel was owned by Norman B. Comfort. The Associated Realty Co. represented both parties to the transaction. The consideration was not disclosed.

The house will be occupied by Col. and Mrs. Clark as a home.

E. A. KAMP MAKES REPORT OF SEVEN SALES

1017 North Vandeventer avenue, a brick store and flat, to Daniel Emas.

1323 Monroe street, 6-family tenement, to L. V. Cartan.

Three lots of 25 feet each on Genevieve and Thekla avenues, to Arthur Rodefeld.

4813-15 North Twentieth street, a 4-family flat, to Lena Dietzman

A lot, 68x315, on the south side of Forest avenue, Webster Groves, to Elizabeth Queensen.

A lot at Fairview and Bompart avenues, with lot 42½-foot front, to Lena Bischoff and Max Rolling and wife. The owner was represented by Kent Jarvis.

SALES OF TENEMENTS AND FLATS BY T. F. PECHAN

Thomas F. Pechan reports sales as follows:

Flat at 3616 Iowa avenue for William Pitha to George Heinkel; flat at 3624 South Compton avenue for a client to H. J. Uffman; tenement at 1816 South Eighteenth street for Paul Burian to Louis Rubin; cottage at 3733 South Compton avenue for Benjamin Vogel to Jacob Loos; frame cottage at 4757 Seibert avenue for a client of Max Risch to Charles Truhlar; cottage at 5502 Michigan avenue for Charles Wiedeman to George W. Layes; tenement at 1849 Menard street for John Mitas to Joseph Ostrak; flat at 3010 Minnesota avenue to Nick Ebner; the northeast corner of Arsenal street and Ohio avenue for Martin Heinzer to L. A. Walls, who will erect a modern store building.

MODEL HOMES ERECTED IN UNIVERSITY PARK

An original idea in connection with the sale and development of subdivisons has been devised by the Cyrus Crane Willmore organization. This organization has erected several fine small homes in their University Park subdivision on Cornell avenue, the artistic design and stability of which will serve to establish the future character of the neighborhood. Special plans were drawn and perfected by Preston J. Bradshaw, architect, and erection was supervised by him. The homes contain all modern ideas, one special feature being the new Warren-Webster vacuum heating units. One of the homes, of which there were five, has been sold by the Butts Realty Co., this company having recently been appointed exclusive sales agent for all of the buildings, and it will specialize in the sale of the homes only. The homes will be sold without addition of profit over cost of construction.

LE RAE HAT CO. LEASES WASHINGTON AVENUE BUILDING

The Le Rae Hat Co. has acquired a lease through Martin & Breitt of the three-story and basement building at 1216 Washington avenue, together with the entire third floor of the building adjoining on the west, 50x150. The company, which is now located at the southwest corner of Fourteenth street and Washington avenue, was established 19 months ago. Due to the tremendous increase of its business it has found it necessary to obtain larger quarters. The new quarters will give it approximately five times more floor area than it now has. The entire space will be used for showroom and for the sale of women's hats.

The building is owned by Martin Shaughnessy, who was represented by the Martin & Breitt Real Estate Co. The third floor adjoining on the west is under lease to the Goldsmith Clothing Co., which was represented by George Streiff of the Mercantile Trust Co. Martin & Breitt represented the Le Rae Hat Co. in both instances.

Residence in University City Sold. The Hewson Realty Co. reports the sale of 6946 Kingsbury boulevard in University City for Thomas E. Newcomer to O. T. Steudle. The consideration was not announced, but the list price was $20,000. The Hewson company represented both parties to this transaction.

Cost of Beauty

My Cost, $100,000—yours, 50c a week

By Edna Wallace Hopper

My quest of beauty cost mother and me at least $100,000. We searched the world to get the best that science had to offer.

But those helps made me famous as a beauty. And they have kept me a youthful beauty to my grand old age.

Now I want others to enjoy those same helps. I have arranged so all may get them. Any girl or woman may use all my helps at a cost not over 50c per week.

White Youth Clay

My skin is like a baby's, yet my age is 62. I owe that largely to a superclay which France created for me.

Not like the crude and muddy clays so many still employ. This clay is white, refined and dainty. It is based on 20 years of scientific study. No old-time clay brings comparable results.

I call this my White Youth Clay. It purges the skin of all that clogs it—the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It brings that rosy afterglow which so amazes and delights. It combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores.

How it multiplies beauty, how it keeps youthful bloom, is shown by my complexion. No girl or woman can afford to go without it. The cost is 50c and $1.

Two master creams

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which I also found in France. Great beauty experts the world over now employ it, but they charge too much.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. It simply cleans to the depths, then departs. All the dirt, oil, grime and dead skin come out with it. One never knows what a clean skin means until she cleans it this way. My Facial Youth costs 75c.

My Youth Cream is my cold cream—another French creation. It contains both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to foster the skin texture. I use it as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Every hour I keep my skin fostered and protected by it. This matchless cream—my Youth Cream—costs you 60c per jar.

My Hair Youth

My hair is my greatest glory. It is silky, lustrous, luxuriant, and grows finer every year. Dandruff, falling hair and gray hair are unknown to me.

This hair which millions envy is due to my Hair Youth. I apply it with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. There it combats hardened oil and dandruff, which stifle the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. Then hair thrives just as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden. One minute a day does all this. My Hair Youth with eye dropper costs 50c and $1.

All druggists and toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's products. With each comes a guarantee. Experts tell me that these are the best helps in existence. I hope that what they did for me and mine will induce you to try them. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

Health Questions Answered

By Dr. Lewis Baker

An Advertisment Telling How and When to Use Trustworthy Products and Reproducing Extracts of Patrons' Letters Relating to Cadomene, Balmwort, Sulpherb, Arbolone, Su-thol, Mentho-Laxene, Minyol, Hypo-Nuclane, Vilane, Etc.

A. R. asks: "Will you please describe the condition called anemia?"

Answer: Anemia means "a deficiency of blood or of the important constitutents of the blood, commonly termed impoverished blood or a weak, rundown condition of the system."

This condition is easily recognized by the victim when the severe or chronic stage is reached; but not so in the earlier stages, when treatment is most likely to be quickly effective. Thousands are "anemic" and do not suspect it.

Tiring easily, extreme weakness, mental sluggishness, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness, a worn-out, tired feeling when arising, with little or no appetite, are early symptoms of anemia. Later, the skin may become pale or waxy white in the blonde, or in the brunette the skin may become darker, or sallow with great dark circles about the eyes. The lips appear pale or bluish. The hands may become moist and clammy; the pulse weak; the heart may palpitate; shortness of breath occurs; usually indigestion and constipation; sometimes nausea occurs after eating.

To enrich the blood, steady the nerves and build up the system generally, I have never found any medicine so reliable as Cadomene tablets. Where constipation exists I advise Sulpherb tablets be taken in conjunction. This simple treatment is effective, judging by the grateful letters I receive from those benefited.

S. E. asks: "I have tried to cure dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair with numerous tonics, etc., but in vain. What do you recommend?

Answer: I have been recommending plain yellow Minyol for the past 12 years, and my patients are delighted with the quick, pleasant action of the remedy in stopping itching, falling hair, dandruff, etc. It gives the hair health, luster and vigor as nothing else does.

M. K. writes: "Please prescribe medicine which will relieve me of such distressing symptoms of kidney and bladder, as the following: Pains in small of back, soreness in region of bladder, puffing of limbs, etc."

Answer: Those seeking relief from kidney and bladder disorders should begin taking Balmwort tablets, a very successful formula, in sealed tubes with full directions.

Mrs. O. M. writes: "Lately I was cured of a bad case of bronchitis by using your prescription containing Mentho-Laxene, and have been very grateful and confident of getting good advice. I wish to know of a good, safe medicine to reduce my abnormal weight about 30 pounds."

Answer: I advise that five-grain Arbolone Tablets in the reliable obesity medicine which I always prescribe. In sealed tubes with directions. Druggists can supply you.

B. G. R. asks: "For about a year I have not been feeling well. My skin is pimpled, my tongue is coated, have headache, am sleepless, nervous and bothered with chronic constipation. Please help me."

Answer: You need a laxative, blood-cleansing treatment in the form of three-grain Sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). Overcome the tendency to constipation and gradually your good health, pure blood and clear skin will return.

Miss Betsy writes: "I should like to be advised of a remedy for the severe pains of rheumatism."

Answer: There are several such, but I have found 5-grain Su-thol tablets best of all.

Mrs. R. M. C. writes: "Have had a bronchial cough for two years and would be grateful for advice how to cure it."

Answer: Use the following: Obtain 2½ oz. bottle of essence Mentho-Laxene. Use as directed on bottle. You should get prompt relief and then continue taking until your system is freed of the inflammation.

F. F. writes: "My trouble is that my food don't digest and it causes distress after meals. Can you help me?"

Answer: Procure Triopeptine tablets and take as per directions. Also regulate your diet by eating temperately. Take regular exercise.

M. M. C. writes: "I suffer from catarrh of nose and ordinary treatments do not correct this condition. Please prescribe."

Answer: Success in your case of stubborn catarrh can only be accomplished by regular treatment. Obtain 2 ozs. of Vilane Powder. Directions for use on bottle should be followed. Also use triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve. Apply in nostrils two to three times daily. If constipated, take 3-grain Sulpherb tablets, to assist local treatment.

L. D. J. writes: "I am extremely under weight for my height. I am so very thin. Have tried special diet, but do not gain."

Answer: In my opinion, certain elements are lacking in your system which causes a diminished process in nutrition. For such very thin persons I advise Hypo-Nuclane tablets which should be taken with meals regularly. In a few weeks gains in weight occur daily.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Lewis Baker, Medical Director of The Blackburn Products Co., 312 College Bldg., Dayton, Ohio, has been recommending trustworthy medicines to millions of people through the medium of the newspapers, and doubtless has helped in relieving the ailments and minor infirmities of the public more than any single individual in the world's history; and, by an inexpensive method.

The medicines mentioned by him are pure and free from habit-forming narcotics. They represent the combined wisdom and experience of physician and chemist.

Progressive druggists can supply them. Dr. Baker cannot individually answer letters. By reading his answers to others you should find a case similar to your own.

Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

LETTERS TO DOCTOR BAKER

Mrs. Maude Smith, 33 Sidney st., Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "For six years I have had a bronchial cough every fall and spring. I had doctored with some of the best doctors and got a little relief, but I got so weak and lost appetite. My breath was short and thought I was getting asthma. One day I saw your advice to others for bronchial cough. It was to get Mentho-Laxene. It was wonderful the quick relief I got. I have not coughed for five weeks. I am also using Balmwort tablets for bladder trouble and it is surely doing me a great good. I thank you, Dr. Baker, for your wonderful advice and kindness and you have my consent to publish my letter."

Christian Correia, 11 Bradford st., Lowell, Mass., writes: "I am going to tell you briefly what your wonderful Cadomene tablets did for me. I was all run down; I was weak; I couldn't do my work as usual; I could not sleep well; I had to force myself to eat; I became a terrible physical wreck. I started buying so-called guaranteed patent medicines. They did no more good than water running down a sink. Then I began to despair of ever being well. One day I read your advice about Cadomene tablets. I got two tubes. After using for one week I found the color coming to my pale cheeks. Then I knew I was getting real red blood in my body. I continued and soon found that I had regained my health and strength."

Joseph N. Kenney, 18 Hillsdale Rd., Medford Hillside, Mass., writes: "I was in a very nervous run-down state. Could only sleep with the use of opiates. My hands and legs were numb and doctors' treatments did not help me. I was obliged to give up my work for six weeks. I could not eat with a desire and had terrible night sweats. I have taken only one and a half boxes of Cadomene tablets and find myself feeling 100 per cent better than I have for the past three years. I feel it my duty to offer my appreciation for a medicine which can work such wonders in so short a time, etc."

Hiram E. Moore, National Home, Wisconsin, writes: "A few lines to let you know I am taking Balmwort tablets for kidney and bladder trouble. They work like a charm and are all you recommend them to be and more. I had taken all kinds of medicine without relief. Have let others know the good qualities of Balmwort tablets. You have my unqualified consent to publish my letter, etc."

• • •

Mrs. W. L. Stigers, St. Joseph, Mo., writes: "I am writing to express my thanks to you for your Health and Beauty book and letters of advice, and most of all, for the benefit I have received from the use of Arbolone Tablets. I have reduced 13 pounds in six weeks. Then I quit taking them two weeks to see if I would regain. I did not gain an ounce, and am taking them again as I wish to reduce 10 pounds more. I have gained absolute faith in your advice, etc."

• • •

Mrs. F. Durand, 932 Brook St., Piqua, O., writes: "Our baby had a severe cold and a terrible continuous cough that worried both my husband and self almost to distraction as baby is only 20 months old. I then thought of triple strength Mentho-Laxene Salve; greased his chest, put him to bed and that child never coughed again till morning, when it was loose, and he is better all the time. This Salve can't be beat. Thank you, etc."

IRREGULARITY IS FEATURE OF WEEK ON THE MARKET

Speculative Sentiment Mixed and Traders Adopted a Waiting Attitude — Industrial News "Spotty."

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Evening Post, in its weekly copyrighted financial review, says:

"Irregularity characterized the markets during the past week, speculative sentiment being mixed and traders adopting a waiting attitude. Industrial news continued 'spotty' but was on the whole encouraging. The heavy industries are still going ahead at a fast rate, and record car loadings for the season show that the distribution of goods is large. Nevertheless, stocks of materials are not being accumulated except in cases where seasonal factors make such a policy imperative. Our steel factories, for instance, are operating at the best rate of the year, with the leading interest at approximately 93 per cent of capacity; yet steel products are not being stocked, forward contracts are moderate, and hand-to-mouth buying continues to be the general policy. Such a condition obviously is a healthy one. On the other hand, the textile trades are in an uncomfortable position, but the trouble here is the disturbed condition of the markets for component raw material, and the situation is not representative of industry as a whole. The public is a discriminating buyer, but buys freely at a price and of those things, such as automobiles, electrical apparatus and homes, which make for a higher standard of living.

Tax Compromise Helps.

"Certainly the markets give no signs of weak speculative positions. Stocks have withstood shocks such as the passing of copper company dividends without being subjected to liquidation of any severity. They have rallied back well whenever the shorts have tried to cover. The inference is that the public has been staying pretty close to shore in the matter of speculative commitments, just as merchants and industrialists have in the matter of business commitments. A conservative attitude prevails in the securities markets as well as in banking and business. Meanwhile the cotton market, in which speculation for the rise does seem to have reached considerable proportions during last fall, acts as if the 9-cent decline had left it in a well liquidated position. At about 28½ cents trade buying appeared which disclosed a good sized short interest.

"Announcement that the insurgent Republicans had agreed to the Longworth compromise on the tax proposals brought a prompt market response, which showed that uneasiness over Congress has been one of the chief restricting factors. Fear of the Garner proposals or of no tax revision at all have had a distinctly depressing effect. The tax matter and the administration's inability to carry through its programs probably have been more disturbing than the highly advertised oil scandals. Developments of the past week show, however, that it is not impossible to bring the discordant elements of the administration party together and that the President's veto power still is something to be reckoned with in framing legislation.

The Foreign Situation.

"The news regarding the reparations negotiations remains good. The investigations by the experts have gone forward with unexpected smoothness. Britain's labor government has displayed a restraint and a desire to be conciliatory. The Germans seem to realize that they must accept terms and need a quick settlement, while the French are showing a disposition to be moderate. The problems still contain many elements of great difficulty; over-optimism would be foolish. Nevertheless, the chances for an agreement seem increasingly bright."

"Irregularity continued to be a feature of the financial markets as the week closed. In stocks, selling pressure was resumed at the opening against a number of industrials which had been found to be vulnerable, and this served to hold back other stocks, but the tone remained firm. During the second hour, however, the buying side had its innings, and vigorous bidding for specialties, particularly Cast Iron Pipe, the motor stocks and some of the rails, especially Southern Railway, improved the appearance of other parts of the list. Prices, nevertheless, were rather irregular at the close. Trading was quiet throughout. Bonds also were quiet with a firm tone.

"Surplus reserve of $22,057,000 is shown by the weekly statement of the New York Clearing House as against a deficit of $5,600,000 in the previous week. Loans and discounts increased moderately, the total amounting to $14,702,000, while demand deposits rose $48,879,000 to a total of $3,872,425,000. Slight increases in time deposits and circulation was revealed."

Exchange Market Quiet.

"Trading in the foreign exchange market was quiet with a narrow range of quotations for most currencies. In general the tone was firm. Offerings and demand for sterling were well balanced and at $4.25⅝ the price was unchanged. French francs moved up gradually to 4.17 cents, showing a gain on the day of 2½ points and Belgian francs added 3¼ points to their recent recovery. Some interest was attracted by further weakness in Indian rupees, which sagged 20 points to 29.70 cents, a new low for the year. Spanish pesetas also made a new low with a decline of 1 cent to 12.54, and Canadian dollars were down 1-16 at 96.62, the weakness in this currency being seasonal.

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—In today's two-hour trading period the price movement was extremely varying.

At the outset heavy selling bore down upon the rubber and tire shares. Kelly Springfield got down within a point of its record low, made last October, and there was a severe drop in United States Rubber common and preferred. The selling extended to Goodrich and to the lower-priced members of the group.

Along with the rubbers went the Northwestern rails, which have been under pressure ever since the publication a few days ago of the January earnings statements with their very poor showing. Northern Pacific made a new low and so did St. Paul preferred and Chicago & Northwestern, but Great Britain preferred offered better resistance.

The general list refused to be influenced by the uncovering of these weak spots, and in the last hour was inclined to do better. Operations for the rise were resumed in the motor truck stocks, partly anticipating the favorable report by Mack Trucks next week.

A remarkable jump in United States Cast Iron Pipe common was ascribed to the running in of a short interest put out at the time the New Jersey court made its extraordinary decision that a supposedly noncumulative preferred stock was in reality cumulative.

Nothing of consequence happened in the foreign exchanges. One reason for the past month's recovery in sterling has undoubtedly been reconcilement of British finance to the price situation. But an important part was also played by the sharp curtailment of British buying of high-priced American cotton. This showed in the January trade figures published some time ago, and it is now shown again in the detailed statistics. In December the trade balance with the United Kingdom ran $94,000,000 in our favor. In January it was reduced to $54,000,000.

The Bond Market.

Definite news that the House had voted for the Longworth compromise tax bill by an overwhelming majority strengthened the tone of the bond market today. While no unusual advances were registered and the volume of trading did not increase, the trend was upward.

Liberty Bonds were strong all around. United States Treasury 4¼s sold at approximately the highest level of the week, large blocks of Government bonds changing hands. Foreign Government bonds were steady around recently quoted prices.

In the corporation bond list issues such as Canadian Pacific 4s and New York Central 5s were fractionally higher. Seaboard Air Line bonds continued their upward movement. On the other hand, Northern Pacific bonds were heavy in sympathy with the stock, which went to a new low for the year, on poor earnings for January.

A sensational advance in Norfolk & Western convertible 6s and an equally sensational decline in Virginia-Carolina bonds were the outstanding features of the week. The former went to a new high record price for the year on rumors that the Pennsylvania Railroad would lease the road and guarantee the dividend of the stock into which the bonds are convertible. Much activity prevailed in railroad bonds such as Seaboard Air Line securities, all of which went to new highs for the year on a very large turnover, the Southern Railway issues and the Eries, all of which advanced.

The trading in foreign bonds also was heavy and prices had an upward trend. French 7s and 8s registered new high record quotations for the year and Belgian 8s also sold at the highest level of the year. The advance of those issues were on expectations that the Dawes commission would accomplish something tangible on reparations.

New financing was on a small scale this week, the aggregate having been only $49,454,000. The total for the month was $422,567,000, or an average of more than $100,000,000 a week. So far this year new financing has aggregated $835,122,600, compared with $1,006,393,076 the corresponding period of last year.

Dry Goods Market Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The cotton goods market today displayed improvement both in the demand for finished and unfinished goods. Sales were larger but prices very irregular and low in comparison with cotton cost. Yarns were irregular but sold moderately, burlaps showed little change; fancies in silks, most sport goods, sold more freely for spring; hosiery continued to sell at very low prices. More inquiry was reported for spring underwear. Linens were in fair demand.

ENGLISH RAILWAY YEAR REPORTED AS FAIRLY GOOD

Money Outlook Suggests Comparatively Little Change Unless a Trade Revival Proceeds Rapidly, of Which at Present Few Signs Are Visible.

Special Wireless Dispatch to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, March 1. — Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in financial review, today, says:

"The labor outlook still is disquieting because a miners' strike probably will be averted only by a further rise in the price of coal, which, plus recent concessions to the dockers, must inevitably occasion a rise in the cost of living. Our national accounts are making a good showing up to date and there is a possibility that the fiscal year will close with a surplus of £30,000,000 or £40,000,000. That should not, however, cause undue optimism about the next budget, which will be adversely affected by certain losses in revenue for the new year of at least £40,000,000.

International Outlook.

"The best quarters still take a serious view of the international political outlook, owing to the reparation crisis. The committees of experts probably will report that German balances abroad are large but not in liquid form, while France apparently still is unprepared to face the fact that any substantial reparation payments are unlikely for a prolonged period. It is impossible, therefore, to determine whether disappointment over this situation will yet lead to any serious financial and political developments in France. Meanwhile the League of Nations is proceeding immediately with measures to establish financial reforms in Hungary; but even under the best circumstances an early external loan is improbable.

"The money outlook suggests comparatively little change unless a trade revival proceeds rapidly, of which at present there are few signs. Cables from your side, indicating that the Federal Reserve discount rate will not be reduced, confirm expectations here.

Rail Year Fairly Good.

"Our English railway year has been fairly good, while on the basis of the last dividends the yields to investors on ordinary stocks ranges from 7 to 9 per cent. Nevertheless, any important rise in prices of these stocks is prevented, first, by nervousness about further labor difficulties, and second, by the belief that high freight and passenger rates ultimately must occasion serious public protests."

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, March 1.—Summer street wool markets began a new month today with high hopes that business would prove more satisfactory than was the case in February. Despite the extra day last month, February sales were considerably under normal. Prices, however, held firm.

New York Rubber.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Rubber—Smoked ribbed sheets, spot 25¼c.

ENGLISH RAILWAY YEAR REPORTED AS FAIRLY GOOD

Money Outlook Suggests Comparatively Little Change Unless a Trade Revival Proceeds Rapidly, of Which at Present Few Signs Are Visible.

Special Wireless Dispatch to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, March 1. — Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of the London Morning Post, in financial review, today, says:

"The labor outlook still is disquieting because a miners' strike probably will be averted only by a further rise in the price of coal, which, plus, recent concessions to the dockers, must inevitably occasion a rise in the cost of living. Our national accounts are making a good showing up to date and there is a possibility that the fiscal year will close with a surplus of £30,000,000 or £40,000,000. That should not, however, cause undue optimism about the next budget, which will be adversely affected by certain losses in revenue for the new year of at least £40,000,000.

International Outlook.

"The best quarters still take a serious view of the international political outlook, owing to the reparation crisis. The committees of experts probably will report that German balances abroad are large but not in liquid form, while France apparently still is unprepared to face the fact that any substantial reparation payments are unlikely for a prolonged period. It is impossible, therefore, to determine whether disappointment over this situation will yet lead to any serious financial and political developments in France. Meanwhile the League of Nations is proceeding immediately with measures to establish financial reforms in Hungary; but even under the best circumstances an early external loan is improbable.

"The money outlook suggests comparatively little change unless a trade revival proceeds rapidly, of which at present there are few signs. Cables from your side, indicating that the Federal Reserve discount rate will not be reduced, confirm expectations here.

Rail Year Fairly Good.

"Our English railway year has been fairly good, while on the basis of the last dividends the yields to investors on ordinary stocks ranges from 7 to 9 per cent. Nevertheless, any important rise in prices of these stocks is prevented, first, by nervousness about further labor difficulties, and second, by the belief that high freight and passenger rates ultimately must occasion serious public protests."

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange review today, says:

"Sterling exchange stood altogether apart from the other European exchanges in the display of steadiness all through the week, being constantly bought to provide importers requirements, the absorption on that account on some days reaching extremely large volume and more than offsetting speculative offerings based on the belief that weakness in other quarters would undermine sterling. The extreme range of sterling all through the week amounted to 3 cents, a decline in the early part of the week after strong opening, being followed by a moderate recovery.

"French exchange had wider fluctuations, rallying from the low point of 4.07½ cents in the previous week to 4.44, which was followed by a decline to below 4.10, but there was another interval of strength after that movement, after which the market held firm although receding slightly from the high level that had been reached on the rally. It was a matter of general understanding that a heavy short interest has been created in French exchange and that instead of selling further spot exchange, those concerned in bearish operations are offering French futures at a discount.

"Belgian exchange followed French closely on its movements, showing weakness in the first two days and then rallying, and Italian continued to present the same firm tone it had maintained for a long time. Exchange on Holland also swung over a wide range, first advancing to 37.29 and then dropping to 37.18. A feature of the Continental exchanges was the weakness in Spanish exchange, peseta checks selling down to 12.54, a new low for the year. Norway, after being under pressure early in the week, became strong in the last few days. Argentina exchange was strong at the beginning of the week in connection with the bond offering, when it sold to 34.60, but had a sharp decline to 33.85. Brazil yielded to 11.90, a new low for the year, and Chile also made a new low for the year, declining to 10.00. Indian exchange was heavy, rupees falling from 30.10 to 29.70. There was renewed pressure against Japanese exchange, yen ranging from 45.05 to 44.70.

"Trading in the foreign exchange market was quiet with a narrow range of quotations for most currencies. In general the tone was firm. Offerings and demand for sterling were well balanced and at $4.25⅝ the price was unchanged. French francs moved up gradually to 4.17 cents, showing a gain on the day of 2½ points, and Belgian francs added 3½ points to their recent recovery. Some interest was attracted by further weakness in Indian rupees, which sagged 20 points to 29.70 cents, a new low for the year. Spanish pesetas also made a new low with a decline of 1 cent to 12.54, and Canadian dollars were down 1-16 at 96.62, the weakness in this currency being seasonal."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GRAIN PRICES HIGHER ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 1.—Grain futures closed higher on the local market. Good weather in the West prompted some selling of wheat early but light primary receipts and hope of a higher tariff had a favorable influence on sentiment later, as did also private estimates that the farm reserve stock of wheat is the smallest since 1918, and that the Dakotas and Minnesota have only about enough to furnish seed.

In the local cash grain market red wheat was ½c lower. Demand was limited and there was only partial clearance. Hard wheat was scarce and ½c higher. Corn was steady to ½c higher. Demand was fair. Oats were steady to ½c lower. Demand was fair.

Corn futures showed tendency to sag in the period after the opening, though the range was limited. Wheat futures showed little change. Liverpool wheat closed ⅝ to ⅝d lower.

May wheat opened at $1.10; July wheat, $1.09⅝; September wheat, $1.09⅝; May corn, 80⅞c; July corn, 81½c and September corn, 81½c.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 592 cars of wheat, compared with 895 a week ago and 760 last year, Minneapolis receiving 197 cars, Duluth 21 and Winnipeg 374.

Local wheat receipts, which were 102,995 bushels, compared with 150,800 a week ago and 94,800 last year, included 55 cars local and 24 through. Corn receipts, which were 78,400 bushels, compared with 288,400 a week ago and 111,800 last year, included 39 cars local and 17 through. Oats receipts, which were 12,600 bushels, compared with 210,000 a week ago and 66,000 last year, included 48 cars local and 15 through. Hay receipts were 16 cars local and 11 through.

Stocks in St. Louis public elevators were 1,321,680 bushels of wheat, 1,292,318 bushels of corn, 290,063 bushels of oats. Grain stocks comprised 116,159 bushels of No. 1 red winter wheat, 394,024 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat, 124,109 bushels of No. 1 hard winter wheat, 292,076 bushels of No. 2 hard winter wheat, 104,944 bushels of No. 2 corn, 64,272 bushels of No. 2 yellow corn, 80,288 bushels of No. 2 white corn, 4856 bushels of No. 2 oats, 139,940 bushels of No. 2 white oats, 65,735 bushels of No. 3 white oats, 8823 bushels of No. 2 rye.

Primary receipts of wheat were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 735,000 bushels. Corn receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 1,776,000 bushels. Oats—Receipts were lighter than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 798,000 bushels.

Primary shipments of wheat were lighter than week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 437,000 bushels. Corn shipments were lighter than a week ago and lighter than a year ago, being 736,000 bushels. Oats shipments were heavier than a week ago and heavier than a year ago, being 616,000 bushels.

Clearances were 107,000 bushels of corn, 15,000 bushels of oats, 54,000 barrels of flour and 243,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

BETTER UNDERTONE TO WHEAT ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 1.—There was a little more interest exhibited in the wheat market today and the market had a better undertone. Locals were inclined to fight the advancing tendency of prices because of the sharp break in cotton and the dip in corn. Commission houses quietly absorbed these offerings and some of the buying was credited to Eastern account. B. W. Snow's report on farm reserves was bullish and he estimates that there is only 94,000,000 bushels of wheat in all positions for surplus and carry over on March 1 compared with 102,000,000 bushels carried over last year. President Coolidge will proclaim the full increase in the wheat tariff in a few days, is the information said to have come out of the White House yesterday according to report here and this had a bullish influence. Murray estimates the winter wheat crop based on present conditions at 545,000,000 bushels compared with 572,000,000 bushels produced last year. Export demand was quiet. Wheat closed ⅝@1⅛c higher, May $1.11⅛@1.11¼; July $1.11⅛; September $1.11⅛.

Corn was under pressure from a leading local professional and some of the smaller longs. There was good investment buying on the break mostly for outside account. Snow estimated farm reserves on March 1 at 1,165,000,000 bushels. Indications are for a heavy run of corn Monday, majority opinion being for between 500 and 600 cars with some estimates as high as 900 cars. Consignment notices were much better yesterday. Shipping demand was light. Sales were 48,000 bushels. Market rallied on short coverings and closed ½@⅝c higher, May 81¾@81⅝c; July 82@82⅛c to 82c; September 82¼c.

Oats were under pressure from leading longs but buying was fair when wheat rallied. Shipping demand was good with sales of 118,000 bushels reported. Market closed ⅛@½c higher, May 48⅝@48⅞c; July 46⅝c; September 43½c.

Provisions were easier because of the heavy deliveries, over 1,000,000 pounds of lard and 450,000 pounds of bellies. Cash trade is slow. Lard closed 2½@7½c off; ribs 7½c off and bellies 2½@5c lower.

Weekly Butter Review.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 1.—Under heavier supplies the butter markets became easier, and worked to lower price levels during the week ending March 1, with but few exceptions operators lacked confidence. Buyers in anticipation of further possible declines, purchased very close to requirements. From the standpoint of the retailer demand was satisfactory. Viewed from the statistical side the markets were in a much less favorable position than for some time. The accumulation of trading stocks amounted to nearly 15,000 tubs despite efforts made to keep floors clear.

A contributing cause to the weakness was the marked improvement in quality. A small proportion of the arrivals showed wintry defects resulting in a corresponding increase in the proportion of fine butter.

Imports continued to wield the balance of power in the markets. Without them the markets would undoubtedly have been short of butter. Actual arrivals amounted to 12,500 boxes of New Zealand butter at Boston; 3415 boxes of Argentine; 1400 casks of Danish; 425 casks Swedish; 405 casks Siberian and 150 casks of Holland butter at New York.

During February importations at New York totaled 4,806,320 pounds including 3,481,184 Danish; 692,552 Argentine; 588,000 New Zealand; 70,000 Swedish; 45,584 Siberian and smaller quantities of Holland, Assyrian and Italian butters.

HOG PRICES REFLECT ADVANCES FOR WEEK

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

	Last Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.
Cattle and calves	18,878	14,901	18,352
Hogs	106,752	119,872	81,181
Sheep	4,188	6,971	4,429
Horses and mules	1,864	1,587	2,995
Totals	131,682	143,331	106,957

Aside from cattle, values for which were steady to 25c lower, livestock markets showed an advancing tendency at the St. Louis National Stockyards last week. Receipts were normal, the combined offering totaling 131,682 head. This total embraced 18,878 cattle and calves, compared with 14,901 the previous week. A weak undertone was displayed in most classes of cattle during the week. Beef steers closed steady to 10c to 15c lower for the period; light yearlings generally 25c lower; butcher cows weak to 10c to 15c lower; canner and cutter cows steady; beef and bologna bulls 15c to 25c lower, and stocker and feeder cattle about steady. Steers carrying a beef covering ranged in price from $6 per cwt. or under for a common kind to $9, $9.35, $9.50 and $9.75 for some of the more attractive offerings. The majority of all sales were in a spread of $7.50 to $8.75. While top sales in light yearlings reached the $9 column, the bulk of sales were $5 to $8. Butcher cows were most numerous at $4 to $5.75, although some of the better kinds scored $6 and tops reached upwards of $7. The low end for butcher cows was $3.75. Cutter cows cashed mainly at $2.75 to $3.50 and canners at $2.25 to $2.50. Low end for canners was $2 and high $2.75. In bulls, beef animals with weight were valued at $5 to $6 generally and bolognas at $4.25 to $5. Stocker and feeder cattle, in light supply and demand, changed hands generally in line with the previous week. Most of the steers commanded $4.50 to $7.10. Veal calves suffered sharp declines throughout the week, opening on at $13.25 to $13.50 basis and closing with best lights bringing $10.50 to $11.

Hog Receipts Generous.

Hog receipts for the week again proved generous with the six-day total at 106,752 head, compared with a run of 119,872 for the previous week and a comparatively light offering of 81,181 for the corresponding period a year ago. Receipts this week showed good quality with a generous proportion of the well-finished Northern hogs included. Although prices the fore part of the week inclined downward, gains during the latter part more than compensated for this fact and closing sales are somewhat higher than for the previous week's windup. The closing sessions witnessed active markets with buyers evidently well supplied with orders. Best butcher hogs averaging from 190 to 250 pounds at the week's close are selling in a spread of $7.30 to $7.35 mainly with the closing top at $7.40. This range in price shows a gain of 20 to 35c over the previous week. Lighter hogs followed the advance of the stronger weights and offerings averaging from 160 to 180 pounds are also 20c to 35c higher at $7.15 to $7.30 largely. There was a keen inquiry for this class on the close from the shippers. Pigs are unevenly higher with the large part of the advance on the strong weight kinds. Offerings averaging from 130 to 150 pounds are 25c higher than a week ago at $6.50 to $7 mainly. The medium weight kinds also are 25c higher with the 110 to 130-pound averages clearing in a range of $5.75 to $6.50 largely. Prices on the light pigs and pee wees from 110 pounds and down ruled steady to strong at the close with sales ranging from $4.75 to $5.75 mostly. Common pee wees and trashy kinds sold in some cases as low as $4.50. Higher prices were also noted on the rough hogs, packers showing an advance of 10c to 15c over the previous week's close. Stags closed steady at $4 to $5 for the large end. Closing prices on the different classes of swine are as follows: Butcher weights from 190 to 250 pounds at $7.30 to $7.40, light hogs and shipping weights from 160 to 180 pounds, at $7.15 to $7.30. Strong weight pigs 130 to 150 pounds at $6.50 to $7, medium weight pigs from 110 to 130 pounds at $5.75 to $6.50. Light pigs and pee wees 110 pounds and down at $4.75 to $5.75 mostly. Sows at $6.15 to $6.25 and stags at $4 to $5.

Sheep Run Light.

Light runs featured the past week's sheep and lamb trade as well as a sharp upturn in prices on the latter named class. For the six days the supply totaled 4188 head, compared with an offering of 6971 for the same six days the previous week and 4429 for the corresponding period a year ago. Quality averaged plain for the week, a number of Southwest lambs and plain half fat offerings being included in the run. These grades are selling little better than culls, buyers finding it hard to move them at anything like satisfactory prices. The top on good lambs last week reached $16 for a consignment of fed western lambs. This is the highest price paid at this market for lambs since June of 1923. Good to choice lambs show an advance of 75c over closing quotations for the previous week, with offerings in this class quotable at $15.50 to $16.10. The medium to good kinds show the same degree of advance at $15 to $15.50 with the plain to medium kinds from $14.25 to $15 showing a gain of 50c to 75c. Cull lambs at the week's close are quotable at $10 to $12, the large end of the sales being at the latter figure. Skips range in prices from $5 to $8 with some sales higher, according to weight and quality. Although sheep do not show advances as sharply as lambs, prices on this class show a stronger trend for the week with some kinds higher. Good to choice mutton ewes are quotable at $7.75 to $10, looking strong to 25c higher. The medium grades show no radical change from a week ago at $7.75 to $8.75. For the plain to medium grades sales range from $6.75 to $7.75, according to the weight and quality of the offerings. Choppers and bucks are steady with offerings quotable at $5 to $6 mainly. Canners, too, are steady at $2.50 to $3.50 largely.

Horses and Mules.

Combined receipts of horses and mules at the St. Louis National Stockyards for the week just ended embraced 1800 head including a little better than 200 horses on commission and close to 600 mules. The offering of horses seemed adequate for the demand and values ruled steady on some classes, barely steady on others. While they did not sell high, there was a fair call for good finished work horses and good Eastern chunks, full age. There was also some outlet for farm horses and mares and Southerners that were fat and broke moved without difficulty. It was on the long-haired, light-bellied horses that weakness was displayed. Buyers wanted the good middled, short-haired kinds.

Mules, in smaller supply than the previous week, displayed a good tone under a more favorable local dealer outlet. The best sellers were the 15.1 to 16 hand kinds fat and good quality. The hardest to sell were the little, cheap kinds. Offerings sold on the alleys and through auctions.

NEW YORK, March 1.—No sales were reported in the local raw sugar market today, with prices nominally unchanged at 7.22c for Cuban, duty paid. There were rumors of sales of Cuban at 7.16c, duty paid.

Raw sugar futures were easier under selling by trade interests and commission houses, prompted by the easier tone in the spot market and the continued light inquiry for refined. Closing prices were 4 to 6 points lower, March 5.43c, May 5.49c, July 5.55c, September 5.54c.

The refined situation was unchanged with prices at 8.90c to 9.15c for fine granulated. Refined futures nominal.

Sugar futures closed easy; approximate sales 18,000 tons. May 5.49; July 5.55; September 5.54; December 5.04.

Receipts Lower Egg Prices.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 1.—Record breaking receipts for this period of the year broke the egg market today. Dealers paid but 23 to 25 cents while many stores retailed them at 27 cents per dozen one-half the price quoted 10 days ago and the lowest on March 1 for many years.

COTTON CLOSES WEAK AT A SHARP DECLINE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A continuation of yesterday's selling movement in the cotton market today caused a further severe decline which carried prices fully 2 cents a pound below the high levels of Thursday and into new low ground for the movement. May contracts sold off to 28.20c, or 95 points below yesterday's closing quotation, and the close was at the lowest with the market weak. Old crop months showed net losses of 93 to 109 points and the new crop was 45 to 55 points net lower.

The market opened easy at a decline of 13 to 49 points under overnight selling orders and heavy liquidation promoted by weak Liverpool cables and reports of good weather in the South. After showing net losses of about 35 to 85 points, the market rallied 20 or 25 points from the lowest on covering and trade buying to fix prices, but the demand was readily supplied and prices weakened again later in the morning. Numerous stop orders were uncovered during the progress of the decline and local brokers attributed much of the selling to liquidation by people who had bought earlier in the week on expectations that the rapid improvement in the demand for cotton goods would lead to a general buying movement in raw cotton. The break to 27.93c for March and 27.50c for July carried the market 93 to 98 points net lower on the old crop months and well under the lowest prices touched on the decline of last Tuesday.

New crop months were relatively quiet, but October sold off to 25.20c, or 35 points net lower, while December broke to 24.90c, making a net decline of 55 points. Private cables said the decline in Liverpool was due to liquidation because of yesterday's break in New York and complained of a poor demand.

Sales of print cloths in the Fall River market for the week ended yesterday were estimated at 100,000 pieces or about double the recent average week's business. It is reported that ocean freight room for 1000 bales of cotton has been booked for shipment out of New York for Bremen and that additional room is under negotiation. Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 105,000 bales, against 88,000 last year.

Galveston Cotton Statistics.

GALVESTON, Tex., March 1.—Cotton exports from Galveston during the week ending Friday were 8301 bales; previous week 39,673; same week last year 59,207. These figures do not include the month-end movement yesterday which totalled 34,334 bales. Cotton exports for the season to Feb. 29 were 1,718,510; last season, 1,573,226.

Coastwise shipments for the week, 13,083; previous week, 9626; same week last year 9499; coastwise shipments for the season 671,056; last season 448,199.

Receipts for the week 20,701; previous week 28,831; same week last year 25,703. Receipts for the season 2,642,587; last season 2,196,277.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Take Salts to Wash Kidneys if Back Pains You or Bladder Bothers.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

PRINCESS LOUISE OF BELGIUM IS DEAD

Name of Count, for Whom She Left Husband, Last Word That Passed Lips.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, March 1.—Princess Louise of Belgium died at Wiesbaden today from double pneumonia after an illness of ten days. She died with the name of Count Mattachich, for whom she left her husband, Prince Phillippe of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, more than 20 years ago, the last word that passed her lips. She uttered it just before she lost consciousness early this morning.

A strong and powerful woman, the Princess fought to the last. She never completely recovered from the shock of Count Mattachich's death in Paris, in September, 1923.

The major-domo of King Albert's household has instructed that the body must be buried in a manner befitting her rank of Princess and daughter of the late King Leopold.

The announcement of the Princess' death has caused widespread sympathy and sorrow in Belgium, where she was always popular.

Sought to Correct Unhappy Marriage by an Elopement.

Much romance has been woven into the story of Princess Louise, who sought to correct an unhappy marriage by an elopement and who suffered the afflictions of confinement in an insane asylum, of virtual disinheritance by her father, King Leopold, of the pressure of creditors who seized her effects and sold them, and finally the death of the lover with whom she had lived for 25 years. After losing him she steadily declined, taking no more interest in life and subsisting by the bounty of the royal family.

She was born in 1858. In 1875 she was married to Prince Phillipe. It was said to have been a forced marriage, extremely distasteful to her. Her own writings concerning it say she ran from the wedding couch in terror. Nevertheless, she bore two children by the Prince and lived with him for 20 years.

In 1897 she eloped with Count Gena Mattatich, a Hungarian cavalry officer of noble birth. Prince Phillippe followed them to the French Riviera, where he was slightly wounded at a meeting with the Count. Soon afterward the Princess was apprehended and placed in an asylum in Austria and her lover Count spent four years in prison on a trumped-up charge of forgery on which he had been convicted. He had determined to free the Princess, but it was necessary to be most cautious in his own movements, feeling he probably was under watch. It was not until three years after his own release that he was able to communicate with the Princess, to reach her in the asylum and to lower her to the ground by a rope, with which he then let himself down. They hid in swamps and suffered all sorts of privations until able to get over the French border, where they were safe. Their life together was not again disturbed.

Debts Ran Into Millions.

The world heard of the Princess thereafter mainly through her efforts to get a share of the estate of King Leopold and through debts which her lavish style of living piled up in Munich and other cities. They were variously computed at from $4,000,000 to $8,000,000. When, after the World War, pressure was made for a settlement of balances in excess of proceeds from the sale of her effects, she proposed that the royal house of Belgium settle in francs, at post-war exchange.

In 1906 Prince Phillippe obtained a divorce. In 1921, the Princess renounced all claims upon his family and resumed her titular status in Belgium, without living there, however, or enjoying any of the emoluments of the station.

From the time of the divorce, the Princess and her Count had a quiet establishment in the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne, which for some years was maintained in part by an allowance from the daughter of the Princess, who had married Duke Ernest Guenther of Schleswig-Holstein. This pension suffered such shrinkage with the fall of the German mark that it was necessary to surrender the Avenue house and to move to a cheap little hotel in a by-street of Paris.

The Count died there in October, 1923. The Princess, distressed for means to provide for his burial, said in her despair that she would write her memoirs and give them to any one who would provide a decent funeral and take the body to Hungary for final rest among his kinsfolk. Money was soon forthcoming, without any demand for the memoirs in return. There was a church service, and burial in the cemetery at Batignolles. One report said a sympathetic American furnished the money; another and more widely credited report was that King Albert of Belgium furnished the money, through the persuasion of his Queen. For weeks, thereafter, while still living in the cheap hotel, Princess Louise had means for a daily drive to the cemetery, with fresh flowers for the Count's grave.

Gov. Hyde in Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Gov. Hyde of Missouri, and his brother, Ben C. Hyde, Superintendent of the State Insurance Department, arrived here today from Florida. They were joined here by Dr. E. B. Clements of Macon, candidate for the National committeeship for Missouri. They would not discuss politics. Gov. Hyde said he expected to be here for several days.

1,124,000 UNEMPLOYED MEN A SERIOUS PROBLEM FOR BRITAIN, LLOYD GEORGE SAYS

Reduced Trade Balance Another Cause for Worry—Recovery of Foreign Debts Would Be Great Help.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE, M. P.
(Former British Prime Minister.)
LONDON, March 1 (By Cable).

THIS is the fourth year of abnormal unemployment in Great Britain. Trade is undoubtedly on the mend. But although steady improvement is indicated by trade returns and the numbers dealt with by the various agencies providing for the workless, the upward movement is slow and stubborn and there are many disquieting features in the outlook.

Let us consider the bare statistics of unemployment. The figures for 1921, the first year of the great slump, are vitiated by the effects of the most devastating labor dispute ever seen in this country—the coal strike or lockout. Let us, therefore, start with 1922. On the first of January, 1922, the registered unemployed numbered 1,906,000. The next few months were full of promise and of hope. Trade showed signs of returning life and the business man looked forward to recovery to normal in 1923. Many talked airily of a coming boom. By the middle of October, the dismaying figures of January had fallen by 30 per cent.

But 1923, instead of being a year of maturing hopes, was a year of gloom and disappointment. The improvement, without being altogether arrived, was checked and slowed down perceptibly. Where there were marked increases in any branch of business, they were due to causes in themselves unsatisfactory and unhealthy. For instance, the leap up in our coal exports. They reached the boom figures of 1913. This was entirely due to the closing down of the German coal fields, owing to the invasion of the Ruhr and the consequent passive resistance movement of the Westphalian miners. Whilst this disturbance gave a temporary spurt to our coal exports to Germany and France, at the same time it inflicted much injury on European trade and retarded its recovery. The value of coal exports from Great Britain to Germany, France, Belgium and Italy during 1923 amounted to 24,000,000 pounds. If this sum is deducted from the total of our exports to Europe, the balance shows a considerable falling off in our European trade for 1923.

Figures on Unemployed.

So it comes to pass that the unemployment figures stand today at 1,124,000. In the first 10 months of 1922, they fell by 30 per cent. During the last 16 months, they have only decreased by 16 per cent. After nearly three and a half years of unexampled depression, the numbers of fit men unable to find work are higher than they have ever been in this country. These unemployed registers by no means account for all able-bodied men who are seeking, and seeking in vain, for some means of earning a decent livelihood for themselves and for those who depend upon them for subsistence. The published figures do not cover uninsured trades, and the numbers of "black-coated" (white-collar) men who are out of work can only be estimated. The bounty of the state has, so far, not reached them and they are too proud to avail themselves of the charity of poor funds.

Taking all these unfortunate people into account, we should not be far wrong in placing the number of fit unemployed today at 1,500,000. To realize the full dimensions of the problem, one must also recollect that there are now 700,000 men who, before the war, would have been competitors in the labor market, but who have been disabled by wounds and are now maintained out of taxation drawn from the industries of the country. There are, therefore, 2,200,000 adults out of work in Britain and dependent entirely for their sustenance on taxes. Savings have long been exhausted and trades union employment funds have been depleted.

Unless trade expands to such an extent as to absorb these masses upon whom idleness has been enforced, British statesmanship will be confronted with a new problem of the gravest character. A million men in the prime of life, with nothing to do but walk once a week to an office where they draw a money grant which supplies them with bare sustenance, will inevitably in time ferment mischief. What are the prospects of absorption?

About Production Per Man.

One of the mysteries of unemployment today is the fact that, in spite of trade depression, the numbers actually employed in our industries are equal to those at work during the prosperous year immediately before the war. What is the explanation? Shorter hours of labor in many important industries and, in some trades, vicious slowing down in production, necessitate more hands for a smaller output.

In the United States the production per worker has increased in recent years. This is largely due to developments in labor-saving machinery and the increasing use of electric power. In Britain, in spite of mechanical devices to aid and supplant, the labor output per head, all around, has diminished. The result is that a larger number of workers is required to turn out smaller results. Naturally, this has an effect in diminishing wages and in the long run it restricts employment.

A number of influential trade union leaders whom I had the pleasure of talking to at Indianapolis told me they had always consistently opposed the policy of restricting output, because they were convinced that, in the end, it would injure the worker by depressing his wages and limiting his opportunities for remunerative employment. "Ca' canny" (systematic slowing down of production by workers) has undoubtedly helped to keep wages in this country on a lower level than the American. And although, for the time being, it has apparently made it necessary that larger numbers should be employed, I am convinced that, in the long run, it will diminish employment.

How comes it that, although the numbers engaged in the various industries are just as large as in 1913 employment figures, there are 1,500,000 still out of work? The growth in population of Great Britain during the last 10 years has been 1,665,000.

250,000 New Workers Yearly.

What matters, however, from the point of view of employment, is the number of adults of employable age who come into the labor market for the first time every year. It is computed that a balance of 250,000 are added each year to those who compete for work in our industries. Before the war, this figure was kept in check by emigration on a large scale. In the 10 years previous to the war, the total number of emigrants, in round numbers, was 2,630,000.

In the ten war and post-war years this number fell to 715,000. That represents a difference of 1,900,000. Probably one-half this number are men and women who are competing today in the British labor market. As there seems to be no immediate prospect of any relaxation in the immigration limits of the United States, this number must go on increasing for some time at a rate to which we were not accustomed in previous years. The dominions, even, seem

Brookhart, 'The Demon' From Iowa, Tells How Farming Was Brought to Its Knees

"Make Government Over for Everybody," Senator's Remedy

Man Who Sits in Back Row of United States Senate and Looks Like Living Protest Against Hard Times in Agriculture, Bristles With Facts and Knows What He Is Talking About.

This is No. 3 in a series of articles and sketches of outstanding figures in the United States Senate in the present political turmoil in that body which the Post-Dispatch sent Clark McAdams of its "Just A Minute" column and D. P. Fitzpatrick, its cartoonist, to Washington to get.

By Clark McAdams
Of the Post-Dispatch Editorial Staff.
WASHINGTON, March 1.

IN the back row on the Republican side of the United States Senate, as far from the throne of political grace as he could be and still remain in the chamber, sits Smith Wildman Brookhart, the insurgent Senator from Iowa.

He was elected in the Senate today chairman of the committee which is to investigate Attorney-General Daugherty. In this procedure the coalition against the Republican old guard resorted to an almost-forgotten rule of the Senate and took appointment of the committee out of the presiding officer's hands.

There are so many kinds of Republican insurgents that it will take time to explain exactly what kind this man is, but most of the Republican leaders and newspapers are agreed that his slant is best indicated by his middle name. There is no better editorial and cartooning sport in the tory press of the party than showing how wild he is, how he would like to run all the railroads into the ditch, and what a howling wilderness we would have if people decided to multiply him in the Senate 96 times.

Certainly he is not the sort of Republican that Iowa has been sending to the Senate all these years. Usually the Iowa Senators have had an aristocratic flavor. Most of them wore Prince Albert coats. There was an intellectual quality about them. They were gentlemen from the small cities and the country manors. There has been a long line of these men from Iowa. Some of them have been striking figures in our latter-day history. It was a dynasty as much at ease in the drawing rooms of Washington as upon the Senate floor. It graced and dignified both. Who does not remember Allison of Iowa, the eloquent Dolliver, the erudite Kenyon? This tradition is best preserved on its tory side by Leslie M. Shaw, tory of the tories, Secretary of the Treasury under Roosevelt—even now, as lecturer and author, warning America against reds.

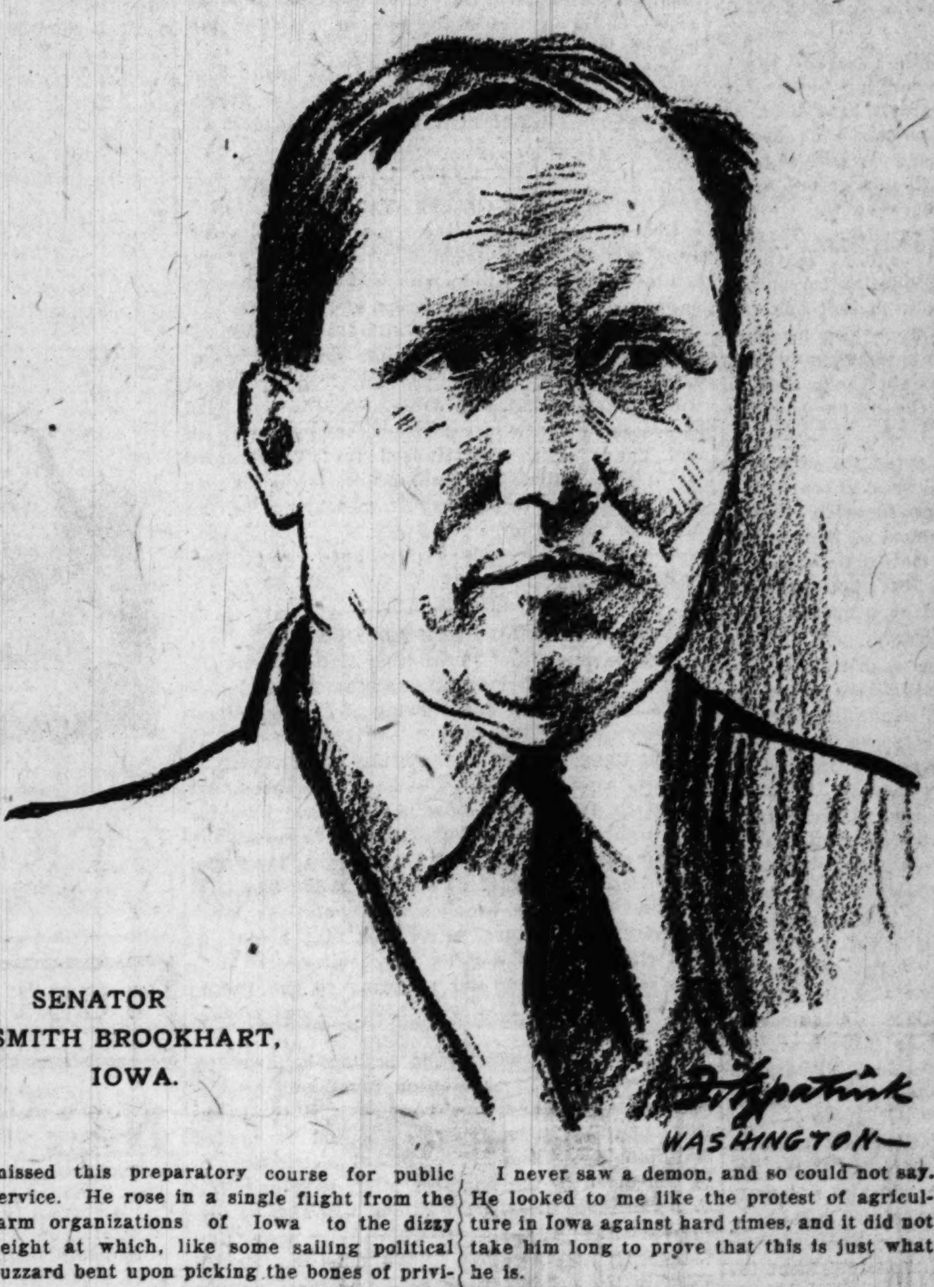
And He Has No Dress Suit.

Well, Senator Brookhart is not in that succession either as liberal or tory. He is not in any Iowa tradition. He is not eloquent. He has never seen a Washington drawing room. He has no dress suit. He graces nothing. He does not come to the Senate chamber in a Prince Albert and he is not truly senatorial in seeming to have stepped from a steel engraving.

He looks as if he had stepped from a rusty Ford somewhere out in the economically beleaguered agricultural country of the Central West, and that likely is what he did.

He is, at any rate, an Iowa farmer-lawyer. He looks it and talks it. He is a short, thick man of great physical strength. If he could gather all the railroad stocks in his powerful arms and give them one good, grizzly hug he doubtless could squeeze out the seven billion dollars of water he says is in them. He has a heavy, round head, and above his low brow his short brown hair shows not a trace of thinness at 55 years. His neck is short and apoplectic, and much the best view of him is to sit directly in front of him and look into his broad and pleasing face. His are the unflinching blue eyes of a rifleman, and rifle shooting is his specialty.

As a smile softens the expression about his mouth and eyes one guesses that however else he did it this man did not carry Iowa by storm. There is no storm in him. People who heard him on the stump say he is not an orator—only a very blunt and forceful speaker who will say anything he believes and has an amazing capacity for information. There is nothing of the politician about him. Indeed, this is his first public office. Usually a United States Senator has begun his political career in some humble capacity like that of representative in the Legislature for the local gas company. Smith Brookhart missed this preparatory course for public service. He rose in a single flight from the farm organizations of Iowa to the dizzy height at which, like some sailing political buzzard bent upon picking the bones of privilege, he is bombarded day after day by the anti-aircraft guns of what he calls the Non-Partisan League of Wall Street.



SENATOR SMITH BROOKHART, IOWA.

It was when Kenyon resigned that Brookhart was elected. He was once chairman of the Republican State convention, and he ran as a Republican. He beat his Democratic opponent by 160,000 votes for the unexpired term. He spent money like a drunken sailor, or $480. He is running again this year for the regular term. It is customary for Senators having their political fortunes at stake for the moment not to spend much time around Washington, but Brookhart is here while the primary proceeds in Iowa. He is a member of the insurgent group in the Senate, and unlike Homer, La Follette never nods.

Most men who knew Kenyon intimately did not know why he resigned from the Senate. Some of them thought he had an exceptional chance for the presidency. He was located right geographically. He was a progressive. Not a few of his friends were openly provoked when he accepted appointment to the Federal Court of Appeals. They felt that he was letting the Harding crowd put him out of the way. "The Senate was better than that, and nothing was too good for him," is what they say. What seems to be in their minds about it is that Kenyon foresaw the storm which was to cast up Brookhart. He is suspected of having concluded, after the Harding Cabinet was named, that it was a good time for Republicans to take the veil, so to speak.

So Brookhart, a Republican of fearful and wonderful belief, unlike anything one of the most respectable of Republican states had ever sent to the Senate, no Republican at all judged by old standards, a veritable wildman in the opinion of the staid Republican press, and breathing political heresy upon everything Republican Iowa had always believed and stood for, packed his scant wardrobe into a plain trunk and gained the seats of the mighty. The farmers and workers elected him. They were in revolt against Republicanism as they had always known and supported it, and they sent one of their own men to see what could be done.

"Farmers Have Been Overlooked"

"Are you that terrible man Brookhart, Republican heretic from Iowa?" I asked, making out as if set to dash for my life did it prove to be he.

He threw his head back and laughed.

"Yes, I am the terrible Brookhart," he said. "Do I look like a demon?"

I never saw a demon, and so could not say. He looked to me like the protest of agriculture in Iowa against hard times, and it did not take him long to prove that this is just what he is.

"The trouble with farming is that it is not recognized as a business," he said. "We have always supported the Republican party in Iowa, but while it has enriched manufacturing and made the great industrial corporations immensely wealthy and incredibly powerful, it has permitted farming to decline in wealth and power to a point where farmers can do nothing but revolt.

"This has been going on for most of your life and mine. It has been of no concern to the Government if the total investment in agriculture earned very little or nothing at all, but the moment the investment in any single manufacturing industry failed of good earnings the Government went to its relief. In 1919 forty-four billions of capital in industry produced goods worth sixty-two billion dollars, while seventy-eight billions invested in farming produced products worth only fourteen billion dollars.

"It is that difference primarily that has made the farmer a bankrupt while the manufacturer grew rich. What the farmer buys costs 65 per cent more than farm products sell for. Distorting what we say about this may be deceiving people in some parts of the country, but it is not deceiving the farmers in Iowa. We saw farming go down, down, down, until it became recognized as the poorest and most unprofitable business in which any great element of the people engaged. People fled from the farms to cities and towns. There is finally a majority of them in cities and towns. They do not want to be peasants.

The Special Privilege Evil

"We see clearly now why this is the case. It is because while subsidizing manufacturing the Government permitted farming to shift for itself. The difference of 65 per cent between what the farmer buys and what he sells tells the whole story. It is the difference between having a subsidy and not having one.

"I wonder how many people realize what the situation in the United States is. We have not the tariff alone as a subsidy to manufacturing. We have the minions of privilege placed in every strategic position. Every branch of the Government, even its least piece of machinery, has a majority which stands in defense of special privilege for every business but farming. Look where you will, in the House or the Senate, or the Supreme Bench, in the Federal Reserve Board, on the Interstate Commerce Commission, wherever form or color is given to law, and you will find the

Segregation in Work Camps of Vagrants Is Urged by New York Magistrate to Prevent Crime

William McAdoo Would Create State Custodial Institution Where Idle and Morally Unfit Could Be Treated Scientifically.

"What shall American cities do about the thugs and gunmen?" This question, which is daily becoming more and more important, is answered in the following article by William McAdoo, chief magistrate of New York City. He would take the handcuffs off the police, drain the pool halls and dives of the predatory idle, and change the vagrancy laws so that men idling on unearned money could be segregated in state-operated work camps.

By WILLIAM McADOO,
Chief Magistrate of New York City.
NEW YORK, March 1.

WHAT can we do about that army of thugs, so appallingly augmented since the war which prowls through streets of our cities?

Well, desperate cases demand desperate remedies. The first thing to do is take the handcuffs off the police. Let them go into the sinks which breed these desperadoes—into the pool and billiard halls, I mean—and arrest the men who do not work.

Let the police drop into these places at irregular times, 10 o'clock one morning, 3 in the afternoon of the next day, 11 o'clock at night. When they find men in there habitually let the police have the power to question them to find out how they get their money.

This could be done by extending the vagrancy law. Take out the "no means of support" class, which gives the suspect the chance to say he is supported by his family and put in something which in effect shall mean that if it can be proved that he does not work he can be locked up as a vagrant.

That's the immediate step. In the future I believe if the present rate of increase in crime is continued, we shall have to have a huge institution where the mentally dead and morally deficient can be held indefinitely and made to do productive manual labor until competent authorities deem it safe for them to mingle in the society of decent people.

Most of Offenders Are in Early Twenties.

Gunmen and burglars who are actual or potential murderers, highwaymen, robbers of all kinds, thieves, pickpockets, rowdies, narcotic drug sellers, and general offenders are young men and women mainly in ages from 16 to 30, mostly in the early twenties. The same is true of those addicted to the use of narcotic drugs.

It is so rare to see a middle-aged or elderly person in such groups that the other day casually looking over a bunch of recent photographs in the rogues gallery, the officer in charge and myself simultaneously picked out a gray haired man as a sort of startling innovation in the character of the types represented.

It was not so in former days. Burglars then were classified as Big Mike and Big Charlie, all stalwart men of middle age and highwaymen carried, as it were, a sort of professional look about them. But the gunmen of today, many of them undersized little runts, armed with revolvers, are quite different. I presume there are many citizens who think that an outlaw who in cold blood and in cowardly fashion would shoot a bank messenger, would either in looks, manner, language or dress differ from the ordinary young man moving in the same class of society. That is not so. There are positively no distinguishing badges by which you can go along a street and pick out the actual or potential criminal from his fellows who live under the same social conditions and are of the same race or people.

I have been held up in broad daylight on the edge of the Palisades by two young highwaymen who looked as if they might have been high school graduates with diplomas in their pockets. Students of criminology have long since abandoned the Lombroso theory that phrenological and facial features indicate criminal tendencies. Some of the best men I have ever known had outstanding ears and some of the slickest and worst scoundrels I have met had ears plastered to the side of their heads like postage stamps.

Army of Criminals Emotionally Deficient.

From the biological standpoint this army of young criminals is emotionally deficient; that is, they are strangers to love affection, pity, sympathy, friendship, charity, kindness, temperance and chastity. They are cruel, selfish, without feeling, cowardly, crafty, lazy, lustful and in many respects have not far advanced from merely predatory animals.

They live only to gratify animal instincts, appetite, sexual degeneration, everything that contributes to the satisfaction of the senses. Coupled with that is their vanity.

In the latest sensational robbery and holdup in Brooklyn the first thing one of the murderers did with the money obtained was to spend it in the company of dissolute women, promiscuous in their sexual relationship.

The next step, if he had not been arrested, would have been to take part in one of the big craps games. We generally, by the way, associate craps with small wagers, but gunmen who rob messengers of thousands and thousands of dollars play a heavy game.

I spoke of the vanity of the gangster and gunman. This is shown by the fact that the leader or prominent member in the underworld of this kind would far rather go to Sing Sing for a term of years than be beaten up and overcome physically by a policeman in the presence of his crowd.

Let a policeman get hold of one of these fellows and in self-defense necessarily beat him up, and the humiliation that attends this physical treatment in the presence of his fellows at once demotes him, shames him. But he is not ashamed of having a criminal record; he is positively proud of it. The higher and more daring his crimes, the greater is he esteemed in the underworld where he belongs.

Murder and Robbery Pursued Like a Business.

The present day young fellows who are doing the robbing and holding up and killing pursue it like a business. Many of them lead a quiet and ostensibly decent life in distant parts of the city, far removed from the scene of their operations. They go to commit robbery or thieving or swindling very much like a business man goes to his work.

Their idle time, especially when they have made a successful haul, is spent with women, in gambling and in the worst of all criminal resorts in the city, a certain class of billiard-pool rooms, which in many instances are nothing better than headquarters for criminals. You can find them in the middle of the day crowding certain moving picture houses, sometimes for the purpose of picking up and associating with women of their own type. The fundamental article of their constitution and by-laws is that under no circumstances shall they do any kind of honest work.

Now, they constitute a big army, not only in cities like New York and Chicago, but all over the country in other cities and big towns. It has been said that these

Our Trouble in the Philippines.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHILE reading the editorial page of Feb. 14 I noted an article on what the constabulary forces are doing to the Colorums. Was that editor ever in the Philippines? Did he ever do duty as a soldier and have the chance to observe and obtain the information first hand of the life of the natives there? Did he ever fight his way through and find one of his bunkies staked out up against an Ant Hill, with the eyelids cut off and out in the hot, tropical sun? Did he ever relieve one of his bunkies at night and find him with his head lying beside him and a mother awaiting his return back home, while all the consolation she will ever get is to hear a firing squad and a trumpeter blow Taps"? Did he ever march all day in the rain, sleep in the rain day after day, night after night, with no Red Cross, no Salvation Army, no Y. M. C. A., no Knights of Columbus and other relief units? Did he ever have a native walk up to him and call him "Amigo," and try to murder him?

Mr. Editor, when you answer those questions, then you are capable of judging the acts of others and to condemn the Americans in the islands as a ferocious, blood-thirsty lot, and open to criticism by the parlor fighters back in the good U. S. A.

Mr. Editor, there is no such a thing as an innocent Moro; they are of the spawn of hell, and think "if you don't do our way, we will kill you; if you don't believe our religion you are an outcast." You know that as well as I do, so why make the lot of the ones hard to travel that know the only way to civilize them is at the end of a rifle, and the old words still hold true, civilize them with a Krag.

Government by Politicians.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE "dere peep-ul" should not overlook the fact that when their beloved political representatives get through, if they ever do get through, settling with the oil barons, for whom they did the second-story work, that said oil barons won't have much profit on said oil robbery.

Sinclair and Doheny are A1 suckers. They put up the money, did the hard work, and the politicians took the profits, as everyone who has tried to operate anything from a peanut stand to a great business body by favor of politicians knows.

Business can survive anything but the politicians elected by the "dere peep-ul" to keep business honest. No wise man will touch a business which must have political favor to operate. He knows that the politicians will take all the profit and all the capital invested. When business must add the cost of "fixing" politicians, elected by the people to make business honest, to other costs, there isn't any business left.

Don't say "elect honest men to office." What honest man will endure the filth and contumely of a political primary and election to serve the "dere peep-ul" at a salary much less than he can make in private service? Politics is inherently dishonest. It makes dishonesty. Now and then a Cleveland or a Wilson goes into politics. He does not go far. The first to throw the stone are the "dere peep-ul." Only a politician can be a politician. There is no hope for honesty so long as government is political.

We are to have a nation-wide debate upon our Constitution. Does the Constitution provide for us against the tariff, Teapot Dome, etc.? Better have a nation-wide debate upon the advisability of substituting scientific, economic government for political government. S. V.

As to German Relief.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

OWEN WISTER has made good as a novelist, but his letter to Gen. Henry T. Allen rebuking him for heading the movement for relief of German suffering is wholly discreditable to Wister, both as an author and as an American. Gen. Allen, who took part in the American offensive in the Argonne, and commanded the American forces in Germany after the war, knows the German people, and, being a soldier, does not believe in waving the bloody shirt over a beaten foe whose women and children are suffering.

Mr. Wister demands that German profiteers "look after their own flesh and blood." Abuse of profiteers in any country never helped the starving poor to an extra crust of bread. One might as well refuse all aid to sufferers in America because a part of their suffering was caused by the profiteering of greedy Americans. Neither the hoggishness of certain Germans nor the bad manners of German officials should put a stop to the movement for the relief of innocent and helpless German sufferers. Mr. Wister also expresses great surprise that an American who fought America's foes in war should be found relieving them in the hour of their suffering. But that is the American way. Let Gen. Allen continue the good work.

THE TAX ON GREAT ESTATES.

An amendment to the revenue bill increasing inheritance taxes has been adopted by the fusion of Democrats and insurgent Republicans. The present rate of 1 per cent on estates of $50,000 and 2 per cent on $100,000 is retained. Beyond that the rate curves upwards, culminating in a tax of 40 per cent on estates of, and exceeding, $10,000,000.

There was objection from the regular Republicans, but Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee supported the proposal, on the ground that it represented a settled American policy of opposition to the accumulation of great fortunes. And to make it effective he will propose a gift-tax schedule identical with the scale of inheritance taxes.

Public opinion, it may be assumed, will approve this amendment. After all, the heirs to large fortunes are few, and it is human nature to make the other fellow pay the tax whenever possible. Parenthetically, it may be observed that if wealth as a whole had not systematically passed taxes directed against it to the next man and the latter in turn to the next, and so on down the line to the ultimate consumer, the tax problem today would be far less acute and the remedies required would be far less radical.

It may further be observed that the hostility to great fortunes is largely attributable to the fact that many of those great fortunes have been acquired by special privilege, increased by special privilege and are increasing today by special privilege, with its contaminating influence on public life and its corrupt relationship between the Government and the beneficiaries of privilege. There is also a thoroughly crystallized public sentiment against the ownership and exploitation for private gain of our great natural resources that ought to be utilized for the public welfare. The machinations of vast wealth, the long abuses and ugly practices which have developed in the growth of corporations have embittered the people and promoted a mood of reprisal.

The public judgment that great fortunes thus acquired and thus administered are a grave menace is a judgment in which the Post-Dispatch concurs. But they are here and the problem is, How is this menace to be met? Can it be met by taxation that approaches confiscation? The lower house of Congress seemingly thinks so and so proposes. The proposal should be fairly considered.

The economic health of the country, the stability of industry, is something in which we are all vitally interested. Under the capitalistic system it is the bread and butter of every one of us. And any policy of taxation that seriously jeopardizes that stability is headed towards disaster. Whether a tax of 40 per cent on great estates will jeopardize industrial stability may be debatable, but that it will be fatal or demoralizing in many instances cannot intelligently be doubted.

A great estate is not so much money piled up. A great estate is enterprise. It is activity. It is business. It is capital at work. Let us take an estate, for familiar example, like the Ford Motor Co. Say it is worth a billion dollars. In the course of events it becomes subject to an inheritance tax of 40 per cent. What effect will such withdrawal of capital have upon that property? Were this tax collected regardless of consequences—and taxes have been so collected—this vast business enterprise might be seriously crippled. If the tax were due and collectible in the midst of a depression, it might mean the collapse of the business—certainly its suspension in part or whole during the period of refinancing—with unemployment for many thousands and with widespread paralytic effect on industry because of the disappearance of such an enormous consumer from the market.

In a smaller way the hypothesis applies to all business. The penalties of drastic inheritance taxes on great estates will not be restricted to the heirs. Labor will pay along with capital, only labor will often pay in privation and want.

Looked at from the broader viewpoint of economics, the prospect is even more disconcerting. Money absorbed by taxes is managed by the Government, that is to say, by politicians, who, whatever their talents, are rarely business men of outstanding ability. Such money is not handled as capably as money in successful enterprise is handled. Too often, indeed, Government revenues are frightfully mismanaged. Long ago Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island declared that, if he were general manager of the United States, he could save the Government $300,000,000 a year. His estimate of possible savings today would far exceed that figure.

Well, waste is waste, wherever it exists, and the evil it does affects us all. It is impossible to forecast the consequences to the country if the ably managed working capital of the country is to be levied upon in huge amounts by Government and extravagantly and incompetently administered. In any event it cannot be forecast in statistics. But it can be predicted in inescapable terms of curtailed prosperity, lower living standards and hard times.

The solution of our present economic ills does not lie in excessive taxation which, in effect, will amount to confiscation. That is quackery, often tried and invariably ruinous. The solution lies in getting back to democracy, in abandoning the fatal path of bureaucracy along which we have traveled far, in resurrecting the Jeffersonian doctrine that the best governed people is the least governed people, in renouncing the deadly centralization that is destroying the very character of our institutions. It lies in simplified, economical government, with justice for all and privilege for none. Privilege is the prolific source of oppression in government and business.

THE HABITS OF E. L. DOHENY.

Edward Laurence Doheny acquired his direct habit of applying money to difficult situations in his Mexican practice. His great oil properties there have never suffered from depredations of bandits or revolutionists. He has invariably been on friendly terms with the established Government, the aspirants for power and the local banditti. Liberal use of money brings this condition about.

There can be no defense of Doheny, but there is a feeling of regret that he should have stooped to such things. He is one of the rich men of the world and he made his fortune with his own hands. As a prospector he found the oil fields of California and of Mexico, and as a driller he sank the first wells. As a producer he made both fields bring wealth to him. If he had only stayed outdoors he would have been a great figure, but when he moved indoors his work became coarse and his fall was certain.

MORE ADMINISTRATION TROUBLE.

The Democrats in the House, with the aid of Republican insurgents, are determined to embarrass Mr. Coolidge with a proposal for tariff revision while the revenue bill awaits action by the Senate. Here is a partisan opportunity which promises well-deserved benefits to a suffering public. The tariff is too easily crowded out of public attention by news of corruption. It is less directly interesting than tax reduction. Yet the people pay more for it in a year than Doheny and Sinclair together hoped to win from the shady oil leases. Its annual tribute is believed to surpass the maximum of proposed tax reductions.

The principle of honesty in Government is all important. But the supreme economic issue is the tariff. Nothing could be more absurd than the administration claim that the sliding scale provision of the tariff law is a sufficient protection to the people. The sugar schedule has been in the hands of the tariff board since a year ago, when the price jumped 3 and 4 cents a pound. It has been estimated by members of Congress that for every cent of advance in the price of sugar the public pays $100,000,000 a year.

A break in the serene rule of the tariff hierarchy—a rule incidentally clinched by the 7,000,000 majority—would give the family providers another day in court.

A NEAR-GREAT SATIRIST.

George Randolph Chester, the novelist and short-story writer, whose death occurred recently, was a minor figure in letters who will be remembered happily, however, as the creator of Wallingford.

An engaging crook was Wallingford, whose operations enlivened the somewhat sour and clamorous muckraking days. Chester, it is presumed was a practical man who wrote stories to sell. Had he possessed a little larger vision the blended clown and knave which he vitalized into Wallingford might have satirized the methods of tricky finance so effectually as to have won a measure of lasting fame for the author.

Chester painted deftly, vividly, but he would not, or did not, dig.

FIFTY BOLD BEER ADVOCATES.

Roy Haynes, Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer, says that "dry" Kansas is slipping, but hopes its good people will again swing the State behind the dry forces. What will he think of the 50 valiant Congressmen, representing 14 of the first-rank states of the Union, who have announced that on March 4 they will introduce identical bills for the modification of the Volstead law, to permit the manufacture and use of 2.75 per cent beers and other light beverages? Fourteen states backsliding, and 50 of the people's representatives inviting Bacchus to return, or at least take a look-in, with the object of making the bootleggers' business less profitable, and restoring to the people wholesome drinks that will cheer without poisoning them?

Will not this phenomenon be the handwriting on the wall to the prohibition fanatics? Also to the bootleggers and rum runners? With drinkable, nonintoxicating beer, cider and fermented fruit juices sold under Government restrictions, to be consumed in the home or other location other than the place of sale, the saloon will also be discouraged as a hang-out where one may find "hootch"; for the new drinks must be carried away in the original package. And there will be such a demand for them that the temptation to sell "hootch" and other intoxicants will be minimized.

So here's success to the 50 anti-Volstead Congressmen. They will be denounced by the Anti-saloon League and all its sympathizers. A flood of condemnation will descend upon their devoted heads. But posterity will bless them for daring to stem the tide of fanaticism and folly that plunged the United States into the evils of Volsteadism.

GUN-TOTING IN SOUTH AMERICA.

Argentina, Brazil and Chile shall each have the privilege of building a capital warship of 35,000 tons in 1927 or thereafter, if the recommendations of the naval conference now sitting in Rome are accepted. This additional armament is held to be necessary for the protection of the commerce and for the national defense of each of the countries.

National pride, and the classic myth that a well-armed country is safe from attack, are largely responsible for this expensive project. The countries are dominant in our southern hemisphere. Their long coast lines are not objects of concern, they are menaced by no foe from overseas and they can hardly fear aggression from the United States. These powerful ships are gestures. They are iron fists which each of the "A B C" nations can shake in the other's face.

There has been a good deal of sabre rattling in South America in the last two years, and much polite compliment from one nation to another on the excellent training of battalions and the smoothness of cavalry maneuvers. That is all vanity and vexation of spirit. The thing most abundantly demonstrated by the World War was that preparation for war is a poor assurance of peace. It is a costly and ineffectual substitute for the rule of reason and law.

THE GOOD NAME OF OIL.

The oil industry is sensitive to the state of the public mind following the recent revelations of the Senate Public Lands Committee. A general conference and demonstration to combat the popular impression are to be held in Chicago during "Petroleum Week," March 24 to 29. "Something must be done immediately," says the call, "to offset the calumny that comes from the muckraker and sensation hunter."

The gratifying fact pertaining to this enterprise is that the oil industry cares what the public thinks. Thus caring it will have reason to maintain a policy serviceable to public interest. Such a policy alone can win the public. It will require more than propaganda to reconcile consumers to recent uniform price increases throughout the land. The industry is not held in odium because of the adventures in corruption of a few speculative operators. It is held in suspicion when it stands as a man against its customers.

MID-SEASON DIRGE.

NOW is the season of our discontent,
The Spring unspringing and the Winter spent.
A dull, drear, friendless time of year withal,
One promised and the other past recall.

It is at such a time one's mood is black,
And packs once nothing bend the spirit's back.
Sad thoughts of Winter roam one's empty heart,
Bright dreams of Summer come and then depart.

It is that no-heart's land between the snows
And all that will be when the southwind blows.
It is that desert of the heart's desire
With neither cold spring nor the cheering fire.

Oft' have I stopped at this dread halfway house,
Where Spring and Winter in their turn carouse.
The one's play ended and the curtain drawn;
The other, fussed and feverish, just going on.

Going down one of the long corridors in the Senate Office Building at Washington one morning last week we were amused to see a bevy of empty liquor bottles sitting outside a door in the manner of shoes at a hotel. They had contained Scotch whisky and gin. The door was not entirely closed, and we pushed it back to discover whether any of the revelers upon this sacred ground remained. It was our intention to grab them, if there were any, and turn them over with the evidence to Br'er Haynes, chief of the prohibition forces. The room proved empty, and seemed to be a committee room. Someone suggested that there had probably been a meeting on the prior night of the Committee on Law Enforcement. Anyway, a crowd was gathering, and as a janitor spirited the unsightly exhibit off a wide-eyed little clerk who had emerged from an office across the hall exclaimed with explosive relief:

"It's lucky no newspaper men came along just then!"

Forty-two per cent of the farmers feel that their financial difficulties are due to low prices of farm products, the United States Department of Agriculture says. Seventeen per cent attribute their condition to high taxes, 11 per cent to high costs for farm labor, 10 per cent to high freight rates, 10 per cent to high interest rates, 6 per cent to reckless expenditures during the boom period, and 4 per cent to too much credit. Probably 100 per cent intend moving to town.

OH! early now the morning star appears,
A jewel that the dreaming Heaven wears
Upon her brow e'er yet she wakes in light
To cast aside Night's dark and smothering fears.

And though the world is cold withal and bleak,
And cutting winds among the meadow seek,
Still does the Day depose the Night and draw
A faint, sweet finger down old Winter's cheek.

So now, I know, though wintry voices cold
Through every crack and crevice shriek and scold,
'Twill not be long e'er creeping green will spring,
And violets blue in every glade unfold.

'Twill not be long—Fear cannot rule always,
Nor eternal darkness rout the recurring days—
Even the Night wears stars amidst her hair,
And on a naked branch a bluebird sways.

MATRIMONIAL PROHIBITION.

From the Philadelphia Record.

MRS. GERTRUDE ATHERTON has been writing so much, and for so many years, that it would be strange, indeed, if she did not occasionally say something true and distinctly deserving of public attention. Her views upon matrimony and upon kindred topics in the social order are not always to be commended, but she speaks truth when she remarks, after outlining the long years of study and the severe course of training necessary to the making of a civil engineer, a doctor, a dentist, an artist and even a cook: "For marriage alone, the event upon which the destinies of the contracting parties turn as definitely as alliances between nations, there is no preparation, no training, no examinations to be passed" But that is about as far as old-fashioned folk will be willing to follow and approve Mrs. Atherton's line of thought. Her idea as to what should constitute "preparation, training and examinations" will scarcely accord with the laws laid down by the teachers of old time who made a sound religious training the basis of future happiness. Mrs. Atherton's recommendations are almost entirely material, with little of the spiritual or even the romantic in them. "Romance," she says, "is beautiful, and all life, as all art, would be the poorer without it, but unbridled and undirected it is the curse of modern civilization." Therefore Mrs. Atherton proposes to bridle it. "There should be a law," says she, "which would make it a criminal offense for a man to marry a girl unless he has a steady job and at least $2000 in the bank. One way to abolish poverty is to forbid it." Ah! Another prohibition scheme that would be simply grand if it would work. And when this law of Mrs. Atherton's goes into effect—this ban upon the jobless young man who has been remiss about collecting $2000—what shall we do for jails to hold the culprits? Some one really should prevail upon Mrs. Atherton to have a heart and reduce the necessary love-nest-egg to, say, $1000. Even so, that would bar out ever so many really capable young men who do not deserve to be so discouraged. But, after all, there is little danger that Mrs. Atherton will be taken seriously.

GUESTS OF THE NATION.

From the Boston Globe.

AND now "the ideals go on"! Here, a century later, is Thomas Jefferson's mansion, Monticello, in process of being purchased by general subscription as a National monument. The plan for its use, once acquired, has just been made public. It is that each year on the anniversary of Jefferson's birth, April 13, three American citizens, who are judged to have rendered the greatest service to humanity—one in science, one in education and one in Government—shall be designated as guests of the Nation. They will be entitled to occupy Monticello, each for three months, and to use this position and distinction as a public rostrum for the popularization of their aims. This plan is in keeping with the dignity of Jefferson's memory, the beauty of his mansion and the spirit of his life. Man of action though he was, he was even more a man of ideas, and to make his monument a vehicle for extending and enriching the public mind is a project worthy of him and of the republic which he did so much to make into a democracy.

1,124,000 UNEMPLOYED A PROBLEM FOR BRITAIN, LLOYD GEORGE SAYS

What about trade to support these congesting millions of workers? Is it there? Is it forthcoming? Britain depends more on international trade than any country in the world. No other country derives such a large proportion of its national income from sources beyond its own frontiers: to be in no hurry to welcome the available surplus of our manhood and womanhood. Britain is not the only country where powerful, vigilant and suspicious labor organizations exist.

It comes partly from goods sold or from services rendered (mostly shipping), or from interest on money advanced to outsiders. In all these respects, war has impaired the British position. We sell less—we carry less—and we receive less. Last year, the volume of our exports was but 74.5 of our 1913 export trade. During and since the war, other countries have built formidable merchant fleets, and there is not the same need for the services of British shipping in the world's carrying trade. Before the war, we were the greatest creditor nation in the world. Although it would not be strictly accurate to say that since the war we have become a debtor nation, it is a fact that, for the first time, we owe large sums of money to another country and have to meet heavy payments externally for interest and sinking fund. We parted with at least 500,000,000 pounds of our external securities and, in addition, we owe 1,000,000,000 pounds to the United States. We have still a balance in our favor, but it has been gravely reduced by the war.

Foreign Debts.

If we could recover the whole of our foreign debts, we should still be well off. But I can see no Baldwins arising in foreign treasuries, and our prospect of receiving payment is therefore remote. Our national debt is 10 times what it was before the war. According to Sir Josiah Stamp—the greatest living authority on the subject—our real national income is less than it was in 1914. How long is this condition of things likely to last? How long can it last without disaster. In spite of the exhausting experiences of the great war, we have not yet by any means consumed our reserves. But we are, to a certain extent, living on them. Will our foreign trade recover so as to enable us to maintain a population which has grown by nearly 2,000,000 since the outbreak of war? And, moreover, a population which is producing less per head than it did in 1913?

I have been pleading for a thorough and fearless examination of the outlook, with a view to dealing with it all the resources, at the command of a resourceful people. I feel that we are drifting in the hope that if we wait long enough the tide will turn and float all our grounded ships. There are reassuring, as well as disquieting, factors in the situation, but it is time that we should weigh and consider both and strike a balance, with a view to strong and decisive action. Thanks to the unexampled self-sacrifice of our people, our credit has been restored. Our taxation is the heaviest in the world, but our credit is the best in Europe. That largely explains the fact that, although our exports last year were only 74 per cent of our pre-war exports, our imports were 93 per cent. Then our coal supplies are unexhausted. Coal is one of our principal international currencies.

Oil for Fuel in Ships.

One would like to know here, also, what effect the substitution of oil for coal in our ships is likely to have upon our trade. A great shipbuilder predicted to me a short time ago that in a few years the mercantile marine will be run on oil. If that forecast is confirmed by events, there is a new element of doubt of a most serious character introduced into our trade. Coal plays a great part in the cheapening of freights and thus facilitating our import and export trade. If that disappears, there is no doubt that we shall be handicapped in our markets.

Surely the time must come for a calm and courageous examination of the whole position, with a view to action. The war demonstrated that, when aroused, the British people are capable of rising to and above the gravest emergency. But they must be told the facts and told authoritatively. They can then be trusted to do the right thing.

Dandruff Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Brookhart, Iowa Demon, Tells of Ills of Farmer

majority against us. For instance, the Federal Trade Commission is against us by a majority of one.

"You are a terrible person if you tell the truth about all this. You are denounced by all the hirelings of privilege and beset with every weapon known to respectability. Yet someone has to endure it all. We cannot go any further with the Republican party when we have come to the end of our rope. It is not, surely, mere contrariness that prompts an uprising which extends entirely across the agricultural North from the Great Lakes to the Pacific. There must be something wrong there.

"We farmers have no illusions as to the remedy for all this. We have gone into our own problem as thoroughly as thinking men could, and have undertaken the fight with faith in only one thing. That one thing is government that is economically representative. We must share power in the Government with all other business. We must prevent it from doing for any business what it will not do for us. If all other business must have a subsidy in the form of a tariff, then the great business of farming must have a subsidy in some other form. If there were no subsidies at all the farmer would not have to pay 65 per cent more for what he buys than he can get for what he sells."

Fictitious Value Earnings.

"Let us take the railroad business. We have to pay dividends upon not only what the railroads cost and what it costs to operate them, but upon all the money stolen by the great railroad pirates. It means nothing to the farmers of Iowa when the Interstate Commerce Commission, controlled by privilege, values the railroads at what they are worth plus the water in them. That is why we are against the Esch-Cummins law. It virtually guarantees earnings upon that fictitious valuation, and we are asked to provide all this money in rates.

"'Let us turn the thing around and say that Jay Gould, Edward H. Harriman and all the other railroad buccaneers had been farmers, and that after exploiting the farms the way they did the railroads we packed an interstate farming commission with farmers and compelled all other business to pay a guaranteed dividend upon a valuation absorbing all the losses sustained by farming because of these pirates. Would the railroads and manufacturers be able to stand it? Wouldn't a terrible yell go up from Wall street, from Judge Gary, from Mr. Schwab and from every other captain of industry?

"Of course. They would be outraged, and the farmer is outraged. That is no less than they have done to him, and you may gather from what has happened all over the Northwest how deeply the farmer resents it. He is in revolt.

"If we say these things it is made to appear that we want for the farmers exactly such tariffs as manufacturing enjoys, which shows how absurd and impracticable we are; that we want Government ownership of the railroads, which everybody recognizes as one of the vagaries of socialism; that we want the Government to make up the losses consequent upon inefficiency, bad management and hard luck on the farm; that we are, in short, crazy.

"We want none of these things, and we are not crazy. We are mad. What people would not be mad, seeing everyone else rolling in wealth but themselves? It disgusts us to realize that we have helped to create a Frankenstein which has at last devoured us. We have been blind, but now we can see."

One has discovered by this time that the insurgent Senator from Iowa is probably a hard man to down in debate before farmers. He knows something. He bristles with facts, and blunt statements roll from his tongue like a string of beads. He says these things with almost no emphasis, without lifting his voice. Evidently mere sound in Iowa has been in flight before substance.

"So much for the grievance—now what of the remedy?" I asked.

"It was not in a day or a year that farming was brought to its knees, and it is not in a day or a year that it is to be brought back to its full stature," the Senator said.

"We, of course, stand together in the farm bloc. Most of us are new here. We have not brought with us the sovereign remedy, and we have too little power in Congress to apply it if we have it. It was not, we must remember, by the introduction of a bill that we were undone, nor can we be done over by any such simple formula. We can, however, be helped when farmers everywhere revolt with us and our power in the Government becomes sufficient for us to hold our own with all other business. There are more of us in this Congress than there were in the last. There will be still more in the next.

"I have here a letter from a farmer who lives 40 miles from the home of the President's father in Vermont. He says he is in the dairy business, but cannot make a living at it. He is going to give up farming and go to town. That is the plight of most farmers. The Secretary of Agriculture says 250,000 farmers are bankrupt.

"Our remedy lies in political and economic co-operation. We must be nonpartisan, just as those who prey upon us are nonpartisan. We must get rid of the middleman, just as the farmers of Denmark and other countries of Europe are getting rid of the middleman, by co-operation. I spent several months of last summer for the co-operatives of this country studying the co-operative methods of farmers over there. We must adopt them here. I think nobody cares seriously to say that farming is a business we can do without. We look to it for food. It cannot go on the way it has been going. The exodus from the farm must be checked. The farm bloc will vote with any party that will help it oust from committees and all other places of power those who are against us. The bankrupt farmers of Illiniois, Missouri, Kansas and other agricultural states will not go on sending to Congress men who are against them. They can't do it and live on the farm.

All Politicians Against Him.

"In Iowa I have against me everybody who formerly controlled politics. That is what elects me. You would think from the attitude of the press and the politicians, the one-time party leaders and the hosts of privilege that I could not carry a county. I am not afraid. No more solemn warning was ever given any party than was given the Republican party by the farmers and workers in those states of the Northwest which have given us our present insurgent balance of power in Congress. We urged Mr. Harding, as we urged Mr. Coolidge, to call a special session for the relief of farmers. They refused, and the party has paid the penalty by losing control of Congress. It will pay a greater penalty still. I am pessimistic about relief for farming at the present session. We can stop legislation, but we can't make it. The Republican tories and Democratic bourbons are against us.

"We have several bills for the relief of farmers before us now. One of them is the Norris bill, defeated by the last Congress. It proposes a Government corporation which shall buy the surplus farm products and keep prices up selling them as best it can. I doubt if it can pass. I do not even know that it is entirely practicable. If it did pass, it would not remedy the basic evil. We must go back to the farmers and the workers, whose interests are identical, and get more men."

So this is Smith Brookhart, one of the hardest-working and hardest-hitting men in the Senate. Not a socialist, not even talking of a third party. He likes Lincoln Republicans and Jefferson Democrats. He likes La Follette. He is against the world court, which he calls the last word in autocratic government. He visited Russia, and thinks we should recognize Russia. He says it has given up communism and joined the co-operatives. Its propaganda is dead, and anyway our own propaganda against Russia was 10 times as great. He is against the Mellon tax bill, and says if he were Secretary of the Treasury he could collect taxes from the rich. He is for the bonus, and says wealth and the war profiteers should pay it. He is for using the rivers and giving farmers the benefit of cheap transportation to the sea for farm products. These things were his platform when he ran for the Senate, and they are still his platform now he is running again.

"What a demon I am! I want all the people of this country to enjoy its great wealth," he said at parting.

FUND CAMPAIGN BY CHURCHES

Share of $1,000,000 for Chicago Seminary to Be Raised Here.

Thirteen Congregational churches of St. Louis have begun a campaign to raise their share of a $1,000,000 fund for Chicago Theological Seminary, the principal school for training Congregational ministers in the Middle West.

The fund will be used for additional buildings and endowment of the seminary. Half the fund will go to construct new dormitories, a library, a chapel, and an administration and assembly hall.

Dr. Joseph H. George, president of Chicago Seminary, until his death last December, was at one time pastor of First Congregational Church in St. Louis.

Join Mount Everest Party.

LONDON, March 1.—The rear guard of the year's Mount Everest expedition left London last night for Bombay, following the departure of the other sections. The party included Meigh Mallory of Cambridge; B. Beetham, a Darlington schoolmaster; J. Hazard, a civil engineer, and A. C. Irvine of Birkenhead. The expedition is taking approved oxygen apparatus for use on the mountain heights.

WORK CAMPS URGED BY MAGISTRATE TO CUT DOWN CRIME

gun-toting thugs have been developed by the war. That is not so. Outlaws and dangerous men are evolved from heredity and environment, and some of them are incurable. The war, it is quite true, did give an immense impetus to robbing and shooting. It is also quite true that a great number of criminals were enlisted during the war. In the nature of things that had to be. The draft was sweeping and effective.

We frequently ask a young fellow in the courts if he was in the army. If he was of the proper age we ask if he was drafted and if he says "no," we immediately institute an inquiry as to why he escaped. Most of them who come into our courts are men who never went overseas. They were caught by the last of the drafts after the cream of the young population had been skimmed off. It is only just to say, however, that quite a large number were so young that they were not drafted during the war.

What are we going to do with them? And, especially, what are we going to do with them before they have committed crime. There is no question whatever that biologists, psychiatrists and psychologists have clearly shown the type which I have outlined above. Some of them ought never to be at large. To that end a State like New York will some day have to face the problem of an immense custodial institution out in the country, self-supporting through manual labor, where these people will be kept and looked after physically—mentally in many cases—during the term of their natural lives.

Limit in All Cases for Young Shooter-Up.

Of course, as it is now, when one of them breaks the law the only thing to do with him is to put him away as long as possible. He positively ought not to be at large. No Judge should for a moment allow himself to be influenced by an extraneous appeal as against the safety to the community. The young shooter-up should be given the limit in all cases. Every day he is at large there is danger of his killing or robbing somebody or committing some desperate crime. There is no use of temporizing with him. If he were caught before he committed the crime and dealt with as I have suggested, an attempt could be made to salvage him. This scheme would, of course, cost great sums of money, but it would be money economically spent, and the problem will sooner or later have to be faced.

It will be a great day for New York when this large, well-administrated custodial institution is established, to which this army can be sent as to an internment camp, where they will have to labor outdoors and indoors, where they will have to be looked after physically and mentally, and taught trades and useful occupations, and where many of them will have to remain during their lives. As it is now, the vagrant law in this State should be strengthened to allow the police to take such fellows in under the charge of vagrancy, just as they would mad dogs and keep them confined as long as possible. It would be kindness and charity to be prisoners themselves, as well as making for the safety of the community.

Treatment Would Not Be Coddling Criminals.

The difficulty is that the moment you begin to talk like this about using scientific methods with criminals, people who have never looked into the subject at once say it is all nonsense. They say we are coddling the criminal, treating him as diseased, covering him with flowers and encouraging crime. But this is strictly not so.

What those who believe in these things are advocating is simply that we shall anticipate the crime as far as possible. And, on the other hand, when they have committed crime, this army of predatory cavemen and women shall be kept for the safety of the public under present methods for as long terms of imprisonment and confinement as possible.

Also we must always keep in mind the rights of first offenders. Those who are mentally and physically sound, who do not belong to the class I have spoken of, who have yielded to sudden temptation, great pressure of circumstances, violent mental agitation or other causes, should be dealt with charitably and kindly. Of these, through probation wisely administered, we can salvage much good material.

Compare J. Orlick's Canaries
With any birds offered for sale. Their wonderful song has won the admiration of hundreds of satisfied customers.
"I am more than pleased."
"I am well satisfied."
"The singer cannot be any better."
"We are perfectly delighted."
Are only a few of the praises I receive. My Canaries are strong and healthy, bred and kept in large sunny flying rooms until they are 5 to 6 months old. Their training is backed by 35 years of experience, with only one aim—to produce high-grade singers.
There are more fine rollers in full song in my house than in all other places combined.

POINTS OUT NEED OF RIVER DEVELOPMENT

Commissioner of Merchants' Exchange Tells of Danger of Rail Tieup.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Charles Rippin, traffic commissioner for the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange, today told the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, at a public hearing on the Denison bill for creation of a $5,000,000 Government-owned corporation for management of Mississippi River equipment, that unless provision were made for river transportation, the next wave of commercial prosperity would find the railroads unable to handle freight shipments.

"When that time comes and I can't predict whether it will come within the next year, or two or within five years, shippers will clamor for facilities, regardless of cost. This will mean a tremendous economic loss to the entire country," he said.

Rippin also stated that he was in favor of extending the service to Pittsburg, St. Paul and Kansas City, on the theory that longer hauls gave comparatively cheaper freight rates.

Rippin followed A. B. Shepherd, vice president of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation of Pittsburg, the largest private concern operating barges on the Ohio River. Shepherd said his company was making heavy shipments on the upper Ohio at one-third the rail rate. If the lower Ohio and the Mississippi Rivers were improved to insure continuous service, he said, other shippers would utilize them for heavy and slow freight.

Shepherd said that had it not been for river transportation, freight shipments during the war would have been hopelessly tied up. He also said that unless the Government aided in the development of the rivers, private capital would not be induced to invest in waterways transportation.

Representative E. E. Denison of Illinois, author of the bill and a member of the committee, predicted the measure would be favorably reported to the House.

GUARD AIR SERVICE INSPECTED

Favorable Report on the Missouri Unit.

The first annual inspection of the air service of the Thirty-fifth Division, Missouri National Guard, was made last week at Lambert-St. Louis Field by Maj. L. S. Churchill, air service officer of the Seventh Corps Area, Omaha, Neb.

The inspection covered the 110th Observation Squadron, 110th Photo Section and the 170th Air Intelligence Section. Maj. William B Robertson of the Missouri National Guard is in command here and Maj. Churchill informed him that the inspection disclosed a satisfactory showing.

The service has 100 men and 17 officers and will get two planes to be used until the eight that have been assigned to the unit arrive, in May.

ou Can Quickly Limber Up ore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

n Chronic Rheumatic Swell- in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder Finger Joints Yield to the ghty Powerful Influence of NT-EASE.

's here, right in town and all gists have it.

's a low price remedy, to be sure, that doesn't stop it from taking kinks, lameness or torture out of troubled joints.

oint-Ease is the name, so called ause it is compounded solely for purpose of relieving all joint ents.

st rub it on the tormented, lame ts and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

PRELIMINARY WORK THIS WEEK TO RAISE CONVENTION FUND

Chairman Geller Says $100,000 Is Needed to Meet Competition in Other Cities.

The Preliminary Gift Committee will begin work this week on the campaign for $100,000 for the St. Louis Convention Bureau. The intensive week, however, does not open until March 10.

Team captains have been selected. A workers' meeting will be held at the Jefferson Hotel Friday.

Chairman H. W. Geller says unless $100,000 is forthcoming St. Louis will not be able to meet the competition of other cities for conventions.

At present only New York and Chicago are ahead of St. Louis in number of conventions, but other cities are going after conventions with great determination.

A speakers' organization has been perfected, and this week an educational campaign will be conducted to inform the public of the work of the Convention Bureau. Speakers will make 10-minute talks at all of the meetings of business and civic organizations this week.

Mayor Kiel will address the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday; Tuesday, Charles F. Hatfield will speak at a meeting of the Civitan Club at the Jefferson Hotel; Julius Seidel will address the Rotary Club on Thursday at Hotel Statler, and on the same day Carl F. G. Meyer will speak before the Kiwanis Club; and on Friday Goodman King will speak before the Optimist Club at Hotel Statler.

Is Iron Hunger Starving Your Blood

Keeping You Weak, Nervous, Irritable and Run-down?

WHAT TO DO

ANY doctor will tell you that if you expect to be strong and well, your blood must have iron just as your stomach must have food or a furnace must have coal. Iron is the food which keeps the blood working for you day and night. Only by satisfying this iron hunger of the pale, thin, watery blood can you build up rich red corpuscles that repair wasted tissue, renew the vigor of your body, and ward off germs of disease. Once you supply this red blood food in the form of organic iron—NUXATED IRON—a most amazing change often quickly takes place.

Nuxated Iron contains iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, and like the iron in your blood. It acts as a powerful strength and body builder, steadies the nerves, puts color in the cheeks and spring in your step. It helps make strong vigorous men and healthy attractive women.

When you get up feeling tired in the morning; when you find yourself nervous, irritable and easily upset; when you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night; pains across the back and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces and collapse in a state of nervous prostration, or until in your weakened condition you contract some serious disease. Simply try taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks and note the amazing change in your health, vigor, energy and endurance. You should be astonished at the results in even a few days time. Success guaranteed or money refunded. At all druggists.

NUXATED IRON ENRICHES THE BLOOD-GIVES YOU NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

An "EASY" Vacuum Washer Will Be Placed in Your Home

Important To You

We have thoroughly investigated these Washers and are convinced of their excellence, knowing that an exceedingly large number has been sold and that they are giving full satisfaction. We believe that the "Easy" Washer is unsurpassed and we are making these special terms so that you can obtain one and immediately enjoy its use with only a small payment. This offer is made possible by a special arrangement with the manufacturer and it applies to only a certain number of Washers.

Act at Once

The moment you see this machine in operation you will be anxious to have one—for it is Easy

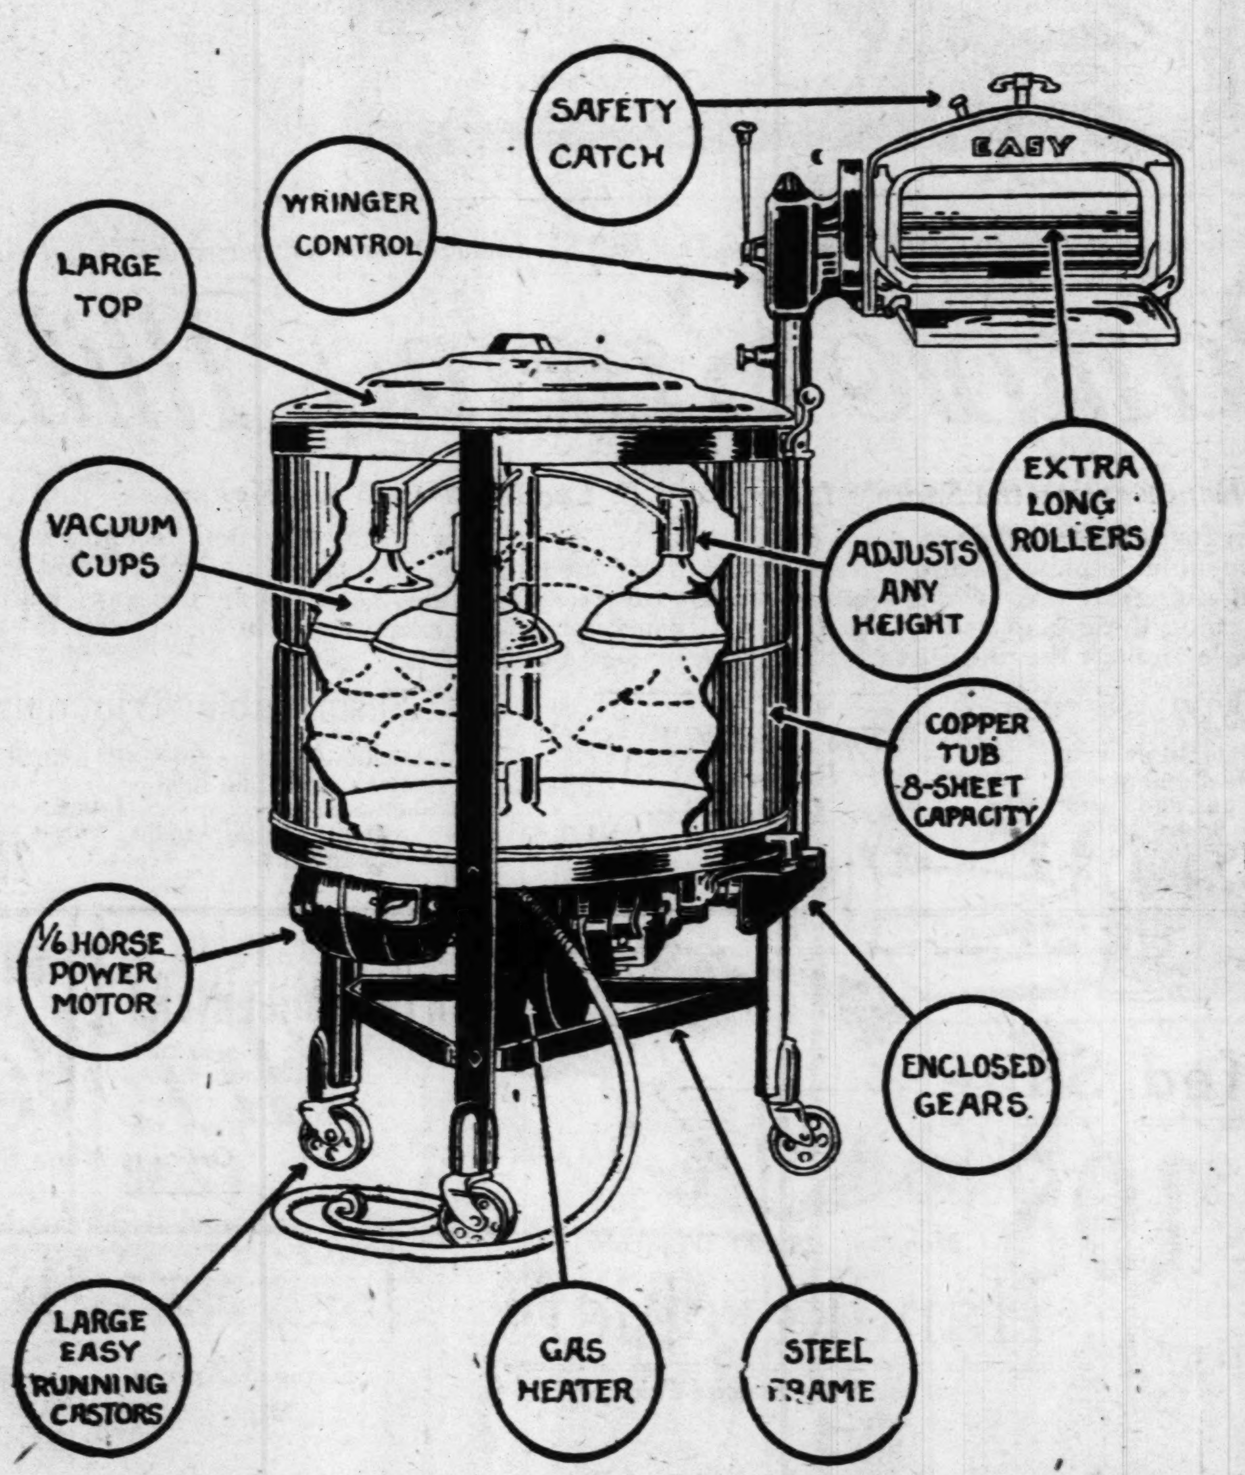
—To Own
—To Operate
—On the Clothes

We suggest that you see the "Easy" here or request a sample washing in your home, so that you will know of its efficiency through experience.

Call Olive 5900
or Central 7900



Outstanding Features—

1. It washes by means of air pressure and suction—eliminates the rubbing so hard on clothes—carries away every particle of dirt without injury to clothes.
2. Simply made and convenient to operate and care for—it is trouble-proof. No corners or corrugations to accumulate dirt.
3. Will wash 8 double sheets or the equivalent which means that the average washing can be done very quickly and easily.
4. It is beautiful in appearance—made entirely of metal which won't warp or crack—smooth polished surface easily cleaned.
5. Four-way wringer swings into any desired position enabling wringing while washing. Equipped with safety device and enclosed gears.
6. Heater attached under tank maintains water at even temperature and does away with the old-fashioned boiler.
7. The EASY is one of the largest capacity washers but will do a small washing just as economically for it is adjustable to any size washing.
8. To demonstrate these features we will gladly do a washing for you in your own home—to convince you of these remarkable qualities.

The EASY Vacuum Electric WASHER

When this big, dependable, easily-operated Washer can be obtained on such favorable terms as $2.50 a week—or 35c a day—can you afford to be without it? It is such a satisfaction to possess an EASY Vacuum Electric Washer that the opportunity to obtain it so conveniently should be seriously considered by all who do not own an Electric Washer. It is so reliable, so serviceable, with its movable wringer attached, copper tub that is as easy to clean as a dishpan, is so efficient in every way that those who have one take special pride in it. To show you how completely the "EASY" will enable you to avoid hard work on "wash day" we will demonstrate it in your home. You will then know what a remarkable time and labor saver it really is, and will realize how much more leisure you would have if you owned one.

The Improved Three-Cup Model Washer

—has been placed in thousands of homes and will no doubt be placed in many more homes through this special offer. It transforms the greatest housekeeping problem into a light, undreaded task, carefully and thoroughly washing a tub full of clothes in fifteen minutes—everything from the dantiest lingerie or baby clothes to the heaviest blankets—washing them in the safe, economical "EASY" way. The "EASY" is the last word in scientific construction and yet it is so simple that it is very easy to operate. Not only is the "EASY" desirable from the standpoint of efficiency but from the standpoint of economy, because the amount of soap, water and current is adjustable to the size of washing—keeping the cost down to a minimum.

A Double Guarantee on "EASY" Vacuum Electric Washers

Every machine is guaranteed a year from the date of purchase, against defects of material or workmanship—both by the manufacturer and Famous-Barr Co. The offer of special terms is effective only between March 3d and 31st, and we suggest that you take advantage of it as early as possible—it is so EASY to own and EASY to pay for an "EASY" on these EASY terms; and you can buy with the utmost confidence, for this high-grade Washer has our endorsement and the approval of the Good Housekeeping Institute.

Basement Gallery

We will do a sample washing in your home without charge and absolutely without obligation, to demonstrate the "Easy's" efficiency.

DENY MISS WANDER PLANNED "JOY RIDE"

Relatives of Dead Girl Say It Was Her First Ride in Connor's Auto.

It now appears that both women who lost their lives when the speeding automobile of "Joe" Connor crashed against the side of a freight train at Grant's Farm crossing on the Gravois road last Monday were taking their first and only "joy ride" with the gambler, and neither knew he was married.

Relatives of Miss Selma Wander, 2011 Sidney street, one of the victims, say that she knew Connor only as "Joe," and that she did not get up the party, as had been related by relatives of Miss Gladys Boyer, 4236 McPherson avenue, the other woman who was killed.

Joseph H. Burns, who with Connor also was killed in the accident, was calling on Miss Wander last Sunday evening, her relatives say, and remarked that a friend of his by the name of "Joe" was going to take them for an automobile ride. In less than an hour "Joe," who it later developed was Connor, drove up to the Wander home in his coupe. He was accompanied by a woman, the Wanders say.

"She must have been Miss Boyer," said Miss Wander's father today. "At any rate, I am sure my daughter did not invite Miss Boyer to go riding because she knew 'Joe' only as a friend of her fiance, Joseph Burns."

TO DIRECT WOMEN'S SOCIAL FUNCTIONS AT CITY CLUB

Mrs. Eunetia A. Brady Becomes Social Secretary—New Facilities Added to Building.

Mrs. Eunetia A. Brady, a former St. Louisan, and daughter of the late John T. Appler, has taken up the duties of social secretary in charge of women's social functions at the City Club. An entire floor of the club's new building is to be set aside for women relatives and guests of club members, and for women's organizations.

Mrs. Brady is the widow of Col. Joseph C. Brady, who was Provost Marshal of the Panama Canal Zone during the war. Following his death two years ago she became secretary to the general comptroller of the United States Shipping Board at Washington.

Construction of the club building has been going on while it has been occupied in part, and additional facilities are being added from time to time. The sleeping rooms for members and men guests are now available and breakfast and dinner are being served in the dining rooms, as well as luncheon. The large auditorium is available for meetings of various kinds.

...w Industrial Commissioner.

...e Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 1.—...ignation of C. E. Anderson of Herrin from the State Industrial Commission was received today by Gov. Small, who appointed James Short of Collinsville, a coal miner, to succeed him. This is the second change in the personnel of the commission within a month.

My Experience is that DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Is just what you need

This Will Make Digestion Easy

WHAT the dyspeptic needs is not soda and charcoal and breath perfumes but a medicine that will help his bowels to move regularly, for dyspepsia and constipation are allied. If you will take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin systematically as the directions on the package call for you will soon digest your food properly and pass it out normally, and heartburn, belching, dizziness, nervousness and bloating will vanish. In time you can dispense with all medicines as Syrup Pepsin will have exercised the intestinal and stomach muscles so they act for themselves. Mr. Lewis F. Schultz of Reasnor, Ia., Mrs. Victor Knodler of 3625 Bank St., Louisville, Ky., and hosts of others will verify this.

World Acclaims Success

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the prescription of a well-known physician of that name who practised successfully for 47 years. It has been on the market thirty years and is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Thousands of families have it in their medicine chest ready when any member shows signs of dyspepsia, constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, biliousness, coated tongue, offensive breath, headaches and such ailments that indicate deranged stomach and bowels. Many serious diseases are prevented by this timely aid.

Formula Plainly Stated

Have no hesitancy giving Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to anyone young or old. It is a mild, gentle laxative free from narcotics. It will not cramp or gripe. The formula is on the package, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and simple aromatics. A bottle can be had at any drug store and averages less than a cent a dose. Economical for families and fully guaranteed. You will find it a great improvement in taste and action over castor oil, or "candy cathartics" made from coal-tar that cause skin diseases, calomel that loosens the teeth, salts in water or powder that concentrate the blood and dry the skin.

LARGER POLICE CIRCUS TICKET SALE URGED

Defeat of Pension Amendment Emphasized in Appeal by Chief O'Brien.

Patrolmen are being urged by Chief O'Brien to sell more tickets for the annual police circus this year than ever before because a proposed constitutional amendment, permitting St. Louis to create a police pension fund, apparently was defeated. Last year the Police Relief Association's net profit from the circus was $116,230. Receipts from the sale of tickets made by policemen in a house-to-house canvass was $91,081.

"This should be a banner year for the circus," the Chief said, inviting contests between policemen to see which could sell the most tickets. "The Relief Association, which provides your only pension in case of old age, should be made financially strong. The funds are for your widows and children.

The tickets will be distributed to the men March 3. It is understood that 50,000 tickets will constitute the first issue. The show will be held April 21 to May 4, inclusive.

The tickets will sell for $1. Policemen will make a house-to-house canvass of the business places and homes on their beats. Tickets will also be distributed in East Side cities and in county suburbs.

The apparent defeat of Amendment No. 3 was felt keenly by all members of the department because of extra efforts that had been made to at last establish some sort of a pension for the police. Four previous efforts in the last 30 years have failed. The Relief Association is the only source of revenue for disabled veterans or widows or orphans outside of the year's salary donated by the commissioners to the family of a policeman slain on duty. The association has a scale of money for retiring veterans and pays a lump sum to the widows of policemen who die.

The department this year contributed about $3000 toward "boosting" the amendment which would have made the pension possible. The money was spent by a committee approved by the Police Commissioners and was expended for advertising purposes.

SIX MONTHS EACH FOR OWNERS OF MUCH-RAIDED BAR

"A Most Aggravated Case," Remarks Federal Judge Davis, Sentencing Joseph Cody and Irvin Lee.

$1000 IN FINES ALSO ASSESSED

Saloon in Central National Bank Building Found Handling Liquor on Dozen Visits by Agents.

"This is a most aggravated case," remarked Federal Judge Davis when he sentenced two owners of the barroom in the Central National Bank Building, Seventh and Olive streets, to six months in jail and fined both a total of $1000 for violations of the Volstead law.

The saloonkeepers, Joseph Cody and Irvin Lee, whose place of business had been raided by Federal prohibition officers more than a dozen times in the last year, had entered a plea of nolo contendere (no contest), which differs from a plea of guilty in legal form but not in effect.

After the indictments, charging the saloonkeepers with illegal sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance, had been read, Judge Davis asked Chief Prohibition Enforcement Agent Nations if he had anything to add.

"Only that my department raided that saloon as frequently as our limited force permitted," said Nations. "There never was another place in the city that had so little regard and so much defiance for the law."

Cody was fined $100 on each of six counts and sentenced to three months in jail for selling liquor and three months for maintaining a nuisance. Lee was fined $100 on each of four counts and sentenced to three months in jail on each of two counts alleging possession and nuisance. Cody was sentenced to the Warrenton, Mo., jail, and Lee to the jail at Ironton, Mo.

An injunction suit seeking to have the saloon padlocked under the nuisance clause of the Volstead law was filed in Federal Court, but Cody and Lee closed the saloon before the petition was served.

POLICE FILE AFFIDAVIT IN SUPPORT OF INJUNCTION

Sergt. Collins Tells How Machines Lined Up in Front of the Sprague Hotel.

The affidavit of Police Sergeant Stephen J. Collins in support of a motion by the Police Department to dissolve an order enjoining the police from raiding the Sprague Hotel, 920 North Taylor avenue, was filed yesterday in Circuit Judge Frey's court. It is contended by the defense that the hotel is not conducted orderly and that many complaints concerning it have been made.

Collins deposes that on the night of Dec. 1 he sat on the lawn of the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium for 45 minutes, and in that time he saw 10 couples enter the hotel, which is across the street. This was around midnight. None of them had baggage, he states. "I also noticed," his affidavit continues, "as many as 10 to 15 automobiles lined up at one time outside the hotel. Some of the numbers I looked up and found that the cars were the property of people resident in the city."

Subsequently the hotel was raided on several occasions, at which time the manager and guests were arrested. The manager, William A. Sprague, was fined $50 in Police Court, but was acquitted on appeal to Provisional Judge Gallant. The answer filed by the defense recites that Sprague is listed in police records as a keeper of disorderly hotels. He declares in his suit for an injunction that the Sprague Hotel is conducted legitimately.

CHURCH APPEAL FOR AID FOR EUROPEAN PROTESTANTS

$10,000 Fund Sought Here as Part of $2,000,000 Being Raised in America.

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, through the Church Federation of St. Louis, is making a special appeal to St. Louis churches, except the Lutheran churches, which have already responded, to contribute at least $10,000 toward the $2,000,000 sought in America for the relief of Protestant Europe.

Pastors have been asked to present the matter to their congregations at today's services and to arrange for a voluntary offering Sunday, March 9.

The appeal to St. Louis pastors and churches states that 50,000,000 Protestants in 17 European countries face destitution and refers to the breakdown of churches, orphanages and other institutions through lack of funds. Millions of children are hungry, thousands have died and many thousands of others will die for want of food before help can reach them, it is stated.

Ziegfeld "Follies" Return to American After Year's Absence

Sothern and Marlowe Play Shakspeare at Shubert-Jefferson—Shaw's "Great Catherine" at Artists' Guild, and "The Unknown Purple" at Empress.

AFTER a season of bereavement, due to an extended run of 16 months on Broadway, St. Louis will once more behold the Ziegfeld "Follies" this week at the American, beginning tonight. E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe open their biennial visit in Shakspearean repertory tomorrow evening at the Shubert-Jefferson.

George Bernard Shaw's bravura comedy, "Great Catherine," will have its first St. Louis performances at the Little Theater of the Artists' Guild on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. The Woodward Players, at the Empress, are undertaking a mystery play, "The Unknown Purple," which had some success in New York a few seasons ago, but has not until now been given in this city. The Orpheum's principal act is a six-scene revue headed by "Doc" Baker, lighting-change virtuoso.

It is the seventeenth version of the "Follies" which is to be presented here—a massive spectacle in 24 scenes, staged by Ned Wayburn and created by a dozen authors and composers, among them Gene Buck, Dave Stamper, Victor Herbert, Ring Lardner and Rudolph Friml. Catherine Meets a Prig.

THE Shaw comedy, at the Artists' Guild, was written, according to the author's confession, to provide a vehicle for Gertrude Kingston, who appeared in the title role, that of Catherine the Great, at the Vaudeville Theater in London during 1913. It tells in hilarious vein of Catherine's unsuccessful efforts to captivate a handsome, conceited and priggish young English officer, Capt. Edstaston, who insists on remaining faithful to his equally conceited and angular English fiancee. The character of Patiomkin Potemkin, Catherine's drunken but able ruffian of a Chancellor, is drawn with broad strokes.

The play will be acted by St. Louis thespians, under the direction of Joseph Solari. Mrs. Herbert Cost will have the part of the Empress, Percy Ramsay will play Capt. Edstaston, and Gordon B. Sommers is cast as Patiomkin. Others in the company will be Charlotte Wagner, Ruth Elsinger, Jane Belle Sante, Norman Bailey, Gustavus Tuckerman and Carlyle

What They Are Doing In the Movie Studios

Richard Walton Tully's picturization of the Rex Beach novel, "Flowing Gold," is about ready for the screen.

Elaine Hammerstein is about to start work on "Driftwood," a story of regeneration by Alfred Payson Terhune. It will be a Truart production.

Walter Hiers has left the Paramount fold and is now playing opposite Dorothy Devore in a Christy comedy.

Shannon Day has signed a Universal contract to play the leading role in a picture with the title of "The Fiddling Doll."

Ernie Morrison (Sunshine Sammy), the dark-hued kid who shines in "Our Gang" comedies, has been in pictures eight years.

Marie Prevost has completed her role in "Rose of the Ghetto," produced by a newcomer in the production field, R. Neill by name.

Lloyd Hughes, now playing in "The Sea Hawk," a Frank Lloyd production, is recovering from a serious pneumonia illness.

Samuel Goldwyn is reported to have paid $100,000 for the film rights to Gilbert Emery's play, "Tarnish."

John Barrymore's latest screen starring feature, "Beau Brummel," is scheduled for release in March.

Bebe Daniels and Lois Wilson will vie with Rodolph Valentino for screen success in the forthcoming Paramount picture, "Monsieur Beaucaire."

Helene Chadwick, in "The Masked Dancer," starring Lowell Sherman, and soon to be released, portrays a dual role as a cabaret dancer and the wife of a business man.

George Archinbauld will direct Corinne Griffith in "For Sale."

"The Next Corner" "Lucretia Lombard" Photoplay Features

Other Local Attractions Are "Don't Marry for Money," "The Man From Brodney's," "The Heart Bandit," "Ladies to Board"—Second Edition of Grand Central Revue.

AT the Missouri Theater this week the photoplay is "The Next Corner," and features an auspicious cast including Lon Chaney, Dorothy Mackaill and Conway Tearle. The stage attractions are the final week of Paul Whiteman's Collegians, who scored a big hit last week, and the return engagement of Sascha Jacobsen, violinist.

"The Next Corner" moves from America to France, thence to Spain and finishes in the Argentine. The exotic life of the upper sets in all of these countries pictured, including carnival night in Paris. The story centers around Elsie, the wife of Robert Maury, a mining engineer in Paris. His profession forces him to leave her for long intervals. While her husband is in the Argentine loneliness conquers her and she joins a wild set and falls in love with a Spanish nobleman, Don Arturo. He invites her to a house party but things go amiss. There is no house party. She is alone with Don Arturo. She is in love with him, infatuated, reckless and does not care. Her conscience bids her write a confession of her new love to her husband. At this point a peasant whose daughter Arturo has wronged, enters and mortally wounds him. Elsie flees but the letter is mailed, and to complicate the situation further Arturo's butler, who has been secretly in love with Elsie all along, seizes this opportunity and endeavors to force himself upon her. In the end there is a reconciliation of the husband and the erring wife. Conway Tearle plays the husband, Dorothy Mackaill the wife, Ricordo Cortez the Spaniard, and Lon Chaney his manservant.

Kathleen Norris' novel, "Lucretia Lombard," in film form, goes on this week at the Capitol and West End Lyric Theaters. The cast includes Monte Blue, Irene Rich, Alec Francis, Marc McDermott and Norma Shearer.

Mary Warren, an adopted daughter in the home of Judge Winship, has always hoped to marry the Judge's eldest son, Stephen, who is now a District Attorney. Judge Winship himself has lived in happiness contemplating the fulfillment of his dream. Stephen, however, has never taken an active interest in the affair, but has fallen in love with a beautiful Mrs. Lombard, a widow.

Marriage of Mary Warren and Stephen is precipitated when Judge Winship is accidentally shot and seriously wounded. He askes that he be permitted to perform the ceremony and Stephen, rather than displease his father and because of the latter's critical condition, agrees. After the marriage Mary Warren sees the truth. Then there is a thrilling and spectacular forest fire in which Mrs. Lombard heroically fights to save Mary's life, resulting in an ending that is both happy and sad.

The second edition of the Grand Central Revue is featured at that theater, together with the appearance of the Arcadia Peacock Orchestra as an added attraction, and the presentation of the photoplay, "Don't Marry for Money." House Peters, Rubye de Remer, Cyril Chadwick and Aileen Pringle are the topliners on the screen.

The stage names include the same cast as last week, Frank Monian, Lorna Doone Jackson, [illegible] Thiede, Sudwarth Frasier, Chat

Cowl's Cleopatra Is a Romping Scofflaw

By HEYWOOD BROUN,
Dramatic Critic of the New York World.

NEW YORK, March 1.

THE present revival of "Antony and Cleopatra," with Jane Cowl, at the Lyceum Theater, must be set down as a disappointment in some respects. It affords an amusing evening's entertainment, but to us the play is a great deal less than a moving tragedy. Whether that is the fault of William Shakspeare or Miss Cowl we are not prepared to say with finality.

We want to blame Shakspeare, for Jane Cowl has never seemed more beautiful than in her present venture. And she is quick to seize upon the comedy value of every opportunity. Still, it seemed to us a great deal less than momentous that Cleopatra had to die. As for Antony's death, that was wholly insignificant. Indeed, the love affair of these young people seemed to be of far less consequence than Shakspeare chose to assume.

Shakspeare and Shaw.

"Antony and Cleopatra" is, as far as we can remember at the moment, Shapspeare's sole attempt to write a play after the Shavian manner. And even in this instance he found that he could not keep it up. Accordingly, the play makes a rapid about face in mid career and scuttles back into the more familiar heroic vein of the Elizabehan.

IF anybody cares to point out that Shakspeare could hardly have heard enough of Shaw to be influenced by him, we can only say that a dramatist so given to anachronisms ought to be allowed a little prevision as well. The Shakspeare who permitted Antony to express a wish to fight his battle in the air might very easily have been stirred by the vision of a later dramatist who would and could do a better Cleopatra.

At any rate, Shakspeare did most certainly borrow the notion of making Cleopatra a modern woman. He brought the Egyptian up to the early part of the seventeenth century, which was about all that could be expected of him. Jane Cowl has begun where he left off and whirled the Queen of the Nile through time until she finds a place among the younger generation.

One even got the impression at times that here was a modern miss who had taken just a shade too much to heart the gestures and poses of some Oriental dancer whom she had chanced to observe in a cabaret. It is a pert and saucy Cleopatra who romps through the earlier part of the play. One recognizes her as a flapper and perhaps a scofflaw.

Little Strangeness and Mystery.

NOW, in all this one is left a little puzzled as to the cause and reason of Antony's great passion. These little feet hardly seem to ache for empires. Of strangeness and mystery Miss Cowl brings nothing to the play until the final scene. But it does not seem to us that this should be held much against her. If these qualities are to appear they must be free-will offerings of the actress. As far as the written word goes, Shakspeare seems to have had small thought of them. There appears to be every reason to believe that his first intent was to minify Cleopatra. Not until late in the evening, when he desired a telling conclusion, did he decide to amplify her to heroic proportions through the eloquence of his verse.

The final tragic note is somewhat incompatible if we are to be told no more than that Antony was mightily smitten with a pretty girl. It becomes necessary to sound a third alarm and summon passion. According to our observation, Miss Cowl is just as quick to sense this need as Shakspeare was. If she is roguish there is ample justification for it in the lines assigned to her. She dies like a Queen, which is perhaps enough.

Only a Fandango.

TO be sure, we must admit that the pity and terror of the final ending are a little belated. There is not so very much in the story as Shakspeare tells it to convince the spectator that these people were of mighty moment. This affair of theirs was no more than a fandango even though they chose to dance it from edge to edge of a mighty empire. But they were gay and spirited and the play fashioned about them is spirited and rollicking, with just enough tragic suggestion at the end to heighten the comedy.

Frank Reicher, who staged the piece, has given it glorious pace. Jane Cowl is a pretty Columbine and Rollo Peters a becomingly grave Pierrot. But we did not feel particularly sorry for either of them. Most of our pity went to Enobarbus, beautifully played by Louis Hector. He must always be the tragic figure of the play for it was his fate to pay the score for a fling in which he had only the part of a spectator.

Karen Bramson's "The Strong."

A LOVE story finally got to the Broadway stage when Karen Bramson's play, "The Strong," written 15 years ago, was presented at a special matinee Tuesday at the Forty-ninth street theater. There is no irony in this description. "The Strong" is one of the few love stories we have ever found in the theater. It is a love story perceived by a psychologist and written by a dramatist.

It is rather needless to say that Mme. Bramson's tragedy has no marks upon it to give it age. Written as long ago as it was, it remains the modern play in New York today. In fact, its modernity may prove fatal to it, from the box-office viewpoint, for in the epic tragedy of the last act those of timid stomach hurriedly grabbed their hats and tried to leave the theater, only to find the terrible fascination of truth holding them in the aisles like so many wives of Lot, breathing distractedly and tittering with slight hysteria at the scene of a blind man trying to find the woman he loves who has just shot herself.

Mme. Bramson has had the courage to dissect love, if dissect can be used without giving the impression that she has written a tiresome play. Having taken it apart, the revelation becomes too shocking for the theater-goer whose delight 's to learn psychology from musical comedy.

Had Production in Paris.

IT is a great pity that "The Strong" should be forced into this city by way of the back door. It was produced last year in the Odeon of Paris without killing a single French manager, but the fragility of those who compose our little group seems to bar this from the risk of reality when it touches a theme so traditional and so futile as the standardized emotion called love among the producers.

As for the acting, Henry Herbert in the role of Prof. Klenow is unsurpassable and the extraneous part of Forsberg is handled by A. P. Kaye with delicacy and intelligence. There remains Miss Helen Weir's work with the powerful role of Aneta. Miss Weir is wholly true in appearance to the type called for by the part, but she semes to lack the physical strength required. At the curtain of the second act she was flawless, a woman truly in love and agonized by her situation.

Next Theater Guild Production.

THE new Theater Guild production, "Fata Morgana," by Ernest Vajda, a Hungarian playwright, will be presented Monday night at the Garrick Theater, with a cast including Emily Stevens, Morgan Farley, Orlando Daly and Helen Sheridan. "The Outsider," an English play by Dorothy Brandon, also opens Monday evening at the Forty-ninth street theater. Lionel Atwill is featured. "Tyrants," a satirical comedy written by Thaddeus Rittner and adapted by Benjamin Glazier, will have its premiere Monday night at the Cherry Lane playhouse.

"Buffoon," by Prokofieff, and "The Arab Fantasia" will be acted Wednesday at the Neighborhood Playhouse as its third subscription bill of the season. Irene Triesch will give a special matinee of Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," in German, Thursday at the Vanderbilt Theater.

Orchestra to Play "Fountains," by Respighi

A WORK representative of the music of "Young Italy"—Ottorino Respighi's symphonic poem, "The Fountains of Rome"—will be presented for the first time in St. Louis at the Symphony Orchestra's concerts on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon. Of all of Italy's present day composers, Signor Respighi is considered the greatest master of the orchestra; he is also probably the best-known outside his own country.

For this work, he had the happy idea of drawing his inspiration from four of Rome's most celebrated fountains, observed at the hour which seemed to the composer most congenial to their characteristics. The movements, to be played without pause, are as follows: "The Fountain of Valle Giulia at Dawn;" "The Triton Fountain in Early Morning;" "The Trevi Fountain at Midday," and "The Villa Medici Fountain at sunset."

Mme. Hempel Is Soloist.

THE soloist at these concerts will be Mme. Frieda Hempel, coloratura soprano, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera. Mme. Hempel has previously appeared here in recital, as a soloist with the orchestra under Max Zach, and in her so-called "Jenny Lind" concert. She will make two appearances at each concert. The program follows:

1. Overture to "Fidelio"..Beethoven
2. Aria, "Deh vieni, non tardar," from "Le Nozze di Figaro".... .... Mozart
3. Symphonic Poem for Orchestra. "La Fontane di Roma"..Respighi I. "La fontana di Valle Giulia all' alba;" II. "La fontana del Tritone al mattino;" III. "La fontana di Trevi al merrigio;" IV. "La fontana di Villa Medici al tramonto." (First time in St. Louis; to be played without pause.)
4. Symphonic Poem No. 3, "Les Preludes" .... Liszt
5. Aria, "Ombra leggiera" ("Shadow Dance") from "Dinorah" .... Meyerbeer
6. Poeme choregraphique pour Orchestre, "La Valse"......Ravel

Smetana's Centennial.

SINCE Friedrich Smetana, the foremost Bohemian composer, was born 100 years ago today, two of his works will be played at the popular concert this afternoon at the Odeon—the overture to his opera, "The Bartered Bride," and his symphonic poem, "The Moldau." The soloists will be Elizabeth Estle Rucker, pianist, and Edward Atchison, tenor.

Mr. Schoenefeld, whose suite will have its first St. Louis performance, is director of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra of Los Angeles. The second movement is a description of American negro life.

The season's final pair of regular concerts, on March 13 and 14, will be the occasion of a Wagner-Tschaikowsky program. Joseph Schwartz, baritone, of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, will be soloist.

Coloratura Who Will Be Symphony Soloist

FRIEDA HEMPEL

Leatrice Joy will be launched as a Paramount star in a picture based on the stage play, "The Guilty One."

Rod La Rocque and Jacqueline Logan will be co-featured in "Code of the Sea," a Byron Morgan story.

"ZIEGFELD FOLLIES" RETURN TO AMERICAN AFTER YEAR'S ABSENCE

Friton. Costumes have been designed by Marguerite Breen.

Cohan Comedy and Al Jolson.

A NEW song and dance show by George M. Cohan, "Little Nellie Kelly," is due at the American next Sunday night, and on the same evening Al Jolson returns to the Shubert in a revised edition of "Bombo." On the night of March 17 Lenore Ulric will make her long-expected appearance at the American in "Kiki." Among her supporting company are Sam B. Hardy, Max Figman, Thomas Findlay, Thomas Mitchell, Carlton Brickert, Harry Burkhardt, Ruth Gates and Jane Farrell.

The melodrama at the Empress, "The Unknown Purple," centers about the invention of a mysterious ray of light which renders the human body invisible. Roland West and Carlyle Moore are the authors. Peter Marchmont, a young chemist, who has been sent to prison on account of the intrigues of a faithless wife, obtains his release and undertakes vengeance, with the result that a series of thrills and surprises eventuates. Hazel Whitmore and Alexis Luce have the principal roles.

The Orpheum's Schedule.

IN HIS revue at the Orpheum, Baker transforms himself in a few seconds into cowboy, Chinaman and other types. The act was one of the features of the program which reopened the New York Hippodrome as a vaudeville house. In his company are Bud and Jack Pearson, dancers; May Pollard, Marie Pollitt, Lesta Page, Yvette Reals, Lillian Hill, Meliss Ballons and the Douglas sisters. Other turns on the bill are those of Charles B. Maddock, in "At the Country Club;" Jack Allyn's "Aces," with Alice Tyrrell; William Sully and Genevieve Houghton, in "Calf Love;" "Senator" Murphy, monologist; Charles Harrison, Sylvia Dakin and Billy Hogue, in "The Three of Us;" the "Medini Trio of equilibrists, and "Bee Ho" Gray, lariat thrower and knife tosser.

Variety and Burlesque.

THE Rialto announces the popular Belle Baker, in jazz and dialect songs; Thornton Flynn, Irish tenor; Zuhn and Dreis, comedians; Carl Emmy and his 18 educated terriers, Russell and Pierce, comedy acrobats; and Beege and Cupee, roller skaters.

The Columbia promises Callahan and Bliss, comedians; Hong Fay Haw, Chinese monogolist; Hugh Emmett and Theresia Lind, in chatter and song; Frank J. Sidney and a company, in "A Morning in a Sportsman's Garden;" the Morton brothers, and Fink's cultured mules. The features film is "Roulette," with an all-star cast including Edith Roberts, Norman Trevor, Maurice Costello, Mary Carr, Walter Booth, Montagu Love, Henry Hull, Dagmar Godowsky, Diana Allen, Effie Shannon and Flora Finch.

The bill at the Grand Opera House is led by an act called "Dancing Wild," taken over from a revue recently defunct. Others on the list include Blanche and Jimmie Creighton, Billy Gross, John and Winnie Hennings, Bayle and Patsy, Willard Hutchhison and Colette Sothern, Hiro, Sumi and Keyo, Pitzer and Day and Siegel and Irving. The Gayety's burlesque show is "Step On It," with Helen Spencer and George Niblo.

Julanne Johnson, leading woman for Douglas Fairbanks in "Bagdad," will have the role of a French danseuse in the Joseph Swickard production of "San Francisco."

George Fawcett, screen veteran, was born in Virginia in 1860.

Constance Talmadge's next picture will be called "Heart Trouble."

Estelle Taylor has been engaged for the featured role in "The Wise Son," for Metro release.

Pageant Chorus to Omit March Concert

THE Pageant Choral Society announces that its second concert of the season, which was to have taken place this month and which was to have presented Dr. Stillman Kelley's "Pilgrim's Progress," has been postponed until next fall. Lack of attendance at a recent concert, at which Wolf-Ferrari's "La Vita Nuova" was presented, dealt the organization a severe financial blow.

The chorus, which is composed of 200 mixed voices, directed by Frederick Fischer, will give a concert next Sunday night at Swiss Hall, under the auspices of the Swiss Turner Society. The program will include "Unfold, Ye Portals Everlasting," from Gounod's "Redemption;" "O Gladsome Light," from Sullivan's "Golden Legend;" Rossini's "Inflammatus," Gounod's psalm, "By Babylon's Wave;" the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah," "Beneath Thy Lattice," a Japanese serenade for female voices, by Hopkins; Fischer's epilogue to "St. Louis 100 Years Ago," and "Celestial Voices Ring Today," a choral setting of the "Artist's Life" waltz, by Johann Strauss.

To Play Spalding's "Etchings."

MISCHA ELMAN'S program at the Odeon on March 15, under the sponsorship of the Friday Music Club, promised an interesting novelty in the first St. Louis presentation of Albert Spalding's "Etchings." This work is in the form of a theme and improvisation, and the intriguing titles of the various episodes are as follows: "October," "Books," "The Professor," "Impatience," "Dreams," "Games," "Sunday Morning," "Hurdy-gurdy," "Desert Twilight," "Fireflies," "Ghosts," and "Happiness." Elman's principal number will be the Bruch concerto in D Minor, Op. 44.

St. Louis is one of 12 cities which will be visited on her forthcoming tour by Mme. Marie Jeritza, Bohemian soprano, who succeeded Geraldine Farrar at the Metropolitan Opera Company. Her local debut will occur at the Odeon on March 18. St. Louis will be the farthest western point of her tour.

The St. Louis Grand Opera Company, which aspires to do for the highest form of theatrical music what the Municipal Theater Association does for musical comedy, will give a series of performances at the Odeon on March 11, 12, 14 and 16. The operas to be attempted are "Il Barbiere di Seviglia," "La Traviata," and "Lucia di Lammermoor." With the exception of Rogeloi Baldrich, tenor, the entire company is composed of St. Louisans. Principal roles will be sung by Mrs. Helen Phillips and Miss Esther Baker. Frederick Fischer is musical director, M. A. Rossini is artistic director, and Miss Adeline Rotty is ballet instructor.

San Carlo Opera Season.

IT is announced that the San Carlo Opera Company, which will appear at the Odeon during the week of March 24, will play the following week at the Auditorium in Chicago, while the Chicago Civic Opera Company is on tour. The San Carlo singers have never appeared in Chicago, although they have had annual seasons in New York and Boston.

William Theodore Diebels, assisted by Thomas J. Hargadon, tenor, will give a free organ recital this afternoon at the New Cathedral. A paper on "Italian Composers and Their Music" will be read by Mrs. T. T. Woods, Tuesday afternoon, before the Musical Research Club at Vandervoort Auditorium. A discussion of the music of classical Italy will be led by Mrs. F. W. Wolf, Wednesday, at a meeting of the Morning Etude, at Baldwin Hall. Free noonday organ recitals will be resumed Wednesday by Arthur Davis at Christ Church Cathedral. The series of recitals based on Wagner's "Nibelungen Ring" cycle of music dramas, which have been given at Hotel Chase by Miss Eilzabeth Morse and Miss Alice Pettingill, came to a close last Monday morning.

I show my age
I'm no longer young
I'm past 40
I'm growing older
Every Gray Hair a Sign Post of Age

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Gorman, Reiff Brothers, Gene Rodemich, Stuart Barrie and Jack Ford's musicians. All material used in the Revue, even down to the costumes and settings, is different from the opening week's production. An elaborate stage setting for the chorus number has been built around the new song, "My Sweetheart," which is presented as the song hit of the show. It was written by Gene Rodemich and Larry Conley of the Grand Central Orchestra, and is sung by Frasier, the tenor.

The picture is about a country girl who goes to the city to make her fortune and finds a position as model in a fashionable establishment. The principal idea of the girl is to marry "wealthy" and the heroine is successful. Afterward, however, she takes little interest in her husband and runs around a great deal with other friends. In this way she meets a scheming villain, who makes her believe he loves her.

Viola Dana and Milton Sills are the stars in "The Heart Bandit," which is the feature at the Delmonte Theater this week. As usual, a revue also is offered. A Sunshine comedy and the short-reel subjects make up the rest of the bill.

As Angel-Face Mollie, Viola Dana has one of her

LILLIAN GENTH'S exhibit at the Kocian Gallery brilliantly heads the displays in St. Louis for March. A Midwest show of the work of this artist, foremost among contemporary American women painters, is a great rarity. Seldom have her pictures been brought West, except in the larger private collections. The subject of her most characteristic work, the nude, is not conducive to the general popularity enjoyed by decorative art which permits of wider adaptability. Accordingly, her pictures are to be found in museums and private collections where technical achievement receives higher appreciation than does mere ornamental value.

In the present display of 16 of Miss Genth's canvases, the range of subject matter includes costume and character studies in addition to a number of her well known paintings of the nude. The handling in each instance is strong, swift and direct.

An unusual combination of feminine refinement of conception and masculine strength of technique is felt in Miss Genth's nudes. They interpret the personification of

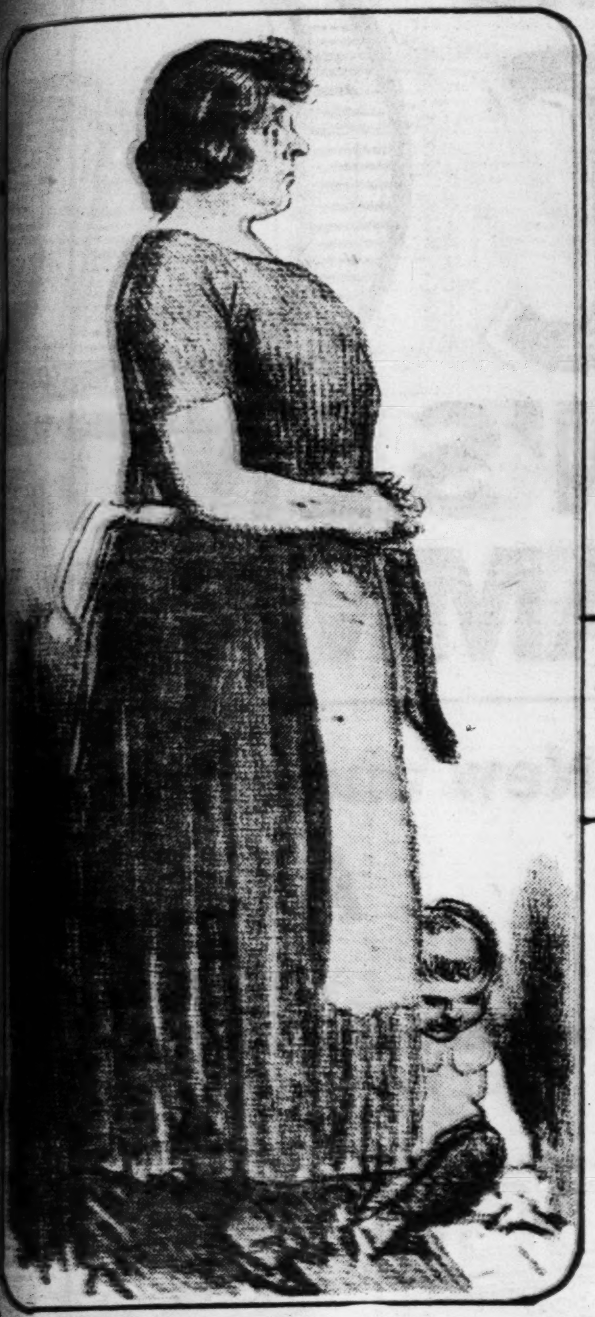
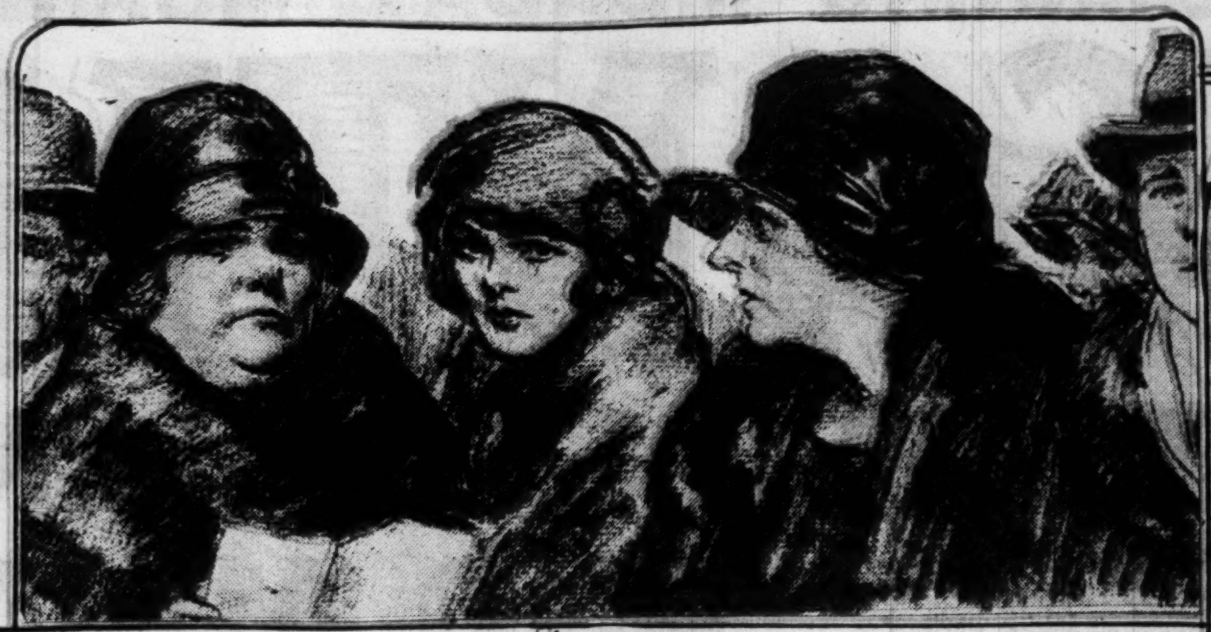
FEBRUARY BLUES

(Copyright, 1924.)

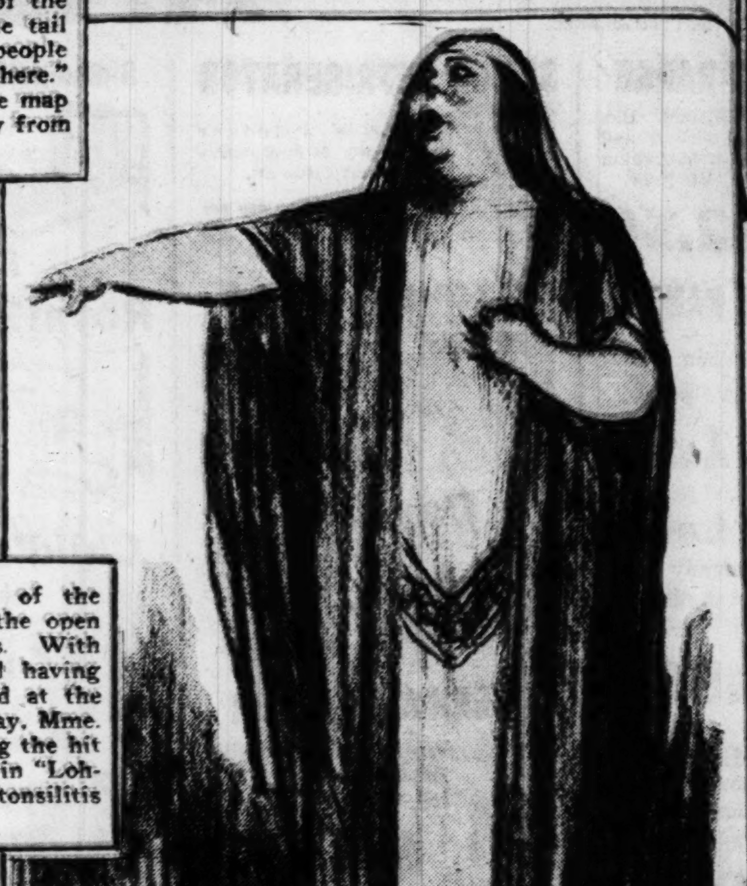
Drawn by W. E. Hill
For the Sunday Post-Dispatch



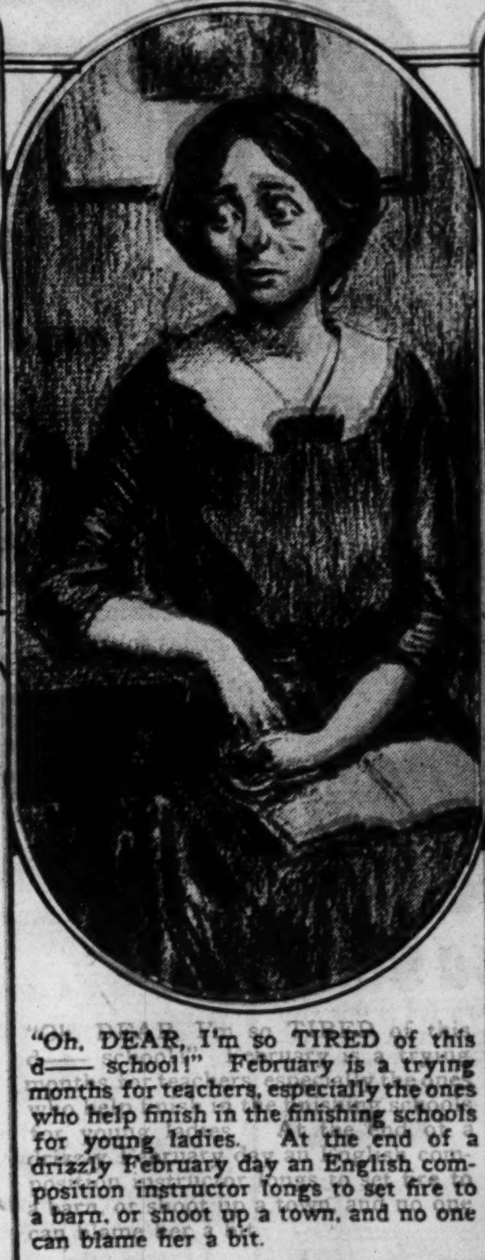


Around the information desk in one of the offices of Thomas Cook & Sons. The tail end of February is a restless season and people who can, decide definitely to "go somewhere." "Anywhere," as the large lady with the map of B deck in her hand is saying, "away from this dismal climate, my dear."

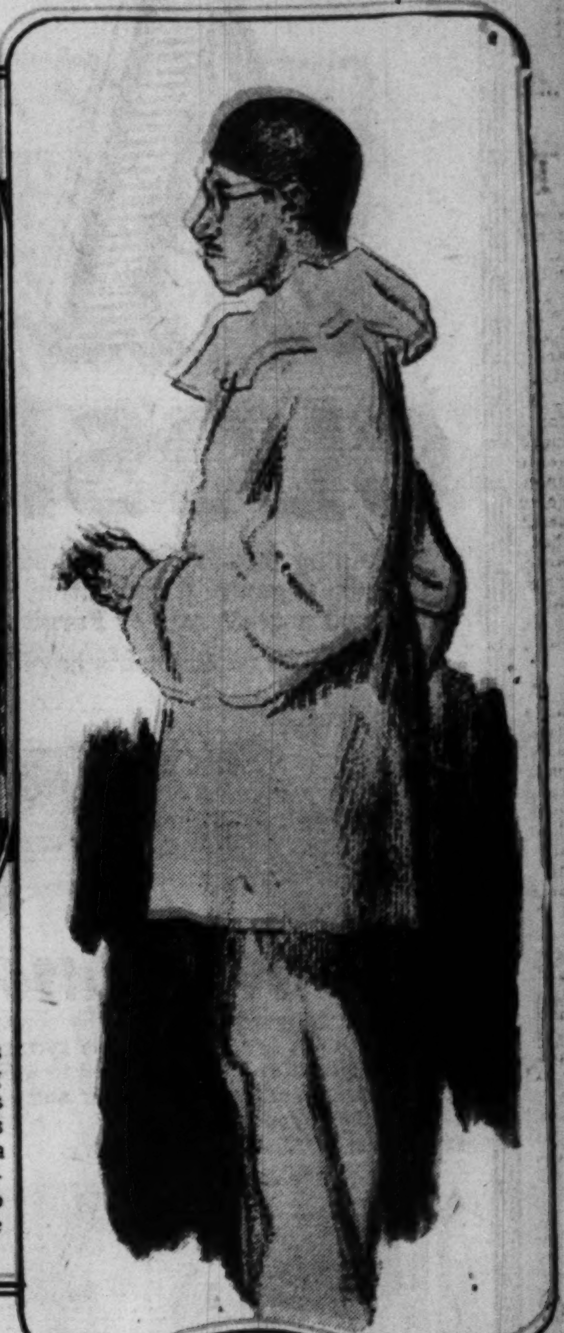
At left: Housewives who are contented most of the year round grow discontented in February and March. They meditate on their husbands and on how little Frankie has had measles, Mabelle the mumps and Babe chicken pox, and then they remember their girlhood and how badly Will looks, particularly the hairs of his head, have fallen off since the day he took her for his lawful wedded wife. And then she begins to wonder if it's too late to make something really big and fine of Will.



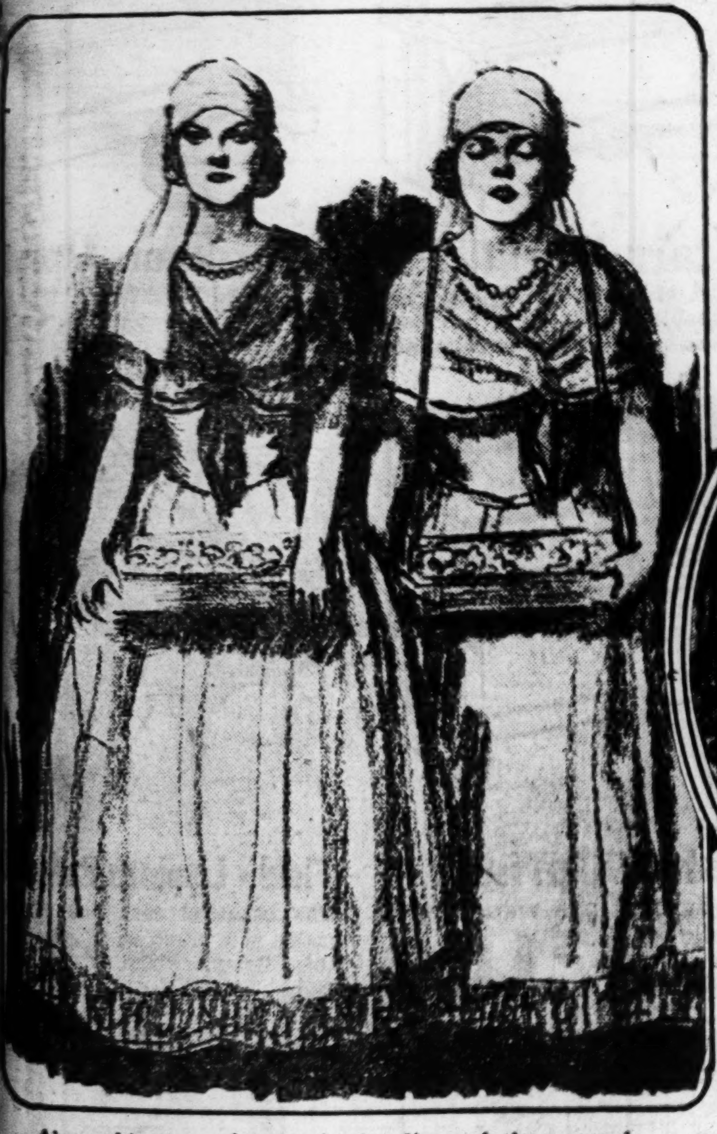
At right: The tag end of the grand opera season is the open season for understudies. With only one rehearsal and having practically never looked at the score till 6:30 of that day, Mme. Perkinskowska is making the hit of her career as Ostrud in "Lohengrin." Somebody's tonsilitis did it for her



"Oh, DEAR, I'm so TIRED of this d—— school!" February is a trying months for teachers, especially the ones who help finish in the finishing schools for young ladies. At the end of a drizzly February day an English composition instructor longs to set fire to a barn, or shoot up a town, and no one can blame her a bit.



At right: The costume balls are very popular about now, and homely men have their innings being picturesque for once in their lives. This, as you may have guessed, is a Pi the "Arabian Rout," or the Beaux Arts Bal."



About this time of year the hardiest of the season's debutantes begin to sell things at charity bazars, all dressed up like Montenegrin milkmaids, etc., and are flashlighted for the Sunday supplements.

This is a bad month for engaged couples. The only girl grows restive after so much winter, and like as not Pauline will begin to think up tests to try out Marshall's love. Then Marshall becomes a little restive on his own account and decides to make Pauline just a little bit jealous. And the fight is on.

The boss acquires a February cold in the head and the office force suffers accordingly from February grouch.

:: In Studio and Gallery ::

LILLIAN GENTH'S exhibit at the Kocian Gallery brilliantly heads the displays in St. Louis for March. A Midwest show of the work of this artist, foremost among contemporary American women painters, is a great rarity. Seldom have her pictures been brought West, except in the larger private collections. The subject of her most characteristic work, the nude, is not conducive to the general popularity enjoyed by decorative art which permits of wider adaptability. Accordingly, her pictures are to be found in museums and private collections where technical achievement receives higher appreciation than does mere ornamental value.

In the present display of 16 of Miss Genth's canvases, the range of subject matter includes costume and character studies in addition to a number of her well known paintings of the nude. The handling in each instance is strong, sure and direct.

An unusual combination of feminine refinement of conception and masculine strength of technique is felt in Miss Genth's nudes. They interpret the personification of youth, grace and beauty, rather than solely portray the human form. Her story, a woodland lyric, is told with facile brushfulls of paint that stand out as clearly and individually as the words of a verbal recital on the same theme. With wholesome candor, she narrates the relation of superb feminine contour to the rythmic movement of wind through the forest, the bending of trees, the rustling of leaves.

UPON entering the Kocian Gallery where these pictures are hung, a vibration instantly strikes the visitor. Standing in the center of the room, swift darts of sunlight surround one from every wall. The effect of plunging headlong into a tangle of bright summery shrubbery is felt, and one is convinced that the artist's first aim is the impression of air and light, any human element being introduced secondarily.

"The Bonnet" is a good illustration of this point. The model, very much in the foreground, is seen against a clump of graceful birch trees. Her costume is of some soft stuff of varying color. But of this one is scarcely aware. The importance of the figure in the composition is slight. It is the motif of the tall, lithe birch trees and their slender, silvery leaves that dominates the ensemble. Like the wind blowing through the birches, turning the suede silver backs of the fluttering leaves, the artist has painted the model's gown in changeable strokes for the varying lights and shadows that sift downward through the trees. The color is purposely kept pale, to correspond with the silver gray of the birches, the picture relying entirely upon the manner of the application of a paint for its animation.

A second achievement in the handling of silver grays and greens is "The Morning Pool." The scene is one far into a woodland where night has just changed into the transparency of dawn and the sun has not yet made the morning silver into noonday gold. Mistiness has not given way to sparkle, and even the little pool of water is still in repose. Against a slender tree that grows beside the water, a young girl leans, as naturally a part of the landscape as the tender foliage or the passing breeze. The figure is successfully introduced as a note of freshness, youth and beauty to correspond with the dewy stillness of a new day.

THE most melodic painting in the exhibit is "The Song of the Flute." It is painted with more intensity of feeling than the others, its manner is thoroughly controlled and its tones are rich and harmonious. A mellowness not to be found elsewhere in this collection pervades the little picture. It is an earlier canvas than the others here, and shows a very different treatment and attitude. It is another lovely story from among the mythological store. The faun with his flute leans languorously against a gnarled old tree in a deep forest. At the foot of the tree and near a tiny pool upon which sunlight descends from an opening of the branches overhead, the beautiful nymph slumbers. Dappled sunlight plays gleefully over the body of the sleeping maiden, as if impatient for her to awaken.

Miss Genth's interpretation of "Daphne" is as lovely a one as we have ever seen. She gives us a "close up" of Apollo's fair charmer which immediately explains the nymph's independence in prefering to become a laurel. Exquisitely naive, "Daphne" is poised lightly amid a green forest setting. A delicate, elusive charm is hers. Miss Genth has cleverly contrived to give realism to the life of a nymph and at the same time to remove any human heaviness. The figure occupying this painting does not lack life, yet it has vague mystery; it has a healthful physical appeal, yet it possesses a spiritual intangibility.

PERSONS interested in the movements of the "moderns," in the developing theories of present-day painting, in the highly original practices of the "Fantastics" and there will be few who can resist their fascination have before them a whole month of excitement at Nino Ronchi's exhibit of paintings and drawings at the Artists' Guild.

The collection brims with remarkable adventures and extraordinary experiences. And the most amazing thing is this very young Italian artist's sophisticated mentality. His excursions into color are highly analytical of his own emotions, as though he were viewing himself from a distance and getting a perspective on his personal reactions.

Two of the pictures included in this exhibit have been painted during the young artist's visit to St. Louis. These are among the most "modern" of the lot. It is interesting to know that the fundamental principles from which these were developed have been the young man's creed for many years. This is proven by one of his paintings, done 10 years ago and brought here by Miss Williamina Parrish upon her return to America from Italy, where she and her sister first met Nino Ronchi. A comparison of this early work with one of his new pictures is interesting.

THE group of etchings by four St. Louis artists—Mr. Gleeson, Mr. and Mrs. Goetsch and Miss Maury—will be moved for March from the small gallery of the Artists' Guild to the Art Department of the Public Library.

Also during March, a number of paintings by Oscar Thalinger will be exhibited. Except for several landscapes and marines which have had place in the annual American shows at the City Art Museum, little of his work has been displayed locally in the last few years. The collection now to be exhibited at the library covers the occasional of the last five years.

"LA FIESTA" contains two main points of interest. First, its dissimilarity to Miss Genth's usual type of picture and, second, the success in painting reflected artificial light. It is night, and two Spanish maidens are engaged in fastening lanterns for the Fiesta. Both girls bend above the candle light, their faces consequently being brilliantly illumined by the yellow glow. Here again Miss Genth's ability to manipulate light and shadow comes into effective play. Striking contrast is gained and the note of fiery Spanish temperament is suggested.

In this picture, however, as also in the character study, "Senorita," technique of brush work intrudes upon the spectator's enjoyment. The force of the spottiness borders upon violence and makes one feel that he is being bullied into liking the pictures whether he really does or not.

Like neither the nudes nor the costume studies, "The Terrace" shows Miss Genth's power of description without the aiding influence of the human element. Silence and moonlight in a garden constitute her subject. It is well done and furnishes an interesting variation in the exhibit.

OLD PARTIES IN N. DAKOTA ARE SPLIT INTO FACTIONS

Non-Partisan League and Independent Voters' Association Are Factors.

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., March 1.—With nominating petitions already in the field for President Calvin Coolidge and Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, North Dakota Republicans are laying plans for a strenuous campaign.

The Democrats are likewise attempting, through the support of William Gibbs McAdoo, to be recognized as a distinctive party in North Dakota.

Owing to the Non-Partisan League faction, which succeeded in capturing the Republican party in 1917 and holding it until the recall by State referendum of Gov. Lynn J. Frazier, now United States Senator, in 1922, there are in the State today two main groups that have split the Republican party. These groups are:

1. The Non-Partisan League under leadership of Roy Frazier, supported by Senator Lynn J. Frazier. The Senator and Roy Frazier are not related. With this group is associated the followers of Porter McCumber, who was defeated for re-election to the United States Senate by Senator Frazier.

2. The Independent Voters' Association, under the leadership of L. L. Twitchell, the acknowledged faction of the old Republican party that rebelled at any association with the Non-Partisan League.

There are two factions also in the Democratic party.

$2.50 IS LAID AWAY TO GROW TO $40,000,000

Gutenberg Foundation, Created in Dallas, Tex., Expected to Be Ready in 500 Years.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., March 1.—Forty million dollars for endowing an "instrument for the diffusion of public information," are provided for in the Gutenberg Foundation, created here recently, following a plan evolved by local newspaper men. The agreement of trust, in which 10 trustees are named to administer the affairs of the foundation, was filed in the Dallas County Clerk's office after the plan was put into operation.

The foundation, named in honor of the inventor of the printing press, totals at the present time only $2.50, which is on deposit in a local bank.

According to the provisions in the trust agreement, this sum of $2.50 can never be added to as the principal, the sole means of increase to $40,000,000 being provided for in the accrual of interest at 4 per cent annually. By the annual compounding of interest the sum of $40,000,000 should accrue in about 500 years, J. W. Rogers Jr., chairman of the board of directors, estimates.

"Figure it yourself," Rogers said. "The sum should double itself every 17 years if compounded at 4 per cent annually. The first hundred years will be the hardest, but the trustees who have accepted this gift in the interest of the public have faith in America, in our banking institutions and in the maintenance of the legality of interest."

Founder of Foundation.

The foundation was started and made possible by Samuel E. Acheson, who made the gift of $2.50, the principal. Acheson obtained his idea from the publicity given to the treasures stored in the tomb of King Tutankhamen in Egypt, brought to light by Egyptologists last year. He estimated what $1 deposited at 4 per cent interest by King Tut in some sound bank would have amounted to, together with its accrual of interest, today, adn followid his idea by laying the basis of the Gutenberg Foundation.

Acheson also pointed out that Benjamin Franklin created a similar foundation back in 1774, or thereabouts, to pay awards for books written and published 150 years from the date of creation of the foundation. Book publications recently carried articles that the first awards under Franklin's foundation had been made. Acheson was not certain at the time of creation of the Gutenberg Foundation exactly what the principle in Franklin's foundation was, but he was of the opinion that it was something over $100. It was to run 150 years and the principal was deposited in a bank in England.

The board of trustees of the Gutenberg Foundation comprises besides Rogers and Acheson, Cliff Moss Jr., Sara T. Hughes, general counsel; E. M. Mead, Gaynelle Hawkins, F. Bryant Pierce, Mrs. Don Scott, Mildred Lowrie and Lillian Jennings.

The trust agreement provides that the board shall have power and authority to manage and invest the principal and interest in any way deemed best to carry out the purpose of the foundation. At the death or withdrawal of any member of the board, the other members are to elect a successor.

Perhaps a Newspaper.

In devising the plan it was at first decided to endaw a newspaper. But, reviewing the progress of civilization in the past 100 years and the numerous inventions for the diffusion of public information, it was decided to give the board of trustees the power to name the proper agency to carry out the plan. It was pointed out that at the date of maturity the newspaper alone might be insufficient. Motion pictures or radio or some other now unknown process might be as common then as newspapers are now, it was pointed out. The primary object of the founders was, however, to endow a newspaper. The board of trustees in office at the date of maturity shall determine the method of diffusion of the information.

The board in office at that time is also vested with the authority to let the principal and interest further accumulate in event the $40,000,000 is considered inadequate to carry out the purposes of the founders. It shall be allowed to accumulate until the amqunt is adequate.

The trust agreement, prepared by counsel for the board and signed and sworn to by the trustee, is filed away in the steel vaults of the clerk's office, awaiting the passing of the years until it shall be taken out and perused by succeeding trustees and, finally hundreds of years from now, a document of considerable importance and worth, taken out and used as authority by the trustees for carrying out the purposes of the newspaper men of today. The bank book, showing the deposit of the principal, is in the hands of a member of the board.

Rolla Students to Celebrate.

Following the annual custom, students of the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, Mo., will have a St. Patrick's celebration, March 14, 15, 16. The program includes a parade with floats, presentation of annual play, "Sick Abed," a masked ball and a formal dance.

DON'T SHRIVEL UP!
You can remove wrinkles easily now. A simple new treatment gently smoothes them out—just as a piece of plaited fabric smoothes out when it is damp and stretched out, and dries without any creases in it. This new Cream penetrates to the "true" skin where the wrinkles are formed, gently soaking them out at the same time that it holds the outer skin taut and firm. Dries without a line!

Itching Scalp Healed by SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even itching eczema of the scalp, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin and scalp irritation and soothes and heals the eczema right up. The first application stops the itching and makes the skin cool and comfortable.

Sufferers from skin trouble, blemishes, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist. Be sure it is genuine. Look for the name Rowles.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The Best Cough Medcine You Ever Used. A Family Supply Easily and Quickly Made. Saves About $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clairfied molasses, honey or corn, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptyl heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid fro bronchitis, croup hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for healing the membranes.

Pinex is a highly concentrated

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of iPnex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

FARM RELIEF DOMINANT NOTE IN SOUTH DAKOTA

All Parties Declare for It: Democrats Seek Alliance With Non-Republican Elements.

By the Associated Press.

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 29.—Indorsement of the national administration and President Coolidge as against the candidacy of Hiram W. Johnson and the issue of individual preferment between Gov. W. H. McMaster and Senator Thomas I. Sterling, Republican candidates for the United States Senate in the March 25 primary, hold chief interest of South Dakota voters in the early stage of the political campaign.

These two issues resulted from the action of the Republican State proposal meeting Dec. 4 in choosing President Coolidge as its candidate for the presidency and Gov. McMaster for the Senate. Johnson subsequently entered as an independent and Sterling as a minority candidate.

Agricultural relief is a dominant note in the national program of all parties in the State. A tariff readjustment more favorable toward farm products, reduced freight rates and the fostering of farmers' co-operative marketing associations made up prominent demands in the Republican proposal platform, while the same three points were set forth as paramount issues by the Democrats. Both parties gave unqualified endorsement to the Volstead act.

The Farmer-Labor party adopted as its paramount national issue "public ownership of transportation, resources, and banking."

An effort at complete fusion between the Democratic and Farmer-Labor groups failed at the proposal meeting. Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Democrats, however, efforts have continued to bring about such an alliance.

PURE FOOD SHOW BABY CONTEST

Prizes Will Be Awarded to Two St. Louis Infants.

The parents of all the pretty babies in St. Louis are invited to enter their offspring in the baby show to be conducted in connection with the Pure Food Show at the Coliseum next week, March 3 to 8.

Two of the infants will be chosen as prize winners by two sets of judges, Friday afternoon, one set of judges will pick the prettiest baby between six months and a year old. Saturday afternoon, other judges will pick the prettiest baby between one and two years old.

The food show is to be conducted by the St. Louis Retail Grocers' Association. Similar shows have been held in various parts of the country under the general management of the National Retail Grocers Association. Displays of foods, demonstrations, a cooking school and lectures on food values will compose the program.

OVERLAND SETS NEW AUSTRALIAN RECORD

According to cable advices from the Antipodes, an Overland stock touring car has just set a new transcontinental record in Australia, traveling 3100 miles from Freemantle to Sydney in eight days seven hours and two minutes, shattering the former mark by more than 16 hours.

According to the cable dispatches, two drivers made the entire journey, which was accomplished without mishap but for one broken spring leaf. The event was the sensation of the past year in the Australian motor worlds, says the report.

FIELDS APPOINTS HIS SALES ASSISTANTS

DETROIT, Mich., March 1.—J. E. Fields, general sales manager of the Maxwell-Chrysler-Chalmers companies, announced that the addition of the Chrysler six, as well as the program of intensive development planned for the coming year, has made advisable a rearrangement of the work of the sales department, with new duties and added responsibilities for a number of executives.

J. J. Plath, who has been director of Maxwell sales, becomes director of sales for Maxwell, Chrysler and Chalmers. In the past Mr. Plath has only concerned himself with the marketing of the good Maxwell. Hereafter he will also direct the sales of the Chrysler Six and Chalmers in half of the sales districts of the country.

S. D. Briggs, who has been in charge of the Chicago district for Maxwell-Chalmers, becomes director of sales in charge of the sale of Maxwell, Chrysler and Chalmers in the remaining half of the country. Mr. Briggs is well known in the industry, having graduated from the bicycle ranks in the early days. He was connected with the Franklin factory organization, as well as with the Buick and Hupp.

Rollin Output Now 35 Cars Daily.

Reports from Cleveland are that the Rollin Motor Co. is now turning out 35 cars per day. "This quantity," says James G. Heaslet, president of the Rollin corporation, "is only the start of what we are aiming to accomplish. Indications are that we will be hitting along close to 50 per day by the end of March, as every man is on his toes and doing the job as though he had been building Rollins for a dozen years.

SMITH NOW PRESIDENT OF COLUMBIA MOTORS

Announcement of the appointment of Lon R. Smith, widely known in the automotive trade as a practical executive with a long list of achievements to his credit, as president and general manager of the Columbia Motors Co., Detroit, is made by the Columbia directors.

Smith succeeds J. G. Bayerline, who for some time has contemplated retirement and whose resignation became effective last week. The appointment of Smith is generally regarded as bringing notable new strength to the Columbia organization, both through his reputation as a square-shooting, hard-hitting executive and because of his demonstrated ability as a merchandising man of very unusual attainments.

The new president of the Columbia Motors Co. takes charge of the business at a very favorable time, with the company in a thoroughly sound and healthy condition, with the largest volume of orders on hand that this company has ever booked during January and February and with sufficient distributing strength among dealers to insure the factory of a ready market for the production which it has planned for this year.

Railroad Increases Motor Equipment.

Ten additional motor rail cars with trailers have been added to the equipment of the Ferrocarrill de Monte Alto, operating between Mexico City and Antizapan, carrying passengers and light freight. Since May, 1922, a milk train with trailer has made two daily round trips between Pedregal and Mexico City. A train between Tlanepantla and Pedregal makes daily trips. During the first year these trains carried 363,000 passengers.

FLINT PRODUCTION SHOWS 33 1-3 INCREASE

R. S. Skelley, manager of the St. Louis Flint Co. Salesrooms at Lindell cutoff, corner Locust boulevard, just received word that the Flint Motor Co. of Flint, Mich., and the Flint Motor Division of the Locomobile Co. of America, Inc., Long Island City, N. Y., report shows the combined production of the two big plants has been stepped up over one-third in volume since December 1. Previous to that date the Eastern plant was in quantity production, but the new plant at Flint, Mich., recently opened, was just entering that stage.

The January increase in production of Flint sixes over December was 17 per cent and a further increase in February brought the total gain in production and sales to 33 1-3 per cent. This is extremely gratifying to the sponsors of this comparatively new Durant product, as executives of the trade estimate that if Flint sales can show a marked increase during the winter months the spring buying season holds a brilliant prospect for the Flint six.

NEW MOON SIX MODEL INCREASES DAILY OUTPUT

The Moon Motor Car Co. is now operating on a production schedule of 1800 cars per month, and by March the schedule will be increased to 2000 cars per month.

The new Moon six, which lists at less than $1000 and is the lowest-priced car ever built by Moon, is an important factor in the great increase in production and sales in Moon cars.

This new model was exhibited at the New York, Chicago and other automobile shows, and was the subject of a great deal of favorable comment, for this new model bears the family resemblance of the larger and higher-priced Moon cars, possesses the same distinctive body lines and body color, and has the same high quality of standard mechanical units, including a Continental Red Seal motor.

All models of the Chrysler six, Walter P. Chrysler's new car, are fitted with transmission locks built into the car.

All models of the Chrysler six, Walter P. Chrysler's new motor car are equipped with hydraulic four-wheel brakes.

REO MAINTAINS NEW APPRENTICE COURSE

Always a leader in training men as a means of maintaining high manufacturing standards, the Reo Motor Car Co. has recently augmented its work in this field by adding a new apprentice course arranged specifically for men from the service departments of its dealers' organizations, according to Harry C. Teel, factory manager.

"This step is inaugurated as Reo enters its twentieth year. Back of the plan is the company's desire to improve by every possible means the service rendered the public by Reo and its dealers," says Teel.

"The new course varies from that offered to factory men in the type of work taken up. Whereas the men who are being trained for work in the factory are schooled primarily in the actual manufacturing operations, the apprentices from dealers' service shops secure the majority of their training in the various assembling departments. This type of work prepares them to give service when they return to their regular positions."

MOSKOVICS OFFICER OF FRANKLIN COMPANY

At a meeting of the board of directors, F. E. Moskovics was elected vice-president of the Franklin Automobile Co. For the past 10 years Mr. Moskovics has been vice-president of the Nordyke and Marmon Co., Indianapolis. His entire business experience has been identified with the automobile industry in the engineering, manufacturing and merchandising branches.

The New ESSEX
A SIX
Built by Hudson under Hudson Patents

Essex closed car comforts now cost $170 less than ever before. Also with this lower price you get an even more attractive Coach body and a six cylinder motor built on the principle of the famous Hudson Super-Six.

It continues Essex qualities of economy and reliability, known to 135,000 owners. It adds a smoothness of performance which heretofore was exclusively Hudson's. Both cars are alike in all details that count for long satisfactory service at small operating cost.

You will like the new Essex in the nimble ease of its operation. Gears shift quietly. Steering is like guiding a bicycle, and care of the car calls for little more than keeping it lubricated. That, for the most part, is done with an oil can.

The chassis design lowers the center of gravity, giving greater comfort and safety, at all speeds, on all roads. You will be interested in seeing how this is accomplished.

Greater fuel economy is obtained. The car is lighter, longer and roomier. You will agree that from the standpoint of appearance, delightful performance, cost and reliability, the new Essex provides ideal transportation.

TONER NOW WEBER MOTOR SALES MANAGER

Weber Motor Car Co., distributers of Studebaker automobile, held a banquet and "get-together" of their sales force at the Missouri Athletic Club Friday night, Feb. 29.

Edward Weber, president of the Weber organization, presided. Among one of the outstanding remarks, in the form of a surprise, came the announcement by Weber of the appointment of John L. Toner as sales manager, effective at once.

Toner has been a member of the Weber sales force for the past eight years; prior to this was connected with the Hudson Motor Car Co. Toner's wide experience and congenial personality makes him particularly well qualified for the position.

HUDSON SALESROOMS USE ART BACKGROUND

Window Display of Hudson-Frampton Attracts Many Passers-By.

Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co. has an unusual exhibit painted by W. G. Ludwig. It is probably the most beautiful as well as the most artistic setting ever used for the display of automobiles and is to be seen at the main showroom of Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., 3201 Locust street.

It is a historical plan utilizing the name of "Hudson" in connection with Hudson and Essex motor cars. The north wall of the exhibit consists of two panels both over 10 feet long and over seven and one-half feet high. This panel eulogizes the great explorer, Hendric Hudson, who was the first great Hudson in history. The panels are so arranged that they make one big decoration, but also each is a perfect composition in itself. They tell the story of Hudson's discovery of the Hudson River and the trading with the Indians that followed. The color is rich and brilliant and in excellent harmony. The arrangement of masses gives a wonderfully balanced composition, both in color and design. One of the striking effects of the setting is its great carrying power. Each figure seems to stand out when viewed from a distance of over a block away. All the panels can be seen from a great distance, especially at night, when the interior is brightly illuminated with the special lights that have been placed to display the paintings more effectively. This carrying power is due to the fact that they are painted in big decorative masses and are handled in a large and crisp manner. The right panel of the two shows, in the foreground, Hendric Hudson and his staff, who are conversing and trading with the Indians. The left panel of the two shows a typical group of early American savages who are appargreat white explorer, Hendric Hudson, and show an eagerness to trade their fruits, vegetables, etc., for the merchandise that is being ently awed by the presence of the displayed to them. Connecting the two panels is Hudson's vessel, the "Half Moon," with flags flying and sails half-furled, with beautiful sunshine breaking over the weather-beaten sides. These two panels are a very striking note in the setting. Below in the large base of the two frames is the title reading:

Hendric Hudson,
The First Great Hudson.

On the west wall of the exhibit are three more panels, all worked in the same decorative manner, a little less brilliant in color, but very excellent in harmony and composition. The larger of these three shows—"The Evolution of the Coach," the Hudson people being the first company to build an automobile body and call it a coach. They are the creators of this type of body. It shows a sort of veiled procession of old forms of transportation, the horse coach, the miners and the traders of that day, with their mules and burros, so typical of the Western scenes of that period. In the foreground to the right of this panel is seen the new Hudson "super-six" coach; its occupants are shown apparently watching with curiosity the passing procession. It shows plainly the great step and advancement in coaches—the old stage coach in companion with the new Hudson coach. Below in the base of this frame is the title, reading:

"The Evolution of the Coach."

The central panel of this group has quite a humorous touch. In 1909, just 300 years after Hendric Hudson, the first Hudson car was built. A reproduction of this car in oil is shown in this picture. In the foreground is an old spring buggy with an old bony horse drawing it, the horse showing great fright at the approach of this early Hudson car. The background is an old country setting with cluttered houses and people looking on in great curiosity. Under this frame is the title.

"The First Great Hudson Car, 1909."

The last panel in this group follows out the "Trail Blazers" theme, which is carried out in the entire display. The old cumbersome prairie schooner with its lumbering oxen, the tired and plodding guides who accompany it, with their weapons constantly at hand, and the sturdy women and children who brave the great plains seeking new homes in those early days of our country, are shown in the foreground. In contrast to this scene, coming from a hill in the distance, is the Essex car, a great small car built by Hudson and known all over the world for its rapid cross-country trips and its lightness and ease of handling.

In other words, this panel shows the extremes in transportation. Under this frame is the title,

"Trail Blazers
Today and Yesterday."

The work has received much admiration and has been commended very highly by a number of artists and persons who are authorities on oil paintings.

600 Punctures, But Still Full of Air

A new puncture-proof inner tube has been introduced in Chicago which was punctured 600 times without the loss of any air. Motorists can increase their tire mileage over 12,000 miles by using this tube without removing it from the wheel. It costs no more than the ordinary tube. If you are interested you can write Mr. T. Gates at 9 W. Illinois St., Chicago, for full information, as he wants these tubes introduced everywhere. Wonderful opportunity for agents. Simply send name, a post card will do.

WILSON BODY COMPANY STATEMENT SHOWS GAIN

The C. R. Wilson Body Co. of Detroit, Mich., report net profits for the year ending Dec. 31, 1923, after deducting all charges, but before taking out Federal taxes, $1,241,073.47; and after Federal taxes amounting to $155,000, a net profit of $1,086,073.47. After allowing for dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock, earnings equal more than $4.70 per share on 200,032 shares of $10 common stock outstanding last year.

The company finished a large addition to its plant during the year, which has been completely equipped with ovens and conveyors for economical manufacture. This company is advertising its product nationally under the trade name of Wilson-Built Body, and numbers among its customers Willys-Overland, Paige-Jewett, Packard and Reo.

BAKER COMPLETES CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

E. G. ("Cannonball") Baker completed his cross-country run in record time. Baker drove the Gardner "Blizzard," a Gardner sedan, from New York to Los Angeles, completing the trip of 3398 miles in four days 14 hours and 15 minutes, thereby breaking the midwinter record.

Baker made 1396 miles of the trip with chains on tires, encountering all kinds of weather across the continent, beginning with a snowstorm in the Eastern mountain range, ice-glazed roads in the Middle West, mud roads, almost impassable, in Missouri, snow in parts of Kansas and sands in the desert.

Baker arrived in Los Angeles Tuesday night, about five days ahead of scheduled plans. He was met by newspaper men and a host of Gardner owners and dealers. The Gardner sedan arrived in perfect condition in spite of the terrific speed and gruelling test, which amounts to really three years of car life in the space of a week's time. Average speed was 30.9 miles per hour.

Parking lights on the open models of the Chrysler six are mounted on the center panel of the body. By this positioning, light may also be thrown on the running boards when passengers are entering or leaving.

TWO FIRMS ANNOUNCE CONSOLIDATION

The Motor Parts Co., 2701 Washington boulevard was consolidated, effective March 1, 1924, with the H. & H. Machine Co., of 4216-18 W. Easton avenue. While the H. & H. Machine Co. is equipped to do cylinder regrinding and general machine work this move will enable them to serve their patrons, as well as those of the Motor Parts Co., more promptly, especially as to parts, on account of their ideal location along auto row.

The officers of the H. & H. Machine Co., are Henry Haacke, president; Charles A. Marien, vice president and sales manager; Edward Emme, secretary and treasurer. E. R. Michener will continue as manager, at 2701 Washington boulevard.

Ferrier Burd Co. Representative.

William L. Ferrier, who was formerly secretary of the Fred Campbell Auto Supply Co., St. Louis, Mo., has been appointed factory representative of the Burd High Compression Ring Co. for the states of Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas.

Ferrier was one of the original organizers and a director of the Automotive Equipment Association. He has also served as president of the Motor Accessory Trade Association of St. Louis and has a very wide acquaintance in the automotive business.

FIRESTONE ENGINEER TALKS ON "SHIMMYING"

Front wheel "shimmy" although not new to most car owners, has never been given a great deal of study and is often considered of those so-called "automotive mysteries." Actually, however, there is nothing really mysterious about this difficulty.

It is merely a vibrating action which takes place in the front wheels at various speeds, and is due to one of two simple causes. First, if there are loose joints or worn bushings in the steering linkage, the excessive play will eventually cause "shimmying." Or it may result from an unbalanced condition of the wheels.

The former takes place at any speed above 10 miles per hour and can be positively removed by overhauling and adjusting the steering linkage. On the other hand if this effect does not become noticeable until the car is making 50 miles per hour or better, it can be remedied by putting the wheels in proper balance and alignment.

Although "shimmying" is emphasized by balloon tires, it is not caused by them. In other words, any car that is in proper adjustment may be equipped with balloon tires without any "shimmying" effect whatever.

Think of owning a Car with a body finish like this!

For the first time in motor car history—Oakland has successfully combined beauty and permanence in an automobile body finish. This extraordinary achievement is made possible by adapting and perfecting the application of an entirely new substance—Duco, the remarkable qualities of which provide—

A finish in a beautiful Oakland Blue, distinctive and striking;

A finish which, though covered with mud, can quickly be restored to its original beauty, without scratching, by wiping with a dry cloth. Frequent rubbings actually improve its appearance;

A finish impervious to all weather, to sun and wind, rain and snow, salt air and alkaline conditions;

A finish so resistant to harm that sulphuric acid and the chemicals of fire extinguishers have been sprayed upon it, then wiped off, leaving no marring trace;

A finish so enduring that it will retain its original beauty and lustre indefinitely without checking or dulling.

Records of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, compiled from a great [illegible] of data, reveal that the average life of a Hupmobile is eight years, according to George Weber, president Weber Implement and Auto Co., Hupmobile distributers. These figures were arrived at from statistics of annual production, yearly registration in all states and from the number of cars imported and exported each year.

"The Hupmobile record seems to me to be eloquent testimony," Weber said, "as to the methods this company uses in building its car—to the great care put into its construction at every stage of its building, and the longer life that enters each and every part subject to strain and wear. It has been repeatedly emphasized that the first cost of careful building is somewhat higher, but that later lower costs more than prove the economy and sound principle of building to last."

AUTOMOBILES MIRROR SOME INDIVIDUAL

Dominant Personality of the Leader Always Determine Car Character—at Marysville It's Wills.

"Somewhere, in every motor car building organization, there is one man who dominates," I. G. McNiece of the McNiece Motor Co., Inc., St. Louis Wills Sainte Claire distributor, says. "This man may be the president, he may be the chief engineer, the production expert, the financial leader. Whatever his specialty, the mere fact that he dominates makes the company's product a clear reflection of his ideals. The character of the car and the character of the man will be the same.

"Because it is so dominated, in every department, by C. Harold Wills, Wills Sainte Claire, Inc., can sponsor only one kind of car—the car that mirrors the ideals of Wills—engineer, metallurgist, production executive, and the most rigidly discriminating motorist who ever sat behind a wheel.

"For more than 20 years, during the whole of which period he was associated with an organization which grew to become the largest producer in the automotive field, Wills formed and tested motor car ideals. His strife for better steels led him into the development of vanadium alloys and brought him world-wide fame as a metallurgist. Responsibilities for production at a rate new to automobile industry annals caused him to design and develop machine tools to a new degree of performance in accuracy and speed. The war brought him problems that carried him into aircraft engineering where Mr. Wills met the demand for even better steels with the introduction of molybdenum—an alloy element which imparts to steel an unequalled immunity to fatigue.

"His war work ended, Wills took the step for which his unique experience had so ably fitted him. He formed his own motor car building organization, designed his own motor car from materials he himself had developed, founded his own city of Marysville in which to manufacture it, and erected in that city a chain of plants.

"Development work on the original Wills Sainte Claire had been under Wills' own conscientious direction from the very start. When the first cars came through production, he took one of them and drove it himself, every foot of the way, from Detroit to New York in a wild, hair-raising dash.

"Just as the original Wills Sainte Claire cars mirrored the dominant C. Harold Wills of three years ago, so the beautiful, harmonious Wills Sainte Claire cars which made their local debut at the Auto Show last week, mirror the broader, even more experienced C. Harold Wills of today. For they, too, are the results of engineering supervised personally by Wills, and of confirming tests of the severest kind, with the president of the company at the wheel, accepting or rejecting, by his own personal observation as a motorist, the many changes suggested to make his original creation better in performance, comfort, convenience and good looks."

STANDARD OIL CO. TO SELL ETHYL GAS

Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) and General Motors Corporation announce that they are negotiating a contract under which the former will act as distributer in the eastern part of the United States for the new product developed by the General Motors Research Corporation at Dayton, O. This is known as ethyl fluid which will be offered to motorists in connection with the sale of gasoline.

Ethylized gas is now being marketed in Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburg and other places in the Middle West. Gasoline with ethyl fluid added sells for 3 cents a gallon above current gasoline prices.

MITCHELL PLANS AN EXTENSIVE PROGRAM

The Mitchell Motor Car Co. of Racine, Wis., successor to Mitchell Motors Co. Inc., is preparing to carry on an extensive program of future operations. L. H. Bridgman, recently elected president, states that formal announcement of the entire plans of the new organization will be made within a very short time.

The Mitchell plant will still be located in Racine, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary. A number of the old Mitchell executives have been retained, but, in addition, there have been brought into the organization some of the best known men in the industry, among them Dallas E. Winslow, sales manager, who for several years past has been prominently identified with the sale of Dodge Brothers motor cars.

Repair parts and service for all models made by the Mitchell organization will be furnished, as usual, direct from the factory.

A New Anti-Skid Chain.

One of the new exhibits at the show found in the accessory department and which attracted unusual attention is a skid chain invented by a St. Louisan and manufactured by the Kant-Skid Chain Co. of St. Louis, known as the Polar Kant-Skid Chain. The chain is made with a wide flat smooth surface against the tire at all times.

Tells Students About Exports.

Export merchandising methods employed by automobile manufacturers were outlined to Columbia University students by George F. Bauer, secretary of the Foreign Trade Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Some companies, Bauer pointed out, use export commission houses as a means of extending overseas business, others maintain special departments at the factory, while a third method is the organization of subsidiary companies abroad with the sales program stimulated from assembling factories in the important foreign centers.

From Four Cars to 14,000,000.

There were four automobiles in the United States in 1896. Over 14,000,000 cars have been registered in 1923.

More than 35,000,000 Champion spark plugs were produced in 1923. This is two-thirds of all spark plugs made in the world.

One of New York's Busy Corners.

Attention is called by the publicity department of the Buick Motor Co. to the fact that 42,000 automobiles pass the corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, New York, every 24 hours. It is pointed out that these cars carry an aggregate of people surpassing the population of such representative cities as Spokane, Washington; Albany, N. Y.; Lowell, Mass.; Fort Worth, Tex.; and Oklahoma City, Ok.

Nine Years Efforts Required.

One of the outstanding features of 1923 automobile history was the announcement by the Cadillac Motor Car Co. of the creation of the V-63 as the culmination of nine years production of cars equipped with 90 degree, V-eight engines embodying the fundamental perfection of the V-type, 90 degree, eight-cylinder engine, inherently balanced and with major parts improved.

One of the leading automobile manufacturers desires to locate live dealers in several sections of city. Wonderful opportunity. Address Y-238 Post-Dispatch.

What you can do with the Traffic Transmission

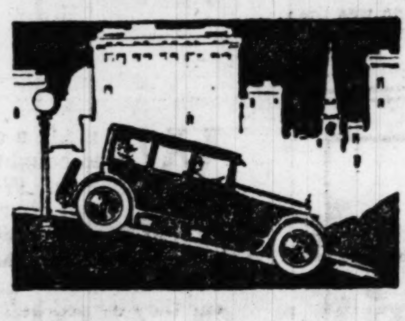
Change Speeds Without Clashing

Because it represents the solution of the gear shifting problem, this exclusive Chandler feature is generally acknowledged to be the most important automotive improvement of the decade. Be you veteran driver or an unschooled beginner, you cannot clash gears—cannot fail to make a split-second, positive, silent change to any speed, at any time, under any conditions. There is nothing new to learn. You use the clutch and shift lever exactly as before. Only the results are different.

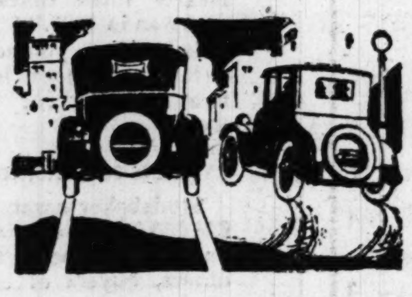


Descend Steep Grades in Safety

Until the Traffic Transmission was developed, the safe descent of a long steep hill was a matter of luck or expert driving. In the Chandler it is now neither. Regardless of car or motor speed, a three inch movement of the lever puts you into second speed or low—brings the combined compression of six cylinders into instant braking action. No danger of failing to get into gear. No riding the brake pedal or burning out brakes. That is real safety—the comforting kind.

Park Easily and Swiftly

There is a trick to parking neatly, or there was until Chandler made it easy. With the Traffic Transmission you never fumble to get from low to reverse—you never hear the gears rasp, rumble or whine. You change to the desired speed at will—the lever moves at a finger's touch. What used to take three minutes of expert maneuvering, now takes twenty seconds in a Chandler. The steering wheel is partly responsible. It turns with the weight of a hand. Women like that.



Stop Short Without Skidding

Skidding and swerving are caused by unequalized braking. Even the finest brake systems develop this fault. There is only one car in which it cannot occur. For only one car has the Traffic Transmission. With it you snap instantly into a lower gear. At once the perfectly equalized braking power of the motor stops the car with the front and back wheels tracking. And if you know that helpless feeling of skidding toward the curb or ditch, such surefooted safety must have a strong appeal.

Drive Without Worry

Touring is a relaxation of unblemished delight if you are a Chandler owner. You have the matchless power of the Pikes Peak Motor to take you anywhere. Hills never check its masterful high gear capacity that made Chandler the national performance champion. And as for deep snow or mud—no terrors there! Two or three short, snappy shifts from low to reverse and out you roll before you stall!

(The Traffic Transmission is built complete in the Chandler plant under Campbell patents.)

Chrysler Six Magic Is Boiled Down Experience

The performance of the Chrysler Six is so remarkable that it verifies the boldest claims that could be made. This fact has caused wonderment as to the means employed in securing results so sensational from an engine only 3-inch bore by 4¾-inch stroke.

There is neither magic nor mystery in the Walter P. Chrysler creation. The Chrysler Six represents the boiled down experience of all that has gone before. A ride in it will quickly disclose to you the deficiencies of older practices which must now be regarded as totally inadequate.

VESPER REPORTS FROM GIBRALTAR

Walter H. Vesper, vice president of the Vesper Buick Auto Co., has just received a letter from F. W. A. Vesper, written from Gibraltar during the latter part of January and enclosing photographs taken on the Mediterranean cruise on which Mr. Vesper departed from New York Jan. 14. It is only natural that F. W. A. Vesper's interests would center primarily on automobiles abroad, by reason of his long association with the automobile industry in this country. A quotation from his letter is particularly interesting, and is as follows:

GIBRALTAR, Sunday a. m., Jan. 27.—"We are waiting to go ashore here. The rock looks like the pictures, except that the harbor is full of ships. We are about a mille off shore and take tenders to get off. We spent two days in Spain at Cadiz and Sevilla. At Sevilla the first thing we saw was a fence about a block long in the very center of town, and on it was painted the words 'Buick' nine times and the word 'automoville' at each end. These were the only signs we saw in the whole place, and it made a dandy ad. We saw an endless number of Buicks, including some 24 models, but we did not get to see the agent's place. Both towns, Cadiz and Sevilla look very much like Havana, only the streets are narrower if anything. The main street is only 15 feet wide, with walks about two feet, making the driveway about nine feet in the clear. All streets are one way, but the traffic is well handled.

"We saw a number of Buicks at Algiers—a 23 sport touring all dolled up amongst others, and a lot of 23 Buick touring cars in use. If course, the favorite cars are French and tIalian, and a lot of the little ones of eight and 12 horsepower, with 48-inch track, mostly roadsters, so they can get around in the narrow streets.'

On Feb. 21, the day on which the Buick dealers' meeting was held in St. Louis during the automobile show, Mr. Vesper wired the St. Louis officials of Vesper Buick a message from him to the Buick dealers in this territory, and this cablegram was sent out from Constantinople, Turkey.

Mr. and Mrs. Vesper are now completing the last portion of the Mediterranean cruise, and will reach Paris during the middle of March. They do not expect to return to St. Louis until the middle of April.

The Maxwell Club coupe was the first car in its class to incorporate in its design, quarter windows which drop full length.

Martens Joins Victor Motors.

William E. Martens, for many years connected with the sales end of the automobile industry in St. Louis, has been appointed assistant general sales manager of Victor Motors, Inc., according to announcement made by Guy Wilson, president of Victor Motors last week.

Martens, who prior to his entry in the automobile field was a local newspaper reporter, has for the last few years been in charge of national sales for large truck manufacturers. Marten's initial trip was made last week when he went East for the Victor Company and succeeded in putting on several prominent dealers in New York and Pennsylvania.

for a car, without knowing what the leader offers in the fine-car field

WE made a canvass of many who bought rivals of Studebakers. We said, "Tell us why you liked your car the better."

The majority said, "We did not even look at the Studebaker." Most of them bought new models of the car they owned before.

Yet Studebaker is a leader in the fine-car field today. Studebaker builds more quality cars than any other plant in the world.

Studebaker is the sensation of modern Motordom. Its amazing growth signifies a new situation in this field.

Last year, 145,167 fine-car buyers paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars. Nearly three times as many as in 1920.

Is it fair to yourself—or fair to us—not to learn the reasons for this trend?

Facts to consider

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000 — all staked on satisfying, better than others, buyers of high-grade cars.

Over 23,000 men have their future at stake on giving you maximum values.

$50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment, of which $32,000,000 has been added during the past five years.

$10,000,000 in body plants to give you superlative beauty. To give that final touch for which Studebakers have been famous for decades.

125 experts who devote their whole time to studying betterments. Who make 500,000 tests per year to maintain our supremacy.

Consider Studebaker history. For 72 years this concern has stood for high principles and policies.

For two generations, against all the world, it held first place in horse-drawn vehicles.

Now for years its name and fame have been committed to like attainments in fine motor cars.

If you only knew

There is no room here for details and comparisons. You will find them all in Studebaker showrooms. But let us cite some significant facts.

That lack of vibration, so conspicuous in Studebakers, costs us $600,000 yearly in extra machining of crank shafts.

That matchless strength in vital parts comes from the costliest steels. For some we add 15% to the quoted price to get exactness in them.

That Chase Mohair, used in our closed cars, is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. Cotton or ordinary wool, or a combination of both, could reduce our price $100 to $150 per car, but it would sacrifice Studebaker quality.

Note the bumpers, the steel trunk, the extra cord tires, the motometer, the courtesy light on some models. Figure what they would cost as extras.

The infinite care

We use 35 formulas for steel, each worked out to exactness for supreme service in its place.

We employ 1,200 inspectors to make 30,000 inspections of the material and workmanship in each Studebaker car — before it leaves the factory.

Consider how Studebaker has always led in the building of high-grade cars. We were first to use cord tires as standard equipment. We were the first quantity manufacturers to build bodies of the highest grade.

If you want beauty, fine upholstery, rich finish and equipment, consider that Studebaker has had more experience in fine coach building than any other motor car maker.

Our place no accident

The pedestal place which Studebaker holds in the fine-car field is not the result of accident. It comes from principles as old as this business—the ceaseless and determined ambition to excel.

Learn the result of these efforts. Compare detail by detail, part by part, with any car you wish. When you foot the advantages, you will find that they number scores.

These are facts you should know. They are inducing 150,000 per year to choose Studebaker cars.

Some sell at $1,045. Some meet with every requirement in size and power and luxury. But the chassis are all alike, save in size. The same steels, the same standards throughout. Every important Studebaker part represents the best we know.

People have learned these facts—hundreds of thousands of them. The demand for Studebakers has almost trebled in three years. It has become overwhelming, even for our facilities.

Investigate the reasons. You will find them by the scores. Then, if you choose a rival car, we shall have nothing more to say.

See the Studebakers

Studebaker builds more fine cars than any other plant in the world.

Last year 145,167 wise motor car buyers paid $201,000,000 for Studebakers.

The demand has almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker now holds a leading place in the high-grade field.

Our modern plants and their equipment cost $50,000,000. All to give you the maximum value at the minimum of cost.

It is folly to buy a car in this class without knowing what we give.

Goodyear makes both kinds of

BALLOON TIRES

for New Wheels—for Wheels now on your Car

You can settle the balloon tire question to suit your own needs and purse.

If you are buying a new car—or equipping your present car with small diameter wheels in order to provide sufficient fender clearance—you can get Goodyear Balloon Tires in 20-, 21- and 22-inch rim sizes.

If, as is true in most cases, your present car provides sufficient clearance to permit of using balloon tires, you can get Goodyear Balloon Tires in the right sizes to fit your present wheels.

Goodyear makes both kinds of Balloon Tires.

In thus providing for every motoring need, Goodyear does so in accord with its time-honored policy of shouldering the cost of new and important tire developments.

Goodyear has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to develop, test and perfect Balloon Tires—To equip the Goodyear factories with production facilities that make possible Goodyear Balloon Tires of both types and of all sizes—

To stock Goodyear dealers everywhere with Goodyear Balloon Tires for your car.

What is the result of this Goodyear provision? In the majority of cases the car owner can get Goodyear Balloon Tires that fit his present wheels, and is thus relieved of the personal expense of new wheel and rim changes —and of discarding wheels and present tires that may still have good values in them.

So the thing for every motorist to keep in mind is that Goodyear offers Balloon Tires of both kinds—for new wheel equipment and for present wheels.

Consult your wishes or your purse, you can have Goodyear Balloon Tires in either case.

Whichever kind of Goodyear Balloon Tire you buy, you will find it genuinely Goodyear in quality, Goodyear in workmanship, construction and design, and offering more mileage at low tire cost.

This is another case where faith in Goodyear will save you money and risk.

Complete information on Goodyear Balloon Tires is now available in convenient form; simply mail the coupon and an authoritative booklet will be sent you free.

Increase of "Listeners In" Estimated to Be 550,000 in Past Year.

Great Britain has about 580,000 licensed "listeners in," compared with only 30,000 a year ago, and broadcasting is still increasing, reports to the U. S. Government state. This year manufacturers expect a large increase in their business. About 225,000 individuals who first took out temporary licenses were later given constructors' licenses, which apparently are permits to build sets. This type of license seems popular, as between 32,000 and 75,000 per month were issued toward the close of 1923. All told, 165,000 British broadcasting licenses were issued to owners of British manufactured sets, 75 per cent of whom are said to own crystal sets. Since the broadcasting stations are mostly located in popular districts, a large majority of set owners are satisfied with simple crystal sets.

Battery Wires.

When the "A" battery is some distance from a receiving set, it is a good plan to have the wires rather heavy to reduce resistance. No. 14 rubber-covered will do well for this purpose. The same rule also holds for the "B" battery.

NON-RE-RADIATION A FEATURE OF THIS SET

Interference May Be Reduced by Circuit Which Does Not Transmit Whistles.

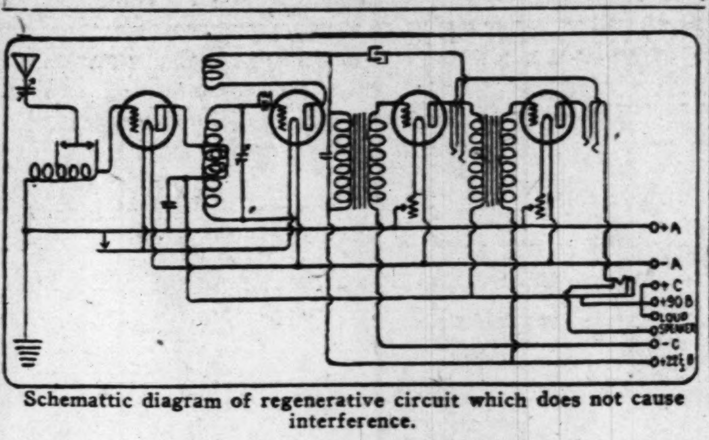
The perfection for the first time of regenerative radio receiving circuits which will not "re-radiate" and cause what is generally credited as the worst form of radio interference is announced by Bowden Washington, chief engineer of the Cutting & Washington Radio Corporation of Minneapolis, Minn.

"For a long time it has been evident that 'transmitting' regenerative receiving sets which send waves into the air and cause squeals and catcalls in neighboring sets are a grave menace to the future of radio's popularity, and yet the principle of regeneration which is so vital in increasing volume, range and selectivity could not be abandoned," said Washington.

"Experiments made with the view of overcoming this problem have resulted in the perfection of regenerative circuits which retain this volume, range and selectivity, but do not transmit or 'reradiate.'"

The principle of regeneration is used in a majority of broadcast receivers now in use in this and other countries. This discovery of a method to eliminate radiation will obliterate 'interference' that for years has been the biggest bugaboo of radio fans, it is declared.

Receiver Which Does Not Re-Radiate



Schemattic diagram of regenerative circuit which does not cause interference.

The first of these "non-re-radiatting" circuits to be made public is called the "Teledyne." Engineers who tested it describe it as a "perfection of regeneration," inasmuch as it embodies the vitally necessary points of this type of circuit and overcomes its evils.

"In addition to the 'non-re-radiation' feature, the engineering accomplishments in the set also bring about increased volume, greatly increased range and a somewhat increased selectivity over the conventional double circuit sets," said Washington. "The first stage of the Teledyne circuit operates in the following manner:

"It is well known that when a resonant circuit, consisting of an inductance and a capacity in parallel is placed in series with the plate circuit of a vacuum tube, the grid cihcuit which is also resonated to the same frequency, will produce oscillations and somewhat off this resonant point. If this circuit is coupled with the plate circuit with sufficiently close coupling the same phenomena will occur. If, however, the coupling is at a certain critical value regeneration can be produced without possibility of oscillation. This latter value is that used in the Teledyne.

"The antenna circuit consists of the usual inductance but of two values, tuned by a series condenser, which, also operates a cam switch choosing either of these inductance values over the two available 180-degree scales, with the grid-filament input leads across this inductance.

"The plate circuit of the first stage is coupled, at the critical value mentioned heretofore to the grid inductance of the detector, which latter is tuned by the usual variable condenser. The adjustment of this condenser resonates the detector grid circuit and at the same time regenerates the radio-frequency amplifier, thereby increasing its response by lowering the antenna resistance.

"The antenna inductance which is also the grid inductance of the radio-frequency amplifier is carefully mounted at minimum coupling position with the detector grid inductance. This is necessary in order to prevent parasitic feed back causing oscillation of the first tube and, incidentally, as the detector is the only tube which can be over regenerated and oscillate, this minimum coupling position prevents these oscillations from getting into the antenna circuit.

"The tuning of this set is extremely simple, and either of two methods may be employed. First the regeneration of the detector may be left low and the antenna condenser and detector grid circuit tuning condenser may be handled in a manner resembling the tuning of a one-stage neutrodyne. The second method is similar to the usual manner of handling a two-circuit regenerative receiver, i. e., oscillate the detector, turn its condenser until a heterodyne note appears, tune the antenna until it is loudest and reduce the regeneration. The difference is that the heterodyne note does not go out on the air and become a pest for several blocks in all directions.

"Owing to the double use of regeneration, this receiver with four tubes is more sensitive than the conventional five-tube neutrodyne."

Washington said that "non-reradiation" is not appliable to one-tube sets which "will eventually have to be done away with because one of them will, with squeals and catcalls, spoil the results of other receivers in a one, or, sometimes, two blocks radius."

For the Notebook.

Guy the aerial so it will not swing in the wind.

Resistance will impede the current flow if wire for coils is too small.

Either a variable condenser or variometer will sometimes assist in sharp tuning.

For local work a variometer, good crystal and telephones make a good but cheap set.

Always follow direction sheets which come with genuine tubes.

RADIO CALLS RELIEF WORKERS TO DISASTER

Message Broadcast Was Picked Up and Delivered to Red Cross Women.

The very latest use of radio is its use to rush trained relief workers to the scene of a disaster. Recently, when news of the great mine explosion at Crosby, Minn., startled the country with the report of 40 dead and many injured, efforts to reach American Red Cross relief workers in the immediate vicinity by the usual means proved futile. Heavy storms had paralyzed wire communication. There was only one way left—the radio.

Red Cross officials wanted to reach Mrs. Marjorie Bell, who was at Minneapolis. Immediately they received the co-operation of radio companies and four great stations in the Middle West began broadcasting every two minutes for Mrs. Bell.

Within an hour the message was delivered to Mrs. Bell by a neighbor who had picked it out of the air with his small crystal set, and within two hours she was on her way to Crosby. Mrs. Leslie Gray, the nearest field representative of the Red Cross, also was notified by radio, and joined Mrs. Bell at Crosby.

The result was that the trained disaster relief organization of the Red Cross within a few hours had started to repair the effects of one of the worst mine disasters in recent times.

NEW ARRIVALS ON THE RADIO MART

Thousands of storage batteries are in the hands of the radio public and equally as many are being sold daily to operate newly purchased receivers. Some means must be provided for recharging, as it is usually inconvenient to carry heavy batteries to a charging station and even where this is possible, it is expensive. To meet this condition, the Ohio Electric & Controller Co. have made up a motor-generator unit which will charge at any desired rate from one to 20 amperes. It consists of a ball-bearing, low-voltage generator, flexibly coupled to a motor wound for any standard frequency and voltage. With no resistance cut into the generator field circuit, the charge begins at six volts, 17 amperes and tapers to 13½ amperes at eight volts. The set is complete with 10-foot motor cord, with plug for lamp socket or receptacle, six-foot flexible generator leads with spring connector, ammeter, rheostat to adjust the charging rate, all mounted on a substantial base. It weighs approximately 70 pounds and is ready to run when received.

An innovation in dials has just appeared in the form of a dial having a ribbed surface. These are Radion dials, and come in black and in mahoganite, with gold graduations in three and four inch diameter. The ribs radiate from the knob out nearly to the beveled edge and provide easy rests for the fingers when delicate tuning is necessary. A vernier effect is thus obtained, and a very small motion of the dial may be secured with a considerable movement of the finger tip placed near the periphery. This dial is equipped, as are other Radion dials, with a semicircular slot in the back of each which corresponds to the scale indications and fits a stop peg in the panel, thus preventing damage to internal rotor leads and limiting the dial movement to the semi-circular scale. The metal insert is made to fit a ¼-inch shaft, but there is a removable sleeve which may be inserted for use with a 3-16-inch diameter shaft.

After exhaustive experiments over a period of two years, there has been developed a variable mercury grid-leak, called the "resistron," which was designed especially for use in radio receivers and transmitters. It is not affected by time, use or climatic changes. For mounting on the panel it is only necessary to drill one ⅜-inch hole in the panel. Th unit is not large and consists of a panel insulating disc, behind which is mounted the resistance unit. This unit is a circular disc, red in color, that is hermetically sealed so that no moisture can penetrate to the elements. The shaft which is used to turn the disc is made of a high-grade insulating material which eliminates all capacity effect from the hand of the operator. The resistance range is from ¼ megohm to 10 megohms. There is a special resistance material inside the disc and contact is made through mercury, bringing more or ess material into the circuit. It is said of the instrument, by engineers, thatit can be calibrated for resistance values and that it will hold the calibration. The unit is manufactured by the Temple Instrument Co.

STANDARD FREQUENCY SIGNALS ANNOUNCED

More Transmissions in March and April Will Enable Calibration of Sets.

The Bureau of Standards is transmitting special signals of standard frequency about twice a month. The last previously announced schedule was published in the December (1923) issue of the Radio Service Bulletin. The next schedule is announced below. The signals can be heard and utilized in general east of the Mississippi River.

These special signals of standard frequency are of use to testing laboratories, transmitting station operators and others in standardizing wavemeters and adjusting transmitting and receiving apparatus. Their accuracy is better than three-tenths of 1 per cent. Information on how to use the signals was given in the February (1923) issue of the Radio Service Bulletin. More detailed information is given in Bureau of Standards Letter Circular No. 92, which may be obtained, on application, from the Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C.

All transmissions are by unmodulated continuous-wave telegraphy. A complete frequency transmission includes a "general call," a "standard frequency signal" and "announcements." The "general call" is given at the beginning of the eight-minute period and continues for about two minutes. This includes a statement of the frequency. The "standard frequency signal" is a series of very long dashes with the call letters WWV intervening. This signal continues for about four minutes. The "announcements" are on the same frequency as the "standard frequency signal" just transmitted, and contains a statement of the measured frequency. An announcement of the next frequency to be transmitted is then given. There is then a four-minute interval while the transmitting set is adjusted for the next frequency.

The schedule of standard frequency signals is as follows:

BOTH COASTS REPORT ON HEART-BEAT TEST

KSD Receives Letters From Canada to Florida and From East and West Coasts.

Human heartbeats broadcast from radio station KSD, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the night of Feb. 20 were heard distinctly in all parts of the United States and in Canada. Listeners have written from a wide range of territory and from points as far north as Glenavon, Saskatchewan, Canada, and as far south as San Antonio, Tex., and Cocoa, Fla. The easternmost point thus far heard from was Tonawanda, N. Y., and the westernmost Fresno, Cal.

Few beats of radio broadcasting have ever brought as large a volume of mail expressing the appreciation of radio enthusiasts.

The heartbeats were sent out on the air from the KSD studio by Dr. R. B. Abbott, assistant professor of physics at Purdue University, demonstrating his new microphone stethoscope.

As heard over the radio the heartbeats and the flow of blood through the arteries were clearly audible, the sound being like the chug of a rotary pump and the rush of water through the pipe. One listener wrote: "Had I not been forewarned I would have felt sure that I was listening to the rhythmic count of a machine pumping water."

G. A. Moodie, a veterinary surgeon of Glenavon, Saskatchewan, Canada, wrote: "The stethoscope demonstration given by the doctor was most interesting. We could hear every heartbeat quite distinctly. I could hear them almost as plainly as I have heard them when listening to the animals with my own instrument."

This came from J. L. Demanche of San Antonio, Tex.: "We thought hearing the clock tick at Havana was wonderful, but hearing the beating of a human heart is marvelous."

J. D. Wolf of Tonawanda, N. Y., wrote: "Strange to relate, I was fortunate enough to be tuned with KSD when you were broadcasting heartbeats.

"I heard them very distinctly, using head phones at the time, but believed the heart beats were my own, which, through some mysterious agency of the radio might be possible. I called the attention of my wife to the apparent phenomenon, and to prove it I placed my forefinger on my wrist pulse and my heart was beating in perfect unison with the heartbeats to which I was listening. Of course, I was undeceived on reading of your test in the newspapers."

From Cocoa, Fla., came this letter, written by C. F. Norton: "We were much interested at hearing the wonderful broadcasting of the several heartbeats given by Dr. Abbott. They came through in fine shape and we could hear them perfectly."

A remarkable reception feat was that of C. E. Guerrant of Fresno, Cal., who wrote: "We heard your program Feb. 20. You were broadcasting the heartbeat of Dr. R. B. Abbott of Purdue University. I was using a bed spring aerial. Volume fair, modulation fine."

The wide range of reception of the heartbeat demonstration is the more remarkable in view of the fact that it had not been previously announced outside of St. Louis and that, including the announcement by radio, the entire test consumed less than five minutes.

The Plus and Minus Signs.

Batteries, whether dry or storage, are always represented by parallel lines—one being short and the other long. They are marked plus and minus, the plus being the positive, and the minus negative. Some draftsmen use the thick, short one for positive, and others the long one, there being no standard.

An Ounce of Precaution.

When working behind a panel with a screwdriver or pair of pliers, always make sure that the filament and plate batteries of the set are disconnected and the tubes removed from the sockets. A slight slip of the tools may cause a short circuit and burn out a tube.

Avoid Oscillation.

The main difficulty with home-made radio-frequency amplifiers is that the tubes oscillate and the result is howling and squealing. The same thing applies to a neutrodyne set, unless the neutralizing condensers are properly adjusted. In this type of set, the squeals and whistles are neutralized when the set is operating properly.

FRANCE HAS 4 BROADCASTERS

No Regularly Licensed Radio Transmission at Present Time.

France has no regularly licensed radio transmission stations assigned to broadcasting, according to advices from the Under-Secretary of State on Posts and Telegraphs.

Until the matter has been definitely settled by the Government, there will be no special broadcasters. There is, however, one private station authorized to try out radio dissemination, aided by three Government stations, under provisional authority.

The three French Government stations co-operating are: the military station in the Eiffel Tower, "FL," operating on 5 KW and a wave length of 2600 meters; the Superior School P. T. T. at Paris, "ESP," with 450 watts on 450 meters, and the Lyons station "YN," wave length 740 meters and 250 watts power. The private experimental station is that of the French Radiotelephony Co., in Paris "8AJ," wave length 1789 meters and 6 KW power.

Cleaning Crystal.

If the sensitive spot on a crystal is worn out or the crystal is dirty, immerse the crystal in a bath of alcohol for about 15 minutes, then remove the crystal and allow it to dry. Never touch crystals used in radio work with your hands, as dirt and grease are conveyed to the surface of the mineral.

WASHINGTON, D. C., HAS NIGHT SCHOOL RADIO COURSE

Class of 300 Meets Three Times a Week at Manual Training School for Instruction.

The new radio night school, recently opened in Washington, said to be the first of its kind anywhere, has made a decided hit with local fans. Men, women, boys and girls are represented in the radio construction class of 300 which will meet three times a week at the McKinley Manual Training School. Twenty per cent of those enrolled are women, who seek to learn how to build their own receiving equipment. Radio Experts L. M. Heron and H. P. Noble are in charge of the evening radio classes. Besides instruction on construction, methods of tuning, especially in regenerative sets will be taught so as to avoid howling and reradiation. The general theoretical principles of radio in its many phases will also be covered in this unique course.

To Get Far-Off Stations.

Distant reception of any radio set depends upon variable factors, such as conditions of the atmosphere, skill of the operator in tuning, location of the set relative to surroundings, such as steel structures, and grade of apparatus used in construction.

GERMANS OFFER PRIZE FOR BEST RADIO DRAMA

5000 Gold Marks Offered in Competition for Drama Suitable for Broadcasting.

Five thousand gold marks will be given for the best radio drama written in the German language, in a competition just closed here. The prize was offered by a general publication devoted exclusively to radio problems, and it was stipulated that the play must be especially written for wireless transmission, just as plays are written especially for the films, ordinary dramas being wholly unsuited for broadcasting.

It is hoped that an entirely new type of drama may be produced which will give a wide range for the use of all sorts of mechanical effects in which sound is the prime element and will eliminate the pauses incidental to gestures and pantomime, obviously meaningless to persons who do not see them.

Radio drama directors are springing up in all parts of Germany, and actors are giving attention to the special needs of the unseen drama which will put a premium on good voices and proper diction and make youth and beauty nonessentials.

Never attach radio aerials or anything else to poles carrying power wires of any sort. Accidental contact with live wires may cause injury or death or bring about fires.

POETRY PREFERRED TO RECEIPES IN ENGLAND

Feminine Radio Fans Express Preferences in Written Petitions.

American women radio enthusiasts who are tired of listening in on cooking recipes, marketing hints and household management may find the courage to demand something less prosaic through the action of the British women who have written to the broadcasting organizations announcing that they are surfeited with cooking, household and sewing talks and want something along the line of poetry, physiology, politics and literature.

In response to this new feminine taste the radio stations here have decided to introduce during the coming week short talks on legal, medical, musical and literary subjects for the special benefit of their women listeners. They will also give a series of talks on how the women can make pin money.

Most of the protests against the cooking recipes, gardening formulas and domestic economy suggestions came from mature married women with large families and homes to look after. They explain that they were in no mood after a hard day's work at the washboard and kitchen stove to listen to academic culinary or household theories from woman lecturers who derived most of their knowledge of cookery and husbandry from mere books.

To insure the revised program reaching the largest number of women possible, the official British Broadcasting company has installed powerful relay stations at Hull, Liverpool, Leeds, Edinburgh and Plymouth, which, together with the five existing stations, will link up the whole of the British Isle in a great arterial system of invisible waves.

As a result of an experiment conducted by a station in Cincinnati, O., an airplane was able to receive music from the broadcasting station and amplify it to such an extent that thousands in a crowd below could hear it. A muffler on the engine of the plane overcame the usual loud noises. An amplifier horn protruded downward through the fusilage.

AGRICULTURE VIA RADIO

Twenty-Five More Stations Will Broadcast Government Bulletins.

The Department of Agriculture's radio broadcasting service this year will reach a still greater proportion of the rural listeners-in through the co-operation of 25 more broadcasting stations. About 75 stations are already distributing matter daily on crops, produce and livestock.

Radiograms.

A nickel-in-the-slot radio receiving outfit has made its appearance in Washington, D. C.

Radio For Amateur and Expert

RADIO SET AT EACH BED IN NEW HOSPITAL

Every Room in Jewish Hospital to Have Unrestricted Sweep of Light and Air.

Each bed, those in the wards as well as those in private rooms, in the new Jewish Hospital to be erected at King's highway and Forest Park boulevard, will be equipped with a radio receiving set. No other hospital in the nation is equipped in this manner, it is said.

Another advancement in hospital construction will be verandas for half of the private and half the semi-private rooms. Most hospitals are only equipped with verandas for the wards, very few have them for private patients. The proposed building is so planned that all the verandas will overlook Forest Park.

All rooms in the new building will be exposed to unrestricted sweeps of light and air. The front of the building, which will be built in a series of graduating terraces, will allow for a series of "roof gardens," available to patients in the wards.

Nursery With Glass Wall.

An obstetric department, with a capacity of 25 beds, will be on the third floor of the south wing, but entirely separated from the rest of the institution. There will be a large nursery, to which no one but physicians and nurses will be admitted. One wall of this room will be of glass, however, and visitors will be able to view the infants as they pass along a corridor.

In the wards each person's space will be separated by glass partitions, and it is believed that this 'cubical' arrangement will give the the patient much of the privacy he would have in a separate room.

Ground to Be Broken in April.

Ground for the building will be broken in April. The structure will cost $2,000,000. Of this amount $1,250,000 already has been raised, and it is planned to raise the remaining $750,000 during a week's campaign to begin March 17.

The campaign committee will meet at the Columbian Club at 10 a. m. today to complete plans for the drive. All team captains and co-captains will be present, and names of persons to be solicited will be selected.

Though the hospital will be financed by funds contributed by Jews, it will be conducted in a nonsectarian manner. There will be 125 free ward beds in the new institution.

Headphone Connection.

Headphones operate the best when the "positive" side of the phones is connected to the "positive" lead of the "B" battery. Some phone cords are marked with a red stripe to indicate the positive cords of the phones. But if the phones are not marked, try them connected one way, and then reverse these conditions. The positive side will be indicated by the connection that gives the clearest and loudest signals.

For the Notebook.

Several short wires in an aerial are not as efficient as one, long one.

All long high potential leads should be "shielded" and the "shield" grounded.

A large tuning coil is not satisfactory for short wave lengths. Use a short one.

Like everything else that is cheap, do not expect great things from cheap radio sets.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

All queries must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer.

Q. Where are stations KSNS and 2XB?—P. P.

A. KSNS is not listed; 2XB is a test station of the Western Electric Co., located in New York City.

Q. In the hook-up of the Zahorsky circuit published in the Dec. 2 issue of the Post-Dispatch, a fixed condenser having a value of .02 mfd. is shown. Is this correct or should it have been .002 mfd.?—E. S. M.

A. The capacity of this condenser is not critical; .00025 may be used, if a .02 cannot be had.

Q. Can two aerials be fastened to the same chimney without interfering with each other? One aerial runs directly south and the other is one foot lower, and running southwest?—W. A. W.

A. This arrangement is all-right if crystal sets are connected to each aerial, but if regenerative vacuum-tube sets are employed, interference is bound to result. It can be minimized by placing the aerials as nearly as possible at right angles to each other. The only other alternative is to use a loop in place of one of the outdoor aerials.

Q. What is your opinion of using a phonograph as a loud speaker? Will the tone volume be as good as a horn?—K. K.

A. This is largely a matter of personal opinion. We cannot say which is better. Many people prefer the tone of a wooden horn or tone amplifying chamber to the sound which comes from a metal horn.

Q. Is it possible to get as good results with an indoor loop aerial as with an outside aerial?—E. R.

A. In some cases it is. Some multi-tube sets give better results with a loop aerial than single-tube receivers connected to an outdoor aerial.

Q. Where is station WTAY?—F. E.

A. WTAY is located at Oak Park, Ill. Wave length 226 meters.

Q. Is it true that all regenerative sets will be prohibited? (2) Would it be possible to use the one-stage audio-frequency amplifier circuit of which appeared in the article describing "C" zattery hook-up, with a Reinartz receiver? (3) What is required to have and to operate a spark transmitter?—F. H.

Q. (1) It is unlikely that such a law will be enacted, and if so, it would be difficult to enforce. (2) Yes. (3) There are no spark sets in operation in this city now because of an "unwritten law" against them due to interference they create which cannot be "tuned out." Better use C. W.

Q. 1) Can a loud speaker be used with a one-tube double-circuit receiver? (2) What should be the height and length of an aerial for best results with a double-circuit receiver? E. C.

A. (1) Yes, if the set is efficient. (2) Approximately 90 feet long connected by a lead-in about 25 feet in length.

Q. Where could I obtain a radio call book which contains all amateur and broadcasting stations? R. G.

A. Citizens' Radio Service Co., Inc., 508 S. Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill.

Q. Please list the owners of the following Cuban broadcasting stations: 6KW, 2KD, 6DW and 7BY. W. G.

A. 6KW—Frank H. Jonesfl Tuinucu, 340 meters. 2KD, E. Sanchez de Fuentes, 350 meters. 6DW—Eduardo Terry, Sienfuegos, 225 meters. 7BY is not on our list.

Q. (1) Please advise what size of storage battery to buy to operate the Cockaday four-circuit receiver described in the Post-Dispatch, Feb. 3. (2) Is an automobile battery as efficient when used as a radio battery as batteries designed especially for radio use? F. E. M.

A. (1) Either a 60 or 80 ampere six-volt battery. The latter would operate the set for a longer period without recharging. The only difference is that the 80-ampere battery has a greater capacity. (2) Yes, but they will not hold their charge as long, due to their slightly different design. The plates of a radio battery are much thicker and heavier than those of an automobile battery.

Q. I made a vacuum tube receiving set and tried it out last night for the first time. Just the least little jar would stop it from working. Can you tell me where the trouble is? E. B.

A. There is probably a loose or broken wire in the circuit. Perhaps a wire is broken inside the insulation. Try gently moving every wire until you find the place where the signals stop when it is shaken. Then put in a new lead in its place.

Ann Pennington says—

"I have a Manhattan in my home because I love fine music"

"Your Manhattan Loud Speaker is simply wonderful," writes Miss Pennington. "It reproduces with great fidelity the splendid musical programs that are 'in the air' each night.

"Before making up my mind I tried practically every make, and finally chose a Manhattan because of its superb reproducing qualities and the adjustable Concert Modulator."

Go and hear the Manhattan and compare it with others. Compare its mellow richness of tone—its remarkable range and its magnificent volume, with the reproducing qualities of other instruments. Note carefully its adjustable Concert Modulator that banishes all "chattering" and distortion.

Go to your nearest dealer and insist upon the Manhattan, "the Loud Speaker with the Concert Modulator."

KSD WILL BROADCAST TECHNICAL LECTURES

Radio Subjects of Especial Interest to Broadcast Listeners Will Be Discussed.

A series of lectures on radio theory will be broadcast from Station K S D by Prof. T. Emmett Reynolds, S. J., of St. Louis University. Prof. Reynolds is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers and has been until recently on the faculty of physics at the University of Detroit, Mich. He has lately taken up his scientific work in St. Louis at St. Louis University. He has specialized in lecturing on radio topics to both technical and nontechnical audiences and brings to his present undertaking the experience of years of study and research.

The first of his lectures will be given Tuesday evening, March 4, the remainder on succeeding Tuesday evenings until the course is completed.

The topics dealt with will include atmospheric conditions in their relation to "fading," "static" and similar phenomena which render the reception of broadcast signals more difficult or effect unpleasant distortion of radio programs. Exhaustive research in atmospherics has revealed the presence of numerous activities of an electrical or radioactive nature which go far toward explaining the above mentioned radio irregularities. An examination of data bearing on this point and taken daily during the past year from trans-Atlantic stations, has revealed facts of great interest which will be set forth in considerable detail.

The many complex causes of distortion in broadcast speech and music will be the subject of other lectures. Remedies will be suggested for these and similar disorders in receiving sets. By gaining a better understanding of the theory involved, operators will be enabled to apply these remedies more effectually. An explanation of the propagation of waves through the ether and the conditions requisite to set this medium in vibration will serve to clarify your ideas on this most interesting development of modern science.

Later talks will discuss the most recent developments in radio apparatus, such as the new four-element tubes now in process of being perfected in the largest radio laboratories in the country. Apparatus of this type will simplify radio to the last degree. A single connection with the lighting system much like that used for a vacuum cleaner, will put this kind of set in operation. The 110-v. alternating current mains will furnish the means of causing incandescence of the filament besides supplying the necessary high voltage for the plate. This latter feature is secured by reason of the fourth element installed in the tube which operates to rectify the current. Current hum is thus suppressed to a point where it may be regarded as negligible.

The lectures will also include a brief exposition of the theory of the Sodion detector, a recent product of an Eastern experimental laboratory. This detector, a hot cathode device, is, if one may judge from the graphs and data forwarded to the lecturer by the inventor, Mr. Donle, a most sensitive contrivance wholly free from distortion. The principle of operation is a radical departure from the type of hot cathode tube now in general use.

The 28th Infantry, with headquarters at the old historic Fort Niagara, N. Y., boasts of having the best radio equipment and operators in the army.

Because of slang, British radio amateurs who are picking up messages from American amateurs are having a hard time understanding some of the strange phrases which are being received.

GOVERNMENT WANTS RADIO MEN

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has broadcast a call for radio engineers in the Army Signal Corps Service. The Government needs one radio engineer, and will pay a salary of between $4000 and $5000; an associate engineer, at between $3000 and $4000, and an assistant engineer at between $2000 and $3000 per annum. These civilian engineers are required for signal service work at the McCook Air Service Field, Dayton, O., and Camp Alfred Vail, N. J., the army signal school. Applications, together with data as to experience and training, must be filed with the Civil Service in Washington before March 11.

Use of Phone Condenser.

A phone condenser is not absolutely necessary for the proper operation of a regenerative receiver, but its use in a reflex set is necessary, so that the radio-frequency currents can be by-passed through the condenser, instead of passing through the resistance of the phones.

The Scope of Broadcasting.

The February issue of the Commerce Department Radio Service Bulletin, which includes the latest broadcasting list, shows that 95 stations are owned by universities, colleges or schools. It lists 46 newspapers or publishers operating stations, and 20 churches, not including some which utilize other stations. Every state has at least one station broadcasting entertainment, lectures, weather reports, etc. Two stations broadcast data from their market bureaus, and nine municipalities, chambers of commerce or boards of trade have stations serving police forces, or other community interests.

Equipment at Cape May, N. J., to Be Sold to Highest Bidder.

The French Government now broadcasts weather forecasts twice a day, at sunrise and at 4:30 p. m., to rural communities. These include the direction of the wind, possibilities of dangerous phenomena for agriculture, such as frost, storms, hail, etc., and unusual variations of temperature.

RADIO HELPS SALE OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

Some Phonograph Manufacturers Contemplating Entering Radio Business.

The tremendous spread of interest in radio development which is keeping the manufacturers of wireless equipment rushed to capacity to fill orders, is calculated to help rather than hurt the manufacture and sale of musical instruments. That conclusion seems to be concurred in by both makers and dealers in instruments. It is admitted by dealers in some sections that certain lines have been affected unfavorably by radio development, but even in these producers are not worried.

The reason for this is that the radio has been a tremendous factor in musical education of people all over the country. People who knew little and cared less about music have listened to radio programs and enjoyed them. As the public becomes more familiar with music and with different kinds of music, the musical trade is sure that a desire to reproduce familiar selections whenever they choose, and to branch out into personal musical expression, will receive tremendous stimulus.

"We think that the radio has helped the sale of band and orchestra instruments," said George M. Bundy, president of the New York Conn Co., today. "We find that people who seldom get to hear good bands and orchestras are now more interested in musical instruments and are appreciating the difference in their tone and timbre. The phonograph has done much also to hpread the appreciation of really good band and orchestra music."

The radio has unquestionably cut into the sale of the lower-priced pianos and into some of the other musical instruments, according to Roger O'Connor of Chicago, sales representative for Kranich & Bach manufacturers of high-grade pianos. This had occurred in the face of one of the most prosperous years for a long time.

"Radio equipment naturally cannot compete with the $1000 and lpward piano," he added, "but it has without doubt cut into sales of the three, four and five hundred dollar instruments which correspond closely in price with the best radio sets, plus the extras and additions which radio fans attach themselves. The player-piano, in my opinion, has been hardest hit, although no kindred line of business has suffered to the extent of the phonograph.

"I understand some of the phonograph people are turning their attention more closely to radio and some contemplate going into that line themselves. They are not greatly worried, however, although at first glance it might seem strange that they are not. The reason is that ultimately the radio will help sales just as it will help player-piano sales, since so many radio fans will hear popular pieces by the best orchestras and performers and thus have created within them a desire to play these selections at will on their own instruments."

A number of other Chicago piano dealers bore out O'Connor's statement. A canvass of 22 large retail music houses in San Francisco, however, showed that sales in the last year of musical instruments of all kinds were higher than in 1919, which hitherto was the banner year. Some of the merchants, however, admitted there had been a falling off in phonograph sales. A few estimated this decline at 40 per cent, while others said they noted only a slight drop in demand.

The remarkable improvement made in the simplification of radio sets has been fully equaled by the betterment of the broadcast programs. While the hearers have not be able to signify by applause or hisses their approval or disapproval of individual programs, they have not been backward in letting broadcasting stations know by letter and telephone what they liked and what did not appeal to them. Their comments have been carefully studied and programs now are being worked out along lines calculated to amuse and interest as many radio fans as possible.

RADIO CAUSES NEW DEMAND FOR COPPER

Electrical Industries Consume 800,000,000 Pounds of Metal in 1923.

Electrical industries of the United States consumed 800,000,000 pounds of copper in 1913, according to a survey just completed by the Copper and Brass Research Association. This is approximately one-half of all the copper consumed in the United States last year.

In addition to large uses of copper in electric light and power lines, telephone and telegraph systems and railroad electrification, the radio is consuming increased quantities of that metal, a radio set requiring on an average five pounds of copper. The survey concludes that the increasing use of electricity and electrical equipment indicates a further growth in copper consumption in these industries in the near future to an amount in excess of a billion pounds yearly.

The survey reads in part as follows:

"The basic industry most important to electrical manufacturers is the business of mining and refining copper, and year by year the growth of one has been paralleled by the growth of the other. Almost from the beginning of the commercial importance of the electrical industry, in the late eighties and early nineties, the yearly percentage of domestic copper shipments consumed in electric manufactures has been not far from 50 per cent of the total domestic copper consumption.

"In other words, half the copper consumed annually in the United States is absorbed in the finished form of such items as electric light and power lines, generator, motor and transformer winding, trolley lines, telephone, telegraph and signal systems, railroad electrification, switchboards, instruments, lamp sockets, house wiring and devices, domestic appliances, and so on.

"A tentative estimate indicates that 1,600,000,000 pounds of copper was consumed in the United States during 1923, and of this total, electrical manufactures absorbed at least 800,000,000 pounds. With such a large amount to contemplate it might seem too optimistic to look forward to still greater figures for electrical copper consumption, but there are good reasons for doing so."

When using a vario-coupler as a single circuit regenerative set and the tube will not oscillate, try reversing the connections to the rotor coil.

SYMPHONY SOLOIST ENGAGED AFTER CONCERT IS BROADCAST

Miss Helen Traubel Accepts Telegraph Offer to Appear With Little Rock Choral Society.

When Josef Rosenberg, director of the Little Rock Choral Society, tuned in with the Post-Dispatch broadcasting station recently to hear the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, Miss Helen Traubel, soprano, was announced as the soloist.

After Miss Traubel had sung two numbers, Mr. Rosenberg and a group of friends around the loud speaker were so delighted that he decided to offer her an engagement as soloist for the second concert of the choral society on March 11.

Mr. Rosenberg wired his offer and Miss Traubel accepted.

The Little Rock Choral Society is the only mixed chorus in the South that sings entirely unaccompanied, according to Mr. Rosenberg. There are only about 20 such organizations in the country, the one at Bethlehem, Pa., being the most noted.

FRESHMAN Variable Grid Leak

The Standard Unit for Every Tube Set

EVERY tube and every circuit require a different grid leak resistance. The method employed in the Freshman Variable Grid Leak permits you to adjust your circuit to any resistance you wish, from 0 to 10 megohms in an unbroken range of 180 degrees.

The Freshman Variable Grid Leak and Condenser combined takes the place of a grid condenser, leak mounting and grid leak—and, in addition, permits an adjustment to the correct amount of resistance. The Freshman Variable Grid Leak is the most compact, the most perfect, the most efficient, the most readily adapted to all grid circuits—and the only one which is entirely sealed and always remains unaffected by any climatic conditions. It is the

Formica is the better Bakelite

FORMICA is the most popular of all forms of bakelite for radio panels and insulating tubes. It is used by 125 of the leading radio manufacturers — the makers who are known for the high quality of their product, as well as those who are famous for the production of enormous quantities of sets of good quality at a moderate price.

From coast to coast experienced amateurs prefer it to all other materials. It does not sag or warp because of heat, as materials in which rubber is used, will do — and it does not change color or lose its beauty of finish because of sunlight, or weather conditions. Its insulating quality gets better with use.

Compare Formica with other panels and see how much handsomer it is. You will understand why everybody wants it.

WHEN you tell your friends about the wonderful results you get on distant stations, hearing them loud and clear as a bell—just add that you use Acme for amplification and they'll believe your story.

For it is well known that with Acme Transformers—the Acme (R-2, 3 and 4) Radio Frequency Transformers and the Acme A-2 Audio Frequency Transformer—you can tune in, loud and clear, distant stations that you could just barely hear before, and some that you couldn't hear at all.

Make an Acme "REFLEX" set with these two transformers and you can invite your friends in any night, summer or winter, and prove to them that your story is right.

Ask to see Acme Transformers at your Radio Dealer's. Send 10 cents for book, "Amplification without Distortion" to Acme Apparatus Co., Cambridge, Mass. It tells you how to make your set "REFLEX" with Acme.

INSTITUTE OF GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS OPENS MARCH 11

Enrollment of More Than 1000 Expected by League of Women Vooters' Workers.

Women in charge of arrangements for the institute of government and politics, to be opened by the St. Louis, St. Louis County and State Leagues of Women Voters at the City Club March 11, believe the enrollment will be more than 1000. The institute is open to the public. The purpose is to aid men and women to attain a more comprehensive understanding of citizenship, government and politics.

Washington University is co-operating in the arrangements, and Chancellor Hadley is on the program for an address, "The Administration of Criminal Justice," March 12. Other speakers on the program are:

Harold R. Peat, the "Private Peat" of war-time fame; Mrs. Elmer McKay, of the Department of Political Science, University of Missouri; Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania; Judge Mary Barthelme, of the Chicago Juvenile Court; Profs. Unusual Twist of Character Revealed in Confession of 19-Year-Old Frank McDowell, Who Says He Sought to Make Amends for His Blasphemy by Offering Sacrifices Through "Fire, Blood and Water"—Alienists Declare He Is an Egomaniac and Not Responsible for His Crimes, but Prosecutors Insist He Is Sane and Planned Killings to Get Money to Travel.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 1.

AS an aftermath of the brutal murder of Mr. and Mrs. John M. McDowell of St. Petersburg, Fla., 11 days ago by their 19-year-old son, Frank, and the youth's confession that he also burned his two sisters to death in their bedroom exactly a year before, psychiatrists and legal authorities in this part of the country are engaged in a bitter controversy which may not only determine Frank McDowell's fate, but have a pronounced effect upon other criminal cases wherein the "expert" testimony of neurologists is relied upon to establish the offender's degree of guilt.

The issue, to put it briefly and plainly, is whether Frank McDowell is an egomaniac, laboring under hallucinations which render him irresponsible for his acts, or, on the contrary, the most inhuman fiend that the South has ever known, fully in control of his faculties, degenerate though they may be, and entirely accountable for his crimes. Upon the outcome of the dispute, it is clear, may hang the verdict which will either place the youth in an institution for defectives or send him to the electric chair.

Psychiatrists, physicians, experts on mental disorders all agree to the last man that the boy is insane; that he is afflicted with a mental aberration common in all strata of society and that his discursive ravings about expiating his "blasphemy against the Holy Ghost" are the babblings of a lunatic. As a lunatic, they contend, he should be given medical attention instead of punishment. And they bolster their argument with voluminous evidence of his derangement.

Money Seen as the Motive

But the prosecutors and police officials who have interested themselves in the case, both here and in Florida, have some ideas of their own and they, too, have found plenty of evidence to back them up. They admit they are not quite up to the minute on egomania and mental aberrations—those high-sounding terms that are so impressive to [illegible]—but they insist they do know cold-blooded, coldly calculated murder when they see it and they refuse to listen to any rambling stories about "dual personality" or "inability to resist the promptings of the subconscious mind."

Their opinion is that the only "prompting" Frank McDowell experienced was the prompting to get money, and to get it without work. What the experts call egomania—the derangement that renders its victims incapable of considering the rights or the lives of others—they call ordinary savagery, or viciousness, or whatever it is that makes any human beast of prey go about killing people for the loot obtainable.

Clearly the public hereabouts would prefer to soothe its shocked sensibilities by accepting the doctors' theory that the youth is mad. The average American mind revolts at the idea that such an appalling crime could have been committed with premeditation. And indeed there is scarcely a parallel to it in fact or fiction. De Maupassant, delving into the sordid aspects of the human makeup, does examine possible motives of "A Parricide," but the crime he pictures seems hardly a misdemeanor in comparison with this monstrosity—that is, if the prosecutors' theory is correct, and here is the evidence upon which they base their contention.

Frank McDowell, they assert, was an idler and a spendthrift. His constant cry to his parents was for more money. He complained at the meagerness of his own allowance and bitterly resented anything given to his sisters, Marion and Williamette. A year ago he got rid of them by saturating their bed with kerosene, locking them in and setting fire to the house. Then with his status as his parents' only heir established, he next turned his attention to getting rid of them—so the officers say.

Chief of Police George M. Goslick and Detective John Trotter of St. Petersburg produce evidence that the boy expected to get possession of $17,000 through the death of his father and mother. This sum would have included insurance on the father's life, long-term notes due as proceeds from a newspaper the elder McDowell had owned at Decatur, but had sold following the fire tragedy, and money from the sale of the McDowell home.

In substantiating their theory, the officers point out that the only job Frank McDowell ever had was as an insurance agent, and that the only policies he ever sold were two on his father's life. Each of these policies was sold in the last year, since the death of the two McDowell sisters, and both had a clause which provided that the amount of the indemnity would be doubled in case the elder McDowell came to a violent death.

Further bearing out their theory that the 19-year-old boy killed his parents for money and not because he was insane, the officers have obtained a statement from W. J. Kelly of St. Petersburg, an intimate acquaintance of McDowell's, in which Kelly says that the youth's ambition was to travel over the world and that his constant complaint was that he needed money. He said Frank McDowell frequently had tried to persuade him to leave Florida and go with him to New York and then Paris. The boy, he declared, was constantly picturing the lure of life in the glitter of Broadway's white lights.

Officers of DeKalb County, Ga., of which Decatur is the county seat, are as firmly convinced as those in Florida, that McDowell is sane, and in case he is not convicted of murder in Florida they have asked that he be returned to Georgia for trial.

Boy Tells of His "Brain Storms"

But against this evidence of premeditated murder, relatives, friends and alienists cling to the "egomania" plea. Proof of the existence of such a disorder, they declare, is evident in everything the boy has done or said. In this connection a well-known Atlanta alienist has startled the city by announcing that virtually every community has its quota of Frank McDowells walking the streets in liberty but capable of just such crimes as this boy has confessed. More than 250 persons in Atlanta alone, he says, have come under his observation and have been found to be suffering from the same mental malady that caused Frank McDowell to wipe out his entire family. These people he regards as potential murderers if their particular hallucinations are ever opposed. In his opinion it was the same form of insanity that caused Czolgosz to assassinate President McKinley, Booth to kill Lincoln and the people of Salem to burn witches at the stake in colonial days.

Dr. H. Marion Smith, alienist and psychiatrist of Tampa, Fla., examined McDowell in his cell in the Pinellas County Jail at Clearwater, Fla., and pronounced him insane.

Frank McDowell himself says that he has a dual personality, though he explains this in a rather complicated way, and declares that he has suffered from "brain storms," a type of insanity first mentioned at the trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White.

In describing his dual personality he goes into religion, which is his chief obsession, whether feigned or real. "When I have control of myself," he says, "I am above religion. I am an atheist. But when my subconscious nature is in control of me, I believe in Christ and a living God. My subconscious self seems to command something that conscious mind is powerless to ignore and my body obeys. Just before my crimes I am a Christian; then I become horrified at the enormity of my sins and return to atheism."

R. G. Payne, the man for whom McDowell worked a short time as an insurance solicitor, says the boy is "more lazy than crazy. He would rather have been killed than work."

The police now believe that Mrs. McDowell knew her son was the murderer when her two daughters were killed and protected him from the authorities, only to meet death at his hands herself. There is, of course, no proof of this, nor is there now any means of obtaining proof, but officers recall that when they suspected Frank of the crime at the time of the fire investigation the mother frustrated their efforts to question him. She insisted on remaining in the room all the time the youth was under examination and objected vigorously to the cross-questioning that was attempted. In spite of this, however, Robert C. W. Ramspeck, Solicitor of the City Court of Decatur, got statements from him which are expected to be of importance now.

Girls Trapped in Bedroom.

It was on Feb. 19, 1923, that the two McDowell sisters were burned to death at their home in Decatur, which is about six miles from Atlanta. They were trapped in their room by a door locked from the outside. The fire was discovered by a neighbor returning home shortly after midnight, and although volunteer rescuers saved the parents, falling rafters prevented them from reaching the girls. It is not clear just how Frank McDowell got out of the house.

Neighbors saw the two girls through the window panes, their figures silhouetted by the flames. The two were trying frantically to raise the window.

Then they disappeared. In the morning their charred bodies were found lying near the door.

Mrs. McDowell was overcome by the heat and the smoke, and her husband was burned severely in helping to carry her from the blazing house.

Rescuers noticed a strong odor of kerosene in the room in which the bodies of the girls were found, and also found bits of cotton which had in some way escaped the flames. This led to an investigation which resulted in the arrest of a former cook of the family who had been discharged a few days before. Her husband and another negro man also were arrested, but after a short while all three were released.

The day after the fire Frank McDowell was noticeably active in giving newspaper reporters details of the tragedy and in searching the ruins for pictures of the girls for newspaper use. He stressed the fact that the fire must have been of accidental origin. He seemed little concerned over what had happened, but later on his parents spoke about his peculiar mental condition that had become more pronounced since the fire. It was largely because of this, it is understood, that the family moved from Decatur to St. Petersburg, Fla.

A year later, on the night of Feb. 19, Frank's father and mother came to their deaths as they slept, at their home in St. Petersburg. Both were shot through the left temple. Frank himself gave the alarm, and declared that he had been knocked unconscious by the murderer who had killed his parents. To support this story he exhibited a bruise on his head. Later the police found a 32-caliber pistol in the bottom of his trunk. It had been fired recently and contained two exploded cartridges. This brought the confession. Confronted with the pistol, the boy admitted that he owned it, that he had killed his parents, and that a year before he had burned his sisters.

Here it was that the fanatical tale of expiation came in. At the age of 11, he told the officers, he had committed an "unpardonable sin" in blaspheming the Holy Ghost and that it was necessary for him to sacrifice his sisters and his parents to obtain forgiveness for this sin and to reach a state of perfection that would make him a "superman."

In a weird note that he wrote on heart-shaped paper and left on the bed where the bodies of his parents lay, he referred to expiation through "Fire, Blood and Water." His sisters perished by fire, his parents were found dead in pools of blood, and it is believed by some investigators that he meant later to kill himself by drowning, thereby completing the triology of destruction.

Describing the murder, he said that he went to bed in the room adjoining that in which his father and mother slept, and that at that time he had no thought of killing them. In the night, however, a voice in a dream commanded him to slay his father and mother, and so vivid was the dream that he awoke. After arming himself with a 32-caliber revolver, he entered the bedroom of his parents and shot them to death, firing five times in all. Investigation showed that each of his victims was shot through the left temple, and powder burns indicated the pistol must have been held close.

After the crime, Frank says, his mind again became clear. He hid the pistol in the bottom of his trunk, bumped his head against a door to bear out his story that he had been knocked unconscious, and then slit the screen of the front door to make it seem that the murderer had forced an entrance. After that he gave the alarm.

In the jail at Clearwater Frank told interviewers of his sin against the Holy Ghost and of how he sought to wipe it out.

"That was at Forsyth," he began. (The family formerly lived at Forsyth, Ga.) "I was just 11 years old. My shirt was dirty and I rushed into a room to put on a clean one. The laundry had just come back, but the buttons were off my shirt. I don't know why I did it. I was mad. I cursed the Holy Ghost."

He lowered his voice to a whisper.

"And that was the sin for which I killed my two sisters. It was the sin for which I killed my father and mother. Later I heard a church sermon which said that blaspheming the Holy Ghost was an unpardonable sin. But the same sermon said the way to obtain purification was through fire, blood and water. Fire and blood I have called to my aid, but I never will obtain forgiveness through the last step—water." (By this he is thought to have meant that he planned to drown himself, but such plans were now impossible.)

"I am not a Christian now," he continued. "I am an agnostic. But as the anniversary of my blasphemy approached I had dreams—dreams of God and the Christ.

"Holy Ghost Appeared as Rabbit"

"I can't remember distinctly the one I had before I killed my sisters. But I think it was much like the one I had, which caused me to make preparations to kill my parents. It seemed to me that the Holy Ghost hovered over me, immense, terrible, and in the shape of a rabbit—a white rabbit. I remember only the white rabbit's command and its booming voice, 'Go kill the followers of the anti-Christ.'

"It was my mission to teach the world how it might be better itself and reach a stage of perfection, and when I had helped the world to reach that condition I was to be its president, its leader—call it anything you like. Certainly I am a superman."

The letter written by the boy on heart-shaped paper and left on the bed with his victims was a strange and seemingly incoherent document. After quoting the Lord's Prayer, the note wanders off into a maze of scriptural verbiage that apparently means nothing. Alienists cite the note as indisputable evidence of the boy's insanity. The prosecutors again reply that if it is insanity it is feigned insanity. And they further insist that it is not merely a jumble of words, but contains hidden meaning, which they are diligently trying to discover.

The bodies of Frank McDowell's father and mother were brought to Acworth, Ga., for burial. They were entombed in the same grave a few feet from that of their daughters. A short distance away is the grave of Eugene McDowell, an uncle of Frank, who killed himself April 17, 1915, by drinking carbolic acid. Near him is the tomb of a brother, W. P. McDowell, killed Feb. 12, 1896, by a train at the Acworth station.

Two people murdered, another a suicide, a third whose life was ground out under the wheels of a train—all rest together on the hillside; and by them sleep the two girls who were burned to death in flames set by their own brother's hand. These seven graves, all within a radius of a few feet, constitute the most tragic spot in Georgia.

Capture of Youths Who Headed Drug-Crazed Band of Criminals Accomplished Through Exceptional Detective Work by the Men Who Took Up Their Trail Where They Abandoned the Murder Car—How the Chorus Girls They Entertained Put Officers on Their Track and Then Helped, by Their Testimony, to Convict Them at the Trial.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.

WHEN "Old Bill" Barlow's trigger finger failed him last Nov. 14 just at the moment in all his exciting career when he needed it most and the white-haired bank messenger, together with his young guard, William H. McLaughlin, went to his death at the hands of two youthful gunmen, there was little to promise that the passing of three months would find the law's score settled and justice done. In the parlance of crookdom, the murderers had "done a clean job and made a clean getaway," taking with them the $43,607 that Barlow carried. The chances of apprehending them, brutal though the crime was, seemed small indeed.

But thanks to the bit of precocious detective work on the part of New York Police Department and an acceleration of court procedure, justice has followed faster than the criminals could flee. As a result of its three months' pursuit, one of the most formidable crime syndicates that ever harassed New York has been broken up; four of its members have been convicted of first degree murder and are waiting for their turns in the electric chair, and three others are facing trials which in all probability will bring some of them to a similar fate. The Raymond Street Jail is literally full of youths spending their last weeks rueing the day that bad judgment, bad companions, or whatever bad it was, led them after "Old Bill" Barlow in their quest for "easy money."

"Easy Money" and Its Penalty.

The most conspicuous of these young men who yielded to the lure of "easy luxury" are the recently notorious Diamond brothers—Morris (Whitey) the alleged leader of the gang, and the sleek and boyish Joseph. They had a chance in life to earn a better fate than that which befits robbers and murderers, but they chose to listen to the urge of evil companions—companions of that reckless, lawless, drug-crazed type that is giving Metropolitan Police Departments more trouble than any of the desperadoes of the old days ever did. They were bent on getting "easy money," and they got it together with "easy money's" consequences. They were the first caught and the first convicted after spectacular and tearful trials.

Two days of testimony, interrupted by the collapse of the prisoner and his whole family in the courtroom, and a single ballot by the jury were enough to fix Whitey's penalty. Two more days did for Joe, and the fate of John Farina, accused of being one of the two who did the actual shooting, was determined just as speedily. Tony Pantano, alleged instigator of the robbery, was convicted next and he will be followed by "Cheeks" Lucciano, Angelo Farina, another alleged accomplice, and "Lights" Mazziano, gangster and former pugilist, accused not only of a part in this murder, but three or four others as well. If the courts work as speedily and as relentlessly in the coming cases as they did in those of the Diamonds it will mean that Sing Sing Prison one of these days will witness an electrocution "carnival" more appalling even than that in Texas which occasioned so much horrified comment recently when five men were marched to their death in a single day.

There are two lessons worthy of attention in this fate of the Diamond brothers and their pals. It stands as a fitting example of the penalty of "easy money" for one thing. But it also looms even more commandingly as an exhibition of clever police work in a crime-ridden period when pursuers of criminals need all the inspiration and encouragement they can get. It is a fact well known that when a detective or a policeman makes a spectacular haul and brings in a badly wanted man, it not only helps to restore confidence in the Police Department, but it also has a tremendous influence on the crime business generally. Which is more important, it means a loss of nerve on the part of the gangsters, for none knows better than they when it is unhealthy for them to operate. So it was not without some justification that the chase that led through Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and Cleveland and finally brought the Diamond gang into camp was heralded as a "crime detecting wave."

The story of the Diamond brothers is another tale of misdirected young lives, of foolish, vain thirst for luxury to be satisfied at any price. As high school boys in Brooklyn they were popular in better circles than those of the underworld and came of a family well respected in their neighborhood. Both had gained considerable prominence at athletes. Whitey was noted as a star fullback in high school and Joe was locally famous as a baseball pitcher. In recent years their father died, leaving the family a prosperous novelty box manufacturing company, and with the exercise of ordinary discretion a comfortable future was assured. But no, they couldn't live on the proceeds that had made their father prosperous. They had to have more luxury, expensive motor cars and amorous affairs with actresses. It was not long until the box company was in hopeless straits, with bills totaling thousands of dollars unpaid.

They might have come through that difficulty, however, or at least have averted their present plight, had they not met Tony Pantano. That was about the most unfortunate thing that could have befallen two youths looking desperately for means of getting some money and getting it quick.

Tony, it happened, worked in the West End Bank, where Morris had a small account, and Tony had an imagination that stopped at nothing where matters of finance were involved. For him to become a steady pal of the Diamonds just when his particular brand of resourcefulness fitted their needs so well was fatal. Perhaps it was just as unfortunate for Tony that he met the Diamonds, youths foolish and impetuous enough to try to put his wild ideas into practice. No doubt it was unfortunate for all concerned that Tony was a trusted employe of the bank. He would tell the Diamond boys how money and securities were transported from that bank to other banks and although the Diamonds didn't have such imaginations to begin with, they were readily able to follow Tony through his castle building. Tales of treasure, unburied, but theirs for the taking, inflamed them—Whitey, the stolid one that appeared too slow to get into trouble, and Joe, the good-looking, dark-haired pet of his mother and four sisters.

"A Dead Easy Job for Us."

Money—lovely yellow gold pieces and crackly bills—were intrusted to little messenger boys to carry around and to old and feeble men, like "Old Bill" Barlow, who had advanced too far along in years to be the vigorous policeman he once was. Pieces of dirty newspaper were used to disguise the package with the "goods" in it, so Pantano reported. On certain days "Old Bill" Barlow carried such a bundle across Brooklyn for the West End Bank. With him went along another younger man with a leather bag in hand as a blind. It would be a dead easy job some time.

About that time the Diamond brothers moved into an apartment in East Twenty-seventh street, although their home was ostensibly with their mother and sisters at 1954 Fifty-fourth street, Bath Beach. At the new rendezvous they entertained Pantano and his friends and sometimes chorus girls with expensive tastes. All the while the box company's obligations grew larger and the Diamond taste for luxury more insatiable. There the robbery plan was developed.

The Diamond boys are said to have shown no little distaste at first for the idea of killing anybody. But even that reluctance paled before the reassurance of their more desperate companions, and they, too, waxed desperate when told that "Old Man" Barlow was hot-headed enough to put up a good fight and might practically force them to shoot him.

Now that it is all over there is some difference of opinion as to who was most to blame for that fatal holdup in which Barlow and the young McLaughlin were murdered in cold blood without even being given a chance to put up their hands. Joe Diamond, still dapper and calm, declares that Whitey was responsible for his part in it; that he just trailed along doing what his 28-year-old brother told him as he usually did. Whitey, whimpering in his cell—Whitey, the tough, hard-boiled guy who could always look out for himself—also defends Joe as innocent of the murder, but he, in turn, passes the responsibility on to Pantano and Farina.

But no matter who was most responsible, the police were not long in determining that all who took part in it were thoroughly familiar with their assignments and probably had planned the crime for months.

On Nov. 14 last, "Old Bill" Barlow set out from the bank with $43,600 in his paper package and his revolver in his pocket as usual. With him went McLaughlin, 24-year-old teller, instead of the guard who usually accompanied him.

They were on their way to the New Utrecht branch of the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Co. by their customary route.

Although Barlow was past 65, his reputation made him the first target. The two had just stepped down to the platform of an "L" station at Fifty-fifth street and New Utrecht avenue when they faced the revolvers of two robbers waiting for them. The robbers gave no warning. The first bullet hit Barlow, the second McLaughlin, and they shot Barlow again as, instantly killed, he pitched forward to the platform, his hand clutching his pistol in his pocket, and they shot McLaughlin again after he had been spun about by the impact of a bullet in his chest. Then, with both men dead, victims of the most atrocious murder committed since the day that Gordon Fawcett Hamby swaggered into the East Brooklyn Savings Bank five years ago and shot down two officials, they fired still more shots into the prostrate bodies and through the walls of the station's change booth.

In the street below were three automobiles parked at the curb, the first a Cadillac sedan, which later proved to be a stolen machine, and two Ford coupes behind. Two mail carriers across New Utrecht avenue saw the slayers, clad in ulsters, leap into the Cadillac and speed away, followed closely by the first Ford. The letter carriers commandeered the remaining Ford and started in pursuit, but try as they might, they could not pass the "flivver" ahead. Like a football halfback running interference, it swerved in and out, guarding the flight of the Cadillac. Around corners, up streets and through residence avenues the two cars sped, working back toward the bay. At Sixty-seventh street the fugitives outdistanced the pursuing car and turned south off of Sixteenth avenue.

A Bold Chauffeur's Terror.

But it was soon to be seen again. Louis Steele, a negro chauffeur in elegant livery, came into the picture next. The limousine he drove was crossing Sixth-seventh street at Nineteenth avenue when the robber cars bore down on him with a roar. He clamped on his brake and so did the robbers. For a moment he glared angrily at the men who had just come from a massacre.

"Where the hell do you think you are goin'?" Louis demanded savagely. The robbers stared back and then plunged on. Louis shouted curses after them, but a little later at the Bath Beach Station when he heard who they were, his indignation froze. He coughed and fidgeted nervously.

"Man, man," he said, "if I had a knowed who them birds was they could 'a' run right over me."

The robbers had chosen their route well up to the time they turned into Sixty-seventh. Shortly after the clash with Louis they ran into a construction gang working on the street. Smashing into the construction paraphernalia and facing an altercation with the workmen, they abandoned the big car and took to their heels. One of the men from the Ford, however, stopped to pull the license plates off the Cadillac, but had time to get only one. Then all hands fled, two on foot and others in the Ford, pursued by the irate workmen.

When the police arrived at the scene there remained on the Cadillac one license plate, some greasy fingerprints on the door and in the bottom of the tonneau two broken boxes of cartridges and an empty holster. The fingerprints were photographed and taken to headquarters for the long process of comparing them with some 600,000 others; meanwhile the detectives who swarmed to the place worked on other clews. By the time the fingerprints were found to be those of Morris Diamond, they virtually had the case against him clinched already.

Robbers' Error in Getting Away

It was by outguessing the criminals at the start that they were able to do this; just plain detective sense. Ordinarily a man would surmise that a robber or murderer fleeing headlong from the scene of his activity would take blindly the nearest open way out of the vicinity, or if he had planned his getaway at all, would seize the shortest road to the congested district where he could hide himself in the crowds and conceal his loot without attracting attention. But the fugitives in this case did neither. Instead of fleeing back into the city they went in the opposite direction on sparsely inhabited streets, pressing always toward the bay section. This fact at once impressed Chief Inspector William J. Lahey. He sized up the situation in a remark to Capt. Busby: "They are local people and they are going home where they won't be suspected."

This gang did have a definite design, it was afterward revealed, and one that had been framed by close thinking every step of the way. The fact that they ran into the torn-up street was only one of those [illegible] mishaps which are sometimes fatal to [illegible] well-known "best-laid plans of mice [illegible] men." Had that been averted they [illegible] have escaped without leaving a trace. [illegible] for them would have been like search[illegible] a needle in a haystack full of needles [illegible] knowing just which particular needle [illegible] right one.

CASPER, Wyo., March 1.

IT is a long way, as miles are numbered, from Washington to Teapot Dome, on the sagebrush covered banks of Teapot Creek, and the tremors from the oil scandal quake that for weeks have been rocking the capital have scarcely been perceptible in the now famous district that caused the fuss. Life in Teapot, the metropolitan center of the dome, has flowed smoothly on like the oil that flows from the gushers in the Fishtooth sand. No Cabinet members have been grilled. No oratorical Senators (from Missouri or elsewhere) have pranced its streets clamoring for official blood. And, strangely enough, no citizen has even troubled himself about how much money his next-door neighbor drew from Harry Sinclair last year.

But at last Teapot Dome is awakening to its enormous importance in the world, or in the world's conversation at least, and there is a growing conviction that a self-respecting oil community ought to have something to say about what is being said about it. Seeing that the trend in the oil industry is toward investigation, Teapot Dome has decided to hold one of its own. Oil towns don't like to admit that they are behind the times in anything. There must be an investigation; that much is settled.

Just what they are going to investigate the dome's local oil kings haven't decided definitely, but, after all, that is a minor detail. Whatever else the inquiry may develop, they feel that it will develop at least one thing the Washington storm has failed to disclose, and that is some facts about the field itself—its production, possibilities and working conditions. When these facts have been established a committee probably will take them to the capital to show the Washington wisecres how little they know about Teapot Dome.

This movement toward investigation, however, is confined chiefly to the "big men" of the district who feel it incumbent upon them to bear some of Teapot Dome's mighty burdens. The average citizen, the sturdy oil worker, doesn't care anything about it. Senate scandals and naval reserve leases are as foreign to him as Tutankhamen's tomb. His social and business life and his interests are in keeping with oil-town standards. It is true that some modern conveniences in the town of Teapot are sadly lacking, but a T-bone steak served over a rough board counter in one of the two little restaurants has the same quality as that served in the city cafe over imported linen and that is what counts with the driller and the tool dresser.

Then there is another reason for his contentment with things as they are. The price of "moon"—as illegal liquor is called in Teapot—is as reasonable there as anywhere in the country and he has no difficulty in obtaining it. That fact makes up to the oil worker for a multitude of Teapot's shortcomings, for where there is plenty of "moon" in a frontier community the other amenities of life are not missed so much.

To the casual observer there is but little difference between the undulating section of the ground known as the Teapot Dome and the vast scope of rugged country which stretches, in monotonous similarity, mile after mile in every direction. It is in general appearance like the rest of the barren waste of which it is a part. A scant growth of cactus and sage brush and now and then little clusters of grass struggling for existence are the only signs of vegetable life as far as the eye can see in any direction.

Here and there a greasy derrick is visible against the sky line and the oil worker, with his overalls and jumper well besmirched with crude oil, is very much in evidence, and the roar of the powerful oil field trucks and the chug-chug of the oil well machinery echo endlessly through the wilderness and send the skulking coyote farther and farther back into the hills.

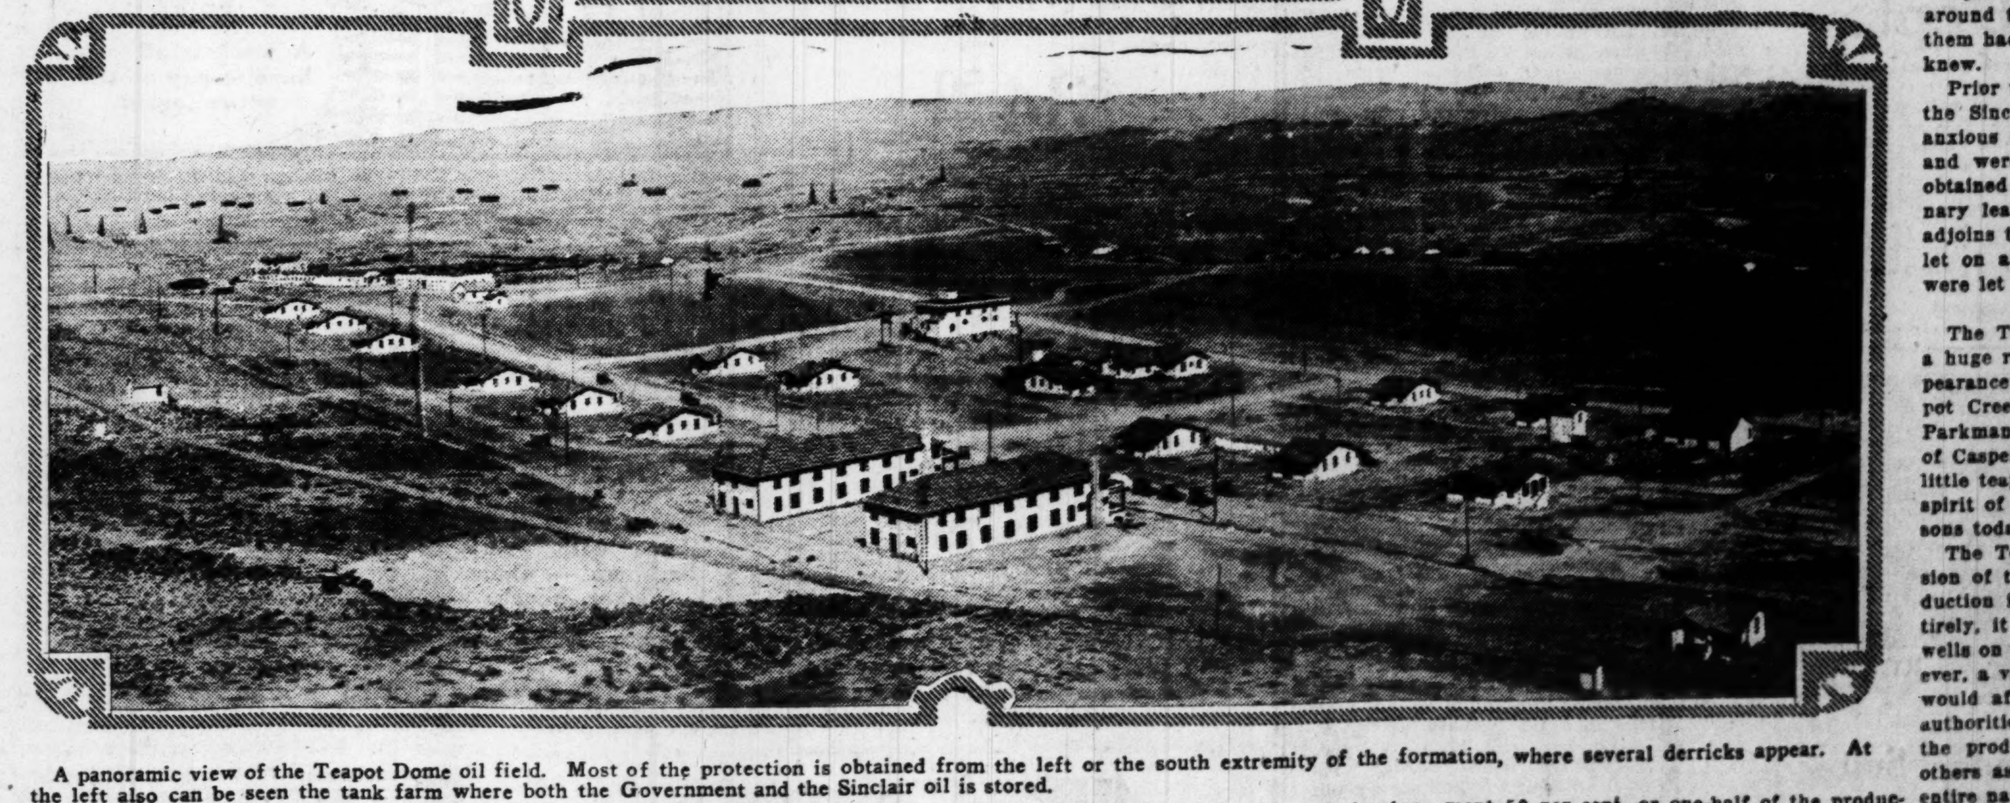
The little group of buildings clustered along the highway is located on the only piece of deeded land on the reserve and the enterprising promoter of the townsite has erected a huge sign in the form of a teapot on the hillside proclaiming the town as the coming oil center. Teapot is located about 40 miles north of Casper.

The villagers take but little apparent interest in the great excitement which that small portion of land is creating over the civilized world. As one sits at the rudely constructed lunch counter in the leading restaurant of the town, a question asked as to the proprietor's opinion regarding the Teapot scandal brings but little response. The man, with a shrug, remarks:

"I hadn't thought much about it," as he turns to fill another customer's order of "coffee and"——

Teapot Dome, years ago, was not considered valuable for any purpose whatsoever. About 20 years ago a homesteader named Hicks filed on a quarter section in an adjacent township, but in some manner the papers were improperly made out, placing his holding in the wrong township and on the apex of the dome. The deed was issued in this manner and a year or so lapsed before the error was discovered.

The quarter which the homesteader had filed on originally was well covered with native grass and worth possibly $5 an acre, while the piece to which he had a deed was worth very little, so far as a homesteader could determine. It was worth very little for grazing purposes, anyway, so he started action to change the filing, and, after a great volume of correspondence and wire-pulling, was successful in getting rid of the homestead which he could have sold several years later for thousands of dollars. However, he got the grazing land which he wanted, although it wasn't much.



A panoramic view of the Teapot Dome oil field. Most of the protection is obtained from the left or the south extremity of the formation, where several derricks appear. At the left also can be seen the tank farm where both the Government and the Sinclair oil is stored.

At the time that the Sinclair interests took over the Teapot Dome the Mutual Oil Co. had a placer claim on a portion of the lease and was drilling. It refused to recognize the rights of the Mammoth interests and would not give up possession; it will be remembered that during August, 1922, the Marines took possession of the lease in the name of the United States Navy Department. An officer and five enlisted men, fully armed, entered the field and drove the drillers from the rig of the Mutual Oil Co. A high wire fence was then built entirely around the rig and a soldier patrol was thrown out while the department sealed the casing with the Government seal. It was in this manner that the Sinclair people got possession of this portion of the lease.

However, the matter is still in litigation and 10 per cent of the production is allowed the Mammoth people for operating expenses while the balance is impounded.

During the early period of development it was anticipated that the production of the lease would net 50,000,000 barrels of crude oil from the first sand alone, while the geological report showed two more lower sands, the Dakotas and the Second Wall Creek, and prospects were exceptionally bright.

Sinclair and a number of the officials of the company spent some time in the field during the preliminary stages of development and laid in a large stock of wet goods, which had been secured at some period prior to the eighteenth amendment, for the official christening. It was "good stuff" and was kept in the warehouse.

This information reached the corps of engineers who were working on the survey, and it was a nightly occurrence for some of them to sit in a game of freezout, with the understanding that the loser had to provide, at any risk, at least two quarts of the precious fluid, which would be rated worth about $15 a quart at the existing market price.

It is an unfortunate circumstance that the real truth regarding the richness of the yield in the Teapot Dome has been somewhat warped. Regardless of the possible methods used in procuring possession of the reserve or the promotion schemes of the Mammoth Oil Co., the proposition as it stands today is far from a paying one and the actual proven territory is not over a fifth of what was anticipated over the entire dome, while a large per cent of this is a gas-producing area and the company finds itself with a production at present of 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas, with no market for it.

Could this be transported to the great manufacturing districts of the East it would net millions of dollars. Here, however, it is worthless, for it is not marketable at any price. The present production of crude, too, is far below expectation.

All development of the Mammoth Oil Co.'s lease is now at a standstill. The company has one of the most modern camps ever built in any oil field and formerly employed from three to five hundred men. However, the number has gradually decreased until but 30 men remain, and it is reported that not even all of these workers will be retained. However, a fleet of 10 trucks of four to five tons capacity is busy hauling materials to the company's warehouse in Casper, which is off the reserve.

The local oil experts express many varied opinions regarding the situation and are governed by personal interests oftimes in their statements. But it seems to be the general impression that, considering the development today, the result is disappointing.

The company has drilled 89 wells. Eleven are in the shale, 12 are gassers, four are inactive and the balance are either uncompleted or in need of repair. The production is at present 3600 barrels a day. The wells not exceeding 50 barrels per day are paying the Government 12 1-2 per cent, the 100-barrel wells 16 2-3 per cent, increasing on this sliding scale until the 1000-barrel capacity is reached, after which they pay the Government 50 per cent, or one-half of the production.

The contract with the Government required the construction of a pipe line to Kansas City, where it connects up with the lines leading to the large refineries of the East. This line has been practically completed, at an expenditure of around $20,000,000. Considering the money tied up in tank farms and drilling developments, the present production, valued at around $1.50 a barrel, is not more than paying interest on the investment.

Of course, the rumors are general that the wells are cut down because of the present controversy and they could be made to produce more than they are and many experts will not be satisfied until other tests are made in the field. The third sand has also been proved up lately, but has been given but little development.

Up to the first of the year the reserve had produced 1,022,000 barrels of oil, and the Government had received one-sixth of the production. It is optional with the Government whether it receives cash, gasoline, kerosene or other petroleum products for its interests in the production, and the litigation which still continues on a portion of the lease in a way complicates the matter. The Sinclair Oil Co. paid the Interior Department approximately $660,000 in royalities in December. This was for production from both the Salt Creek and the Teapot Dome. Only about $20,000 of this amount was for Teapot oil, as the field was producing at the rate of about 3800 barrels a day at that time from 62 wells.

The big sensation in the development of the Dome during the past year was the shale well which was brought in from the Fishteoth formation at a depth around 1700 feet, which was reported at 28,000 barrels a day. This figure is still given as its initial production during the first hours of its existence. However, it is reliably reported that the gauge showed but 6000 barrels after the first day, which was Oct. 13, and it gradually dropped off and was on the pump in a few days. It is now running around 50 barrels a day, or less.

Prior to the withdrawal of the Teapot Dome in 1915, by President Wilson, private companies claimed the district for many years and a certain amount was expended by those companies in their development work. Four shallow wells were drilled, the best of which produced from seven to ten barrels of oil a day on the pump. The drillers picked up the Shannon sands at a little over 300 feet.

During January of 1918 a local company was organized and a standard rig was built, but never "spudded in," and a number of attempts were made to reach the deeper sands around the edge of the reserve, but none of them had been successful as far as the public knew.

Prior to the leasing of the Teapot Dome to the Sinclair interests several oil men were anxious to secure a portion of the territory and were disappointed when the lease was obtained by the Sinclair interests. The ordinary leases in the Salt Creek Field, which adjoins the Teapot Dome on the north, were let on a 25 to 33 1-3 per cent royalty and were let by bids.

The Teapot Dome received its name from a huge rock which resembles a teapot in appearance and is located on the banks of Teapot Creek. The rock is an outcrop of the Parkman sandstone and is about 30 miles out of Casper. This is the mother teapot of the little teapots which are now being worn in a spirit of derision on the lapels of many persons today.

The Teapot Dome is practically an extension of the Salt Creek field and should production in Teapot Dome be discontinued entirely, it naturally would be drained by the wells on the Salt Creek lease. There is, however, a varied opinion as to what extent this would affect the naval oil reserve, some authorities contending that it would only take the production immediately adjacent, while others assert that in the course of time the entire naval reserve would be drained.

With the light production which has resulted the statement is repeatedly heard that it was a very fortunate circumstance for the financial interests of Central Wyoming that local capital had not been used in developing the holdings. But generally this is not looked upon as a very serious matter in so far as business is concerned in local circles, as the Teapot Dome represents but a small portion of the activities in the field. In case the naval reserve should be entirely closed down for some period, it is not considered a serious menace to the local oil situation, for there is but little local money interested in the venture, and the production is but a small fraction of the output of the district. That's why the present investigation by the Senate is not attracting nearly as much attention here as at Washington.

West Point Exams Tuesday.

Examinations for entrance to West Point Military Academy will be begun by about 45 young men at Jefferson Barracks Tuesday. SPEEDY RETRIBUTION FOR ROBBER GANG AND DEATH FOR LEADERS

however, revealed the telephone numbers they had called from their rooms. One of these led to Joyce Normand, a chorus girl in the "Girl in Ermine" company, whom Joe Diamond had known in New York. If the other evidence had been damaging, this was to be fatal, for the girl told how the Diamonds had lavishly entertained her and Dorothy Bates, another chorus girl, and in a moment of bravado or loquacity had boasted: "They're looking for us in New York. We're wanted for a big stick-up. Made a big haul."

"That's the Man!" Said Witness.

The detectives figured that the Diamonds had gone to Washington, or possibly Baltimore, as Morris was known to be an inveterate race track gambler, but after search of both cities revealed nothing, they returned to Philadelphia, remembering that Joe had told Joyce Normand he would "be back Wednesday." Again they were too late, but from the girls picked up a definite trace that led to Cleveland.

In Cleveland other officers who had joined in the search were hunting through the register of the Hotel Statler when they came upon Morris Diamond's name penned boldly in his "schoolboy handwriting." With it was that of "Joseph Schwartz." Schwartz, who later turned out to be Joe Diamond, had been occupying himself with getting one and two dollar bills of the loot bundle changed into twenties and fifties, and had placed the roll, $9000 in all, in a deposit box in the Cleveland Trust Co. He had just left town when the officers arrived, but Morris had yielded to his interest in football and had stayed a day longer to see Jim Thorpe's professional team in action. That night, 11 days after the robbery, the detectives trapped him in the elevator.

Back they brought him to New York, alternately chattering with fear and boasting of his prowess as a gambler. On the day of their arrival Joe, saying he thought he might be under suspicion because of the license number, surrendered. Late that night Jacob Selkowitz, a witness of the killing, scanned a line of prisoners and walked directly to Joe Diamond. Tapping him on the shoulder, he as good as pronounced the death sentence.

"That's the man," he said. "He stood only 10 feet from me on the elevated platform. I saw him fire the shots. I could pick him out of a thousand."

In a Hysteria of Terror.

So far the Diamonds had remained stubbornly silent, denying all crimes attributed to them except the theft of a few automobiles, but when 24 hours of "sweating" by the police had tangled them hopelessly in their denials and alibis, they foresaw the finish and began to talk for their lives. It was true they had $9000 of the bank's money, they admitted, but all they had to do with the robbery was to sell "Cheeks" Lucciano a Cadillac car. It had been used in the holdup and abandoned with the Diamond license plate still on it. Johnny Farina and George Disaro (Disaro is still a fugitive), who had taken part in the robbery, had then come around to "square" things and had given them $9300 for keeping their mouths shut, with a threat to kill them and their whole family if they didn't.

At the trials itw was Morris, the stoic Whitey, the hard-boiled gambler who "wasn't afraid of nobody or nothing," that provided the sensation. No matter what happens to him in the future, he will never lose control of himself any more than he did on the second day, when he sat on the witness stand under a cold Judge and facing a dignified jury. He collapsed in a hysteria of terror and whimpered and wept just as his mother and sisters had done the day before when Joe's name was brought into the testimony. He denied and repeated his denials that he was a murderer or that Joe was a murderer. He screamed and sobbed and writhed as his little 4-year-old son (Whitey is a widower) might have done. Each mention of Joe brought a fresh outburst.

"Joe, Joe, Joe," he whined. "Joe, he's only a kid."

Girl's Testimony Unnerves Prisoner

A few hours more and it was all over. Whitey went back to his cell, convicted of first degree murder, and still sobbing for Joe.

Joe was soon to follow by the same route, although his trial was not marked by the same emotional storms. He sat through the ordeal calm, composed and defiant, telling his story clearly and emphatically. And he put it all on Whitey.

One dramatic incident of Joe's trial was the appearance of Joyce Normand as a witness against him —Joyce, the chorus girl who had lost her job because of her acquaintance with him. Somewhat sorrowfully and reluctantly she told of their meeting in Philadelphia and of Joe's admission that he was wanted in New York for a stickup. Her testimony unnerved the prisoner as nothing else had done. He hung breathlessly on every word, seemingly fearful of what she might say next.

But nothing that she could say one way or the other could make much difference in the outcome. There was too much overwhelming evidence against him, and 17 minutes after the jury had retired there came back the verdict that will send Joe Diamond, the sleek-haired pet of his mother, to the chair along with the "hard-boiled" Whitey.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

SOCIETY NEWS SECTION

PART SEVEN ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 2, 1924. PAGES 1—20.

—Kandeler

Miss Margaret Caradine. With Miss Emily Shepley, she has gone to visit friends at Farmington, Conn., where both young women attended school.

—Kandeler

Miss Audrey Faust, whose engagement to Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr., afforded an interesting bit of news last week.

—Kandeler

Miss Chouteau Scott, daughter of Mrs. Pierre Chouteau Scott. She will be a bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Niedringhaus and Frank Overton Watts Jr., April 30.

Look Into the Future Discloses but Few Young Women Who Will Appear as Debutantes Next Year

Possibly List Will Include Only Six or Eight Names Unless Other Girls of Eligible Age Change Their Present Plans—Group Now Definitely Comprises Misses Marjorie Little, Pamela Harrison, Jane Whiteside, Marie Louise Cotter, Barbara Bay, Margaret Eakin and Elizabeth Bemis.

AN almost penitential calm descending prematurely upon St. Louis finds society apparently resting on its laurels, after having successfully launched more than 40 young women into the whirl. But while society waits, garbed in sack cloth and ashes, for the coming of Ash Wednesday to begin its formal devotions, there steals in a thought of plans for next season and of the new group of young women who, eschewing school and travel, will make their bows as debutantes.

Although it is early to conjecture, there are indications of a comparatively quiet winter and unless other girls of eligible age change their present plans, the list will be limited to only six or eight names.

In the coterie will be Miss Marjorie Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden H. Little; Miss Pamela Harrison, daughter of Mrs. John W. Harrison; Miss Jane Whiteside, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cooper Whiteside; Miss Marie Louise Cotter, daughter of Mr. William Cotter; Miss Barbara Bay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield C. Bay; Miss Margaret Eakin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Eakin; Miss Elizabeth Bemis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bemis. According to present plans the list will be augmented by Misses Mary and Margaret Carter, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. L. Ray Carter, although they may decide in favor of a year abroad. Miss Jane Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett V. Thompson, is another probable prospective bud. She and her parents are now in Cuba, whence they will return Wednesday. Miss Thompson attended Bennett School in Millbrook, N. Y., last year.

Others who are undecided are Miss Grace Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moulton, who graduated from Mary Institute a year ago and who is now at college, and Miss Dorothy Bolin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Darius Bolin, who attend Miss Ely's School in Greenwich, Conn., this year. Miss Marion Stoner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stoner, a contemporary of next year's buds, will remain in Florence, Italy, where she is now a student at Miss Nixon's School, for another year. Her mother is planning to join her for the summer if her health permits. Miss Jessie Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peyton T. Carr, has also been talked of as a debutante of next winter, although friends say she will go to Europe instead. Miss Carr will return from Westover in a fortnight for her spring vacation.

Each of the other young women will also return from their Eastern finishing schools for a brief spring visit; Miss Little from Ogóntz in Philadelphia; Miss Harrison from Smith where she will be graduated in June; Miss Whiteside and Miss Eakin from Finch School in New York; Miss Bay from Bennett, and Misses Carter from Miss Porter's at Farmington. Miss Whiteside will bring a guest, Miss Leslie Kern of Portland, Ore., for the two weeks' holiday, and parties are already being planned. Later she will go to Bermuda for a trip.

The Episcopal Churchwoman's Club will meet each Friday morning during Lent at the home of Mrs. Edward F. Goltra, 4487 Lindell boulevard, to hear the Rev. Dr. Edmund Duckworth of the Church of the Ascension, deliver a series of lectures. His subject for the series will be a history of the saints and martyrs of the Old and New Testaments. Dr. Duckworth has spent much time in the study of the subject, and is eminently fitted for the work. Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey Jr. is president of the club, Mrs. Vaughan Clark, vice president; Mrs. Kehlor Carr, secretary, and Miss Ida Pollard, treasurer. Among the members are Mmes. William Bagnell, Harvey G. Mudd, George W. Niedringhaus, George Fox Steedman, Sterling Edmunds, John F. Shepley, Henry Clarkson Scott, Hudson E. Bridge, Fitzhugh Turner, Vincent L. Price, James A. Waterworth and Miss Mary Lionberger. The series will begin Friday of this week.

Col. and Mrs. Halsey E. Yates have invited a number of their friends to Jefferson Barracks this afternoon for a horseback ride, to be followed by a 7 o'clock buffet supper at their home. In the evening the guests will play bridge and mah jongg.

—Kandeler

Miss Gertrude Aufderheide. Her engagement to Harold E. Jamieson of Canton, N. Y., was announced at a bridge luncheon Thursday.

—Kandeler

Miss Madeleine Schraubstadter, whose engagement to Harry Long Bell was announced last week.

Junior League Shop Opening Tomorrow

THE Junior League Shop at 4914 Maryland avenue, will open tomorrow morning, and will be open thereafter every day from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. The name for the shop, selected from 500 suggestions entered in a Name Contest will be on the shop window, and the money prize will be awarded to the winner tomorrow. No previous announcement of the name will be made.

For months prominent young society women have been devoting their time to the shop preparations. The shop will sell articles made by patients in a number of "work cure" shops in hospitals and institutions, under the direction of occupational therapists. In addition, work from the Missouri Association for the Blind, and the Junior League departments of "shut-ins" will be sold. The articles will include woven blankets, rugs, scarfs, gift novelties, fine needlework, quaint toys and hand wrought jewelry. There will be a circulating library and bookshop, which will be up town branches of the Doubleday Page Bookshop.

Monday—A Fortunate Purchase Brings

AN UNUSUAL SPRING COAT SELLING

EACH year for eighteen years we have studied and culled the markets for the greatest measure of value we could secure for our patrons. We have seen manufacturers—creative geniuses—come and go, we have encouraged small makers—with the result that today, aside from the great purchasing prestige engendered by four large establishments, we wield market influence second to none!

THAT IS WHY A COAT SALE SUCH AS THIS REPRESENTING WEEKS OF PREPARATION OFFERS VALUES BEYOND ANY DUPLICATION.

Have you some old Photograph —faded perhaps, or a kodak snapshot of someone dear of whom you have no other picture?

We can work wonders with such pictures in copying them and enlarging them, incidentally improving them to a remarkable extent.

We will be glad to show you some of the work we have done, and give you an opinion of what may be done with some precious picture you have.

WEDDINGS OF INTEREST AND ENGAGEMENTS

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Truitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Truitt, of 5211 Raymond avenue, and Arthur Price Sieling, son of Mrs. Thomas M. Grace, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at St. Mark's Church, the Rev. Father P. J. O'Rourke officiating. A dinner followed at the Forest Park Hotel.

Mrs. Harry J. Meury, sister of the bride, who was matron of honor, was gowned in a robin's egg blue charmeen tailleur, with trimmings of tan, and a tan hat and veil. She carried ward roses. The bride wore a moss green three-piece suit, also fashioned of charmeen, with a blouse of Oriental colorings. Her hat matched the suit, and her flowers were orchids and lillies of the valley. Frank Robertson was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Sieling yill tour the West on their two weeks' honeymoon trip, and will make their home in Omaha, Neb. The bride is a graduate of the Visitation Convent.

A quiet wedding took place last week when Miss Elsie Foulk, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Foulk of Delmar boulevard, became the bridge of Edward Holtz, son of Mrs. Augusta Holtz of 5710 Enright avenue. Miss Hester Holtz, sister of the bridegroom, and Bernard Dirks were the attendants. The ceremony was performed at 4 p. m. in the church parlor of Mount Calvery Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Richard Jesse, pastor, officiating. A dinner was served at the home of the bride for the bridal party. The couple left at once on their honeymoon and upon their return will be at home at 5710 Enright avenue, after March 15.

Miss Isabel Runk, daughter of Mrs. C. E. Runk of 6366 Pershing avenue, has chosen March 10 as the date of her marriage to John

Sale Extraordinary!—New Spring Footwear

Special Purchases Involving 3200 Pairs of Shoes in the Most Desirable Qualities, Were Made for This Event. Plainer Styles as Well as the Latest Novelties Are Included in Two Great Groups at

Red Cross sample Footwear, in fancy patterns and staple styles—in suede, calfskin and kidskin—values of extreme importance.

Exclusive and extreme "style" Footwear, in sample sizes, purchased from manufacturers who make only this type of Shoe.

A large group of Footwear in smart new patterns, in which there are all sizes. On sale on Thrift Avenue—Main Floor.

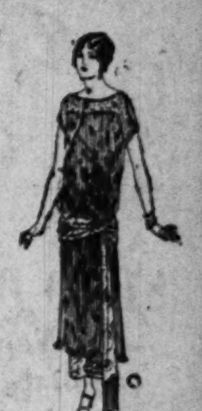
$6.90

Smart novelties in dress Footwear—pumps, Colonials, gore effects, cut-out sandals and fancy straps, with medium and short vamps and the newest heels. Patent leather, satin and suede in popular colors.

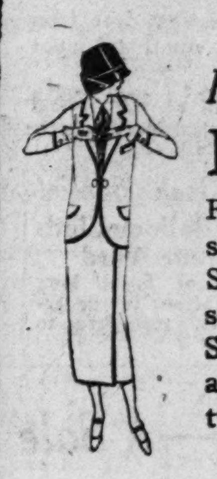
Street Footwear in the newest types also included. One of the smartest of these is the "Avon," a two-strap model in suede or calfskin, with low heel, street soles and perforated trimming. All sizes and widths. (Main Floor.)

What's New In Spring Appareling?

Chiffon, Printed, Pleated and Beaded in a Gown for Dinner Waer



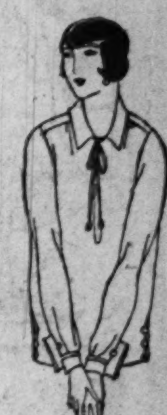
BLACK upon white—and black upon blue that is royal! Tiny sleeves, the merest of continuations of the narrow yoke; beads of white here and there tracing the intricate outlines of loveliest of designs. These conspire to fashion a frock that is grace itself!



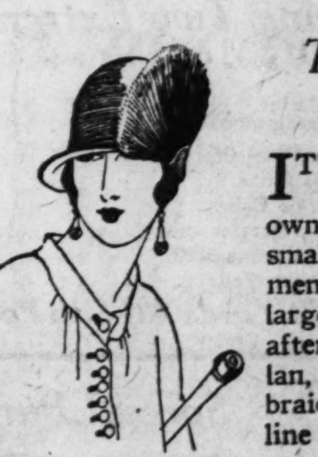
Hickson Suits for the Miss

NO longer need the younger set bewail the inconsistency of Fashion! That fickle dame has smiled and bestowed upon her Suits, Frocks and Coats of Hickson origin. The boyish model in Suits suggests the lilt of youth and of Spring. Hairline Poiret twill, braid bound!

The Blouse That Complements the Tailored Mode



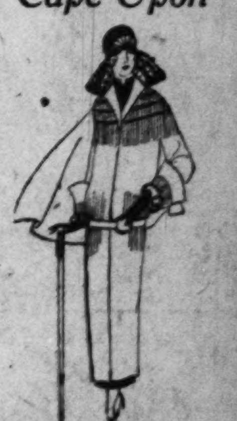
IT is of the shirt type—exceedingly well tailored, with snugly fitting neck and narrowest of roll collars. Crystal drops finish the tie-ends which are of the material itself. What better reason for the existence of the tailored suit than this crepe de chine Blouse — powder blue, gray or coral?



Tortoise Brown in Millinery

IT'S a soft, woodsy tone that is Spring's very own! It appears in the small Hat that supplements the tailleur and the larger model designed for afternoon costuming. Milan, hemp and peanut braid; Canton crepe, maline and taffeta!

The Short, Swinging Cape Upon Wraps for Spring



IT lends a piquant outline to this model of Mocca Juina cloth. Tucks lend the beauty of their simplicity to its cuffs, to its braid-bound yoke and to its skirt; and royal ermine, an added note of loveliness.

(Third Floor.)

Special Purchase and Selling of

Imported Eponge

Novelty Checks 89c Popular Colors

Attractive outline check patterns and the salt-and-pepper weave that is so popular, combine to make this Eponge an unusually smart fabric. It is of very fine quality, woven of long-fiber yarns. 36 inches wide, and specially priced for Monday.

Novelty Tissue Ginghams
Special, 35c

The weave carries a checked pattern, combined with outline cords, very effective in this sheer fabric. Many smart plaid patterns in attractive color combinations are also shown. These Tissues are imported and represent an unusual value. 32 inches wide. (Second Floor.)

Our Entire Second Floor Ready-to-Wear Section Will Be Devoted to the Sale of Samples

Sale Monday, March 3rd

A Big Treat Indeed!

To be able to purchase at such low prices, beautiful Suits, Coats and Dresses with Easter season still before us. We advise out-of-town patrons to make every effort to be present. A sale worth coming miles to attend.

What Are Samples?

They are garments used in the showrooms of manufacturers and importers in New York, for the purpose of taking orders from retail stores.

Representatives from all the cities go to New York to see what the new fashions are to be and to place their orders for the season ahead. Fashion shows are held at the Ritz, the Plaza, the Century Roof, Madison Square Garden, Grand Central Palace and in private showrooms of the manufacturers. There, displayed on mannequins, the visiting buyers from all parts of the country go to see what fashions are being brought out.

Naturally the designers display their choicest models. You can imagine that each maker "puts his best foot forward" and that his samples are made with all the care and skill that he can put into them.

After the fashion shows are over, and the orders are booked, the representatives return home, and then it is that we buy up these samples.

We get them at discounts ranging from 25% to 33⅓% and we secure the cream of the collection because our group of stores (collectively) are among the world's largest buyers of women's apparel. Naturally manufacturers are glad to sell us their samples.

All Sales Final in the Sample Sale

None Sent C. O. D. None Sent on Approval. None to Be Returned for Credit. None to Be Exchanged.

Please bear in mind that there are but few garments of a style, in some instances only one or two or three. An early attendance is therefore advised.

Says She Looks Twenty Years Younger

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Any lady or gentlemen can darken their gray or faded hair and look twenty years younger with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp; is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger.

PARTIES, SOCIALS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS OF WEDDINGS

The Girls' Friendly Society of St. George's Episcopal Church has inaugurated a little theater movement, and will present plays from time to time, the first of which will be given on Tuesday evening, when "Overtones," by Alice Gerstenberg, and "Poor Maddalena," by Louis Saunders, will be presented, under the direction of the Rev. Robert Hall Atchison and Haydn Parks. A stage has been erected in the parish house and special color lighting effects arranged. Loosing flowing drapes in artistic arrangements will form the stage settings. In the cast will be Gertrude Dreher, Esther Dresser, Birdie Wilson, Helen Davidson, Genevieve Albers, Robert Hall Atchison and Haydn Parks.

The faculty of St. Luke's Hospital Training School for Nurses will give a tea at the Chase Hotel, tomorrow afternoon in honor of Miss Anna C. Maxwell of New York City, former director of the Presbyterian Training School for Nurses in New York, and one of the foremost American authorities on nursing education. Miss Maxwell will speak Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon on "Nusing Education."

Members of the college set are anticipating the junior prom of Washington University, which will take place March 19 at Hotel Chase. This will be the first time since the dances originated that it will be held in a place other than the gymnasium of the school.

For years it has been the custom to elect by vote, a young woman at the school, a "Hatchet Queen," so named because the election is sponsored by the editors of the Hatchet, a university publication, to serve one year. She is crowned the night of the junior class party, and for that purpose a throne will be built at one end of the palm room at Hotel Chase. Class colors and flowers will form the decorations. The successful candidate for the honor is led to her place of honor by the editor of the Hatchet, who this year is Paul Martin, and the crown will be placed on her hair by Edward Langan, president of the class. The defeated contestants group themselves about her and are called maids of honor. Sherman Senne is chairman of the ball.

The Ladies' Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal Mission will have a pancake social Tuesday from 4 to 8 o'clock in the guild room, Thekla and Arlington avenues.

Miss Meta Vivien Small of 6044 Pershing avenue, has sent out invitations for a luncheon bridge party at the Gatesworth Hotel March 8. Miss Small will sail in June for Europe, where she will spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frank, in honor of the twenty-first birthday of their son, Chester, entertained some of his friends a week ago at their home, 5793 Westminster place. Covers were laid for 20.

Miss Christine Cox of 6431 Cates avenue was hostess at a handkerchief shower yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Agnes Settles, who will be married June 14 to Harold Dean of Sedalia, Mo. Miss Settles is a student at Washington University, and a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Mrs. Drew Luten of 5829 Nina place was hostess at a tea Friday afternoon complimentary to her mother, Mrs. John Anderson Pack of Virginia.

Mrs. Irene C. Chandler and son, Whately, of 5861 Washington boulevard, entertained a few friends Saturday evening, Feb. 23, in honor of Miss Dorothy Scott of Kansas City, formerly of St. Louis. The guests included Misses Arnot Murphy, Margaret Berg, Eleanor Berry, Martha Severson and Bill Mills, John Gros, Bill Gilbert, Loyal Bruns, Gillbert Callaway and Jack Hodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Epstein of 5712 Kingsbury boulevard have been entertaining their daughter, Mrs. J. P. Fox of Detroit, who came unexpectedly to help celebrate her mother's birthday. She was much entertained before returning to her home.

Miss Lucile Krieger of 4951 Waterman avenue gave a bridge party and shower yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Mary Jane Lynch, whose marriage to William Schneider will take place Easter week.

Misses Marie Cooper and Philo Gill entertained the senior class of St. Mark's Academy with a bridge

Face Peeling Habit Becoming Fashionable

Women of fashion and refinement seem to have been acquiring the mercolized wax habit, depending less and less upon cosmetics for their complexion difficulties. It does seem a lot saner to just peel off the wornout skin when it loses its youthful color and appearance—now that this can be done so easily, safely and economically.

There's no trouble getting mercolized wax at any drug store (an ounce will do), since its virtues have become generally known here, and there's no trouble using it—just as you use cold cream, applying at night, washing it off next morning. The wax takes off the old scarf skin, in tiny flakes, a little each day. The new under-skin which gradually appears, is velvety soft and beautifully white, radiant with girlish loveliness. Any surface trouble like oiliness, pimples, red or yellow patches, freckles, etc., vanishes, of course, with the discarded cuticle.

A Woman's Way

"I tried for four months to get my wife to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which I knew had helped a friend of mine who also suffered from stomach trouble. She insisted her case was different. I finally had to bribe her with a new dress. The first dose produced remarkable results, clearing up her complexion and restoring her appetite. She can now eat things she hadn't been able to for many years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph (3 stores), Enderle Drug Co. (5 stores), Brown-Cloughly, Johnson Bros. Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them.

To do this get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calonite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

The next meeting will be March 24, with Mrs. A. E. Wright as hostess.

Miriam Lodge No. 17, U. O. T. S., met Feb. 26 at Harberger Hall. Mrs. Lena Leonard read a paper and Mrs. Myra Witt led the discussion.

The Alumnae Association of Lenox Hall will meet Tuesday next at 2 o'clock in Vandervoort's Music Hall. Plans for the association's activities for the spring season will be discussed.

The regular meeting of the Soldan Mothers' Club will be held Tuesday at 3 o'clock in the Soldan auditorium. Prof. George C. Kyte, associate professor of education at Washington University, will lead the discussion on "Does High School Prepare for College?"

The St. Louis Women's Auxiliary, Railway Mail Association, met Feb. 7, at the residence of Mrs. George Mueller, 1357 Union boulevard, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Dameron. Mrs. H. F. James, one of its oldest members, related the history of the auxiliary from its beginning. The auxiliary also met at the home of Mrs. E. J. Mullins, 7409 Commonwealth avenue, with Mrs. J. B. Adams as assistant hostess, on Feb. 21.

The board of St. Louis Chapter, N. S. U. S., Daughters of 1812, met at luncheon at the Forest Park Hotel, last Wednesday. The chapter has purchased a silk flag. Mrs. Arthur M. Wilson, State Historian, who is also an officer of this chapter, has asked for gifts of books of the date from 1772-1815; documents, old letters, wills, pictures or any relics pertaining to this period, to be placed in the national archives, or a written description of same and by whom owned.

Trim Tailored SUITS

Portraying the newest Spring Modes for Stout and Plump Women.

$39.50 to $69.50

Trimness is born of exactness, and only an expert tailor can effect it. These well-made tailleurs—whether of novelty cloth or plain—are outstanding examples of fine tailoring, and, for all their simplicity, they are individualistic for the stout woman.

They are developed of an attractive close-weave mixture in neutral tones—piped with braid and have boxy coats, with an air of jauntiness, that are mighty practical.

RHEUMATIC PAINS RUBBED OUT BY NEW GERMAN FORMULA

Local Druggists Give Written Guarantee to Refund Money if First Applications Fail to Bring Immediate Relief.

A scientific discovery, guaranteed to end rheumatic pain, has been made by German chemistry that gave us aspirin for headache pain and novocaine for painless dentistry.

Rheumatism, in every case, is due to internal abscesses (such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth), which give off poisons and are carried in the blood to the joints and muscles. Buhler Oil is a combination of rare oils, which when rubbed on the affected parts disappears within a few seconds, because it is so penetrating that it is quickly absorbed, going right through the skin into the painful joint or muscle. This is due to a penetrating ingredient too expensive for old-style rheumatic preparations.

This ingredient is intended to neutralize these poisons, thus giving quick relief from pain. If you suffer from rheumatic pains, if your joints or muscles ramp and torture you, try a bottle of Buhler Oil today at our risk. Your own druggist will sign our absolute written guarantee that if the first bottle fails to give you relief he will refund your money without question. We know women, young in years and full of the zest of living, who are always depressed and unhappy because of a few gray hairs that Farr's Gray Hair Restorer would so easily and harmlessly bring back to their original natural color.

Farr's is no trouble at all to use—a few minutes in your own room is enough. It leaves the hair glossy, lustrous and soft; it is not sticky and will not rub off or stain the scalp; it is as harmless as so much water, and every bottle is sold with the positive guarantee that it cannot cause the slightest harm or annoyance to the hair or scalp.

mittee was held in Vandervoort's Auditorium, with Mrs. Allen in the chair. Mrs. E. P. Sommers was the speaker. Her theme was poetry and she read a few selections of her own verse, among them a tribute to the mother of Lincoln.

A luncheon will be given by the St. Louis Tercentenary Shakspeare Society in honor of E. H. Sothern, on Thursday, in Parlor A, Statler Hotel. Among the members of the Shakspeare Round Table to be present to welcome Mr. Sothern will be Mrs. Philip Moore, Dean William Scarlett, Dr. Arthur Bostwick, the Rev. Dwight Bradley, the Rev. Robert Hall Atchison, Richard Spamer, Mrs. Donald MacDonald and John H. Gundlach, vice president of the society. Mrs. Harry E. Wagoner, president, will greet the guests and introduce the speakers. Clubs affiliated with the Tercentenary Society from different parts of Missouri and Illinois will be well represented.

The regular monthly business meeting will be held in the St. Louis Art League rooms in the Chamber of Commerce Building on Tuesday at 2 o'clock. Father Atchison will give his monthly class lecture at 3 o'clock on the "Merchant of Venice."

The women of the mothercraft department, Board of Religious Organizations, Jewish Unit, will have its first open meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the House Next Door, King's highway and Washington boulevard. Mrs. Rowal Howlett will present Miss Mabelle Evans' Mothercraft Symbol. Mrs. Louis Meyer is chairman of the department.

Henry S. Curtis, Ph. D., Missouri State University director of hygiene and physical education, will address the College Club tomorrow on "Education Through Play" at the clubhouse, 5428 Delmar boulevard. Guests are invited.

The club will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Earl Nelson will be the hostess at the tea immediately preceding the meeting, and will be assisted by Mrs. T. W. Jeffords, Mrs. W. W. Burden, Mrs. Philip Drabelle and Mrs. O. L. Herlinger. Miss Nell Nicholson, principal of Lowell School, will address the elementary curriculum study group on the subject, "Aims and Principles of the Elementary Curriculum." The discussion will be led by Mrs. W. G. Seelig. This meeting will be held at the clubhouse on Wednesday at 4:15. The Board of Managers of the club will meet at the clubhouse Thursday at 3:30.

The Washington birthday luncheon given by the St. Louis Chapter D. A. R. at Hotel Chase was attended by 300 guests. Mrs. Shelby H. Curlee, regent of the chapter, presided. The meeting was opened with a prayer by the chaplain, Mrs. Lewis W. English. Dr. Russell Henry Stafford of the Pilgrim Congregational church, delivered an address on "Patriotism and World Peace." Mrs. John Trigg Moss, vice president general of the National D. A. R., paid a tribute to "Our Pioneer Mothers." The speeches were interspersed with piano slections by Mrs. W. M. Weatherford, musical director of the chapter, and songs by Mrs. F. E. Andrews, accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth S. Stellwagen.

The Monday Club presented a program at the open meeting, Feb. 25. The program represented the annual effort of the history and literature section of the club and was in keeping with the course of study during the year. Mrs. William S. Hull, chairman of the section, was in charge. Mrs. W. W. Keysor, study leader, outlined the year's work. Dr. Atchison of St. George's Church of St. Louis chose "Hamlet" as his subject. The musical program included a group of songs by Miss Cora Alt and piano solos by Marie Haglen. The education and current topics sections of the club will hold its annual election of officers March 3.

A meeting of the Junior Girls' Auxiliary of the Jewish Orphans' Home will be held at 2:30 o'clock today in the B'Nai Amoona auditorium, Vernon and Academy avenues. Final arrangements will be made for a membership drive and a surprise membership party.

The St. Louis Section, Council of Jewish Women, announces that its study group in problems of sex hygiene, will meet at 5011 Washington boulevard at 10 a. m. Tuesday. Dr. William Nelson of the psychiatric clinic will speak on juvenile delinquency. Those interested are welcome.

The Woman's Chamber of Commerce will be represented in the National Food Show which opens tomorrow at the Coliseum. The booths will be in charge of Mrs. J. O. Rutledge, assisted by members of the organization and members of the various woman's clubs will act as hostesses every day. Mrs. J. Alex Goodwin, president of the Woman's Chamber of Commerce, assisted by members of the board of directors, will be hostesses tomorrow evening.

An unusual affair was a meeting of the Matrons' Literary Club of Madison, Ill., held recently at the home of Mrs. J. C. Hinde, 1752 Fourth street. The subject for discussion was "The Melting Pot." Each of the 20 members was attired in costume to represent a different country, and in response to roll call gave quotations in the language to correspond with the costume. In addition each brought an article of food eaten by that people.

The Fortnightly Club of Kirkwood held its regular meeting last Thursday at the home of Mrs. J. F. Schulze of North Kirkwood road. Mrs. H. N. Henderson presided. "St. Louis Musicians" was the response to roll call, in keeping with the paper of the day, "Ernest R. Kroeger," which was read by Mrs. Marc Seguin and illustrated by piano selections. Mrs. J. W. Wise sang "Ave Maria." The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. N. Stubbs of 520 Adams, while Mrs. J. W. Pickel will have as her subject, "A Much Mooted Question—Taxation."

The meeting of the Bay View Reading Club on March 3 will be held at the home of Mrs. W. P. Boston of 6934 Columbia avenue instead of at Mrs. Mitchell's, because of illness. "Rumania, Yesterday and Today," will be discussed by Mrs. Reinhardt, and "Queen Marie" by Mrs. Muchall, with current events by Mrs. Curtice.

The following St. Louis women were elected to the Board of Directors of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis at its annual meeting held recently at the Hotel Statler: Mmes. Alvin Bauman, Philip Becker, William Dee Becker, F. H. Britton, B. F. Bush, E. A. DeWolf, W. T. Donovan, Crawford Duncan, M. A. Goldstein, W. C. Johnston, Ernst Jonas, Henry W. iKel, H. F. Levy, Arthur Lieber, J. M. Michaels, Alexander Robertson, Paul Robyn, Herman Steinwender, A. R. Harrington and A. G. Wichman.

The next meeting of the Pershing Parent-Teachers' Association will be tomorrow. There will be a dinner at 7 o'clock for those who purchase tickets. The dinner will be followed by a program conducted by Miss Walker.

Bailey Circle No. 170, Daughters of Isabella, held an initiation and installation of officers for the new members of the Althol Circle at East St. Louis last Sunday, after which a banquet was given at the Elks' Club. Bailey Circle's last dance of the season will be given tomorrow evening at Arcadia Hall.

The Children of America Loyalty League are sponsoring a concert to be given tomorrow afternoon in Vandervoort's Auditorium. Its object is to teach the children safety first, and has the indorsement of the St. Louis Safety Council. Paul Roy Paul and Helen Jost take leading parts in a motion picture loaned for the occasion by the council, to be shown in the afternoon.

The Friday Club will meet March 7 at the home of Mrs. E. W. Dolch, 401 Westgate avenue. Mrs. Alphonse Howe will read a paper on "The Bibles," and Miss Mona McKay on the "Personality and Poems of Emily Dickenson."

The Tuesday Literary Club will meet Tuesday in the Little Theater of the Artists' Guild with the usual guest privileges. Elwood Street of the Community Council, will give an illustrated lecture. Mrs. Quincy Slocum, leader for the day, will define sociology in an introductory talk and Mrs. Alberta Libby Smith will give a violin solo.

The Wanderers had their annual George Washington party at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Miller. Luncheon was served, after which bridge was played. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Mary Miller on Feb. 27.

The St. Louis Gold Star Mothers, Staff No. 1, will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Disabled American Veterans' clubhouse, 3737 West Pine boulevard.

The St. Louis Lonely Club will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the recital hall of the Odeon Building.

Mrs. Eugene Fusz, regent, entertained the Cornelia Greene Chapter, D. A. R., at the Woman's Club Feb. 22. Mmes. O. E. Furbringer, J. Zahorsky, L. M. McDaniel, G. Andrae, J. E. Weber, Phil Werber, Ray Havens, J. S. Applegate, A. A. Thompson and Miss Lilly M. Walton were assisting hostesses. Mrs. Esmerelda Mayes gave several violin solos, with Mrs. Carl Luyties as accompanist. Miss Martha Ottofy played two piano solos and Mrs. T. F. Browne read a poem on Washington written by Rixford J. Lincoln of New Orleans, La., and a brother of Mrs. O. Furbringer. Miss Virginia Heath and Benton Wilkins, pupils of Miss Julia Boehmer, danced the minuet in colonial costume. Those serving at the tea table were Mmes. J. Weber, L. McDaniel, Ray Havens and Phil Werber. The house was decorated with flags and red and white carnations.

A special membership meeting of the Town Club has been called for Tuesday evening at 8 p. m. at the club quarters in the Century Building to consider action toward keeping in office the present officials for 1924. The meeting was called upon the petition of 39 who desire that the present Board of Directors which has had in hand all arrangements for building the

RHEUMATISM
LEAVES YOU FOREVER

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-Four Hours.

Every Druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. can supply you.

ANNOUNCEMENTS AND GENERAL NEWS OF CLUBS

new Town Club at 1122 Locust street, be continued in office, so that the officals conversant with the building plans may direct the building until its completion. On account of the provisions of the club's by-laws, the terms of certain directors and officials are for fixed periods and they are not eligible to re-election. The question of devising ways and means of continuing these officials in office the coming year will be taken up at the Tuesday evening meeting.

The Catholic Women's Association will hold a general membership meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. at its downtown headquarters, 206 North Eighth street, to vote on proposed amendments to the by-laws. The C. W. A., through the establishment of many new activities, including a hotel, a choral club and a junior department, finds that the by-laws under which it operates and which were adopted when the organization was in its infancy eight years ago, must be added to in order that the association may be rendered more efficient in taking care of and operating the new activities.

The St. Louis Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will meet tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Fairmont Hotel. Hostesses will be Mmes. S. W. Heard, C. P. Bland, Julia Jones and R. W. McBride. A music program will be given by Miss Audrey Buchanan. The official board of the chapter was entertained Friday at the Fairmont Hotel by Mrs. H. A. H. d'Ailley.

Mrs. Guy C. Chamberlain of 1281 Amherst place was hostess for the Tuxedo Literary Club at the last meeting. Lieut. Burrows of Jefferson Barracks spoke. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. H. Young, 5500 Pershing avenue, Tuesday.

Activities of Missourians at the National Capital.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The Society of Naval Sponsors added a good deal of gaiety to this week's activities as the members-women wha have christened United States naval vessels of all classes, from mosquito fleet units to dreadnoughts—assembled for their annual gathering. Mrs. Coolidge entertained them at a tea Thursday afternoon, receiving them in the Red room, where they were presented to a group of the wives of ranking officers of the navy, including Mrs. Robert E. Coontz of St. Louis, wife of Rear Admiral Coontz, also a Missourian, now head of the Pacific fleet. Mrs. Selden P. Spencer was at home to the visitors informally Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Patrick Bellinger, who was Miss Miriam Benoist of St. Louis and her small son, Dick, were guests for the week-end of Miss Isabel Wells.

Mrs. Foster Stearns, who has been a house guest at the White House for some days, will go to St. Louis for a fortnight's visit after a short stay at Asheville, N. C., beginning Monday.

MORE TROUBLE THREATENED

Philippine Troops Sent to Samar and Surigao Provinces.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, March 1.—Although uprisings in the Southern Islands by members of the Colorum, a religious society, were thought to have been suppressed, reports received today from Southern Surigao and Samar Provinces stated the fanatics again were threatening to cause trouble.

Detachments of constabulary soldiers were sent to Catbalogan, capital of Samar, and to Southern Surigao to investigate the activities of the fanatics.

Baby's Lloyd is now on display at your dealer's

Before you buy any carriage for your baby, be sure to see the beautiful Lloyd Loom Carriages. Dealers everywhere are now having special showings of these finer baby carriages, displaying all the smart new styles, finishes and upholsteries.

Lloyd Loom Carriages are quite unlike other carriages. Their graceful bowl shape and sweeping curves and rolls are woven in, on the famous Lloyd Loom. This remarkable process weaves the carriage spirally, of a single, continuous strand of finest wicker. Not only does this flawless weaving add to the beauty and strength of the carriage; it cuts its cost amazingly. Even with all its refinements of finish, the Lloyd is sold for less than has ever been asked for a fine baby carriage. You can identify a Lloyd by the name plate on the seat. Lloyd Loom Furniture and Doll Carriages are made by the same spiral weaving process.

See the unfortunate with one leg, possibly two missing!

Look at the blind man; he can't see you!

Behold the person with one arm gone!

There goes a man with locomotor-ataxia?

Now comes a man with the dreaded ailment, tuberculosis!

All these and more come into observation during a short stroll through one of our principal thoroughfares most any day.

Should we who are in possession of all our parts and faculties not only be thankful but lend a helping hand through organized charity to our unfortunate brother?

A sound body is mankind's greatest possession!

Service the Keynote of Success

When the time comes for you to select that furniture you have been planning on, wouldn't you be glad to have somebody who knows a lot about furniture go along and help you buy; tell you what's good quality; tell you whether the price is right; tell you about the design and workmanship?

That is the service a dependable furniture specialist can offer patrons. We will cheerfully give you the benefit of our experience—help you select just the right furniture to harmonize with your home—for upon the corner stone of service the Prufrock-Litton establishment has been built. To help create a home of character and good taste is far more important to us than the mere selling of furniture.

Comparison the Fair Test of Value

The impeccable quality of our furniture is a tradition, and yet prices are surprisingly low. Claims in cold type are never convincing—compare our values yourself. Examine carefully our wonderful collection of furniture, then take down the prices. You can shop the length and breadth of the city, but you will not find values that parallel these.

—are arriving daily—just in time for your Spring replenishing. No matter what you need for your living room, dining room or bedroom—you are sure to find something that pleases you in our complete stock.

Here at my very hand lies the pleasant country road, stretching away toward newer hills and richer scenes. It is one of the prime joys of the long road that no two days are ever remotely alike—not two hours even. I took the Road, and the farms along it, and the sleepy little villages, and the streams from the hillsides—all with high enjoyment. They were good coin in my purse.

—From "The Friendly Road."

AS a means to greater health and happiness for the entire family, as well as an indispensable aid to efficiency in business, the automobile is without a peer.

The make of a car and the price paid for it are not matters of vital importance. They are usually regulated by the amount a man has to invest and the uses to which he will put a car. The really important thing is:

If you haven't a car, GET ONE—the best you can afford—and get it now!

Winds may blow chilly in March, but a softness may be detected that will increase with every day — for Spring is at the door. The eternal love of every man for the out-of-doors is founded upon a need for the open spaces. It is the greatest argument for automobile ownership—especially in the Spring.

Fifty years ago, March was always the month for taking a Spring tonic. People still need one, but better than all of the old-fashioned remedies is that best of all tonics—an automobile.

To own a car is doubtless the ambition of everyone. The point of this little talk is that you can own it NOW. If a new car seems out of reach at this time, then automobile ownership can be happily and satisfactorily accomplished by the purchase of a good used car.

Let us again emphasize how worth-while are the splendid models offered for sale by the reliable dealers of St. Louis over in the Classified "Automobiles" columns of the Post-Dispatch. There is no question but they have helped many Post-Dispatch readers to ownership of a good car which will bring the richest returns in health and happiness. There is no question but that this can be of invaluable aid to all who do not yet own a car.

Turn now to the Classified "Automobiles" columns and read the good values listed there. The reliable firms advertising there will be glad to demonstrate cars advertised — without putting you under any obligation.

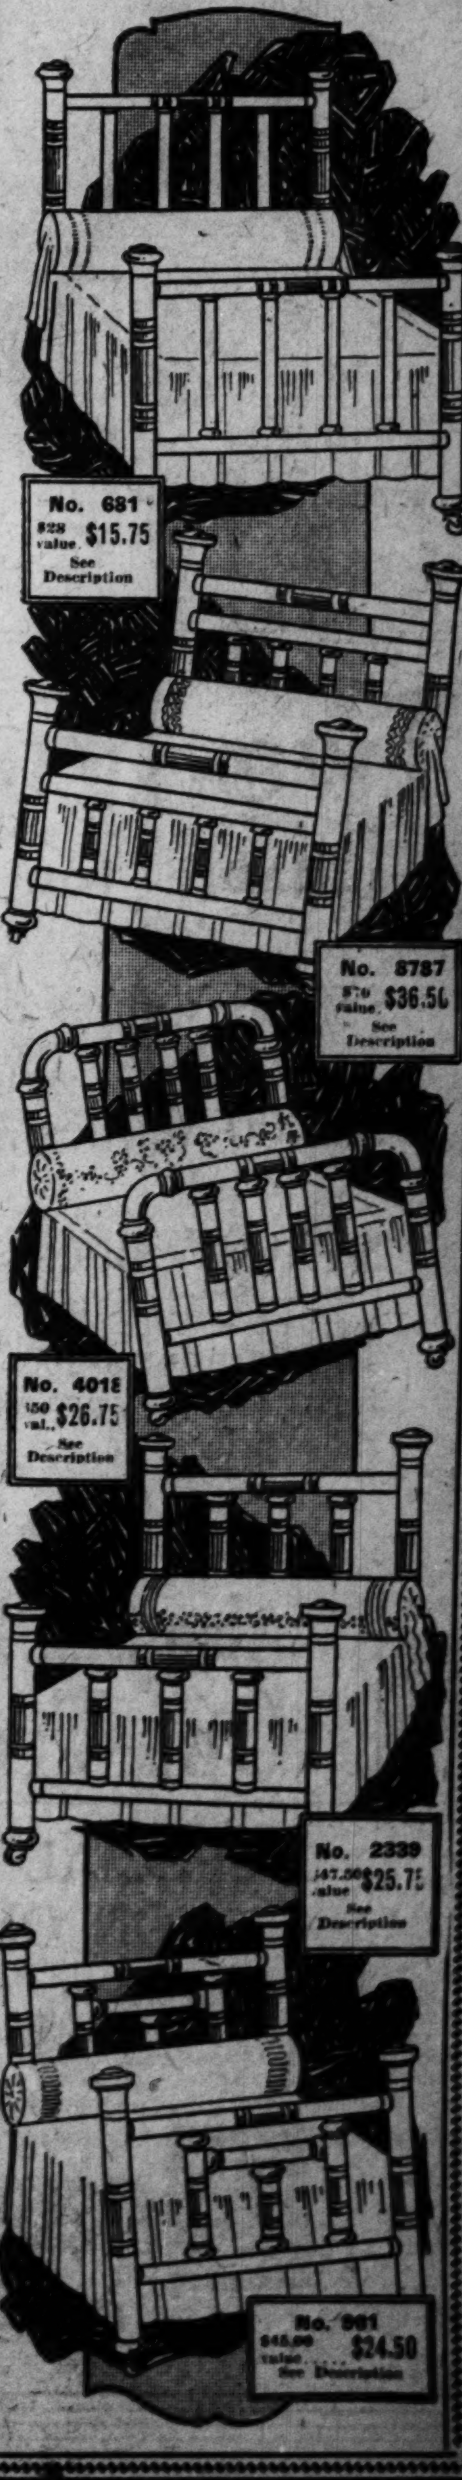
A Triumphant Merchandising Stroke To Corner The Market In BRASS & METAL BEDS



Selling Starts Monday, Promptly at 8:30 A. M.

ONCE each year, Welch & Company stage a merchandising event that is always planned several months in advance. Selling Brass and Metal Beds of every wanted variety at prices that are far below the usual market figure. The 1924 Brass and Metal Bed event begins at Welch & Company Monday morning at 8:30 with a showing that far surpasses, from every standpoint, all previous efforts and results in this department. We were exceedingly fortunate in our purchases for this occasion, reaping the advantage of price concessions we were able to obtain in many instances by making huge quality purchases for cash. While only 10 styles are illustrated, this will give you an adequate idea of the huge varieties that are here for your selection.

If one or more of these advertised specials appeal to you, note its style number, ask to see it when you come in, and you will not only save ⅓ to ½ on the purchase price, but may open an account if you desire and buy on Welch & Company's usual liberal credit terms, making small payments weekly or monthly as you prefer.

WORLD-WIDE SEARCH FOR JIMMY MILES JR.

Circulars Offering Reward Are Sent to Foreign Countries.

A world-wide search for Deputy Constable James P. Miles Jr., charged with the murder of Charles O'Neal in the Washington Hotel barroom Feb. 5, was begun yesterday by the broadcasting of police circulars throughout the United States and foreign countries, announcing the Governor's $300 reward for the capture of the fugitive.

Although it contains a detailed description of Miles, sometimes referred to as "Bug-Eye Miles," the circular bears no picture of the much-wanted gangster, as none had ever been taken for the Rogues' Gallery in spite of the fact that he had been arrested numerous times in connection with police investigation of crimes.

$25 Offered for Photograph.

The police say they were unable to "mug" Miles, who is a son of Justice of the Peace "Jimmy" Miles, the latter also being a member of the Democratic Central Committee and on terms of friendship with many policemen, because he always got out on bond as soon as he was landed in a police station.

President Brockman of the Police Board announced he would pay $25 reward to any person furnishing him with a photograph of Miles, taken within the last five years. The photograph to be given to Brockman personally and the identity of any person presenting it to him will not be disclosed.

Description in Circular.

"Look For Him" is the heading of the circular in large type, and beneath that is the offer of the reward for his capture. Miles' description as printed, one item to the line, follows:

Age 32.

Height, 5 feet 10 inches.

Weight about 150 pounds.

Light complexion, shows marks of dissipation.

Grey hair, thick; may dye black.

Eyes blue and popped, may wear tortoise shell glasses.

Good dresser.

Excessive drinker and cigarette smoker.

Has gambled for a living, and was a Deputy Constable.

Well known as "Bug-Eye Miles."

Fond of women and cabarets.

Talks a great deal when drinking, boastful in his manner.

Always goes armed and considered dangerous. Will not hesitate to shoot.

May be accompanied by his wife, Leah Miles, Jewess, 28 years, 5 feet 4 inches tall, medium stout build, 148 pounds, olive complexion, black eyes, bobbed hair.

A reproduction of Miles' signature, obtained by the police from a $10,000 bond which he signed two years ago for Leo Casey, who was charged with robbery, is included in the circular, which concludes with the request that if Miles is located he is to be held on a fugitive warrant and the St. Louis police be notified by wire at once.

"THE MAN FROM BRODNEY'S" AT THE KINGS THEATER

Tom Mix in "Ladies to Board" Is This Week's Offering at the Liberty.

"The Man From Brodney's," film version of a George Barr McCutcheon novel, is the feature attraction at the Kings Theater. The story turns about the adventures of an American diplomatic representative at a mythical Central European court. He is forced to resign after he fights a duel over a Princess. He goes to London, where he is engaged by the law firm of Sir John Brodney to go to the Island of Japat and settle a controversy over a will. The island has been willed to two persons under certain difficult condition. If the will can be broken the land will become the common property of all the natives. This results in plots to kill the heirs and finally to a great uprising and a battle between the whites and the natives. The Princess for whom the American lawyer fought the duel arrives on the island at this critical time. He defends and saves her and wins her love. Leading members of the cast are J. Warren Kerrigan, Alice Calhoun, Wanda Hawley, Miss Dupont, Pat O'Malley, Kathleen Key and Bertram Grasby. On the program also will be a film novelty, Corinne Griffith, "The Yellow Girl." Mrs. Karl Kimmel, St. Louis soprano, is featured on the music program.

Tom Mix is the headline attraction at the Liberty in "Ladies to Board."

In the story Mix, as Tom Faxton, with his friend, Bunk McGinnis, his half partner, goes to Boston to look over the bean foundries. Tom gets an opportunity to perform a little favor for Anastasia McFirth when he saves her from an omnibus. Out of gratitude, a month later, when this old spinster passes away, she wills to the energetic Thomas the McFirth Sanatorium for Old Ladies. From then on things begin to happen and Tom, Bunk and Tony Mix ride through several reels of entertainment. Gertrude Olmsted plays opposite Mix. Others in the cast are Phil McCullough, Pee Wee Holmes, Gertrude Claire and Fay Holderness.

MAURICE MENDEL TO OPEN STORE ON 57TH STREET

Lease Store for Eighth Unit of Chain to Be Opened About April 1 — Plan Other Stores Out of Town.

The eight unit of the Maurice Mendel, Inc., chain of specialty stores will be located at 20 West 57th street, where a 10-year lease has just been taken on a store, it was announced this morning by Mr. Mendel.

The new store is located between Henri Bendel's and Jay-Thorpe, Inc., and will be opened for business about April 1, according to present plans.

The space available is 25 by 100 feet. The aggregate rental involved in the deal is approximately $200,000. L. T. Phillips & Co., real estate agents, negotiated the deal.

The store is to be decorated in the green and gold color scheme used in several other stores of the chain. The merchandise to be carried in the new unit will include gowns, coats, wraps and sports wear.

Mr. Mendel also stated that several other stores will be opened later in the year outside of New York, in accordance with the company's plans to expand on a national scale. Leases are now being considered in Philadelphia and Chicago for additional stores. The company now operates five stores here, one in Chicago and one in St. Louis.

A THREE-TIME AD COSTS LESS, PRODUCES MORE.

PROMPTLY REPORT FAILURE TO RECEIVE RESULTS.

TWO DOWNTOWN CHESTNUT STREET CORNERS ARE SOLD HOTEL FOR 22d AND OLIVE

Ninth and Eleventh Street Sites Regarded as Having Alluring Future; Franklin Avenue Looking Up.

By Berry Moore.

Speculative operations in both business and residential districts featured the closing week of February in realty.

Negotiations concluded yesterday involved the northeast corner of Ninth and Chestnut streets, northwest corner of Eleventh and Chestnut, and the northeast corner of Twenty-second and Olive.

The northeast corner of Ninth and Chestnut was bought by Nathaniel M. Glick, president of the Glick Real Estate Co., jointly with Jack Dubinsky, real estate agent. The site is improved with a three-story building, the upper floors being occupied as a hotel and the first floor as real estate offices. This building was originally known as the Pozzoni Building.

The transaction was engineered by the Cornet & Zeibig Trust for the Industrial Loan Co., which purchased the building and site less than a year ago, with plans for a 10-story building. The concern has elected to take a generous profit, however, on its investment, it was stated, in view of the abnormal cost of construction, and has renewed the lease of its quarters in the International Life Building. The price paid for the Ninth and Chestnut corner is understood to have run into six figures.

The southwest corner of Ninth and Chestnut was purchased about a year ago by the Western Union Telegraph Co. as a site for a large structure. This corner has withstood many offers from which the Telegraph company would have derived large profits, according to James M. Dockery of John Dockery & Son, through which it was acquired.

Eleventh and Chestnut.

A speculator, represented by Ben Altheimer & Bro. Real Estate Co., yesterday purchased the northwest corner of Eleventh and Chestnut. The price was not announced. The grantor was Miss Mary Fishman, acting for Frank Dubinsky, president of the Dubinsky Realty Co., who recently bought the property and who has made a large profit by the resale, it is understood. The identity of the buyer is withheld pending delivery of the deed.

The site, having 42 feet on Chestnut street and 109 feet on Eleventh street, is improved with a three-story building, which is to be altered for real estate offices. It is opposite the old City Hall block, which has been selected as a site for the $4,000,000 courthouse to be erected under the provisions of the $87,000,000 bond issue.

Albert Wenzlick, president of the Albert Wenzlick Realty Co., recently acquired the southeast corner of Eleventh and Chestnut, for which he has declined many flattering offers.

These corners are regarded as having an alluring future, owing to their proximity to the site designated for the proposed courthouse, together with the fact that Chestnut street will constitute an important artery in connection with the Memorial Plaza, this project having served as a tonic throughout the downtown section of the real estate market, notably on Chestnut, Market, Pine and Olive streets, as well as on Locust street, both east and west of Twelfth boulevard.

Twenty-Second and Olive.

Thomas Sheehan has purchased the northeast corner of Twenty-second and Olive, through the Sheehan Real Estate Co., in connection with Frank J. Faris & Co., representing William H. Lee, the seller. Several offers already have been disclosed by Sheehan for the corner. This site has a frontage of 100 feet on Olive, with a depth of 107 feet on Twenty-second, which, together with 44 feet adjoining on the east, gives Sheehan a frontage on Olive of 144 feet.

The enlarged site is sought under a 99-year least for a hotel structure. It is also desired as a site for a big store and loft building. Sheehan has owned for several years the northeast corner of Twenty-second and Olive, 40 by 109 feet, improved with a two-story building occupied by the Thomas J. Sheehan Plumbing and Heating Co.

Another notable purchase in this district was that of a two-story garage building at 2109-11 Olive street, occupying a site 50x110 feet. The property belonged to Julia and Edwin Nugent, who were represented by the J. E. Kaime & Bro. Real Estate Co. Hellman was represented by the Giraldin Bros. Real Estate Co.

Negotiations practically have been concluded for several other corners on Olive, but details are withheld pending final papers.

With the execution of the plans for widening Olive street assured, this thoroughfare is being given more than ordinary attention from the speculative and investment contingent. Several other deals have virtually been concluded for prominent corners on Olive, these in a number of instances carrying building plans which are to be carried through in the early future.

Franklin Avenue.

According to Ben Altheimer & Brother Real Estate Co., negotiations for Franklin avenue property continue aggressively, predicated on the assumption that this section is destined to come into its own again with the realization of the widening project. North St. Louis is more or less tributary to this thoroughfare, which, as a major artery, is vital to the flow of traffic of the city.

The importance of Sixth street and Franklin avenue promises to be vastly enhanced as a focal point, as a result of the successful issue of this constructive project. Demand for locations on this thoroughfare is forthcoming, in no small measure, from tenants of the old Union Market block shortly to be demolished to make way for a modern structure provided for by the $87,000,000 bond issue, and the estimated cost of which is placed at $1,000,000.

Negotiations practically have been closed through F. J. Cornwell & Son and the Giraldin Brothers Real Estate Co. for large scale apartment buildings in the West End. Two transactions, it is estimated, will aggregate more than a million dollars, but details are not yet available.

APARTMENT AT ROSEDALE AND WATERMAN SOLD FOR $30,000

The Singer-Klein Realty Co. announces the sale of the 4-family apartment on the northwest corner of Rosedale and Waterman avenues. This apartment consists of six and eight rooms and is equipped with all modern conveniences. The consideration paid was in the neighborhood of $30,000.

This property was sold for the account of the Roselyn Investment Co. to George L. Ehr, who bought for investment. The Singer-Klein company represented the seller and Edward R. Eddins the purchaser.

Pauper Relief Cost Declines.

The cost of pauper relief in St. Clair County last year decreased $3891.92 from the previous year. The expenditure in 1922 was $19,283.26 and last year was $15,391.34. Four townships in the county, Millstadt, Stookey, Prairie du Long and Englemann, reported no paupers last year.

MESKER BROS. COMPLETE WORK AT UNION STATION

The contract for the solid section steel sash and structural wrought iron work enclosing the Midway at the Union Station for the Terminal Railroad Association has just been completed by the Mesker Bros. Iron Co., St. Louis, at a cost of $50,000.

In order to do this, 5000 sheets of clear glass, 195 units of steel sash and 37 tons of structural steel has been used.

The fence and the 15 gates are lined with heavy steel panels, and the clear glass extends from the top of the fence to the roof.

It is believed that this will protect the Midway from the cold weather and in summer time the panels will be removed to allow free access to air.

An illustration of the work is shown on this page.

KLAUBER-WELZ REAL ESTATE CO. REPORTS SEVERAL SALES

Adolphus Klauber and Charles F. Welz have opened an office at 6243 Gravois, where they will conduct a general real estate and insurance business under the name of the Klauber-Welz Real Estate Co.

Klauber formerly was connected with the Rudolph Koert Real Estate Co., while Welz formerly conducted the Welz Garden on Gravois road and was in the insurance business.

They report the following sales: Flat at 4920 Penrose, for Hy L. Zeis to William Gregory; flat, 3416 Tennessee avenue, for Alma and Helen Deuber to Gustave G. Charbulak; flat, 3418 Tennessee, for Fred Meyer to Jacob Karsch; cottage, 2021 Chippewa, for Charles Budt to Andrew Trapp.

BUILDING PERMITS FOR TOTAL OF $2,339,885 IN FEBRUARY

Permits for erection of 884 buildings at an estimated cost of $2,339,885 were issued here in February, compared with 704 permits for building construction costing approximately $2,664,900 which were issued in February of last year.

However, permits for buildings to cost about $3,481,167 were issued in January of this year as against permits in January, 1923, for buildings costing $2,563,326. The net gain for both months of this year over the corresponding months of last year was $595,826.

NEW ST. LOUIS U. HIGH SCHOOL SOON READY

Transfer of Students, It Is Expected, Will Not Be Made Until Fall.

Among important building projects completed the past year is the new St. Louis University High School, Oakland to Berthold avenues, just west of King's highway boulevard. This project, which has cost $500,000, was the gift of Mrs. Anna Backer as a memorial to her husband, the late George H. Backer, and will be known as the George H. Backer Memorial High School, although the name of St. Louis Academy, which has existed for 105 years, will not be discarded.

The new school is built to accommodate 12 pupils, and will combine the enrollment of the present St. Louis Academy on Grand avenue and Loyola Hall at Eads and Compton.

It is stated that the school will be ready for occupancy by Easter Sunday. The equipment is being installed. It is not thought, however, that the authorities of St. Louis University will make the transfer of students until next fall, as by that time the large campus will have been relieved of the confusion incident to building, and every detail of class rooms, laboratories, restaurant, gymnasium and heating plants will be complete.

A photograph of this building as it now stands is reproduced on this page.

Jacket Concern Leases Space.

The American Jacket Co. has acquired a lease of the fifth floor of the seven-story building at 701-3 Lucas avenue. It will use the space for a factory, office and salesroom. Mullin-Walters Realty Co. represented both parties in this transaction.

WORK TO START SOON ON ADDITION TO COUNTY CHURCH

Work will start soon on a new edifice for the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, Lockwood avenue, near Grand avenue, to be connected with the present structure. High-pointed roof, semi-spires and a large rose window will mark the facade of the new church, which will be built of local limestone, with Bedford stone trim. The style is to be an adaptation of late fifteenth century gothic.

The auditorium will seat more than 1000 persons. There will be a large gallery over the entrance lobby. The interior will be wainscoted and finished in English oak, with vaulted ceiling. An arcaded ambulatory will connect the edifice to the present church and Sunday school building which are on a smaller scale. Behind this will be a cloistered space.

Albert B. Groves is architect of the new building, contracts for which have been let, representing about $150,000. The work is expected to be done by December. The church has more than 1100 members. Rev. David M. Skilling has been pastor since 1902.

NEW PINE STREET BUILDING ATTRACTING MANY TENANTS

The new building erected by the Pelligreen Construction Co. at 816-18-20-22 Pine street is rapidly being absorbed by high class tenants. The structure is constructed with steel beams and handsome pressed brick front.

The lessees include Colgate & Co., Sievert-Kersting Jewelry Co., Harry Hochman, I. Holtzman, Superior Service Co., Schikore Leather Goods Co. and Pelligreen Construction Co.

The Pelligreen Construction Co. also reports leases made in the Nicholas Building at Grand boulevard and Park avenues, to the following concerns: Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., United Cigar Co., which has acquired the corner store, and Thomas Ahtipus. This concern also has closed leases in the building at the northeast corner of Grand and Arsenal streets to Hugo Rossi and Miss Brown, proprietor of a ladies' ready-to-wear store. It also reports leases in a new building at Pennsylvania and Pershing avenues, to the following concerns: Wasem Drug Co., O'Laughlin Mercantile Co., and the O'Laughlin Floral Co.

PRINTING FIRM BUYS LOCUST ST. BUILDING

Shallcross Concern Plans to Occupy Entire Structure After Alterations.

The Shallcross Printing Co. has purchased the 4-story and basement building at 1822 Locust street, occupying a site 40x150 feet. The entire building is to be occupied by the company when alterations to meet its requirements have been made.

The company's building at 419 North Fourth street, where it was for 29 years, was recently wrecked by fire.

The printing company was represented by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co., and the seller by H. O. Byrd. The consideration was not disclosed.

HAT COMPANY LEASES WASHINGTON AVENUE QUARTERS

Isaac T. Cook & Co., Inc., report having leased the entire fourth floor of the Drygoodsman Building at 1627-31 Washington avenue to the Diamond Hat Co., now located at 717 Lucas avenue. This concern, manufacturing women's and children's hats, has been expanding rapidly during the last few years.

Alterations in the new premises are now being made in order to have the floor ready for the new tenant by April 1.

The officers of the hat company are A. Miller, president; Rose Miller, vice president, and Samuel W. Forman, treasurer.

JAMES C. MORFIT TO MOVE TO TITLE GUARANTEE SUITE

James C. Morfit, now located at 807 Chestnut street, has leased a suite of offices on the tenth floor of the Title Guaranty Building, to which he will remove March 15.

DANCE AND LUNCHEON TO OPEN NEW BUILDING

Galeria, at Maryland and Euclid Avenues, Devoted Exclusively to Shops.

The Galeria, a building just completed, at the southeast corner of Maryland and Euclid avenues, will be opened tomorrow morning with a dance and luncheon.

The building, which was erected by H. McM. Bixby, and which has been leased through the Cornet & Zeibig Trust, represented by John T. Coggswell, is two stories high, in the Italian style with white stucco exterior and with marble interior, gold and green interior decorations, and is 100x100 feet. It comprises shops which face a lobby in the center of the building. The tenants of the building include Suzanne, Inc., women's garments; Fairyland, Inc., children's garments; Pauline Carson, linen shop; Junior League of St. Louis, and Louise Art Studio, on the first floor; the eBauty Spot, a beauty parlor, Ashen-Grenner, phtographer, and Lucy Hall's Tea Room.

The dance will be given in a spacious room on the second floor, while the refreshments will be served by Miss Lucy Hall.

MAGUIRE R. E. CO. TAKES OFFICE AT 12 N. 12TH

The Maquire Real Estate Co. has taken temporary quarters at 12 North Twelfth street. It was compelled to vacate its ground floor quarters in the building at 808 Chestnut, which was recently purchased for occupancy by the Title Guaranty Trust Co.

James M. Maguire is president and Leo. R. Brandewiede secretary of the company, which is one the pioneer real estate concerns of the city.

JOHN W. GIBSON WOULD HEAD R. E. EXCHANGE

Is Candidate for Presidency Against John J. Dowling; Others Urged to Enter.

John W. Gibson is a candidate for the presidency of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange against John J. Dowling. Both are prominent members of the real estate fraternity and have taken an aggressive interest in the organization. Gibson formerly served as vice president and is now a director of the exchange, while Dowling is a former secretary and for several terms was a vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges.

Several other members of the fraternity have been asked to enter the contest for the presidency, notably Chester A. Daugherty, president of the Daugherty Real Estate Co., now first vice president of the exchange, but he prefers to be an interested spectator, he said.

JAZZ RECORD AND FILM STRIP IN BUILDING CORNERSTONE

If the 22-story Straus Building is ever razed, a little copper box placed in the corner stone of this Chicago skyscraper will yield a valuable record. Besides a history of the construction of the building, the box has a copy of the abstract of title, copies of several magazines which have articles on the Straus Building, a strip of motion picture film of the progress of construction, Chicago newspapers of the date the corner stone was sealed, and a parchment giving the names of all officers and their associates identified with the building.

Five phonograph records, with a package of needles and explanation of the method of playing the instruments, are included. They are representative of present-day artists and include a selection of jazz music.

VEILED PROPHET'S FORMER DEN ON WALNUT STREET SOLD

Le Grand Jones, Inc., report having closed the sale of the large brick building at 2116-20 Walnut street, fronting 135 feet on Walnut street by a depth of 114 feet. This property for many years had been known as the Veiled Prophet den.

The purchaser, John F. Stroh, president of the Stroh Bros. Delivery Co., will occupy the premises and operate a garage for trucks and passenger cars. The seller was the Reyburn estate.

They also report having closed loans aggregating $40,000 and have several sales under contract to be closed this week.

THE FIRST ONE THAT COMES
Along and makes me a half-way decent offer gets my bungalow. I positively have to sell at once. It's a little hard to find, but well worth finding. Brick bungalow with 4 rooms, tile bath, water, gas, electricity, etc. Even if you have only a couple hundred dollars but can make good monthly payments, will consider it. Take Creve Coeur car to Wise road, walk south to Hawthorne av., east ½ block to short street called Oltz terrace, then south to my house. R. P. Ferguson, owner; or drive out Lackland to Wise, north to Hawthorne, then east.

IT'S WORTH WHILE TO GO OUT.
If you can see several places on one trip. Here are about four that you ought to like: Take Creve Coeur car to Wheaton Station, walk north one long block to Mrs. Bates' bungalow, east side of Spring av., 4 rooms, bath, furnace, etc.; will sell cheap for cash, as owner wants to go away from St. Louis. Then go north one block to Albin and east one-half block to Mr. Still's 4-room and bath bungalow, on easy terms. Then back to Spring and see the second and third houses west of Spring on north side of Albin. Mr. Stuhlman owns first one and Mr. Maddox the other. These are right at school, so if you have children, think of this. You can take St. Charles car (or drive out St. Charles road) to Spring, then south to Albin av., and see them that way, too. Then see us.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

ROBERT C.—We have no record of the negro colonization article in question.

GIRL.—The postage stamps are from Turkey and Venezuela, respectively.

A. S.—Call the theater in question for the information you desire regarding the picture.

CURIOUS.—Gus Zeidler was the convict paroled to cook for Gov. Small of Illinois.

JOHN.—Inquire at the office of the United States Collector, Federal Bldg., Eighth and Olive sts.

F. S.—Take the coin to a dealer in coins to determine its value. Dealers are listed in the city directory.

BROKE.—The picture in question was played at the Missouri Theater; call them for further information.

BILL.—Submit the song to any of the music publishers of popular songs; they will give you an answer.

TRUCK OWNER.—Write to the Bureau of Roads, Agriculture Department, Washington, D. C., for the information you desire.

D. P. — The nickle three-cent piece dated 1851 is not listed in our coin book. Coinage commenced in 1865, and discontinued in 1889.

L. A. D.—If the violin is an original it is perhaps valuable; take it to some dealer to ascertain its value.

IOLA.—Write to Major Levy, 1531 Washington avenue, regarding the position of model in the coming Fashion Show to be held at Forest Park.

P.-D. READER.—Inquire of the news companies listed in the telephone and city directories for the information you desire regarding the magazine in question.

DAILY READER OF P.-D.—See answers to "F. L.," in paper of Feb. 20, regarding the name and address of the American Consul in Manchester, England.

ROSEMARY—Write to the Board of Education, Los Angeles, Cal., for the information you desire regarding the teaching in the Public schools there.

DIXIE. — All information concerning the obtaining of a copyright can be obtained from the Register of Copyrights, Washington, D. C.

P. G. WIZZ.—Write to the Agriculture Department, Washington, D. C., or the State Board of Agriculture at Jefferson City, for the information.

A CONSTANT READER.—Following are the addresses of Mrs. Helen Miller (Gould) Shepard: "Lyndhurst," Tarrytown, New York; and 579 Fifth Avenue, New York City, N. Y.

M. J. S.—The following is a list of newspapers published in East St. Louis: The Missouri, Illinois Advance-Citizen (negro), The Mail, The Illinois Labor Press and The Journal.

CHOCOLATE DROP.—The only way we know of for you to secure a position as clothing model, would be to watch the advertisements in the paper or inquire of the department stores and also women's apparel shops.

ANXIOUS READER.—Inquire of the "bird stores" listed in the telephone book for the information regarding the mating of the canary birds.

CICILY.—Inquire of David Russell, manager of the Municipal Theater Association, 1878 Arcade Bldg., for the information regarding the chorus training.

MRS. K.—Inquire of the Probate Court for information regarding the estate notice and final settlements.

W. E. B.—In order to dry clean the seat covers, put them into a tub, cover with corn meal, slightly salted and scrub with this as you would use suds, rubbing between your hands, and hardest upon soiled spots. Cover them up in clean meal and leave them for two days, throwing a cloth over the tub to keep out the dust. Shake them, and brush with a perfectly clean whisk.

F. E. K.—The small cent dated 1909, Indian head, proofs only, are quoted at 25c. Proof coins are especially struck from polished blanks and dies and finished by hand, which gives them a mirror-like, smooth, reflective surface, the most perfect condition known. The mint makes a small charge for the proof coins, and they can only be had during the year of the issue.

TEA POT DOME. — To prepare salted beef, cut up a quarter of beef. For each hundredweight take half a peck of coarse salt, quarter of a pound of saltpetre, the same weight of saleratus, and a quart of molasses, or two pounds of coarse brown sugar. Mace cloves and allspice may be added for spiced beef. Strew some of the salt in the bottom of a pickle-tub or barrel, then put in a layer of meat, strew this with salt, then add another layer of meat, and salt and meat alternately, until all is used. Let it remain one night. Dissolve the saleratus and saltpetre in a little warm water, and put it into the molasses or sugar; then put it over the meat; add enough water to cover the meat, lay a board on it to keep it under the brine. The meat is fit for use after 10 days. This recipe is for winter beef. Rather more salt may be used in warm weather.

M. K. S.—The following is a formula for cleaning rugs: Heat coarse Indian meal in the oven in large pans, with it mix one-fourth the quantity of fine salt. When the mixture is quite hot (it must not scorch) have your rugs close at hand. They should have been shaken and whipped on the wrong side out of doors. There will be dirt enough in them after the beating to warrant more thorough measures. Scatter the salted meal thickly over the rugs, rub in well, using a clean broom or a brush; cover to keep out the dust and leave for 24 hours. Sweep, then with a clean, stiff broom twice, once against the nap, and the second time with it; finally, shake and beat to dislodge any lingering remnants of the meal and salt. The meal and salt may be used without heating, but you are more certain to have them perfectly dry, if they have been in the oven, and the heat helps on the cleansing process, besides killing any larvae that may have skulked out of reach of the broom.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

LYOLA.—At your age the probability is that these symptoms indicate change of life.

ERIN.—Repeat the question, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope.

ENEMA. — Repeat question and make it more plain. The dose of Epsom salts is ½ ounce.

H. A. C.—Your previous question was answered. You asked for the average number of deaths in St. Louis and stated no time. The average number of deaths for the past three years was 9760.

MARY.—The description fits a case of an inflamed bladder, but possible kidney disease should not be overlooked. Have the urine examined. We do not think this condition would cause the other symptoms mentioned.

JUST ME.—If unable to pay the operation would be done free of charge in the City Hospital or out clinic. The operation would take 15 or 20 minutes and you should remain at home a day or two afterward.

MRS. W. E. L.—To cure the drink habit the patient must desire to quit, nothing can be accomplished otherwise. Even with such co-operation the patient should be under control in an institution. Such cases require competent medical supervision.

BEN J.—We advise applying Lassar's paste at night, covering with lint or cotton and bandage. During the day dob on zinc oxide and calamine lotion, every three or fours hours and let dry on. The hands must not be subjected to irritation.

ITCHY.—Hemorrhoids, eczema, pin worms and fissures should be excluded. Lassars paste kept thinly covered over the surface day and night is useful. The following ointment is also of value: Bismuth nitrate 1 dram, morphine hydrochlorate, 2 grains; rose water ointment, 1 oz.

ANXIOUS.—Scabies is caused by the invasion of the skin by the itch mite. Itch is a parasitic infection of the skin by the itch mite. It is as a rule readily amenable to treatment carefully and conscientiously carried out, with care as to the prevention of reinfection, which readily occurs. Proceed as follows: (1) Provide clean underclothing, clean bedclothing and clean night clothing which is to be used, and not changed, until the completion of the treatment. Then all of the above mentioned clothing must be again replaced by clean clothing. That used during the treatment must be removed and well boiled, to prevent reinfection, and the outer clothing ironed by a very hot iron, especially about the neck and the ends of the sleeves. (2) Take a hot bath of soap and water, using and rubbing well with a coarse rag, to break down any lesion of the skin in which the itch might be lodged. No other bath is to be taken until the completion of the treatment. (3) Rub in thoroughly, in every inch of the skin below the chin, the following ointment, which should be well made and smooth, night and morning, until five rubbings have been done: Four drachms of washed sulphur, 4 drachms of balsam of peru, 2 ozs. of vaseline, made into a smooth ointment. (4) The night or morning following the fifth rubbing, take a hot soap and water bath, after which all clean clothing should be used. It should be borne in mind that the ointment may for a few days occasion an itching and time should be allowed for this to pass. If a cure has not been effected, the treatment should be repeated.

MRS. J. DAN MORRIS,
1628A Ohio av.

In sad and loving memory of our darling mother, Mrs. Theresia Hardt, who departed this life February 26, 1923, surrounded by friends. We are lonesome in the midst of pleasures, we're blue, a smile on our face, still a heart aches, aching and longing for you. There are griefs that cannot find comfort and the wound that cannot be healed; there are sorrows so deep in the human heart that cannot be half revealed. We tried so hard to keep her but our mother we could not save. To her grave we slowly wander until death calls us away. Where we hope to join her hand in hand at the throne on judgment day.

Sadly missed by her
BROTHER AND SON.

In sad but loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Emma Lambert, who departed this life six years ago, Feb. 26, 1918:
What is home without a mother?
All the things a world may send;
For when we lost our mother,
We lost our dearest friend.
She bore the crown of patience,
Through the years she struggled on,
And those hands at rest forever,
Were the hands that made our home.
Sadly missed by her daughter, Mrs. Pearl Thompson, and sons and all who loved her. (c)

In loving memory of my dear wife, Julia Maurer, and our dear mother and mother-in-law and grandmother, who departed this life on March 2, 1922.
Days of sadness oft come o'er us
Tears in silence often flow.
Love shall always keep you near us
Though you left two years ago.
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade.
Loving hearts shall always linger
'Round the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by husband, children, son-in-law and grandchildren and all who loved her.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Joseph Pietka, who departed this life just two years ago, March 4, 1922.
Days of sadness oft come o'er us.
Tears in silence often flow.
Love shall always keep you near us,
Though you left two years ago.
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade.
Loving hearts shall always linger,
'Round the grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by dear
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In loving remembrance of my dearly beloved wife, Catherine Roellner, who departed this life February 28, 1923:
It's hard to say, it's for the best,
When young life is called to rest.
We little thought that on that day,
Our dear Catherine would be called away.
Life was too short to say farewell,
To those she knew and loved so well,
For all of us she did her best,
Until angels took her home to rest.
In silence she suffered, with patience she bore,
Till God called her home, to suffer no more.
Sadly missed by HUSBAND.

In loving memory of our darling daughter, Dorothy Shaffer (nee Wagner), who departed this life one year ago, March 2, 1923:
Dear Dorothy, how we miss you,
Miss your sweet and loving face.
You have left us all in sorrow,
No one can ever take your place.
You are gone but not forgotten,
By the ones you loved so dear.
Though you left one year ago,
Never shall your memory fade.
Loving hearts shall always linger
Around the grave where you were laid.
Sadly missed by her mother, father, husband, baby, grandparents, uncle, MR. AND MRS. A. WAGNER, 1623A N. 16th.

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Anna Lümenstall, who departed this life a year ago, March 4th, 1923.
What is home without mother?
All things a world may send,
For when we lost our mother
We lost our dearest friend.
She wore the crown of patience
Throughout the years she struggled on.
And those hands at rest forever
Are the hands that made our home.
Sadly missed by her
DAUGHTERS AND GRANDCHILDREN.

Anniversary mass at St. Mary's Church Tuesday, March 4, at 8 o'clock a. m.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our darling daughter, Myrtle Grafeman, who departed this life Feb. 26, 1923:

What is home without our darling?
All the things a world may send.
For when we lost our darling Myrtle,
I lost my dearest friend.
She wore the crown of patience
Through the year she struggled on!
And that sweet voice at rest forever
Was all that made my home.
For there are griefs that cannot fine comfort.
And a wound that will never be healed,
And an aching so deep in the human heart
That cannot be half revealed.
So just watch and wait for me, my darling,
For I hope it won't be long
Till we are again united
In the land of love and song.
Sadly missed by
HER LONELY PARENTS AND THOSE WHO LOVED HER.

In loving memory of our dear daughter, Evelyn, who passed away five years ago today, March 4, 1919:

At the end of each year, oh, time, in thy flight,
Bring to us the sad memories of five years ago tonight.
As the angel of death had come that day,
And taken our darling Evelyn away.
So, God, in Thy mercy, help us we pray,
To mend our hearts that were broken that day.
Dear is the spot where dear Evelyn is laid;
Fond is the memory which never shall fade.
Sacred of thought that again we will meet,
Kneeling together at Jesus' feet.
Our loss was great, and we always complain,
But we trust in the Lord to meet again.
Sadly missed by mother, daddy, sister and grandparents. (c)

FAMOUS-BARR CO.

THE McCASKEY REGISTER COMPANY HAS SEVERAL OPENINGS FOR SPECIALTY SALESMEN.

Due to the natural growth and expansion of our business as a result of our new combination cash register and adding machine, which we placed on the market through our sales organization within the past two years, along with the increased demand for McCaskey credit registers and sales books, which have been on the market for over 20 years, we have 3 very desirable openings in our sales organization for men with the necessary energy, enthusiasm, ambition and native sales ability to sell our combination cash registers, credit registers, adding machines and sales books on a very satisfactory commission arrangement, wherein commission is advanced weekly. This is an unusual opportunity for large earnings and for you to become identified with one of the largest national sales organizations with its opportunities for broad sales experience and advancement. See Mr. W. E. Porter, division sales manager, or Mr. O. W. Albaugh, general sales manager, Monday and Tuesday at the Hotel Statler, or address the McCaskey Register Co., Suite 414 Ridge Arcade Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., in confidence with full particulars and postcard photo of yourself. A personal interview will be arranged for by appointment.

Only active, energetic men wanted, who can close business now waiting to be looked after. I need you at once. Box Y-169, Post-Dispatch.

PERMANENCY AND PROFIT

That's what every high-class, seasoned salesman is looking for. This company is just as anxious to secure that kind of man as he is to find our kind of a business proposition. Let's get together, and the facts will convince you that you can make some real money, if you possess the initiative and sales ability to manage a territory for Wayne Honest Measure Pumps, built by the leaders in the industry. New models—big national advertising support. Established trade and live leads ready for closing now. This Spring will be the biggest season on record in this line. A commission that will net you immediate handsome returns. No investment required. Bond at our expense. District sales managers will come to St. Louis to interview any substantial and worth-while salesman who will write full detailed application, with photo if possible, to H. A. Burge, Dist. Mgr., 1700 Old Colony Bldg., Chicago, Ill., or B. L. Prince, Dist. Mgr., 1828 Grand av. Kansas City, Mo.

SALESLADIES—Here are names of ladies who have earned $10 a day or better as beginners:

Blackshaw—Gram—Estill
Hildebrand—Young—Canfield.

Why are ladies in St. Louis, Illinois and Missouri cities seeking employment, with us? Because the "U. S." line is especially desirable for ladies, as it is composed of silk undergarments, slips, gowns, skirts, sweaters, blouses, hosiery, etc. Ladies who began with us in December express regret that they have spent 11 months of 1923 where they did not "fit in," where they were unable to make real money as they have with us. If you have a good personality, are ambitious to earn $50 to $90 weekly, see sales manager, U. S. Knitting Mills, Inc., 319 Tower Bldg., 604 Olive st., St. Louis, Mo.

REAL VALUE IN USED CARS

DEPENDS UPON THREE THINGS
THE CAR—THE PRICE—AND THE SELLER

You want a Used Car, but not a mis-used car. Not necessarily at a cheap price, but the right price.

THE SELLER'S WORD MUST BE YOUR GUARANTEE

And these three fundamentals are carefully recognized by the SOUTHWEST NASH COMPANY in all its business transactions.

We believe we exercise greater care in the selection of the Used Cars which we will accept, and that we are more thorough and painstaking in putting these Used Cars in the finest possible condition so that the purchaser can expect unremitting service over a long period of time.

You cannot afford to overlook the exceptional car bargains we are offering.

If you will come into our showrooms and examine any of the following Used Cars you will find evidence of all we say:

Studebaker Special Touring	$750
1923 Chevrolet	$410
1923 Nash Sport	$1050
1922 Westcott	$875
1922 Nash Touring	$925

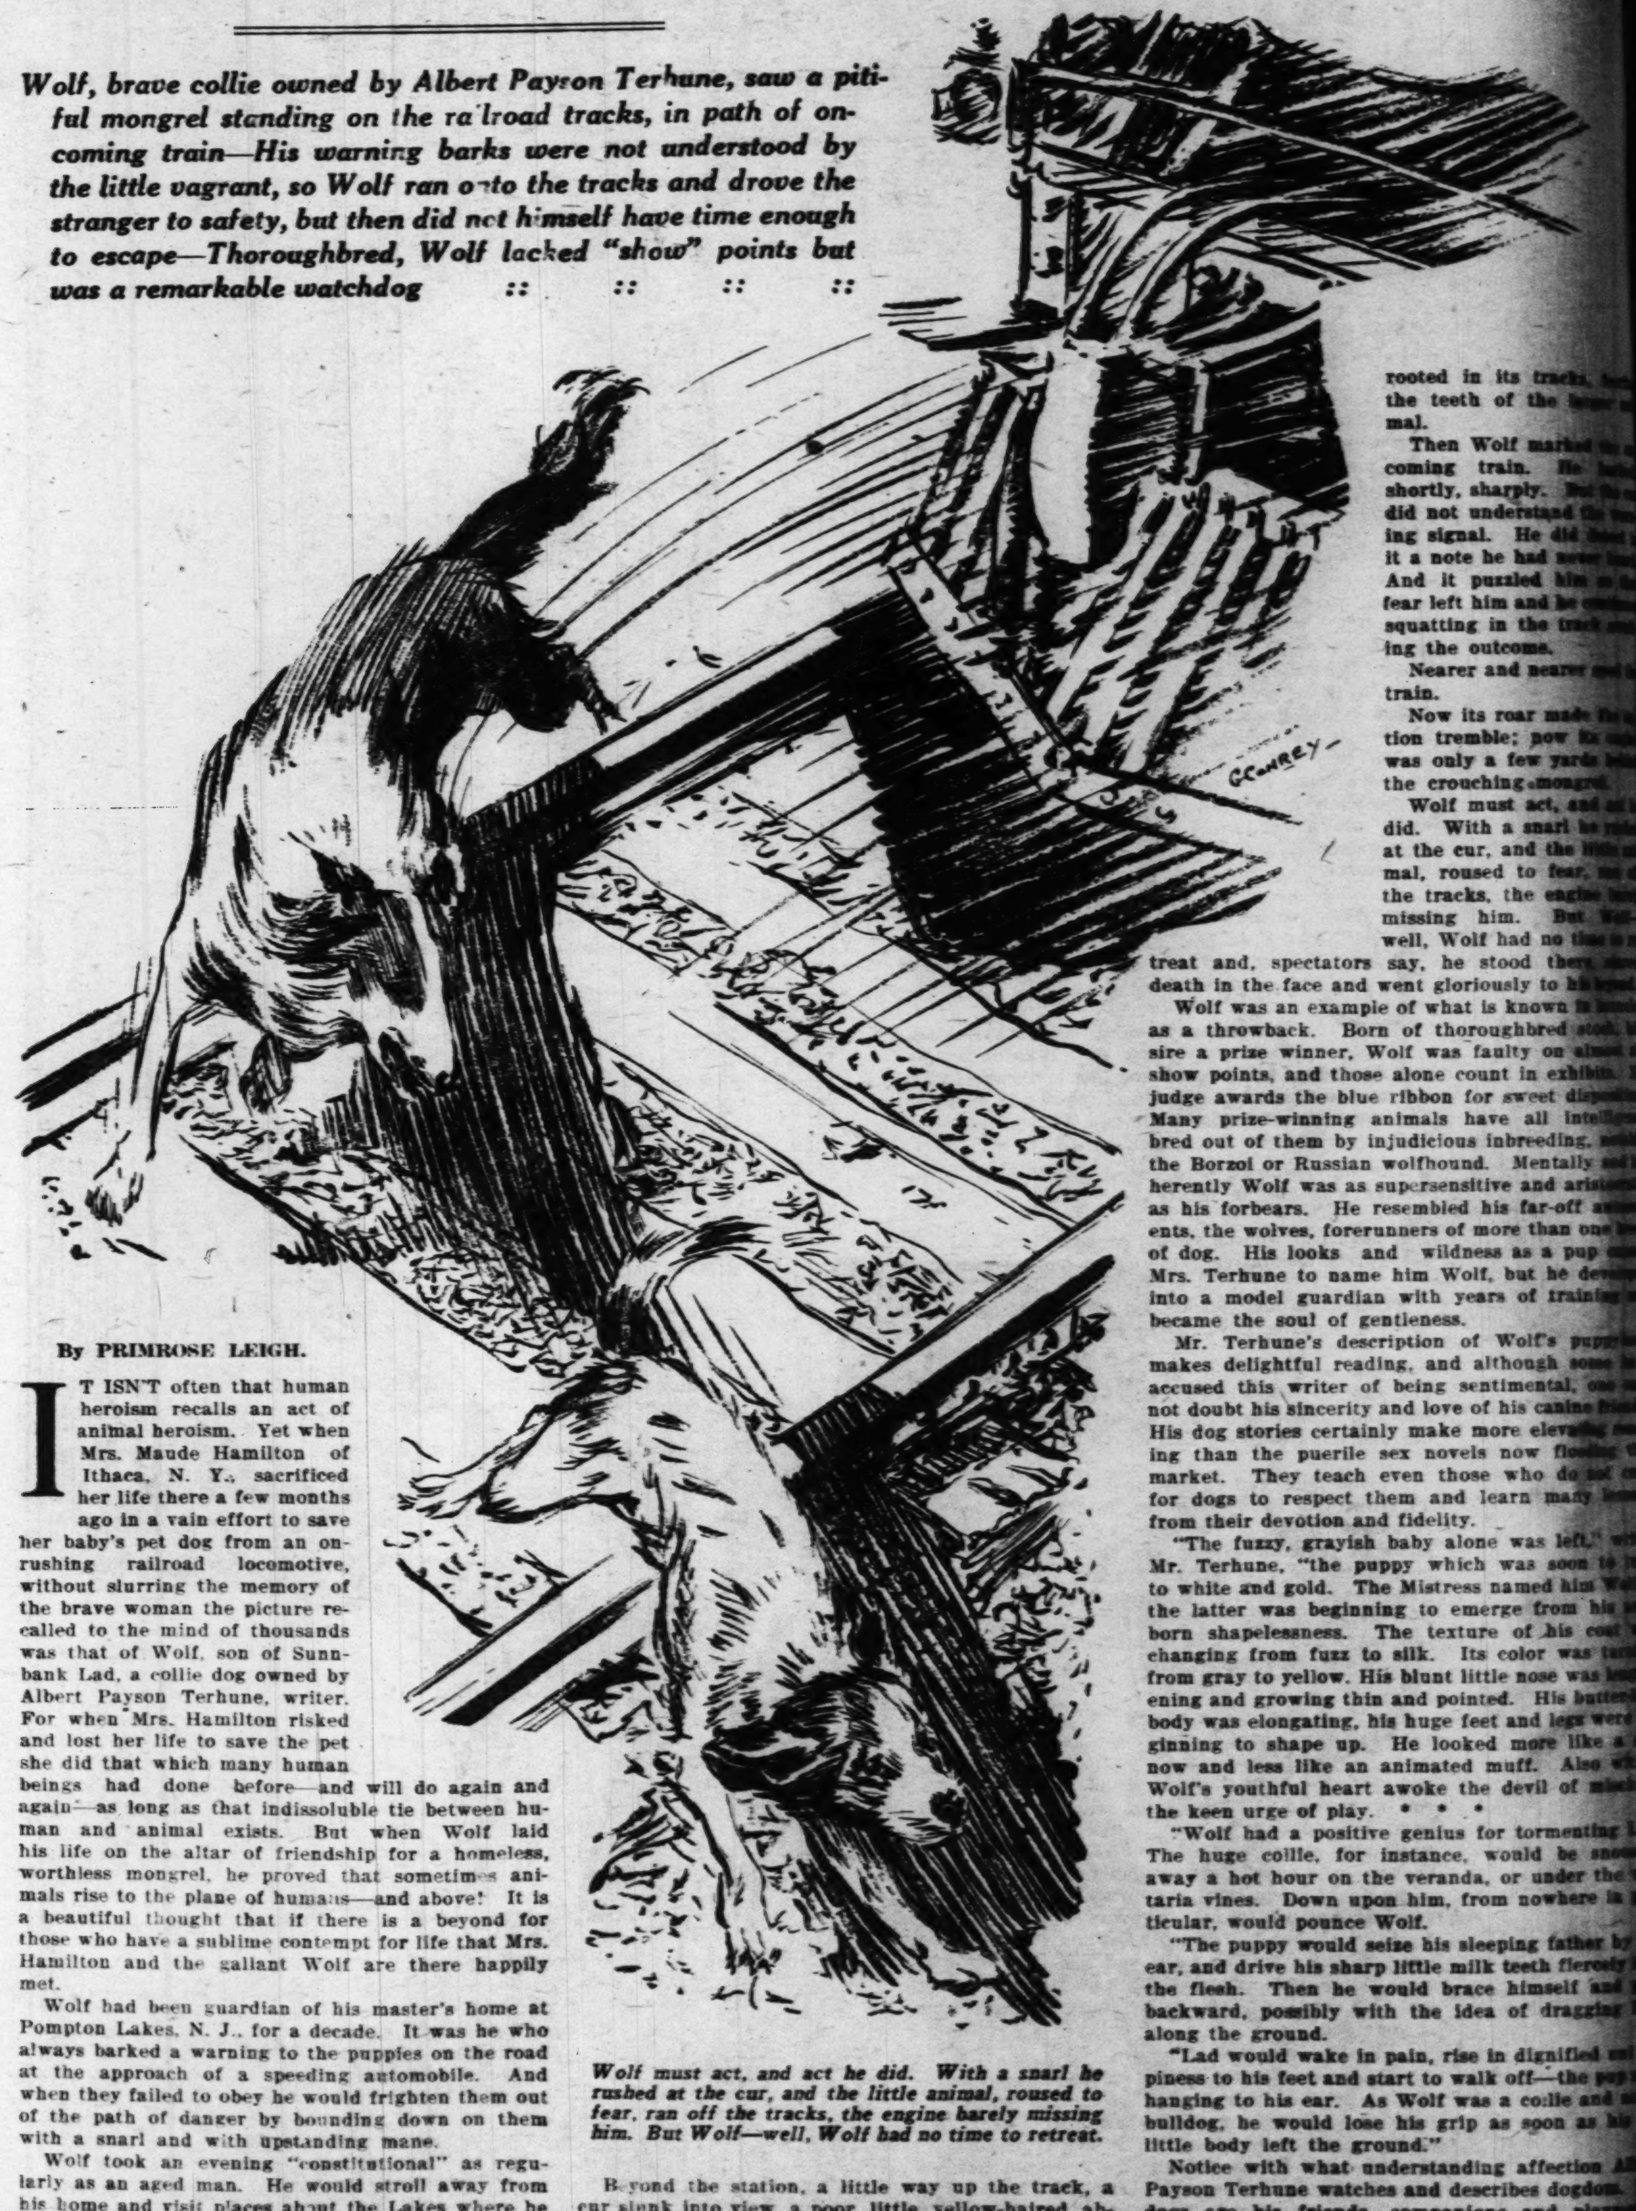
STRONG INTERFERENCE FROM STATION W-I-F-E

Drawn by John Jones.

A Dog That Died Saving Another Dog's Lif

Wolf, brave collie owned by Albert Payson Terhune, saw a pitiful mongrel standing on the railroad tracks, in path of oncoming train—His warning barks were not understood by the little vagrant, so Wolf ran onto the tracks and drove the stranger to safety, but then did not himself have time enough to escape—Thoroughbred, Wolf lacked "show" points but was a remarkable watchdog :: :: :: ::



Wolf must act, and act he did. With a snarl he rushed at the cur, and the little animal, roused to fear, ran off the tracks, the engine barely missing him. But Wolf—well, Wolf had no time to retreat.

By PRIMROSE LEIGH.

IT ISN'T often that human heroism recalls an act of animal heroism. Yet when Mrs. Maude Hamilton of Ithaca, N. Y., sacrificed her life there a few months ago in a vain effort to save her baby's pet dog from an onrushing railroad locomotive, without slurring the memory of the brave woman the picture recalled to the mind of thousands was that of Wolf, son of Sunnbank Lad, a collie dog owned by Albert Payson Terhune, writer. For when Mrs. Hamilton risked and lost her life to save the pet she did that which many human beings had done before—and will do again and again—as long as that indissoluble tie between human and animal exists. But when Wolf laid his life on the altar of friendship for a homeless, worthless mongrel, he proved that sometimes animals rise to the plane of humans—and above! It is a beautiful thought that if there is a beyond for those who have a sublime contempt for life that Mrs. Hamilton and the gallant Wolf are there happily met.

Wolf had been guardian of his master's home at Pompton Lakes, N. J., for a decade. It was he who always barked a warning to the puppies on the road at the approach of a speeding automobile. And when they failed to obey he would frighten them out of the path of danger by bounding down on them with a snarl and with upstanding mane.

Wolf took an evening "constitutional" as regularly as an aged man. He would stroll away from his home and visit places about the Lakes where he played as a pup and where he knew he would always receive the well-meaning pat of a friendly human hand.

One warm evening in June, as a few persons loitered about the railroad station awaiting a train, Wolf trotted up and proceeded to make friends with those who petted him. Presently, in the distance, a curl of smoke rose above the tracks and then the distant rumble of the approaching train smote on the ears of those who waited.

Beyond the station, a little way up the track, a cur slunk into view, a poor, little, yellow-haired, abject object of dogdom, friendless, homeless, almost fleshless. It had been observing the well-fed Wolf from a point of vantage in the bushes and, used only to blows and punishment from humans and dogs, it had decided to creep away to find a spot where no living creature might disturb it.

At that moment Wolf saw the cur.

Instantly Wolf was all alert. His ears cocked up. He trotted slowly toward the other dog to give him a canine "once over." And the pitiful mongrel stood rooted in its tracks, [illegible] the teeth of the larger animal.

Then Wolf marked the oncoming train. He barked shortly, sharply. But the cur did not understand the warning signal. He did [illegible] it a note he had never heard. And it puzzled him so that fear left him and he continued squatting in the track awaiting the outcome.

Nearer and nearer sped the train.

Now its roar made the station tremble; now its engine was only a few yards behind the crouching mongrel.

Wolf must act, and act he did. With a snarl he rushed at the cur, and the little animal, roused to fear, ran off the tracks, the engine barely missing him. But Wolf—well, Wolf had no time to retreat and, spectators say, he stood there, staring death in the face and went gloriously to his [illegible].

Wolf was an example of what is known in kennels as a throwback. Born of thoroughbred stock, his sire a prize winner, Wolf was faulty on almost all show points, and those alone count in exhibition. No judge awards the blue ribbon for sweet disposition. Many prize-winning animals have all intelligence bred out of them by injudicious inbreeding, notably the Borzoi or Russian wolfhound. Mentally and inherently Wolf was as supersensitive and aristocratic as his forbears. He resembled his far-off ancestors, the wolves, forerunners of more than one breed of dog. His looks and wildness as a pup caused Mrs. Terhune to name him Wolf, but he developed into a model guardian with years of training and became the soul of gentleness.

Mr. Terhune's description of Wolf's puppyhood makes delightful reading, and although some have accused this writer of being sentimental, one cannot doubt his sincerity and love of his canine friends. His dog stories certainly make more elevating reading than the puerile sex novels now flooding the market. They teach even those who do not care for dogs to respect them and learn many lessons from their devotion and fidelity.

"The fuzzy, grayish baby alone was left," writes Mr. Terhune, "the puppy which was soon to turn to white and gold. The Mistress named him Wolf—the latter was beginning to emerge from his newborn shapelessness. The texture of his coat was changing from fuzz to silk. Its color was turning from gray to yellow. His blunt little nose was lengthening and growing thin and pointed. His butterball body was elongating, his huge feet and legs were beginning to shape up. He looked more like a dog now and less like an animated muff. Also within Wolf's youthful heart awoke the devil of mischief, the keen urge of play. * * *

"Wolf had a positive genius for tormenting Lad. The huge collie, for instance, would be snoozing away a hot hour on the veranda, or under the wistaria vines. Down upon him, from nowhere in particular, would pounce Wolf.

"The puppy would seize his sleeping father by the ear, and drive his sharp little milk teeth fiercely into the flesh. Then he would brace himself and pull backward, possibly with the idea of dragging Lad along the ground.

"Lad would wake in pain, rise in dignified unhappiness to his feet and start to walk off—the pup still hanging to his ear. As Wolf was a collie and not a bulldog, he would lose his grip as soon as his fat little body left the ground."

Notice with what understanding affection Albert Payson Terhune watches and describes dogdom. His dogs are his friends, companions and playmates. Imagine his grief when one of them dies. It is not disrespectful to the human to say he feels their loss as much as if they were one of his family.

Lad assumed the training of his obstreperous small son, and for many months patiently taught him all the things a carefully reared pup should know. Wolf was hard to teach. He was boisterous, and at times almost unmanageable, but Lad managed him with infinite patience and almost uncanny wisdom.

LIFE AS SARAH BERNHARDT FOUND IT

EPIGRAMS ON LOVE, HATE, MEN AND WOMEN.

Next to her supremacy on the dramatic stage Sarah Bernhardt took keenest pride in her ability as a letter writer and conversationalist and her faculty for turning pat and epigrammatic sentences to express her bizarre and often cynical views on life in general and love in particular.

The appended extracts from her letters and conversations were gathered by M. Dorian of Toronto, Canada, who was a close friend of the great French actress in the later years of her life. They include passages from her unpublished novel, "Chamoisette," and from letters to Pierre Berton and Victorien Sardou.

LOVE united David and Jonathan. Love still unites men, I believe; but only scandals and panics can unite two women.

The big-loud-voiced love that books tell us about is not the best thing to have in a household at all. It is too like a volcano throwing up bad along with good, and forever in eruption. The most peaceful homes are run without it.

The only woman who has a past really is the woman who has no future.

A beautiful woman should be considered only for her purely decorative value. She has no other.

Friendships may be mended when they have been broken, perhaps; love, never.

When we are young we can be faithless and do not want to; when we are old we want to be faithless and cannot be. Such is the difference between old age and youth.

I loved once and it left me a ruin. I was years outgrowing it, and, even yet, it comes back in an occasional break of the voice, or in a limp, or in a lapse of memory. They say that the person who goes through life without loving is unfortunate. The person, generally speaking, who goes through life loving, is more unfortunate still. It blindfolds you, takes a mortgage on your liberty and your peace of mind and bids you walk in low places.

The ideal thing is to have a heart like a portable electric lamp. Attach it somewhere, anywhere you want light and there is a current. Then read, write, sew, play, or do the other things; in fine, do what you want, and as long as you want, but when you have had enough be free to declare yourself and walk and move with the world, and not rest at anchor, so to speak; and love anchors you; there can be no doubt about that, and puts all manner of little boats around you to see that you do not quit port. * * * When you finish what you have to do, detach the lamp and go until you feel like doing the same thing again; then attach it to the first current you find, and keep going on, doing the same thing at your will.

I once saw a Chinese giant who fascinated me tremendously. I often thought at night about how I would look walking beside him in the street, with people turning around to watch us out of sight. If he had proposed, I believe that I would have accepted him, providing, of course, that I would not have had to eat any of his native indigestible dishes, nor wear his native unpronounceable name, or touch, or ever be touched by him, or have to listen to any of the inarticulate noises he made. A wife in name only. He had the sort of name that does not inspire confidence, the sort of name that makes one bankrupt before one even opens an account. But as a protector, as a scarecrow, as a bouncer who would meet creditors at the door, as a sensation in the streets, as one of whom one would never have cause to be jealous, oh! he was a veritable tincture of perfection. I would love to have had him for a husband just to decorate my house with for a season. That rich Chinese art which, not being our natural heritage, is grotesquely out of its place anywhere in France except in the museums, would have been perfectly in its place for those months in my house. He would have justified jade, invited dragons and Buddhas, and encouraged license.

I can survive anything except cold soup and Debussy's music. (This sentence comes in a letter. Afterwards she adds in a postscript, the next.) There are two other things, too, which I do not believe that I could survive: kissing or being kissed by a man who had false teeth—and being too often mistaken for a lady.

Men hate scenes: that is why I always make them in public places.

Scenes are as essential to the progress of love as are wars to the progress of civilization.

Future is often but the name which men give to women's pasts.

The American continent has a thoroughly degrading effect upon the whole world.

Someone has said that Americans have too many commas in their letters. I do not know anything about that, but I have often remarked that they had far too few periods in their conversation.

The French are unquestionably the most courteous people in the world, and if anyone ever stated the contrary in my presence I would not hesitate to spit in their face.

Woman has the capacty to love but once, whereas man has not the capacity to love at all.

French women dress; American women upholster. That is the only difference between French and American women.

Woman's mission in life is simply to have children and to be as beautiful and charming as she can.

A woman who can talk well without opening her mouth too wide is really the ideal type

A woman's vocabulary, rather than her wardrobe, represents her fortune, and a man is the outcome of her income

Good women look forward to their pasts and bad women look back upon their futures. That is the chief difference between good and bad women.

In all the arts, in literature, perhaps, more than any other, great men suffer more from their little friends than from the great enemies.

Men never analyze women—they take them just as they find them. But they do not always leave them so.

THRILLERS IN REAL LIFE

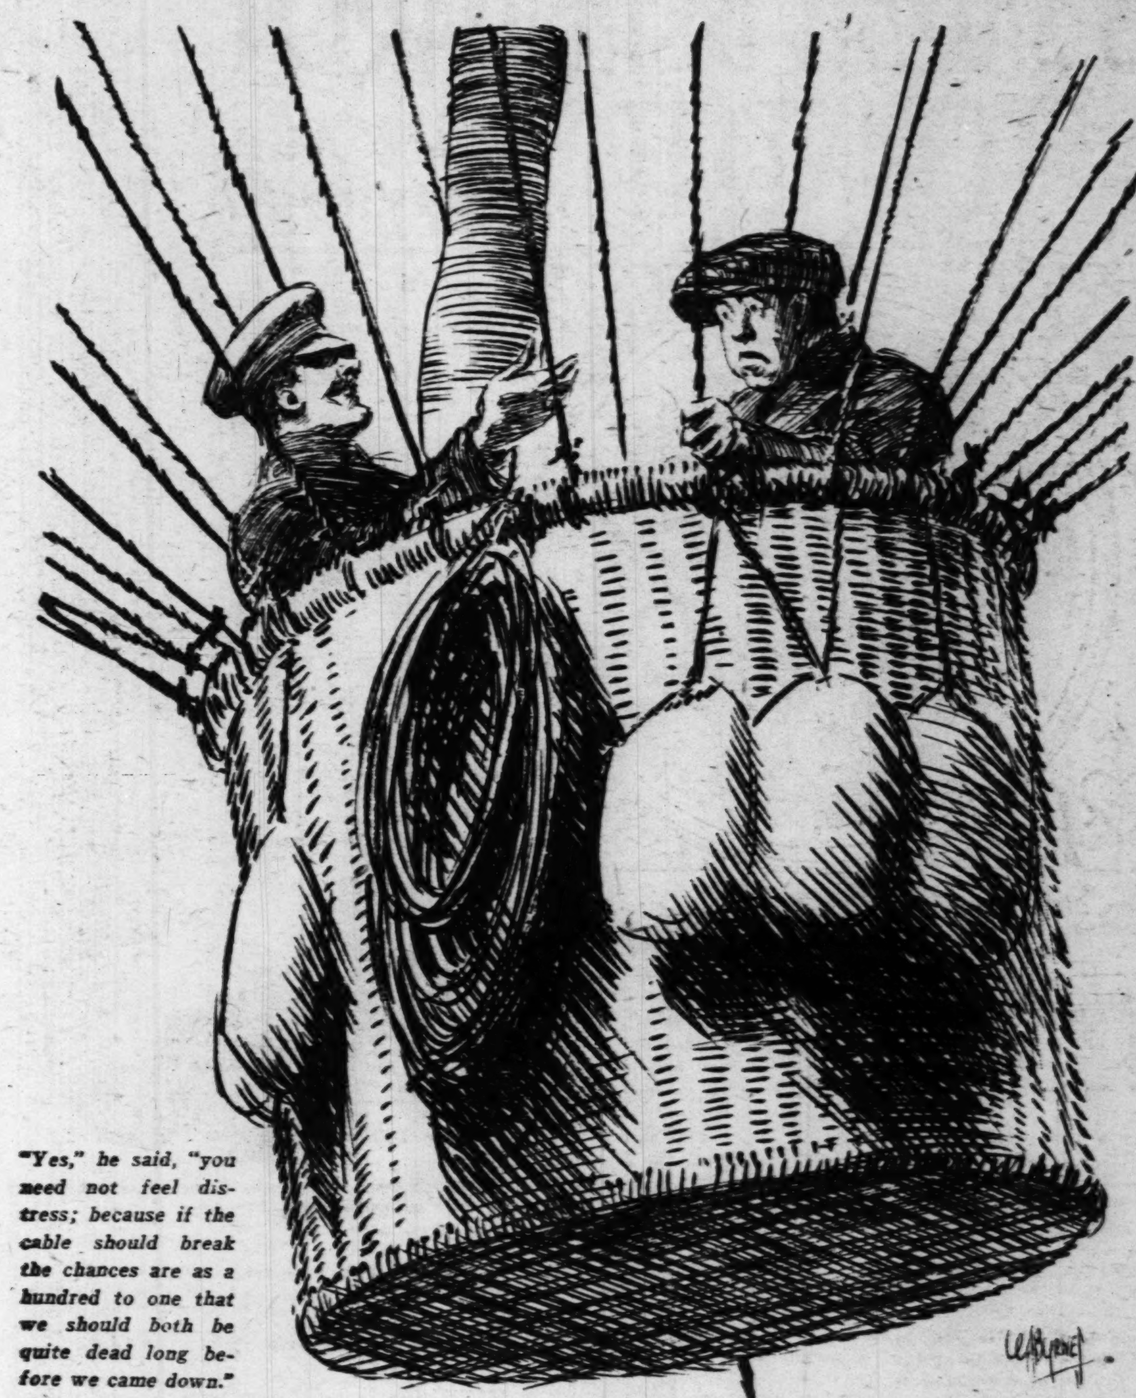
LOOKING DOWN FROM A BALLOON UPON A BATTLE—AND FEELING HOMESICK!

American journalist's comment astounds German captain who had taken him aloft—"And never before had I had such frosted feet," remarks writer frankly—The necessity of a uniform overcoat for balloonist is explained, also why the lack of one should cause little concern—The pair of British soldiers, survivors of regiment, who said about Germans, "The beggars can't fight, you know" :: :: ::



"Yes," he said, "you need not feel distress; because if the cable should break the chances are as a hundred to one that we should both be quite dead long before we came down."

INTO every working reporter's life come big thrills—outstanding moments which burn forever after, like red-hot asterisks, in his memory.

Once upon a time I went up in a German war balloon and from an altitude of 1200 feet looked down upon the first battle of the Aisne. I was told at the time that I was the only civilian who had been permitted to take a trip in one of the German war balloons.

My companion on the trip was a bearded young Captain who spoke fairly good English, but whose mental processes, as I shortly thereafter discovered, were fashioned strictly on Teutonic lines.

Now, going up in a balloon to spy on his enemy and to run a chance of being brought down in flames by hostile aircraft was all a part of the day's work to my basketmate. But to me the experience promised sensation and novelty. I had never before ridden in a balloon, captive or otherwise. I had never before seen such extensive military operations.

And, to the best of my knowledge and belief, I never before had had such frosted feet.

As the soldier crew paid out our tether and we climbed upward into the air, swinging gently under the great sausage-shaped bag of hot air above us, the Captain addressed me over his shoulder and in the tone of one striving to make conversation with a stranger, said:

"It is too bad that I did not lend you one of my uniform overcoats before we left the earth."

"Oh, that's all right, Captain," I answered, striving to appear cheery and comfortable. "This overcoat I have on is plenty warm, I imagine."

"Quite so," he said, "but it is not of a military cut and it has no shoulder straps."

"What d ference does that make?" I asked in my in nocence.

"Well, you see," he explained politely, "the situation is like this: If the wire rope which holds us should break and if we should descend in the enemy's lines, to me they would give the honors of war as a captured officer, but you, undoubtedly, they would shoot imme diately as a civilian spy."

I pondered this for a space. Then he spoke again, in reassur ing tones.

"But, my friend," he said, "I should give myself no concern on that account, if I were you."

"No?" I said. "That's nice."

"Yes," he said, "you need not feel distress; because if the cable should break the chances are as a hundred to one that we should both be quite dead long before we came down."

So, then, I saw ther was no occasion for worry on my part.

We continued to climb into the heavens. When we had reached an altitude of perhaps a thousand feet the cable checked us and our smooth upward course suddenly changed to a jumpy, jerky swaying motion very like that of a small boat tossed in rough waters. Again he spoke, comfortingly.

"I trust," he said, "you are not being discommoded. Very often when that happens which is now happening, even an experienced balloon observer b comes ill. You are not seasick, eh?"

"No," I said, truthfully, "but I don't mind telling you in confidence hat I'm just a trifle homesick!"

About that time a French airplane appeared in the heavens and circled toward us and the crew yanked us hurriedly to the earth.

That night at dinner I overheard the young Captain speaking to his commander, Gen. von [illegible] of my balloon trip with him.

"The Americans are a curious people," he said with all seriousness. "I had thought, inasmuch as Herr Cobb had never seen a battle before, that he would be deeply interested in the sight presented to him when we had reached our extreme elevation. But at the moment when the whole panorama of the action is spread out beneath him I ask him what his sensations are and, strangely enough, he tells me that he is experiencing a great longing to behold once more his native land!"

One glorious afternoon in the spring of 1918, near the old town of Noyon, which that day had fallen, after stubborn resistance, into the enemy's hands, I found a British Sergeant resting in a wrecked [illegible]

This was the fourth day of the final great German offensive. And this Sergeant and a private were all that remained of a British infantry regiment. So far as they knew every other member of their company, from the Captain down, had been killed, captured or wounded.

For four days and four nights they had been under fire almost constantly. The pair were gray with fatigue and staggering for lack of sleep and food.

"We've been a bit knocked abaht, sir," said the Sergeant to me, "but we shall 'ave the best of 'em yet. As a matter of fact, sir, the beggars can't fight, you know."

I said to myself that even though the Germans might be winning leagues of French soil each day they could never conquer the breed which produced a man of the type of this noncom.—a man who after what he had gone through yet could state, not in boastfulness but with the sincerity of a man expressing conviction, that the beggars couldn't fight.

This remark from him, though, was to follow after the incident I mean to narrate. As I have said, I asked him if he knew where the Germans were.

"Come with me, sir, if you please, sir," he said.

In my uniform overcoat undoubtedly he mistook me for an American officer, rather than a correspondent and escorted me past where French soldiers were crouched behind the shelters of broken walls until we came to a barricade.

It was no more than waist high, the barricade, so that the upper parts of our bodies made fair targets. With his left hand the Sergeant pointed toward the opposite bank of the Oise and in a low, matter-of-fact tone said:

"They're right there, sir, 'id in them 'azel bushes—abaht 80 yards away, sir, I should say. If you look close p'raps you can see them moving abaht."

"Well, if they're so close as all that, why don't they take a potshot at us?" I asked.

Even as I spoke, I thought I could see through the thickish screen of bare branches at least two gray-clad figures slowly wriggling down nearer the water's edge, and, incidentally, nearer us.

"Well, you see, sir," he replied, "the beggars probably think we cahn't see them from 'ere. There's only a few of them there yet and I tyke it they don't want to expose their position by shootin' this way until they're a bit stronger. Was there anything else, sir?"

I told him there wasn't anything else and signified that we might as well be getting back to our late refuge. The distance could not have been more than 50 yards, yet at the time I mentally recorded it as being one of the longest walks in the annals of pedestrian exercises. For me the whole thing was replete with thrills. Indeed, fully 48 hours elapsed before the thrilled feeling abated within me.

"M. Quad" Still Writing Humor at 82

Charles B. Lewis, dean of American humorists, celebrates his latest birthday by writing a new story about Mr. and Mrs. Bowser, a funny feature he has been doing every week for numerous newspapers for more than 50 years—First won fame 56 years ago by writing "How It Feels to Be Blown Up," an optimistic description of a tragedy on an Ohio River steamboat in which he had a delicate encounter with a redheaded woman from St. Louis — As the "Detroit Free Press Man" this former compositor created the Bowsers, the Arizona Kicker and the Lime-Kiln Club, features which were read by millions of people for almost two generations :: ::

—Copyright Pictorial Press

LIKE a voice calling from the past comes from Brooklyn the news that M. Quad has been celebrating, quite modestly, according to his way, his eighty-second birthday. He was born Feb. 15, 1842, at Liverpool, O.

"What? M. Quad still living! Why, you must be mistaken!" exclaimed, in substance, several mature St. Louisans to whom this writer applied for personal impressions of Brother Gardner of the Lime-Kiln Club, not to mention Giveadam Jones, Patent Office Smith, Judge Holdback Johnson, the Hon. Licurgus Standoff, Waydown Beebe and sundry other members of the club over which Brother Gardner presided for so many years.

"What? You mean to tell me that the man who created Mr. and Mrs. Bowser and kept them going for more than 50 years, and whose 'Arizona Kicker' was the most widely circulated newspaper that never was published—you mean to tell me that he, M. Quad, the old-time humorist who made us all split our sides with laughter at least once a week when we were growing up and for many years after we got our growth, is in the land of the living?"

Well, it is a fact, doubt it who will. The birthday picture of M. Quad, whose other name is Charles Bertrand Lewis, speaks for itself. The indubitable dean of American humorists, the man who has written more mere words of happy and hearty fun than any other man that ever lived on the face of the earth, is alive—and still writing funny stuff! And his method of celebrating his eighty-second birthday was to sit down and write a new story about the Bowser family.

Mr. Lewis is considerably more than a tradition. He is a living force, notwithstanding the fact that he has not been elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Being just a newspaper humorist of the old-fashioned kind, he has not found fame amongst the highbrows; but there is every probability that if all the living men and women who have "read after" M. Quad more or less during the 60 years that he has been writing funny pieces for the press could be interviewed, and their impressions collected and boiled down, the octogenarian whose pseudonym has silenced his own name would be elected by a big majority as being, in some respects, one of the most famous writing men America has produced.

Charles B. Lewis in early life was a printer. After being graduated from the State Agricultural College in Michigan he decided that picking up type suited him better than dropping corn. He began writing under the pen name of "M. Quad," which he borrowed from the printer's case. An em quad is the blank bit of type metal used to indent paragraphs marked "indent one em." Probably Mr. Lewis would have remained just "Charley" Lewis, and lived out his days as a compositor, but for a happy accident. It was not exactly a happy accident altogether; that is, "first dash out of the box," as the old-time printers used to say. To the contrary, it came quite near putting a full-stop punctuation mark to the career of the young compositor. Also, it caused him many weeks of severe suffering in a Cincinnati hospital. But young Lewis was a natural-born optimist, and he made capital out of calamity.

Charles B. Lewis probably is the only man in the world's history who has become a successful writer through being blown up along with a steamboat's boilers. When he was about 26 years old, back in 1868, he was aboard a steamboat on the Ohio River. The boilers blew up, and Lewis and the rest of the passengers went up with the general wreckage and came down again. Some months later, when he got out of hospital and felt reasonably sure of a normal expectancy of life, he sat down and wrote "How It Feels to Be Blown Up," sent the effort to the editor of the Detroit Free Press, the far-famed weekly funny paper of that period, and made such a hit that he got the offer of a regular job on the writing staff, where he remained for many years.

As "the Detroit Free Press Man" M. Quad created the Lime-Kiln Club and all the comic characters of that imaginary coterie of "cullud gen'men." He created, also, the fabulous Western weekly paper, The Arizona Kicker.

Last but not least, he invented Mr. and Mrs. Bowser, which for more than half a century he has written and supplied to the American press through a syndicate. Every week the Bowsers blossomed in hundreds of newspapers, and the readers called for more and more of the same. The American Press Association handled the Bowser stories for years, then the McClure Newspaper Syndicate did the marketing. This has been without question the most persistent humorous serial ever published. It has made a world's record for continuous publication, and the friends of Mr. Lewis have marveled that he could keep it going so long and so humorously. Every week the Bowsers appeared in some new role, to make the millions laugh. In point of years they grew old enough to have great-grandchildren, but still they had their weekly domestic spats and remained young enough to be interesting to a very wide public.

For many years Mr. Lewis has lived in Brooklyn, where he has a comfortable home. He is what is called "a great home body." He seldom goes away from his house. Week in and week out, through all the years, he has done a Bowser sketch, and for years and years he did also the Lime-Kiln stories and the Arizona Kicker "editorials" and "news items." He has survived all the old-timers—Mark Twain, Artemus Ward, Eli Perkins, Bill Nye and the rest. Mr. Lewis is one of the most modest of men. He has published several books containing selections from his prodigious output. The preface to his "Brother Gardner's Lime-Kiln Club" is copied here as a sample of the M. Quad humor:

"It is not in any ways probable that the production of this work will add anything to the general happiness of the world; and the purchaser must not hold me responsible if his crops fail or his lottery ticket hits a blank. It has become quite fashionable to write and publish books. They are handy to box children's ears with; are good property to lend to your neighbors; and when the baby has torn the covers off they can be worn as chest protectors and liver pads. The only thing I warrant about this book is that it contains no vegetable poisons, and will not explode when handled by innocent children. Affectionately, The Author."

This old book, profusely illustrated with comic wood cuts, is dedicated "To the Members of the Detroit Lime-Kiln Club, and to the Friends and Well-Wishers of the Colored Man in America."

A bigger book, also rich with illustrations in the old style suggestive of the Cruikshank drawings for Dickens, was published in 1875. This is called "Quad's Odds," and is "by M. Quad, the Detroit Free Press Man, Each Copy Guaranteed Full Weight." The dedication reads: "To the Pawnee Tribe of Indians, with earnest congratulations upon their success in escaping thus far the series of evils following in the shadow of the lightning-rod seller, the chromo peddler and the tax collector, and truly hoping for an immediate moral improvement, is this volume respectfully dedicated by the Author."

The opening article in "Quad's Odds" is entitled "Up Among the Splinters," and this is the piece that first made the author famous, being, in fact, "How It Feels to Be Blown Up," under another title. The article is copied here under its original title, which seems more striking:

HOW IT FEELS TO BE BLOWN UP.

By M. Quad.

I was going up to Maysville, Ky., to take a "sit" on the Bulletin, and, of course, I took the steamer Magnolia, after reaching Cincinnati, in preference to all others. She was a tidy-looking boat, and her head clerk wore a diamond pin. He was the first steamboat clerk I had ever seen fastened to a $600 diamond, and I was determined to go on that boat if it killed me.

A runner for a rival boat assured me that the Magnolia would blow up, while his boat would slide up the river like grease, but the diamond pin decided me.

"Good-by, my white-haired rural friend!" sorrowfully exclaimed the rival runner as he turned away, and I never saw him again. Our paths diverged right there. Mine went skyward, and he went off and fell down a hatchway and was killed.

After the steamer left the wharfboat I sat down

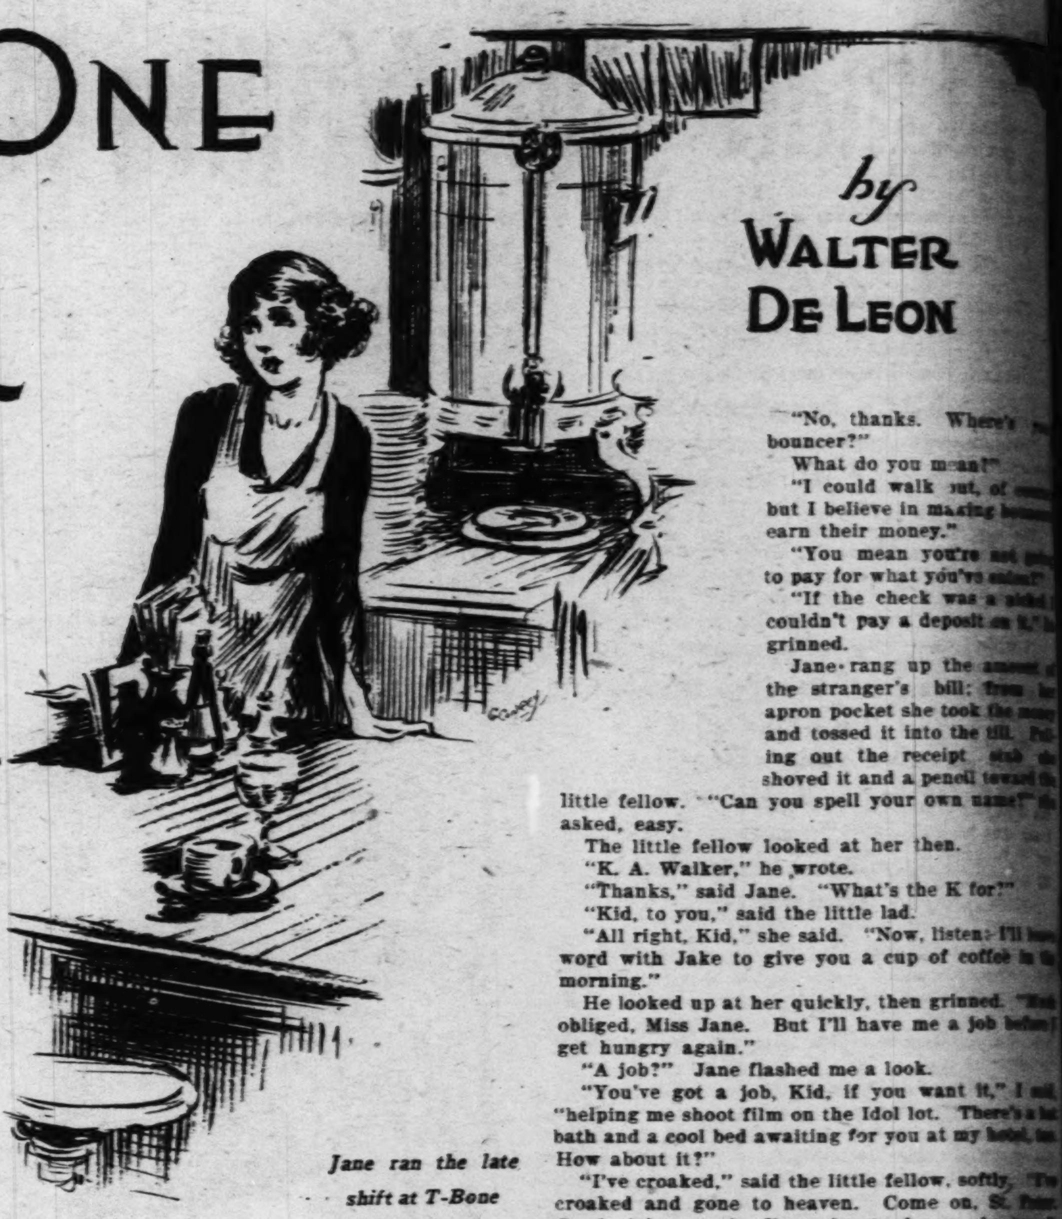
DRAW ONE in the DARK



by WALTER DE LEON

Jane ran the late shift at T-Bone Mahoney's.

JANE ran the late shift at T-Bone Mahoney's, down near the Plaza in Los Angeles, every night from 7:30 till 2. Which was why almost any night you'd see Flash Fanchon, the featherweight; Spider Welsh, the jockey, and Silent Sam Simmons, who ran the poolroom up the street, dropping in for a cup of Java and a kidding match with Jane. And always standing outside between trips was the taxi belonging to Louis Spinola, whose mother was still banking his savings only because Jane had had a pint of blood to spare the time the old lady was in the hospital.

Big Bill Wysell, the headquarters detective, who picked himself to marry Jane, looked at the cup of coffee she gave him one night and shook his head.

"Don't give me no cracked cup," he said, shoving it away. "It's bad luck. I ain't going to drink out of no cracked cup for a couple of weeks anyway. I got a hunch about 5000 berries is going to fall my way, and I don't want to discourage it none."

"Where's it going to fall from?" asked Jane, filling up another cup of coffee for him.

Big Bill lowered his voice. "The K guy. A yegg the Bankers' Association is offering 5000 to meet."

"Check passer?" I asked.

Big Bill nodded. "Cashed $4000 worth of checks on the First National Bank of Lullston, W. Va., before anybody thought to ask was there a First National Bank in Lullston. There wasn't. He was J. K. Kirkwood on them checks. That was in New York. Pittsburg donates about three thousand to M. M. Milliken. On his way to Chicago he stops off at Cincinnati and collects 10,000 on doctored certified checks payable to R. K. Keane. Always a K in the name somewhere; see?"

"What does he look like?" Jane asked.

"He don't look the same in any two towns," Bill grinned. "In New York he was a banker in town for the bankers' convention. In Pittsburg he was a salesman for a Connecticut hardware concern. In Cincy he showed pretty letters of credit and Spanish introductions from Buenos Aires. He spent two weeks in New Orleans waiting on table in the restaurant across from the jail, listening to the plans the Chief of Police and the dicks were making to capture him. He left a note thanking the boys for the information."

"What makes you think he's coming this way?" Jane asked.

"They almost got him in San Antone, Tex., a month ago, but he gayly jumps into the river and swims a getaway in the dark. A week later some K checks appear in El Paso, but when they go for him, he ain't there. New Orleans, San Antone, El Paso—the next step is Los Angeles, ain't it?"

Bill eased down off his stool. "Night, Pete. I'll drop you a postal card from San Diego, Jane. I'm going down there on a week's job," and he walked out.

"Talking about jobs," I said, "my helper quit me this afternoon. Find out if any of the boys needs a couple of weeks' work, Jane."

As Jane walked toward the other end of the counter I turned toward the door. Outside was a little chap, maybe 25 or so, his big brown eyes following Jane. As I watched him, he took off his cap, opened the door and dragged himself in. His eyes were sunk back into his head and his cheeks a little feverish. His face and hands were clean, but I saw the red and black rim under his collar that comes from the drive and sting of dirt and pebbles chucked at a bo riding the rods of a fast-moving Pullman. He sat down at the long counter.

"May I share your table, mister?" There was a squint in his eye and a comical break in his high-pitched voice that would make anyone grin. I offered him a cigarette. Refusing it, he waited for Jane to finish talking to Flash Fanchon. Then he spoke up in his funny way:

"Ah! 'Tis a good idea! They keep you waiting here till anything they serve you tastes good."

Jane turned around and gave the little chap a calm and cool look. He smiled.

"I beg your pardon, but is there a waitress around the place who could give me a little service?"

Jane's lips twitched.

"Where do you think you are—in a restaurant?" Jane inquired. "What would you like?"

"I'm not very thirsty; just give me a veal cutlet breaded, in a long glass."

Jane's eyes snapped. "How will you take it—with a straw or a spoon?"

"Neither," he answered. "Make it a hy"—— He suddenly swayed and lurched over against me. I straightened him up and flipped a little water in his face. He opened his eyes.

——'Make it a hypo so I can inject it," he finished.

But Jane had a bowl of soup in front of him and milk toast, a chop and tea ordered before the little bo had the water wiped off his face.

A crowd came in and Jane was kept hopping for awhile. Only one question did she get time to ask: "Sick, buddy?"

He shook his head. "Not any more. I caught the flu in Syracuse a month ago and the Doc advised the sun-kissed beauties of Southern California for six months. So I came straight to you."

"You could of done worse," Jane said, walking away. I knew she was thinking of the K guy.

"More tea?" Jane asked him when the crowd thinned out.

"No, thanks. Where's [illegible] bouncer?"

What do you mean?"

"I could walk out, of [illegible] but I believe in making [illegible] earn their money."

"You mean you're not [illegible] to pay for what you've eaten?"

"If the check was a nickel [illegible] couldn't pay a deposit on it," he grinned.

Jane rang up the amount of the stranger's bill; from her apron pocket she took the money and tossed it into the till. Pulling out the receipt stub she shoved it and a pencil toward the little fellow. "Can you spell your own name?" she asked, easy.

The little fellow looked at her then.

"K. A. Walker," he wrote.

"Thanks," said Jane. "What's the K for?"

"Kid, to you," said the little lad.

"All right, Kid," she said. "Now, listen: I'll [illegible] word with Jake to give you a cup of coffee in the morning."

He looked up at her quickly, then grinned. "[illegible] obliged, Miss Jane. But I'll have me a job before I get hungry again."

"A job?" Jane flashed me a look.

"You've got a job, Kid, if you want it," I said, "helping me shoot film on the Idol lot. There's a hot bath and a cool bed awaiting for you at my hotel, too. How about it?"

"I've croaked," said the little fellow, softly. "I've croaked and gone to heaven. Come on, St. Peter. Good night, angel. I'm going to dream about you."

Out he went, shaking his head, puzzled-like.

"Will I locate Big Bill or one of the boys from headquarters?" I whispered to Jane. Her gray eyes turned dark and hard as slate. "If I hear of you tipping off anybody that the Kid is the K guy, you're going to change eating places or suffer an autopsy." Her voice softened. "I'll take care of the Kid, Pete. Leave him to me."

• • • • • • •

"How's the Kid making out with the company?" Jane asked me after the Kid's first week.

"Aces. Tom Kash says he's going to make a director out of him and the boss threatens to put him in the office."

Jane's eyes glanced at the Kid chinning with Louis Spinola.

"He's getting real plump, don't you think?"

I grinned. "He's fatter than this here old Egyptian mummy the papers have been printing so much about."

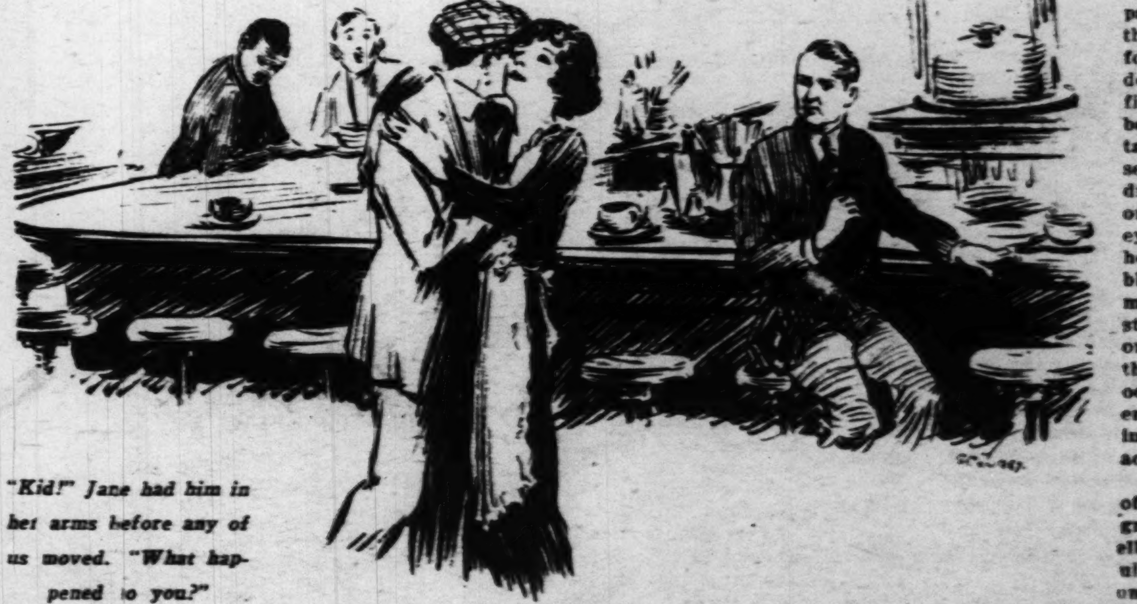
Billy Murray, the demon reporter, coming in for his usual cup of coffee, told us: "I interviewed a decadent of his this afternoon."

"He pointed to an article on the second page which announced the fact that Prince Ptolemy Ptarmigan, etc., etc., who traced his ancestry back to the mummy, had stopped off for a few days in our beautiful city on the tour of the world he was making, following his graduation from an English university.

• • • • • •

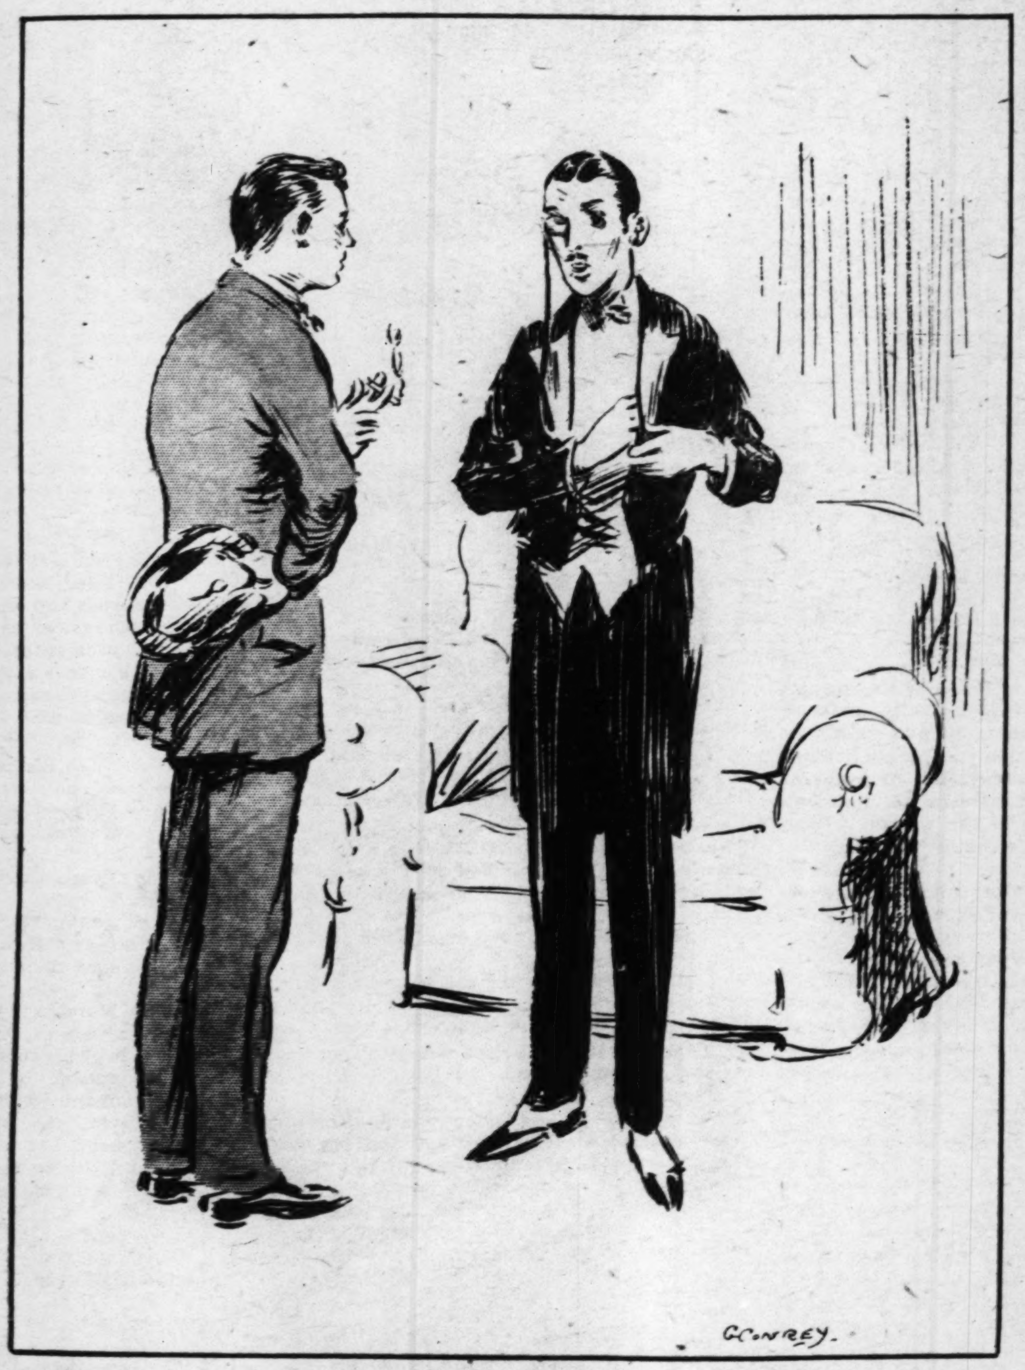
Well, naturally, Monday morning there were [illegible] autos drawn up in front of the Prince's hotel, [illegible] men inside inviting the Prince to visit their own particular studio and, on the sidewalk, 19 cameras focused on the front doors. When the Prince finally emerged with my boss, 19 shutters started taking 16 exposures per second of a dapper-dressed young putty-colored gent with a vacant eye. Taking off his hat, he uncovered long, sleek black hair, parted in the middle and oiled down straight toward large, ornamental ears. And then he screwed a monocle into his off eye and emitted "Extraordinary" in handsome Piccadilly accents.

"So that's all that's left of a long line of Kings," grinned the Kid at my elbow." Looking at a genuine Egyptian, I begin to understand why Cleopatra fell for a foreigner. [illegible]



"Kid!" Jane had him in her arms before any of us moved. "What happened to you?"

Romance and Mystery Combined in an Unusual Tale



"I couldn't help hearing the message that came for you. Rotten luck; what?"

do you suppose he has picked on our outfit?"

In the car on the way back to the studio I explained to the Kid that the Idol company would soon be pulling an Egyptian film, inspired by the publicity given Tutankhamen.

"We'll take the action scenes and close-ups here in California," I told him, "and fill out the rest of the picture with long shots of the pyramids, the Sphinx, the muddy banks of the sacred Nile and any other suitable scenes we can buy from the news weekly companies' libraries. I suppose the boss beat the bunch by asking the Prince for his personal advice and suggestions."

"Kidding himself or the Prince?"

"Kidding nobody. The film we'll shoot today, following the Prince all over our lot, will bring heavy money from aforementioned news weekly companies."

The next afternoon we escorted our distinguished visitor into the projection room to show him how he looked to others. I was surprised to hear behind me in the dark room the boss' voice while the film was being run off.

"I wish I knew some way to persuade your highness to play the leading part in my new picture. I realize that money is no object"——

"My dear sir, the amount of money you offer would always be an object. But it is the time, as I have explained. I am due to sail upon the—er I forget the exact date. My secretary would know."

"Couldn't you postpone sailing?" the boss urged. "It will take our Mr. Kush not more than three weeks to complete the scenes you would appear in. Three weeks; two here and another in Mexico."

"Mexico?"

"There is a location a few miles from Tia Juana which is ideal for our purpose. It has the heat haze noticeable in all genuine Egyptian desert film."

"Fascinatingly interesting, of course. But Mexico—it's dirty, I've heard."

"I assure you your highness would not be uncomfortable. It would require no more than five days—and, of course, all expenses, including a special Pullman or two for the cast, will be borne by the company."

"By Jove, it would be rather a lark. I think—yes, I'll do it. I'll get a telegram off to Lord Moncton immediately."

"Lord Moncton?"

"Of the British legation at Washington. He's by way of being my sponsor here in this country, do you see?—furnishes the wherewithal and that sort of thing. By Jove, I mustn't neglect to inform my secretary to change sailing arrangements. Oh, I say, you mustn't expect histrionic ability of me. I utterly haven't any."

Four or five days later he showed he utterly hadn't something else. But in the meantime Big Bill had returned to Los Angeles and found how thick the Kid and Jane had become.

"Last night there's some trouble in the kitchen and Jane goes out to fix it," according to Flash Fanchon. "The Kid hops back of the counter, takes off his coat, ties an apron around him and tosses a napkin under his arm, when in blows Big Bill.

" 'Where's Jane?' he asks.

" 'Behind the clock in Minnie's room,' cracks the Kid.

" 'That'll be about all of that,' Big Bill growls. 'Tell her Detective Wysell would like to see her.'

" 'Oh, Detective Wysell. Yes, sir. Can I give you a cup of coffee, Detective, while you're waiting?'

"Bill grunts. The Kid rattles around in the crockery and comes up with a prize. The cup has a gouge in the rim like somebody has taken a bite out of it. And the saucer—you can hear the loose pieces grate. The Kid fills the cup and shoves it all toward Bill.

"Bill looks at it—once. 'Hey!' he yells. 'Do you think I'm going to drink out of this cup?'

" 'Drink out of the saucer if you want,' the Kid fires back. 'We ain't particular here.'

"Jane comes out in time to hear the first choice thing Bill calls the Kid.

" 'Oh,' says Wysell, when Jane explains it's a joke. 'Pete Steven's new helper, is he?'

" 'Yes,' says Jane, 'and, believe me, one grand little kidder.'

" 'Grand little kidder,' repeats Big Bill, slow. Then, for no reason at all, he smiles and holds out his hand. 'All right. No hard feelings. But you ought to be careful about fooling with cracked cups, Kid. It's bad luck.'

"A minute later Jane chases the Kid out with a bunch that's going down to the beach, which gives her the chance to tell Big Bill, quiet, that she's thought over his marrying idea and it leaves her cold. Listen, Pete; tip off the Kid not to be pulling any funny stunts for Big Bill until he gets over his peeve."

I didn't get a chance to warn the Kid that he'd acquired an enemy until it was too late.

The day's work called for some tense melodrama on and around an Egyptianed scow anchored near Santa Monica. Tom Kush had run things right up to the last scenes, an exciting rescue stunt, and decided he had time to finish up with the ship stuff that day. That would let us leave for Tia Juana early Tuesday morning.

"Now, Prince," Tom explained to Ptolemy Ptarmigan, "your sweetheart, Miss Morris here, jumps overboard to escape the villain. You break away from the slaves holding you, rush over to the rail here, jump up on it and dive in after her."

The Prince looked down at the heaving ocean 12 or 14 feet below him.

"My dear chap, I can't dive."

"Well, then, jump in," said Kush. "It doesn't make much difference."

"But I—I can't swim, you see," announced his royal joblots, feeling for his monocle and not finding it.

"That's all right," Tom insisted. "I've got a couple of men down there in a rowboat—for safety's sake. As soon as you hit the water, I'll cut off my cameras, throw you a flock of life preservers and you can hang on till the boat picks you up."

"Is—really, you know—is the scene absolutely necessary?" He coughed. "I've a touch of cold"——

"Very well, your highness," said Tom. "I'll get someone to double for you. All you'll have to do is to run across the deck and jump on the rail."

His eye fell on the Kid. "Can you swim?"

"Sure."

"Want to double for the Prince?"

"Sure," the Kid grinned.

Later he appeared on deck in the Prince's costume, a little black false mustache on his lip, contrasting comically with his light hair.

"Oil your hair and part it in the middle," Tom told him. "When it's oiled and wet it will photograph as dark as the Prince's."

"Take your places," Tom called. "Ready, everybody? Camera!"

Up and over went Morris. The Kid didn't jump—he just lifted himself off the rail and floated far out in a swan dive. The little side roll he gave himself took him under without a splash.

Up bobbed the Kid's head. In long, strong strokes he cut through the swells toward Morris. They splashed around terrifically for a minute before starting toward shore.

But when the rowboat pulled out, the Kid helped Morris in and then started swimming alongside it. Only it wasn't swimming. It was all the water stunts and clowning I'd ever seen and a lot more.

I was telling some of the boys about it early that night at T-Bone's—the Kid volunteering to take my camera out and turn in my film for me, when Big Bill Wysell dropped in.

"A water-dog, eh?" Bill quietly left the place. Then I remembered about the K guy jumping into the river in San Antone.

"Where's the Kid?" Jane asked when she came on duty.

"He should have been here 20 minutes ago," I said. Something in my expression made her ask, sharp: "Is the Kid in trouble?"

"He wasn't the last time I saw him. He"——It was no use. I told her about Big Bill and everything as soothingly as I could.

Eight o'clock — 8:30 — 9 o'clock. Still no sign of the Kid. I rang up the studio. The Kid had come in about 6 and left 15 or 20 minutes later. By 11 there wasn't any color in Jane's face.

"Don't be silly, Jane," I told her. "Everything's all right."

"Is it?" she asked. "You know my little sister—worked at the switchboard at the C—— Hotel?" I nodded. "They let her out this afternoon, without giving her any reason at all."

"Well?"

"Big Bill's cousin is the house detective there."

A few minutes before 12, Jane whispered: "Listen, Pete, will you ring up headquarters and"——

She stopped dead, her eyes glued on the door. Lurching through it, stumbling and feeling around like a blind man, came the Kid.

"Kid!" Jane had him in her arms before any of us moved. "What happened to you?"

"They gave me the works—at headquarters," mumbled the Kid. "Janie, dear, would you get me a cold towel for my eyes? I've been looking into a hundred watt lamp for three hours."

"For what?" Jane asked, as a couple of the boys leaped for the towel pile.

"They said the writing on the check I signed looks like the K guy's writing."

"Who said so?"

"Big Bill."

"Sadie," she called to the other waitress. "You take my place behind the counter. Louis"—to Spinola—"get your taxi. Pete, you'll stay here with Sadie till closing time, won't you? I'm going to take the Kid home with me to my mother."

* * * * * * *

The next morning I was thinking about Jane and the Kid when I entered the studio. The girl at the switchboard stopped me.

"Some woman phoned a few minutes ago for you. She left word that the Kid wouldn't be out to the studio today," she said.

In the office with the boss was the Prince.

"Good morning, Pete," the boss nodded. "The Prince wants to ask a favor of you."

"It's this way, old chap," the Prince stammered, embarrassed. "I couldn't help hearing the message that came for you. Rotten luck; what? Extremely

ST. LOUIS is reaping what it sowed.

From the wind of crooked politics it has harvested the whirlwind of crime—defiant, ruthless, relentless, murderous crime as typified in the short, but awesome and fear-instilling word "GANG."

In publications designed to exploit St. Louis the most careful reader will find no listing of the gang as one of the city's leading products. Yet full candor would call for its inclusion, along with shoes, millinery, lumber, cooperage and other things in which "St. Louis leads the world."

St. Louis gangsters do not depend on printer's ink for advertising.

They say it with guns.

Their ballyhoo is the bark of an automatic pistol, sometimes in the dead of night and now and again in broad daylight in a busy, traffic-crowded street. More than once the pistol has barked at the very portals of the courts of justice.

The sound of those shots has carried far on the ether of public opinion. To many thousands in other parts of the country it has broadcast St. Louis as "The city that has the gangs."

There may be, and probably are, gangs in other cities. The news carries occasional references to New York's gunmen and there are sporadic flares of the gang spirit in Chicago, but it is doubtful if anywhere else in the so-called civilized world the gang has reached the perfection of organization and has been so long-lived and tenacious as in St. Louis.

Here the gang has developed into something closely resembling a dynasty. Gangdom, like the system at the other end of the social scale, has its "first families." There are gangsters in St. Louis whose fathers and grandfathers were gangsters before them. It's in the blood, but how did it get there?

The smug citizen whose contacts with life are limited to his home and his office, with an occasional visit to the polls—when it isn't raining—might well roll up his eyes when he reads that there are gangsters of the third generation in some St. Louis families. He may well say this is a horrible thought to disturb the mind of the upright citizen.

But if he would think more deeply this self-satisfied citizen might excavate the more disturbing thought that possibly he and his father and his grandfather had a part in building up this frightful fabric of gangdom.

Many sins have been laid at the door of civic apathy. And one of the most heinous of these sins has been the surrender of ballot box control to professional politicians and their crooked followers.

Forty years ago in St. Louis there were, as there are today, easy-going citizens who held their privilege of the ballot lightly and were content to permit professional politicians to run the elections. That was when the wind was sown. The groundwork for the gang system was laid in the early '80's, when bossism in St. Louis politics began to assert its strength. The repeaters of yesterday were the forerunners of the gangsters of today.

In the growth of the gang system there have been, of course, many ramifications, expansions and variations, but the fact remains that the first gangs were organized for the commission of crimes against the ballot box and that this was the spore from which was developed the ugliest and most malodorous fungus that saps the vitality of the tree of civic righteousness.

When the political boss was putting his strength to the first test in St. Louis he was willing and eager to trade his "influence" for illegal votes. In many neighborhoods there were then, as now, groups of young men, easily led and with an aversion to work—street corner loafers ready for a fight or a frolic. These were as clay in the hands of the political potter.

When there was repeating to be done at election "the boys" were called upon by the political boss and his lieutenants. In the early days the boss paid for these services by furnishing bond for the boys when they were arrested for fighting, vagrancy and petty thefts.

That was good service as far as it went, but after all, it only took the accused youth to the courtroom door and there left him at the mercy of the law. There were complaints that the mere furnishing of bond was inadequate pay for election day repeating. The boss must go further and "fix" the court so as to prevent the conviction of any of his "boys" who might stand accused of crime.

Thus came into being the practice of court fixing. It demanded a great share of the political boss' time and energy. He must have help. And so the saloon keeper was brought into the game—a step of the greatest significance in the development of the gang.

The boss, dividing the work, devoted himself to "fixing" and named chosen henchmen among the saloon keepers to look after the signing of bonds. All of this was for the sole purpose of providing adequate protection for the "boys" who could be relied upon to cast illegal votes on election day. The rape of the ballot box was the basic motive, and even today it plays no small part in the gang system. More than any one factor it accounts for the "pull" which enables gangs and gang practices to persist despite the gdom. Just as an election day homicide shown to be unpunishable, it was now

d that a man could kill a "snitch" and escape the law. This sort of murder was, and is, the most difficult to ferret out. Naturally, no one wants to "snitch" on a man who has killed another for "snitching." Dread of the consequences if they tell the truth silences the eyewitnesses.

In many instances men with no gang affiliations who have chanced to witness a gang murder have been so harried by fear or so intimidated by "fixers", that they have fled from the city and remained in hiding for long periods to avoid giving their testimony at a gangster's trial.

It probably was the effect of a few "horrible examples," rather than any promptings of altruism that caused an unwritten law against "snitching" to be put into the gang code. In promulgating a rule of action of this kind the gun speaks louder than words.

The other fertile source of gang killings was the division of the spoils after a "haul" had been made. There was another unwritten law that all who took equal risks in a crime should have equal shares in the proceeds. That smug old saw, "there is honor among thieves," has been shown in many instances of St. Louis gang history to be without basis in fact. After many robberies there has been one greedy conspirator who tried to "hold out" on his companions. Usually, a very short time after making this attempt, he was a bullet-riddled corpse. "Snitching" and "holding out" put most of the notches in the gangsters' guns.

It is easy to see how the "gang spirit" grew. In time it carried the political boss and the saloon keeper into complications of which they did not dream when they first enlisted complacent young corner loafers to do their political dirty work. From protectors of illegal voters they became protectors of thieves and murderers and they could not back out for fear of gang vengeance.

Occasionally all possible influence could not prevent the conviction and imprisonment of a gangster. When he came out of prison he must be taken care of.

Right here was inaugurated one of those vicious practices which brought the gang to its present state as a menace to society. Certain saloon keepers, of their own volition or at the command of bosses, made it a practice to meet gangster convicts as they emerged from prison and give them jobs as bartenders.

The ex-convict bartender, aside from his bad personal influence around the saloon, was an object lesson to aspiring young gangsters—a living illustration that a man could commit crime and still "succeed in life."

In most cases, before the saloon keeper did his bit by furnishing a job, there had been exercise of political influence to free the gangster from prison after he had served only a short portion of his sentence. It has been often asserted by the police authorities that the free use of the parole and pardoning powers has hampered efforts to put dangerous gangsters into prison and keep them there.

Much could be written on those phases of gang life which turn about quarrels over the division of spoils and about rivalries which started in the early days of saloon gangs a generation or two ago and which have resulted in many murders.

Crimes like payroll and bank robberies require efficient organization and there can be no doubt that such organization exists in St. Louis. In the early days crimes of this kind were not on the gang calendar. That was before gangsters who had "done their bit," or part of it, returned to their old haunts as exchange professors in the school of crime and brought with them the technique of more daring and bolder exploits.

The saloon in its earlier form does not exist today, but there are still in St. Louis several hundred "soft drink parlors" and some of these are still the haunts of gangsters. The passing of the saloon opened up a new and venturesome business for many gangsters and for their politician and saloon keeper protectors. They are bootleggers now, many of them hardened and desperate criminals, in a dangerous calling where the gun still barks when anybody "snitches" or tries to "hold out."

Those Little High Explosive Bombs in Your Pod

The common name for them is matches, of which the world uses about 7,500,000,000 daily—Each has its "detonator" and its "time-fuse," which are chemical compounds applied during the process of manufacture—Advances in convenience and safety since 1800, when flint, steel and tinder were necessary to light a brimstone match, or the later type which required a bottle of sulphuric acid :: :: ::

All these logs, containing enough lumber to build a village of frame dwellings, will be made into match sticks.

IF ALL the matches used in the world in a single day—about seven and a half billions—were laid out end to end, they would reach from the earth to the moon and some 10,000 miles beyond. This means, of course, that matches are made by the billion every day.

So far as numbers are concerned, they probably exceed any other manufactured article. In the United States the largest match factories are located in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and Barberton, Ohio. The daily output of the factories in these two districts alone is about a billion matches a day.

One of the first forms of matches was the brimstone match, early in 1800, made by cutting very thin strips of highly resinous or very dry pine-wood, about six inches long, with pointed ends dipped in melted sulphur; thus prepared, the sulphur points instantly ignited when applied to a spark obtained by striking fire into tinder from a flint and steel.

This was in almost universal use up to the end of the first quarter of the nineteenth century, when several ingenious inventions followed each other in rapid succession, and displaced it so completely that it would now be very difficult to purchase a bunch of brimstone matches.

The first of these inventions was the "Instantaneous Light Box," which consisted of a small tin box containing a bottle, in which was placed some sulphuric acid with sufficient fibrous asbestos to soak it up and prevent its spilling out of the bottle, and a supply of properly prepared matches. These consisted of small splints of wood about two inches long, one end of which was coated with a chemical mixture. They were readily inflamed by dipping the ends into the sulphuric acid.

The lucifer match succeeded the above, and differed materially; the bottle of sulphuric acid and all its inconveniences were dispensed with; the match was either of small strips of pasteboard or wood, and the inflammable mixture was a compound of chlorate of potash and sulphuret of antimony, with enough of powdered gum to render it adhesive when mixed with water, and applied over the end of the match, dipped as before in melted brimstone.

These matches were ignited by the friction caused by drawing them through a piece of bent sandpaper. So very popular did these become that, though they have since passed away like their predecessors, they have left their name behind, which is popularly applied to other kinds since invented.

Next to the lucifer in importance was the Congreve, a modification of which is still commonly used. The body of this match is usually of wood, but some called "vestas," are of very thin wax-taper. The composition consists of phosphorus and nitre, mixed with melted gum or glue, and colored with vermillion, red lead, umber, soot, or other coloring material. The Congreve match requires only a slight friction to ignite it, for which purpose the bottom or some other part of the box is made rough by attaching a piece of sandpaper, or covering it, after wetting it with glue, with sand.

One of the match-dipping machines, each of which turns out about 500 finished matches a second, or at the rate of nearly 2,000,000 matches an hour.
—Copyright Keystone View Co. of N. Y.

The so-called "Swedish Safety" match was invented by a Swede named Lundstrom, a manufacturer of matches at Jonkoping, in 1855. There is no phosphorus in the safety match itself; instead the other elements in the match are brought into contact with the phosphorus (red phosphorus) only on the friction surface, which contains also sulphide of antimony.

In spite of this precaution safety matches will, with sharp friction, light on smooth paper, wood, dry glass, and other substances; but they light readily "only on their own box."

As simple and commonplace as the ordinary parlor match today appears, it is really quite a complicated affair. To the scientist a match is not a match at all but a miniature high explosive bomb! Match heads are actually high explosives and in the quantities and under the conditions used in munitions are capable of doing as much damage as TNT. As matches, of course, they are harmless even by the box or case.

The match-bomb has its "detonator" and its "time-fuse" to set it off, while its stick is the element upon which they act, comparable to the main charge of a shell or hand grenade. Moreover, it must be a bomb with a timed explosion, neither too fast nor too slow. And on top of that it must go off with the least trouble on the part of the person who lights it, yet not go off accidentally.

The first step in making matches is cutting the splints. Match splints the world over are made from various kinds of wood, but most of the matches used in North America have pine sticks, while European match splints are chiefly aspen. Pine is more costly because it is a wood much in demand, fit for many other products, while aspen, used in hardly any other ways, is cheaper—and its use for matches conserves other lumber. Match splints are also either round or square, pine being mostly cut in the round shape, and aspen in the square.

One of the largest match factories in the world has lately turned its attention entirely to the manufacture of square splints of aspen, this wood being chosen after long experience and investigation. Aspen is a stronger wood than white pine, and burns with a steadier, more uniform flame, and the square splint is stronger because it contains more wood. It is easier to grasp and to keep from turning in the fingers.

A square splint has more edges along which flame can travel than a round splint—a split stick in the fireplace burns better than a round log. The wood is not compressed in cutting square splints, and so it takes up impregnating chemicals better. And a square splint holds a match head better because its larger end and four sides give more clinging surface.

Pine for match splints is usually dried by stacking outdoors anywhere from one to three years—drying it artificially is too expensive. But carrying such a vast stock of raw materials is costly business, too. With the more easily dried aspen, and with the improved methods of handling chopped into individual match splints, which go through tanks of the impregnating solution and are dried in rotary dryers by steam.

The entire splint and match process is continuous and almost automatic, employing practically throughout specially designed machines. The choppers for splints, for instance, each have a capacity of about 1800 pieces per second; the match-dipping machines each turn out about 500 perfectly finished matches in the same period, or at the rate of nearly 2,000,000 per hour.

Conveyors carry the wood in process from one station to another past inspectors, who check the color and quality continuously. Ingenious sheet choppers cut the sheets into exact lengths and widths with revolving knives whose tremendous speed fill the plant with the noise of a dozen ocean liner sirens. The huge rotary dryers are each eight feet in diameter by 60 feet long.

Even more complicated and interesting is the head of a match—in this case the "double-tip-strike-anywhere" kind. It has a large colored head known as the "inert base," meaning that it will not light without the fine tip of ignition compound which acts as the "time" or "contact" fuse.

The match head must burn with the least amount of smoke and odor. It must be fairly windproof, burning in an air current of reasonable force, or lighting up again when sheltered if the flame has blown down. It must be waterproof, so that matches actually can be dipped in water and not spoiled. It must be sure fire, giving a full flame, not be noisy in lighting, nor flash up too quickly, burning one's fingers. The head must stick securely to the splint, not only before the match is used, but afterward, and it must not break nor split either before or after use.

The inert base must be oval or pear-shaped, so that when matches are packed or carried in the pocket, the white tips cannot come in contact with each other or with the inert base, accidentally setting themselves off. The tip must ignite easily by light friction on the smooth surface where people usually scratch matches—paper, wood, leather, cloth. It must make the slightest possible mark, not scratch or tear such surfaces, and the inert base must not stain either the wood or the splint, the clothing or the hand.

Then, people like color even in match heads—any color at all as long as it is a cheerful red! So a pleasing color is part of the ideal match, and dyes are one of the many chemicals used in match compounds. One gets an idea of the field for chemical research in match heads when it is known that among other things they may contain phophorus sesquisulphide, red phosphorus, potassium chlorate, ferric oxide, zinc oxide, ground glass, glue, resin, carbon, casein, asbestos powder, plaster of Paris, formaldehyde, pumice, lead thiosulphate, charcoal powder, silica, kieselguhr, aniline dyes—and so forth!

After the splints have been cut, impregnated and dried, they are carried automatically to tables which jog out all broken and imperfect ones. Then other jogging machines level them up in parallel rows ready to be fed to the dipping machines. These machines each have a capacity of 2,000,000 matches per hour. The dipping machine has a framework carrying a long chain made up entirely of perforated plates, into which the splints are automatically fed two rows at a time, and begin the long journey that transforms them into matches.

First, the splint ends pass over a hot plate, and are dipped in a bath of melted paraffin. Then they are dipped in the inert base compound, travel along on the chain until partially dry, are dipped again for the tiny ignition tip, and finally, when the trip is finished, and the drying completed, the finished matches are automatically discharged, row by row. The entire trip around the machine takes an hour. These different compounds of chemicals must be kept within very narrow limits of viscosity, so that each splint will get a head of uniform size and shape, and dry in the allotted time. The process must be carried on in uniform temperature and humidity.

A noisy "banger" match that makes you jump when you strike it is really one that has been case-hardened by too fast drying. Its hard shell makes a miniature grenade, and when the head is ignited it goes off with a real explosion. With perfect control of climate in the dipping room, these "bangers" are eliminated by regulating temperature and humidity.

The whole process in a modern match factory is controlled by tests from log to packing room. Everywhere along the line samples of splints and matches are constantly being taken out and put through testing machines. The splints are tested for strength, uniformity of size and whiteness. The base and tip compounds are given a viscosimeter test. They must be something like thick syrup. If either too thin or too thick, the matches will not take good heads in dipping. The viscosimeter indicates this syrupy quality of a compound in degrees as accurately as a thermometer indicates temperature.

The sensitiveness of matches is tested, too, by putting them into a machine that rubs their heads with an alundum surface at a certain speed and pressure, and sensitiveness can be measured by the quickness, force and percentage of ignition.

Even the boxes in which the public buys the matches are made by machinery that folds the paper, prints on the label and turns one side of the box into a sandpaper striking place.

The chemist and engineer find so many points of quality in the common match, and so many details to watch and keep up to standard, that they suggest a standard by which the consumer might see that he gets his money's worth in matches. One is quality, which can be determined by taking a handful of matches from a box, holding them upright and examining the heads.

If they are good matches, from the consumer standpoint, each head will show its ignition tip. If that tip is missing, the match is imperfect, because it will not light when struck. Five to 10 per cent of a boxful of inferior matches may be tipless, and many have no heads at all, plainly showing careless manufacture or inspection.

A few centuries ago if you had produced a little piece of wood, and by rubbing it lightly on a little box had caused the end to ignite suddenly, you might have run some risk of being yourself set on fire as a practitioner of the Black Art. If, however, you could have persuaded people to view the matter differently, and you had possessed a few dozen gross of boxes, a large fortune would have been at your command.

Today, the man is poor indeed who cannot afford a box of the useful little sticks that are among the cheapest of the cheap things that we buy. For matches to be so cheap their manufacture must be conducted very economically. You cannot imagine even a Chinese workman being able to split and dip separate matches and sell them profitably at present prices. He could not possibly compete with the machine of the white man who strews matches so plentifully wherever he goes.

in the cabin and listened, with others, while a fat man from Illinois read four or five columns of the impeachment trial of Andy Johnson. Throwing the paped down, he said:

"Gentlemen, it seems to me"——

He stopped right there. He couldn't go on. The boilers exploded just then, and we had business aloft. I don't exactly remember who went up first, or how we got through the roof. I am a little absent-minded, sometimes, and this was one of the times.

noise than there seemed any occasion for. The explosion would have been A-1 with half the whizzing, grinding and tearing. One of the men who came up behind me seemed to think that something or other was out of order, and he yelled to me:

"Say! what's all this?"

I pointed to the fat man, who was about five feet ahead of me, and then I began to practice gymnastics. I went up a few feet right end up, then a few feet more wrong end up and then I wasn't particular which way I went up. The golden eagle off the pilot house sailed around our heads, and it was a fine chance for the fat man to get off a handsome eulogy on the proud bird of freedom. He didn't do it, however. One of his ears had been torn off, a leg broken, and flying timbers kept pegging him every minute. I wanted to ask him to finish the remark he commenced in the cabin, but he seemed so cast down and discouraged that I hadn't the heart to speak.

We finally arrived there. It was a good ways up, and the route had several little inconveniences. It was a grand location from which to view the surrounding country, but we didn't stop to view it. We had business below, and our motto was business before pleasure.

Somehow, I got mixed up with the fat man, and we couldn't hardly tell which was which. He made no complaints, and I didn't care, and so we got along very well together until we struck the water. When we went down to look for bottom we let go of each other. He stayed down there and I came up. A number of others also came up about that time. One man got hold of a door and warned us that he was a member of the Legislature, and must therefore be saved; but we held a mass convention and decided that the Constitution of the United States guaranteed equal rights to all men, and we crowded him along.

As the door wouldn't float over 10 or 12, a half-dozen of us got hold of brooms, footstools, dusters and so forth and compared notes. A six-footer from Missouri was rushing around with a bootjack in one hand, a tablecloth in the other and a look of anxiety on his face. As he floated near me he called out:

"Young man, where are we going?"

I called back that I was a stranger in that locality, and couldn't say whether we'd bring up in New Orleans or Fort Leavenworth.

I finally got hold of the dining table, to which a red-headed woman from St. Louis was clinging. As I caught the table she exclaimed:

"Go away, young man—go away!"

I replied that the state of her toilet needn't confuse her in the least. Her dress skirt had been blown off, her hair singed and part of her hoopskirt was over her head, but I warned her that it was about an even thing. The band of my shirt was still buttoned around my neck, and I had one boot on, and it was no time to be captious. I remarked to her that her nose was broken and several of her teeth were gone, but she fired up and said I'd better "look to home," as I had one eye ruined, a hole in my head, and was cooked in a dozen places.

Before I could learn much of her history we were drawn to the bank and taken off. I called out for a breadth of rag carpet to make me a toga of, but no one would bring it, and I had to faint away to avoid hearing any criticisms from the crowd.

When I came to, a dozen or more of us were piled up together, and the captain of the boat was making a speech. He said it wasn't his fault, and that we mustn't feel hard toward him. He had lost a fine dog by the accident, and he couldn't bear any further burden just then. He said that boats often blew up without apparent reason, but if he could ever ascertain the reason of this blow-up he would send us the particulars. He seemed like an honest-hearted man, and we felt sorry over the loss of his dog. When we got down to Cincinnati a policeman asked me if it made any difference to me where I was buried and they sent me to the hospital until I could make up my mind. The hole in my head got to aching about that time, and the last I remember was hearing a man with a coarse voice call out:

"Tell Jim to get a box ready for this corpse!"

Sixteen days after that I got my senses back, and for the succeeding six weeks had a very easy time. The Coroner dropped in once a day to see if I still persisted in living; six daily reporters included me in their round; the doctors worked at the hole in my head and at my burns by turns, and after three months they came to the conclusion that I would live. Such little side issues as pneumonia, blindness, proud flesh and fever were not supposed to have any bearing on the main question.

It isn't good to be blown up. There are better ways of ascending and descending. Such things interrupt traveling programs, and are often the foundation of funeral processions. I met the red-headed woman about a year ago, and she was quite friendly; but the fat man hasn't been heard of since. I fear that some of the machinery of the boat got into his pockets and held him down.

Dog That Died Saving Another's Life

A puppy needs very careful educating. Many humans lose patience during the process and resort to the whip, to the boot toe and to bellowing—none of which is the slightest good—the puppy is never decently educated, but emerges from the training bowed and broken-spirited. It is well to mention just here that it is impossible to educate a mongrel dog—that is, to educate, not to teach tricks—any more than it is to put a race horse to the plow, or to try to instill the principles of noblesse oblige in some humans

Wolf belonged to Mr. Terhune's son, who brooded on the fact that the dog was never exhibited like the prize winners, Lad and Bruce. But Wolf had other qualities. He was not a show dog, but he was an excellent watchdog. When his day came to display them he proved himself by pluckily capturing a thief, although poisoned with the meat the marauder had thrown him. Mr. Terhune's description runs:

"It was a celebration evening for the two prize dogs, when they got home; but everybody was tired from the day's events, and by 10 o'clock the house was in darkness. Wolf, on his veranda mat, alone was awake. * * * He snoozed, presently, in the warm darkness. Two hours later he got up, stretched himself lazily fore and aft, collie fashion, and trotted forth for the night's first patrol of the grounds."

The narrative then tells that the would-be thief threw Wolf a piece of poisoned meat and continues:

"Holding the beef between his forepaws, he proceeded to devour it. About a quarter of the meat had disappeared when Wolf became aware that his tongue smarted and his throat was sore. * * * Presently he forgot his disappointment in the knowledge that he was ill. He felt stupid and too weak to stir. A great drowsiness gripped him. * * * Heredity and training and lifelong fidelity took control of the lethargic dog, dragging him to his feet and down the veranda steps into the grounds. * * * He had caught the man's scent an hour earlier. The same scent had been on the meat the man had handled."

Mr. Terhune tells how Wolf caught the thief, and goes on:

"Wolf's snapping jaws had already deserted the robber's mangled hand and slashed the man's left shoulder to the bone. * * * The thief's torn left hand found a grip on Wolf's fur-armored throat. He shoved the fiercely writhing dog backward, jammed a pistol against Wolf's head and pulled the trigger!

"At dawn, a man in torn and muddy clothes called at the office of a doctor three miles away to be treated for a half-dozen dog bites. By the time his wounds were dressed the Sheriff and two deputies had arrived to take him in charge."

Three days later Mr. Terhune came home from the city bringing with him a large silver cup for the now convalescent collie, on which was engraved "Won by Wolf. Hero cup. Against all comers." And truly the gallant collie justified this honor in the way he met his death likeable little fellow. I hope it's nothing serious."

"Oh, I don't imagine so," I said.

"The exposure—his long immersion in the water—and he but recently recovered from the flu"—he broke off. "I feel a keen sense of responsibility; he was substituting for me, do you see? Do you think he might accept from me at least his doctor and nurse fees?"

"Sure," I said.

The Prince extracted from his wallet a few small folded papers and some large bills. Laying the papers on the desk he counted out $250 and held it toward me.

"You are too generous," I said, looking pointedly at the two $10 bills which were all that was left of his cash.

He shrugged his shoulders. "That's quite all right. My secretary—silly beggar—settled and closed all my accounts before cashing the usual check from Lord Moncton. He's trying to arrange that now over the wire. I insist upon your taking these few dollars for the Kid, Stevens. I'll make out, somehow, I'm sure."

"You don't need to worry," the boss smiled. "What was the size of the check Lord What's-his-name sent? I might be able to cash it for you."

The Prince unfolded one of the papers on the desk, stamped with the British embassy seal. "Twenty-five hundred dollars."

"Oh, that's all right," the boss said. "Indorse it and I'll send a boy right down to my bank with it."

"Oh, I say, please don't trouble"——

"No trouble at all, your highness."

Languidly the Prince started writing his catalogue of names on the back of the check. "The old fossil should have telegraphed it instead of putting me under obligations"——

The boss interrupted with a laugh. "There's no obligation, Prince. The amount of this check is just about what I'll owe you after your week in Tia Juana. That's all the protection I need."

From the expression on the Prince's empty face you couldn't tell, as he stared at the boss, whether he was going to be insulted or not when the boss' words should finally sink in.

"By jove," he said, after a moment, "I didn't think of that. Our contract, of course. Weirdly practical, you Americans; what?"

* * * * *

I rang up Jane's house during the lunch hour. I'd salved my conscience for taking the money by convincing myself that the Prince would never miss it and really wouldn't care whether it was spent for the doctor or lawyer bills.

Jane's sister answered the ring.

"Oh, yes, Mr. Stevens," she said. "Jane left for Frisco this morning on business for—you know."

"How is he today?"

"Kidding my mother into hysterics."

"Tell him I'll be out tomorrow with"—— Then I spilled the welcome tidings.

But Sunday I had the feeling that someone was following me, so Jane's house was about the only place in Los Angeles I didn't visit.

Late Monday afternoon, just as a few of us were going into the projection room Jane appeared.

"Come on in with me," I said. "I've got to look at some film. What's new?"

"Just this, Pete: There isn't a thing to keep them from railroading the Kid. He's a vaudeville and circus acrobat. But the vaudeville troupe he was with—the only men who can really identify and alibi him—they sailed for Australia last Saturday."

In silence we looked at the film. It was Sid Hicken's take.

"That's the Prince," I told Jane, "trying to register Occidental surprise and horror not unmixed with love."

Jane leaned forward in her seat. "That—the Prince?"

As she looked the film jumped to the shot of the Kid standing on the rail of the ship.

"Watch his dive," I whispered. Then came the footage showing him cutting through the swells, reaching Miss Morris and starting with her toward the shore. Then flashed on the screen a fairly close-up shot of the Kid. He was lying on his back in the water, his head stuck up so his wet hair, plastered tight to his scalp, his eyes staring up with a silly, vacant expression, his mouth hanging open.

"I thought you said the Prince couldn't swim," said Jane.

"The Prince? That's the Kid," I grinned. I hollered back to Sid: "Where did that come from?"

"I had a few feet of film left," he answered, "and when the Kid passed on his way to the ship I wound the roll out on him."

"I see." Turning around I found Jane gone—so quietly I hadn't heard her leave the dark room.

"She went out," the gateman told me, "and got into the taxi with Silent Sam Simmons and Louis Spinola."

* * * * *

It was just 7:30 when I turned the corner to T-Bone's. Behind me, running fast, came little Flash Fanchon.

"Come on, Pete," he called. "You can help."

I got into T-Bone's two jumps behind him.

"Jane!" Flash shouted.

She came out of the kitchen.

"Beat it," Flash whispered. "They've took the Kid—went out to your house and got him—and now they're coming after you—to find out how much you know."

With her finger, absently, Jane began tracing slowly a long crack in the cup of hot milk she carried. "Big Bill took the Kid—out of my house—because I wouldn't marry him," she said in a dead voice. Up went her head.

"'You'll never have any luck as long as you keep cracked china around you,' he told me."

Wham! went the cup on the floor in 20 pieces. Bang—crash—the saucer followed it.

"Jane"——

More Than Pleased
Your camera reached me O. K. and I was surprised at the work it does. I have taken several photos and some as good as I have ever seen taken with any camera. Everybody that sees the work of the "Mandel-ette" says it is fine and I am more than pleased with it. Vernie Boyle, Northome, Minn.

$18 in Two Days
I wish to say that I am well pleased with your camera. I am using my Mandel-ette this week at the Bedford County Fair. I've made about $18 so far with my Mandel-ette and today is only Tuesday. Ike Thurman, Jr., Shelbyville, Tenn.

Takes Pictures on Dark Day
I am perfectly delighted with the "Mandel-ette." I have had very good success never before to have handled a camera at all. I can say it will do all you claim. I have taken a picture which shows a Mt. more than 4000 feet away and on a very dark day. Jas. H. Hubbard, Penhook, Va.

Anyone Can Use Them
Received the "Mandel-ette" and supplies Saturday evening. Sunday morning we began to take pictures and had very good luck. It is sure simple enough. Anyone can use them. We could not get along without ours. Mrs. R. U. Iddings, Mapleton, Ia.

Amazed at Minute Camera
I am enclosing pictures taken with my "Mandel-ette" to show you gentlemen what I am making. Nobody taught me but your instructions. I am making pictures with great pleasure and my friends are amazed at your very high grade minute camera. C. Saturm, Santa Ana, Alaska

"Get out! All of you! Out! I'm going to tell them all I know. But I'm going to break up my bad luck first."

A sweep of her arm cleared the counter of dishes.

"Come on, fellows," I said. "Let's keep the crowd out."

For a mob had begun to collect.

Bulling through the crowd came Ben Barrow, police Lieutenant, and with him Swede Yaeger, Bill Wysell's buddy.

"Oh, it's you, Lieut. Barrow," cried Jane. "Come to take me to headquarters to talk. You used good judgment in bringing Swede Yaeger with you to take a woman to jail. His wife is still wearing the black eye he gave her last week."

"Cut that!" yelled Ben. "Shut up and drop them plates!"

"That line comes easy to you, doesn't it, Lieutenant; your wife keeps you in practice saying it."

Ben reached the door. A plate splintered at his feet.

"Stand back!" commanded Jane. "I'm going to tell about the check you split with the Greek bootlegger in your precinct"——

"Go get Wysell," bawled Ben to Swede.

"Go get Wysell," echoed Jane. "I want to tell about the jail sentence he framed on Silent Sam Simmons because he thought he could steal that little Mexican dancer from him if Sam wasn't around."

Suddenly I realized that she was expecting something.

"Listen, Swede," she called after Yaeger, "tell Big Bill to bring his cousin along—the one that made my sister lose her job because she wouldn't tell me what a grand husband Wysell would make. Get him"——

"Jane!" Big Bill himself plunged in. "What are you trying to do?"

"Big Bill!" A shower of plates crashed to the floor. "You must be tired out after having to subdue an old woman and a little fellow like the one I'm going to marry—all in one day."

"Now, listen, Jane"——

A motor horn squawked around the corner. Pressing through the crowd, reckless, came Louis Spinola in his taxi.

"Gangway!" he shouted, jumping down he flung open the door of his car.

Out stepped Prince Ptolemy Ptarmigan of Cairo, Egypt, and right alongside him Silent Sam Simmons. The point of the bulge in Sam Simmons' pocket never wandered from his royal highness' shortribs. Right into the restaurant they brushed.

"Here he is, Jane," said Sam, cold as ice.

"Come and get him, Lieutenant," Jane called to Barrow. "Here's your K guy. And remember, you got him from me."

"The K guy!" Barrow's eyes were popping. "That's the Egyptian Prince"——

"Are you going to argue, or do I take him to headquarters myself?"

"Listen, Jane"——

"Look out!" I yelled. For a second, Sam's gun had wavered. In that second the Prince jumped toward the kitchen door.

Jane whirled around. A soup bowl streaked through the air. Thud! The Prince went down like a log.

"Open his collar," Jane said. "Now will you believe me?"

Three inches below his collar the putty color ended in skin as white as any man's. Jane poured a little salad oil on a napkin and began rubbing the hair over his temple. In a minute she showed us a black smudge on the napkin. "Hair dye," she said.

The Prince shuddered, groaned and opened his eyes. Wysell helped him to his feet.

"Who hit me?" the Prince inquired.

"She did."

He looked at Jane. In pure Brooklynese he moaned: "I'll say she packs a hefty punch."

* * * * *

An hour later the Kid and Jane were receiving congratulations at one end of the counter at T-Bone's.

"How did you work it out?" I finally asked Jane. "What started you?"

She laughed. "The picture of the Kid floating in the water. I thought it was the Prince.

"In a flash I remembered a lot of things—the K guy being chased out of New Orleans, San Antone and El Paso. I remembered how uninterested in playing in the picture he was until the boss mentioned Mexico. Right away he saw the easiest way imaginable to cross the border.

"I knew the K guy was a crack swimmer. Yet the Prince wouldn't get himself wet. His color would run. Then I ran out and asked Sam and Louis to locate the Prince and bring him here."

"But listen," I said, "you must have had something more definite than a putty-colored hunch to make you turn the Prince over to the police."

"Of course, I had. You told me about it—the British embassy check; the check for $2500. Before escaping for good, he just couldn't resist passing one more K check."

"K check?" I repeated, puzzled. "It wasn't a K check he gave the boss. Moncton is spelled with a 'c.'"

Jane slowly smiled. "You've got to admit it sounds like a 'k.' Anyway, the reward belongs to me."

"Pardon—to us," piped up the Kid.

"Ah, Mr. Walker," Jane turned to him, smiling affectedly, "did I hear you inviting the boys to a cup of coffee on the $250 the Prince gave—us?"

"'Tis a good idea," laughed the Kid. Then, with a wink at the gang, he said: "And listen, don't give me no cracked cup."

"Try and find one," Jane laughed.

your friends who have these un- enlarged pores what powders use. You will find they have been imported French powders marked "Poudre de Riz," which in French Powder of Rice. They have their complexions because this starch is turned into a gluey paste moisture of the skin.

It swells in the cuticle, causing this dreadful spongy condition, often resulting in blackheads and rice starch irritations.

We have said many times that La-may is the only powder sold in America guaranteed not to contain rice powder. It is made of the finest ingredients that doctors and skin specialists prescribe in the treatment of the complexion, to prevent enlarged pores, blackheads and irritations. It contains an astringent that discourages flabbiness, crows' feet and wrinkles. Over a million of the most intelligent American women are protecting their complexions by the use of this real beauty powder. They say it stays on better than any other powder. It is now scented with a new imported French odor that gives it a delightful fragrance.

Girls, if you honestly value the charm of a lovely complexion do not deny yourselves the use of this pure La-may. Every box bears a certificate guaranteeing it does not contain rice powder, white lead or any injurious ingredient. A reward of five thousand dollars is offered any chemist who finds La-may contains any of these harmful ingredients. It is very easy for any chemist to prove the purity of La-may. He can make a simple test that will take but a few minutes. Surely any chemist is willing to earn five thousand dollars so easily. This offer has been standing for six years and no one has been able to claim the reward because La-may is pure.

If you are entirely pleased, we allow you a whole year's time to pay.

The Universal Rug—for Every Room in the Hom
Sent on Approval—Credit Without Asking—Year to Pa

Nearly everybody knows all about genuine Gold Seal Congoleum Art Rugs. Most every magazine and newspaper carries the message of this national floor covering. Good merchants are proud to display them. Most every housewife is familiar with them and wants them.

They offer all the artistic and colorful beauty of woven rugs. You don't have to tire yourself beating dust and dirt out of them. Swish a damp mop over their smooth, waterproof surface, and in just a jiffy they are spotlessly clean.

They lie flat from the first moment without fastening. They never curl up or kick up at edges or corners. No need to tack or fasten them down. Dirt cannot accumulate underneath.

Mud, ashes, grit or dust cannot "grind into" a Congoleum Gold Seal Art Rug. You never have to send it to the cleaners. It will not stain and is not marred or hurt by spilling of hot liquids.

People of taste and judgment are glad to use genuine Gold Seal Congoleum Rugs in their very best rooms. It is the ideal rug for the kitchen and bathroom. These rugs are used to wonderful advantage in good homes in dining room and bedroom. A pattern like the handsome No. 534 design shown above, makes a truly beautiful, artistic and appropriate rug for the living room.

The Price of Genuine Gold Seal Congoleum Rugs Is Standard Everywhere

Go anywhere, look everywhere, in stores, catalogs, magazines and newspapers. You probably remember the price of a genuine Gold Seal Congoleum Rug because it is always the same. If not, look it up now wherever you please.

You will find that our price on all sizes is lower than the regular standard advertised price. In addition, we give you small companion rugs to match without added cost.

This is truly the bargain of a lifetime. This offer brings you, without risk or money worry, absolutely first quality genuine Gold Seal Congoleum Rugs for less money than has ever been possible. It brings the rug you select, in the pattern you like, in the size you want, on a long year's credit. It brings your order on 30 days' free trial.

Only one dollar, pinned to the coupon, is all that's needed. There will be no delay, no red tape, no embarrassment or annoyance.

Choice of Two Patterns in Five Sizes
Small Rugs Included Extra with All the Sizes

Each pattern comes in five sizes. With the 9 x 15 ft. size and the 9 x 12 ft. size we give you, without extra cost, three small rugs to match. In the 9x10½ ft. size we give you two small rugs extra. In the 7½ x 9ft. size and the 6 x 9 ft. size we give you one small rug extra without charge. The small companion rugs each measure 18 in. by 36 in.

The New Tile Pattern No. 550

A brand new design, duplicating the effect of imported straight line linoleum. It is shown directly above in the kitchen scene.

Think of this as an all over mosaic pattern of which the background is composed of little square tiles of alternating creamy ivory and creamy brown colorings. This effect is rich, warm and colorful.

The large figures at first glance look like solid block tiles. They are really composed of the same little squares of mosaic in dark blue—with a delicate Dutch blue for the center. This in turn is broken up with creamy ivory tiles in between. The effect of a broken tile is attained by means of a reddish brick-brown design running irregularly through the large block figures.

The border is designed to harmonize, the outstanding feature of it being a delightful use of the block tile figure as a triple design.

Order by No. F4C550—be very careful to state size wanted. Send only $1 with coupon.

Oriental Pattern No. 534

This is the beautiful Gold Seal Congoleum Art Rug as shown at the top of this page. On the floor, it looks unbelievably like an expensive woven rug. The richest blue color dominates the ground work. Mellow ecru, old ivories, and light tans, set off the blue field. Mingled with these lovely tints are peacock blue, robin's egg blue and darker tones. Old rose, tiny specks of lighter pink and dark mulberry are artistically placed. Darker browns and blacks lend dignity and richness.

The border background contrasts with the blue all over center by reversing the color scheme. Ecru and tan shades form the border background.

An ideal all purpose rug, beautiful in any room. Perfect for living room or parlor. Lovely in bedroom or dining room. Charming in the kitchen.

Order by No. F4C534—be very careful to state size wanted. Send only $1 with coupon.

The Gold Seal on Congoleum Like the Sterling Mark on Silver

There is only one guaranteed Congoleum identified by the Gold Seal shown above—on the rugs. This Gold Seal is pasted on all genuine, first quality Congoleum Rugs, even in the smallest size.

It protects you against dissatisfaction and gives you an unconditional money back guarantee. This guarantee means that if anything ever goes wrong with a Congoleum Rug, you will be entirely and completely satisfied.

Look for the Gold Seal on the Congoleum Rugs that you get from us—even on the small rugs that we give you without cost. This Gold Seal pasted on a genuine Congoleum Rug is like the sterling mark on silver.

Camera Studies From Photography's Seat of Learning

The motion picture school of photography, with a course of instruction in twenty reels, is the newest educational device of the Eastman Kodak Co. for the instruction of professional and commercial photographers in all parts of the United States. The film will be shown at Hotel Statler in St. Louis, March 11. It will be an exhibition of every lighting and studio setting device known to photographic art, with motion picture showing of every step in each process. The photographs on this page are examples of the poses and lightings to be shown in this "motion picture school for photographers."

Lingette
Everybody thinks it's silk

Two years ago—no one realized that an all-cotton fabric could be so exquisite!

EVEN TODAY, after millions of yards have been sold, it is hard to convince many women that Lingette does not owe its beautiful appearance and soft feel to the presence of some silk in its weaving.

But every thread of Lingette is cotton—and because it is all cotton, Lingette tubs easily and looks beautiful after long service!

You will find Lingette in the best stores—by the yard and in ready-to-wear garments.

Lingette's increased popularity makes the danger from imitations greater than in any previous season.

Therefore, it is more than ever imperative that you look for the name Lingette on the selvage of the fabric, or the Lingette label in the ready-made garment.

Far more important than your bath

WE could not do without bathing. It keeps the body clean and fresh, and thus promotes our comfort. But although external cleanliness is necessary—how much more important is internal cleanliness! More than bodily comfort, health—even life itself—depend on it.

What does internal cleanliness mean? It means freedom from clogged intestines—regular and thorough elimination of food waste. Poisons breed in clogged intestines and soon cause such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks and insomnia—each of which takes toll of your health and vitality. As these poisons continue to flood the system, your power of resistance is lowered, and the body becomes prey to serious diseases. In this clogging, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Thousands of healthy men and women have learned to prevent illness by maintaining internal cleanliness through the regular use of Nujol. Nujol is not a medicine. Nujol prevents intestinal clogging by lubrication, the method now employed by medical authorities throughout the world. Nujol lubricates the food waste and thus hastens its passage out of the body.

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome intestinal clogging, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury. Nujol is not a laxative and cannot cause distress. Like pure water it is harmless. Nujol is prescribed by physicians and is used in leading hospitals.

Get rid of intestinal clogging. Avoid disease by adopting the habit of internal cleanliness. Take Nujol as regularly as you brush your teeth or wash your face. For sale by all druggists.

Faulty Elimination

Everywhere physicians are sounding urgent warnings of the growing menace of faulty elimination. In an address before a leading medical society recently the medical director of one of the principal insurance companies stated that the lowered vitality caused by faulty elimination made the entire body a prey to dangerous germs. He further declared that if the absorption of poisons from clogged intestines was stopped, it would largely do away with the numerous untimely deaths that occur during middle age.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science through knowledge of the intestinal tract gained by X-ray observation has found in lubrication a means of overcoming faulty elimination. The gentle lubricant Nujol softens the hard food waste. Thus it enables nature to secure regular, thorough elimination.

Complexion Troubles: Science now knows that poisons from intestinal sluggishness are the cause of personal unattractiveness. Carried by the blood they reach every body cell, the millions of cells that compose the skin, the roots of the hair and the eyes. No wonder that through faulty elimination the skin becomes sallow, muddy, roughened, blotched or disfigured with pimples or other blemishes. It is not strange that the hair loses its sheen and the eyes become dull. Nujol keeps the body free from poisons which are the principal cause of complexion troubles. Nujol is thus the most effective aid to a clear, healthy, lovely skin.

Elderly People: In youth and perfect health the intestine supplies a natural lubricating liquid in sufficient quantity to soften the food waste and hasten its movement out of the body. In advanced years this natural lubricant decreases in quantity. Hence the need for something to give assistance. The action of Nujol so closely resembles that of nature's lubricant that it is especially beneficial to those in advanced years.

—"an odeur so seductive, so captivating, so bewitching that mer could not resist it."

No man could resist the perfume she wore

HER experience was a most peculiar one. A noted Parisian perfumer had fallen desperately in love with her.

When he found he could not have her as his wife, he vowed that her husband should not have her either. So he decided to wreck her happiness by making just for her a special perfume that would drive men mad.

And he accomplished his sinister design—he ruined her home and her life. But it cost him his own life as well.

The complete story of this tragic romance is told in a charmingly prepared booklet which is yours for the asking; either by mail or by requesting "that Mi Nena booklet" at your favorite perfumer's, who now carries this wonderful new odeur.

It tells of how the formula of this irresistible perfume called Mi Nena (Spanish for "My Darling") was found in the vault of the French perfumer after his death; how it was secured and perfected by Parfumerie Rigaud and how it has now been made available for the women of today.

Generous trial vial for you

A generous flacon of Rigaud's Mi Nena, Petite size, most artistic in design and suited for your purse or handbag will be mailed you with the complete booklet story of the origin of this wonderful romance-odeur if you will pin a one dollar bill to this advertisement and send us your name and address plainly written. Address Petite Dept. 3-R, Geo. NYMFAUN DOUBLE COMPACT

REAL beauty is always simple — and the most useful things also are simple. Nymfaun Double Compact combines the merits of beauty, usefulness, and perfect simplicity.

It has no complicated devices, no obscure trays to confuse the user. It opens as easily as a cigarette case, and presents its contents in the most attractive and accessible manner.

The mirror in the upper half of the case is large enough to "see what you are doing." The powder and rouge compacts adjoin each other in the lower half of the case, making it simple and convenient to alternate their use. Every woman realizes the advantage of this! The delightful new odor of Nymfaun greets you as you lift each satin-backed puff from its compact.

Nymfaun Refills

The individual powder and rouge refills, delicately perfumed with Nymfaun, are packaged in individual metal boxes, and may be carried singly independent of the compact.

Poudre Nymfaun

A finely adherent powder perfumed with Nymfaun, the new odor. Boxed in a decorative container that will prove an artistic acquisition to any dressing table.

Delicious with Roast Beef

YOU will never enjoy the full flavor of juicy roast beef until you have eaten it with a dash of COLMAN'S English MUSTARD.

COLMAN'S MUSTARD not only enhances the flavor of everyday foods but it is one of nature's greatest aids to digestion.

In England where roast beef is famous it is never eaten without COLMAN'S MUSTARD.

Good health is not enough—

A beautiful skin depends on more than good general health

Your skin itself needs special care

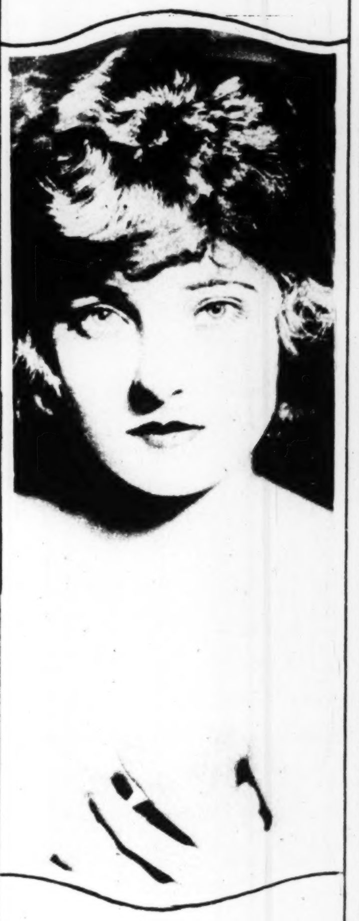
Sleep—fresh air—the right food—all these help toward a beautiful skin—

But good health alone does not insure a good complexion.

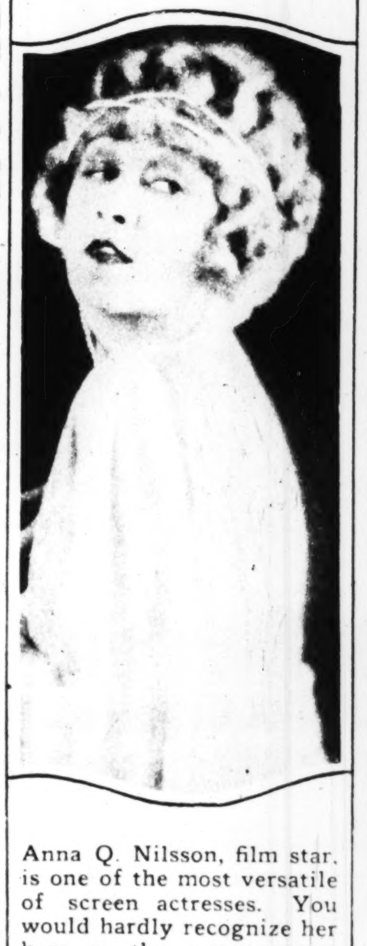
Many skin defects such as blackheads, blemishes, conspicuous nose pores, etc., are of purely local origin and demand local treatment.

Learn the right treatment for your particular type of skin in the booklet "A Skin You Love to Touch" which is wrapped around every cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap. Thousands of women have built up a clear, flawless complexion by following the treatments in this booklet. Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap today, and see what an improvement even a week or ten days of this special care will make in your complexion!

May McAvoy is unsurpassed among screen stars in certain types of roles in which the wistful heroine looks out upon an incomprehensible world in round-eyed wonder.



Corinne Griffith is not always so pensive. She has shown this in several recent photoplays in which she had leading roles, but some of her admirers like her best in her contemplative moments.



Anna Q. Nilsson, film star, is one of the most versatile of screen actresses. You would hardly recognize her here as the same actress who played the bob-haired heroine in "Ponjola."

THE DANGER LINE

Receding gums at
THE DANGER LINE
often result in Acid Decay and Pyorrhea

DO YOU ever notice that your gums become inflamed and swollen at times? This is a warning that you should heed. It is often caused by trouble at The Danger Line—where teeth meet gums.

The hard, protective enamel on your teeth stops there. Below it is a sensitive, soft, bony structure that decays easily.

A little triangular pocket

The edges of your gums do not cling flush to the surface of your teeth. They are rounded, and form a V-shaped crevice.

Tiny food particles are forced down into this crevice when you eat. They cause irritation and inflammation, which result in a gradual recession of the gums, exposing The Danger Line.

These food particles ferment and acids are formed which eat into your teeth. This is Acid Decay—the beginning of tooth destruction and diseases of the gums.

Once decay starts in the soft, bony structure at The Danger Line it spreads rapidly. The gums become infected. Pus pockets and pyorrhea may develop. Poisons from these conditions are absorbed into the body, often causing rheumatism, heart-disease and other serious troubles.

Squibb's Dental Cream stops Acid Decay

Brushing your teeth with Squibb's Dental Cream is a safe and positive preventive for Acid Decay. This remarkable new dental cream is made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia—for years recognized by dentists and physicians alike as the ideal antacid. It gets into crevices that your tooth-brush cannot reach, and into the gum-pockets at The Danger Line, neutralizing all mouth acids and thus protecting the teeth from Acid Decay.

Squibb's Dental Cream also cleans and polishes the teeth beautifully. It allays the sensitiveness of acid eroded or decayed teeth, and is beneficial to irritated gums.

Begin to use Squibb's Dental Cream to-day in the interest of better health. If your druggist cannot supply you, mail us the coupon below with ten cents for a generous trial size tube.

YOU MUST HAVE BEEN LISTENING
I DON'T LIKE THAT KIND OF A GANG AND I WON'T JOIN IT DOG-GONE IF I WILL HOW UPRIGHT AND VIRTUOUS
LATER - SAME DAY
WELL JOE I SUPPOSE I'LL SEE YOU AT THE DOOLITTLE PARTY EH?
OH - I DON'T KNOW WHETHER TO GO OR NOT BILL
WHY JOE IT WOULDN'T SEEM LIKE A REGULAR PARTY IF YOU WERE MISSING - YOU'LL DISAPPOINT US ALL IF YOU DON'T COME - THEY MIGHT AS WELL HAVE NO PARTY - WHY THEY'RE COUNTING ON YOU OLD BOY
WELL - BILL I'LL THINK IT OVER - THAT EVENING
SINCE YOU ARE SO CRAZY TO GO TO THAT PARTY VI I'LL GO -
WHY THIS SUDDEN CHANGE?
NO REASON AT ALL EXCEPT I WANT TO DO THE RIGHT THING - I DON'T WANT TO BE SELFISH ABOUT IT
I'VE DECIDED NOT TO GO - I MADE OTHER ARRANGEMENTS SINCE YOU WERE SO DETERMINED NOT TO GO
WELL DOG-GONE IT VI - I'VE DECIDED WE'RE GOING - DON'T BE SO OBSTINATE

MRS. CANDLER SET FREE, ESCORT HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Business Man, Who Admitted Ownership of Whisky at Party Raided by Police, Gives Bond.

COCA COLA KING HAD HIS WIFE SHADOWED

Chief of Police at Atlanta Testifies Millionaire Made Complaint Against the Apartment.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 8.—The case against Mrs. Asa G. Candler Sr., wife of the Coca-Cola millionaire, and G. W. Keeling was dismissed, and W. J. Stoddard was bound over for another trial under bond of $300 here today when they were given a hearing in police court on charges of having been in a place where intoxicants were being drunk.

The original charge against Stoddard also was dismissed, but he was bound over on a new charge of violating the State prohibition law when he assumed responsibility for the partly filled bottle of liquor found by the police on a table when Mrs. Candler and the two Atlanta business men were arrested.

Chief of Police Beavers testified that he raided an apartment at 48 Jupiter street the afternoon of Feb. 9, upon a complaint from Asa G. Candler Sr., aged husband of the young woman. There he found Mrs. Candler and the two men seated at a table on which sat a bottle partly filled with whisky, he testified.

"The first door I came to was unlocked," the Chief added, "and I walked in. A man and woman were in the front room. I saw I made a mistake so I went to the next apartment, which was No. 8.

"I said, 'Anybody in this apartment?' and somebody said 'No.' I heard a chair scrape, however, and I knocked on the door. Mr. Keeling came to the door and let me in.

Mrs. Candler Held Door.

"We walked down the hall and I saw a door leading to a room which was shut. I grabbed the door knob and opened it. Mrs. Candler was holding the door. I saw Stoddard in his shirt sleeves.

"I said, 'What is your name?' and he replied, 'If you tell me who sent you here I'll tell you.'

"I made no reply," the chief added.

"'Well I guess Mr. Candler sent you here. I don't care, there are plenty of other places doing like this,' was the comment of Mrs. Candler," the chief said.

A bottle containing whisky was on the table, he continued.

"'Whose apartment is this?' I asked Mrs. Candler.

"'It is Mrs. Kibler's and she's in Decatur today,' Mrs. Candler told me.

"I then brought them to the police station in my car where bond was signed," the chief continued.

"Good Stuff," Chief Testifies.

A bottle containing a small quantity of whisky was introduced in evidence.

"It's good stuff," the chief declared, as he held the bottle up to the court.

"They all told me they had drunk some of it," the chief said.

On cross-examination, Chief Beavers said that Mrs. Candler was identified by a "Mr. Tom Pitts, representing Mr. Candler."

"Mr. Pitts had been shadowing Mrs. Candler for some time," the chief added.

Chief Beavers admitted that Pitts requested that Mrs. Candler be taken to the police station, as "he wanted them all treated alike."

"Mrs. Candler asked me not to put her name on the docket," he said.

All Drank From Bottle.

"Where was Mr. Stoddard when you entered the apartment," Beavers was asked by the attorney for Stoddard.

"He was in the room where the liquor was," was the chief's reply.

"Did you see the liquor in anybody's possession?"

"They all told me they had drunk rom the bottle," the chief answered.

"Was the apartment rented by Mrs. Kibler?"

"Yes, they said so, but the liquor was in possession of the party then in the apartment and that is nine points of the law," he added.

The chief admitted that the bottle was setting on the table and that anybody would have access to [illegible]

Attorney Dorsey questioned the chief as to how he identified Mrs.
